Soviet Has A-Bomb—U.S. Says

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—(AP)—Gordon Dean, United States atomic commission chairman, said flatly today that "Russia does have" the atomic bomb. He gave that answer to a press conference question based on recent public discussion of whether the Soviets actually did explode an atomic bomb in the summer of 1949. President Truman announced in September, 1949, that there had been an "atomic explosion" in Russia but he did not specifically say an atom bomb had been exploded. Chairman Brien McMahon (Dem. Conn.) of the Senate-House of Representatives Atomic Committee has since said, however, that a board of experts who evaluated the report of the atomic blast had agreed unanimously it was a bomb.

Grave Doubts

The question was brought up again recently by Senator Owen Brewster (Rep. Me.) who said there were "grave doubts" that Russia had the bomb.

Dean also was asked whether atomic bombs are being made anywhere except in the U.S. and Russia. He said that question should be addressed "to the other countries."

In reply to other questions, Dean said the commission probably will ask Congress within the next two months to revise the atomic energy act to allow greater freedom in exchanging information and material with Canada and the United Kingdom.

The program to produce an atomic engine to propel a submarine or a ship will be speeded up, he said. This program is under way at the commission's plant in Idaho.

Dean said the commission expects to get "substantially more" uranium in the future out of known resources in the Colorado River plateau.

Members of the commission staff said the U.S. is sending about five per cent of all of its radio-active isotopes for medical and scientific uses to other countries but is importing some radio-active materials from Canada.

Specifically, commission officials said the US is importing radio-active cobalt which has shown some promise as a substitute for radium. They said that while this material can be made in the U.S. Canada's plant at Chalk River, Ont., has special facilities that enable the production of a highly-active type of radio-active cobalt.

Dummer Man Badly Burned Saving Mother In Blaze

NORWOOD, Jan. 2—(ENS)—A Dummer township farmer was badly burned and his wife suffered bruises Saturday morning when their two storey farm home burned to the ground. Loss was estimated at about $3,000. Arthur Hannon, 54, suffered bad burns to his face and hands when he ran into the blazing house to rescue his mother, Mrs. Arthur Hannon, Sr., aged 82. Mrs. Hannon, Jr., suffered bruises when she was forced to jump from a second storey window with her four-year-old daughter, Phyllis, who had gone back into the house after the fire started.

Mrs. Hannon and her daughter were trapped by the flames and jumped from the second storey.

Blame Pipes

The fire started about 10:30 Saturday morning, and Mrs. Hannon said she believed it was caused by over-heated stovepipes, which had been cleaned that morning.

When Mr. Hannon ran into the house to rescue his mother, he found her sitting on the side of the bed in her bedroom, eating Christmas cake. At first, she refused to leave her room.

The Hannon's telephone was out of order, and they were unable to call for help from Norwood. A few people came out from the town, but they were unable to cope with the blaze.

Sees Smoke

Mrs. Hannon was in the kitchen of the house when the fire started. She noticed smoke coming from the ceiling around the pipes, and attempted to put the fire out with water, but could not.

She called her husband, who was drawing wood, and both of them tried in vain to stop the fire.

There were four of the Hannon's children in the house at the time: Joan, 11, Phyllis, 4, Kathleen, 2, and Ann, two months. None of them were hurt. The oldest girl, Beatrice, 13, was staying with her brother and sister-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hannon, in Fraserville.

Neighbors have started a fund to fit the Hannons out with a new home, and already beds and bedding, used clothing, tables and a stove have been contributed. In the meantime, Mr. and Mrs. Hannon, with Mr. Hannon's mother, are staying with his sister, Mrs. Max Clements, who lives across the road from the Hannon farm. The youngest girl is also staying there.

The children are with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Payne of Warsaw.

30 Guests Flee Blazing Hotel

WINCHESTER, Jan. 2 (CP) — Thirty guests were forced to make a hurried evacuation of the Winchester Hotel — some by fire ropes dropped from windows — when an early morning fire swept the building today causing damage estimated at close to $15,000.

No one was injured, but Mrs. Joseph Tracy, proprietress of the hotel, suffered a heart attack while leaving the burning building. She was given medical aid and is recovering.

Fire fighting equipment from the nearby communties of Morrisburg, Chesterville and Iroquois was rushed to this village 32 miles southeast of Ottawa when the fire broke out about 4 a.m.

The blaze began on the west side of the hotel and swept quickly to the top of the three-storey brick building. Heavy smoke pouring up the stairs forced most residents to get out by fire escapes.

New Sabotage Attempt

LONDON, Jan. 2—(AP)—The Admiralty Monday night reported an attempt to sabotage the 1,652-ton submarine target ship Woodbridge Haven. It was the 12th case of attempted sabotage made public by the Admiralty within the past several months. A small quantity of sand was found in the ship's steering gear at Londonderry Dec. 23. An Admiralty spokesman said the damage was easily repaired.

Mayoralty Vote Recount

WINDSOR, Jan. 2 (CP). — A recount of mayoralty votes in Windsor's civic election will begin on Thursday in the city hall, Judge Joseph A. Legris ordered today. The recount was requested at a special meeting of city council last Friday night, when councellors voted 6-4 in favor of a recount "in the public interest."

Freezing Weather, Snow Increases UK Power Crisis

LONDON, Jan. 2 — (AP)— Freezing weather and widespread snow intensified a creeping fuel and power shortage in the British Isles today.

Prime Minister Attlee tipped off the government's alarm by summoning coal mine union leaders to a conference Wednesday. They will discuss means of stepping up output and recruiting new workers.

Meanwhile the state-owned electricity system broadcast a country-wide appeal for economy in the use of power. It coupled this with power cuts running up to 10 per cent in most parts of the country.

"Unless consumers co-operate," said a spokesman, "the result will be disruption in industry."

Some sections of the press described the sitlation as the worst since 1947, when a fuel shortage threw nearly 3,000,000 persons out of work. The Daily Mirror, which is friendly to the Labor government, said the closing of many factories in late February or early March is a certainy unless the weather becomes milder.

Snow ranging up to a foot in depth fell today on top of the blanket which covered most of the country Monday. In some places it was drifted six-feet high.

Traffic of all kinds was slowed or brought to a standstill. Many roads were blocked; passenger trains from Scotland arrived at London up to two hours late, the city subway system was thrown into chaos by ice on the switches, and a number of villages and farm areas were cut off from the rest of the country by high drifts.

City Council Names Chairmen

Citizens Steal Show As Record Number Attend First Meeting

Citizens just about stole the show at the inaugural of Peterborough's city council of 1951 this morning. The corporal's guard of other years, with rows of vacant seats as indifferent background, had changed to an overflow assembly of men and women broadly representative of the community and including former mayors and aldermen.

City Clerk E. A. Outram presided in the dignified ceremony of swearing in the newly elected members: Mayor M. J. Swanston, and Aldermen J. E. Gillespie, Herbert N. Young, M.D., Arthur B. Burrows, H. T. Rehill and Norman Graham.

Aldermen Rehill and Graham replaced in the polling Hurrell Dodds and Adam B. Sands.

Name Committees

At the subsequent meeting of the council in committee of the whole, the standing committees and their chairmen were appointed as follows:

Finace: Ald. T. D. Miller, chairman, with all the members of the council.

Board of Works: Ald. J. E. Gillespie, and all the members.

Fire, water and light: Ald. A. B. Burrows, chairman, and Aldermen Miller, Braund, Rehill and Waddell.

Famous Gorilla Dies In Chicago

CHICAGO, Jan. 2 (AP)—The fabulous Bushman, a gorilla who awed and charmed millions, is dead.

He died of a heart attack at the age of 22. Death came around 8 a.m., while most of his "fellow citizens" of Chicago were still sleeping after welcoming in the new year.

The news stunned Chicagoans, R. Marlin Perkins, director of the Lincoln Park Zoo, said, "It's a great blow to us."

To Chicagoans, Bushman was the most famous inhabitant of the city. He'd been here for 20 years ever since he'd been captured in Africa, and many a citizen could give you the name of "the big monkey" quicker than he could name the mayor.

Three million people saw him each year. Last summer, when he was ill of heart disease and arthritis, 120,000 persons crowded the zoo in one day to view him. Local newspapers ran banner headlines on his condition.

Ready To Hand Over Forces To Eisenhower

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Britain completed plans today to place under command of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower the more than three divisions she has committed to the defences of Western Europe.

Government spokesman reported a British note formally spelling out this action was to be sent to Belgian Foreign Minister Paul Van Zeeland, chairman of the North Atlantic Council.

Eisenhower, as supreme commander of the 12 Atlantic Allies' International Army in Europe, is expected to set up his headquarters in Paris late next week.

As soon as he does, Britain will surrender control of her occupation troops in Germany, Austria and Trieste to him. The King has approved this action, spokesmen said.

Taking No Chances

BRIGHTON, Colo., Jan. 2—(AP)—The Adams County Sheriff's office Monday reported a very drunk man was seen by a deputy getting into an automobile on New Year's eve. "You're not going to drive that car, are you?" the deputy asked. "Certainly I'm going to drive," the drunk replied. "I'm in no condition to walk."

Russia Insists Germany On Big 4 Agenda

LONDON, Jan. 2 (CP)—Russia today said she is ready for big-four foreign ministers talks in London, Paris or Moscow with Germany first and foremost on the agenda.

Moscow's position was broadcast tonight in response to a western power suggestion that such a meeting be held.

Britain, United States, and France suggested Dec. 22 that top delegates of the big four nations at Lake Success, N.Y., prepare an agenda for ministerial talks aimed at "the elimination of the causes of present international tension throughout the world." This came after Russia No. 3 called for a big-four conference to discuss only demilitarization of Germany.

The Soviet reply was in the hands of the three western governments before any public announcement was made in any of the four capitals concern its contents. Diplomatic officials in Washington held out little hope that the terms of the Russian reply would lead to the top-level meeting while officials in London and Paris were more hopeful.

Hurls Accusations

The Russian note accused the three western powers of organizing a regular Western German army and denied that she was rearming Eastern Germany.

Moscow said the Soviet government considered a meeting of the council of foreign ministers was necessary—the last was in June, 1949—and that is was "essential to examine first of all the question of the demilitarization of Germany, which is the most acute problem in Europe."

She again suggested the Prague declaration made by eight Eastern European governments as basis for the discussions, but added she was willing to expand the talks to cover other German questions.

"It stands to reason," the Russian note said, "that the examination of the problems which have to be discussed at the session of the four foreign ministers itself will not constitute the task of such a preliminary discussion."

Five Children Die In Blaze

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Jan. 2—(CP)—The five young sons of Mr. and Mrs. Esau Jacobs died in a New Year's weekend fire which destroyed their home in the lumbering centre of Springdale, 45 miles northwest of Grand Falls.

Springdale is on Halls Bay, an arm of Notre Dame Bay, which cuts into the centre of the province from the north.

The dead: Eli, 11; Leonard, 6; Uriah, 4; George, 2; and Bobbie, 1.

The parents were visiting nearby relatives at the time of the fire which destroyed the two-storey wooden frame building. There was no report on the origin of the blaze and neither was there any information on whether there were any survivors.

Red Troops 12 Miles From Seoul

U.N. Soldiers Retreat Before 42 Divisions, Enemy Losses High

TOKYO, Jan. 2—(AP)—Vanguards of six Chinese Communist armies carved out a menacing salient today in western Korea within 17 air miles of Seoul. Outnumbered United Nations forces, after retreating up to 11 miles in zero weather, manned new defence lines and awaited the next onslaught. It was expected in a few days.

The deepest enemy penetration was pinpointed by Gen. MacArthur's headquarters Tuesday as six miles south of Tongduchon. That forward position is 17 miles from the virtually deserted capital on a road leading north through Uijongbu.

The Reds were only five miles from Uijongbu, the key to Seoul.

(Reuters News Agency quoted frontline reports as saying Communist patrols were only 12 miles north of Seoul. The reports placed the Reds just outside the shell-torn road centre of Uijongbu.)

MacArthur's headquarters quoted North Korea's dictator as boasting in a broadcast that his war efforts have "support and sympathy of Red China, Russia, Hungaria, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Romania and Poland.

MacArthur said Kim Il Sung's statement indicated clearly "the general character of this war."

Swift Retreat

The allied pullback in South Korea before at least 42 enemy divisions was so swift that contact was lost with the main Red forces. There was little ground fighting listed in field reports Tuesday.

Thousands of Communist dead littered the frozen and rugged battlefield.

MacArthur's headquarters called their New Year's assault an all-out attack "pressed by the enemy with complete disregard for his losses, which have been extremely heavy."

The first suicidal waves hurled themselves on land mines, exploding them. Then succeeding waves climbed over their bodies. Other advance waves, formed human bridges over barbed wire entanglements.

Allied planes of all categories took a heavy enemy toll. Ground observers estimated that 6,000 Red casualties were inflicted on Monday by air action alone.

Annihilate Group

Pilots of one group of F-80 Shooting Star jets said they annihilated an entire company of Communists six miles east of Korangpo. That is 28 miles north of Seoul.

Princess Sees Philip Off On Naval Cruise

VALETTA, Malta, Jan. 2 — (Reuters) — Princess Elizabeth, hatless and wearing dark glasses, stood unnoticed in a crowd of naval wives waving goodbye to their husbands when the Mediterranean Fleet left here today for a short winter cruise in Greek waters.

Her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, was standing on the bridge of his ship, the frigate Magpie, looking ashore through binoculars as the Princess waved to him.

$4,000,000 Fire

KANKAKEE, Ill., Jan. 2—(AP)—Fire that raged out of control for four hours caused damage estimated by a company officer at between $3,500,000 and $4,000,000 at the Florence Stove Company today. Three firemen were hurt fighting the blaze. Officials of the company who estimated the loss said the fire destroyed 17,000 crated gas stoves ready for shipment, 12,000 oil heaters and 4,000 hot water heaters.

Chases, Halts Runaway Train, Riders Unaware

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP).—"Look out, the 10:15 has run away."

The message crackled along the British railway system today while an embarrassed engineer and fireman ran down the tracks in hot pursuit of the runaway train, outward bound from London.

Their engine, off on its own, chugged merrily—at eight miles an hour—through two suburban stations, carrying behind it a whole trainload of passengers unaware the locomotive was unattended.

The two trainmen had to give up the chase. They were puffing harder than the engine. Finally an athletic foreman at a station called Seven Sisters jumped board the engine, and brought it to a halt. George Buckland, the football playing foreman who made the successful end run, gave this account:

No One Excited

"Fortunately I knew how to stop the train. I pulled it up in the centre of the platform—its usual stopping place—and none of the passengers seemed to think anything was amiss."

The engine started its four-mile journey solo at Palace Gate Station in North London. Nobody knows how it managed to slip away.

Officials of the nationalized British railways said: "The matter is under investigation."

Say Armories Fire New Sabotage Act

TORONTO, Jan. 2 (CP)—An army spokesman said today sabotage is suspected in two small fires which broke out almost simultaneously Monday in the University Avenues Armories here.

Armed sentries from Camp Borden, have been assigned to patrol the University Avenue and Fort York Armories, replacing civilian caretakers who normally look after the buildings.

The fires broke out in a garbage tin and in the battery-charging room but were quickly extinguished. Damage was estimated at $100.

At Fort York Armories two men with wire clippers were chased off after they cut a hole in a metal fence around a parking lot.

Two weeks ago 17 trucks were damaged at the University Avenue Barracks. Tires were slashed, canvas roofs cut and an attempt made to set fire to gasoline which flowed from holes chopped in gasoline tanks.

A court of inquiry Friday will investigate the latest episodes, the army said.

Say Stalin Commander Running War

Report Marshal Zhukov Brains Behind North Korean Warfare

By STAN SWINTON.

TOKYO, Jan. 2 (AP).—Soviet Marshal Grigori K. Zhukov may be masterminding the Communists' new Korean offensive from a joint Chinese-Russian headquarters in Mukden, Manchuria.

This correspondent has learned on high authority that the existence of such a headquarters was reported to American intelligence on or before Dec. 24. According to this source, Zhukov, the Second World War conqueror of Berlin, is supreme commander at the Mukden headquarters. Gen. Lin Piao, commander of the Chinese Red Fourth Field Army, is named as Zhukov's deputy.

From another and less trusted source, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters has heard reports that Soviet Col. Gen. O Ha Muk may soon be appointed supreme commander of the Korean Red Army.

O Ha Muk is of Korean descent, but is a Soviet citizen. Large numbers of Koreans moved into Russian border areas early this century. During the Soviet purges of the mid-thirties, most of them are believed to have been moved deep inside Soviet territory.

There are unconfirmed reports that the Soviet Army includes at least two divisions made up of Korean blood. O Ha Muk is believed to be from this force.

Have Precedent

There is a precedent for the appointment of a Soviet general as commander-in-chief of a satellite army. Soviet Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky, a Russian citizen of Polish descent, is commander-in-chief of the Polish army.

Zhukov's presence in Mukden, if confirmed, would mean that Stalin has lent the Chinese perhaps his greatest field commander of the Second World War. In 1941 he became chief-of-staff, conducted the defense of Moscow against the Germans and became commander-in-chief on the central front.

He was named vice-commissar of defense in 1942, and thereafter was responsible for offensives that broke the sieges of Stalingrad and Leningrad and conquered Berlin.

New Reactor Bigger Than Chalk River

Strengthens Position For Peace Or War; To Begin In Summer

OTTAWA, Jan. 2—(CP)—Trade Minister Howe announced today that Canada will build a $30,000,000 atomic reactor "much" bigger and better and "many times more powerful" than the one now in use at Chalk River.

This means, Mr. Howe said, that Chalk River should in time be put on a paying, commercial basis by sales of greatly increased supplies of plutonium and radioisotopes. It will also be able to enter new fields of research.

Plutonium is the radio-active material produced in the reactor's atom-splitting process and used in A-bomb production and research. Radioisotopes are tracer atoms, recognized as the greatest research tool discovered in centuries, and are coming into wide use by hospitals, industry and universities.

Mr. Howe said the new reactor or radio-active pile won't alter Canada's position against going into A-bomb production but it will strengthen the country's atomic stature for either peace or war.

U.S. Market Considered

Disposal of fissionable materials is a highly secret matter but the feelling here is that Canada hopes to sell the plutonium to the United States. She already sells the U.S. another radio-active element, uranium, which occurs naturally and is treated in reactors to produce plutonium, a better agent.

A reactor is the nuclear furnace where the fission or splitting of the atom goes on under controlled conditions. It is the key instrument for the atomic process and the new one, officials say, will give Canada an all-round device that will allow her to go in whatever research direction circumstances indicate.

81 Men Killed In Mine Blast

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Jan. 2—(CP)—The Hungarian Ministry of Mining and Energy announced today that 81 miners were killed Dec. 30 in a mine accident at Tatabanya, western Hungary.

The men were killed in a big explosion, "the reasons for which are not yet fully cleared up," a brief communique said.

The announcement said 40 miners trapped in the explosions were saved today.

An investigation into the explosion has begun.

Newspapers today carried a black-bordered government announcement of the explosion.

The announcement described the explosion as "serious" but said its cause had not yet been established.

Erno Gero, Minister of State, and other government officials hurried to the mine soon after the explosion.

The dead miners were proclaimed "heroes of the people's republic" and buried today at the state's expense.

Princess Patricias Get Special Turkey Dinner

PUSAN, Korea, Jan. 2 (CP)—Uncle Sam packed a New Year's surprise for the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry—a turkey dinner with the trimmings and two free cans of beer for each man.

Lt.-Col. J. R. Stone, of Salmon Arm, B.C., the battalion's commanding officer, entered into the holiday spirit Monday and reversed his decision to make the day one of normal training. The troops were given New Year's Day off.

Col. Stone had intended to launch the battalion's intensive preparatory training phase, a seven-day-a-week program of night-and-day training for battle fitness but the arrival of 28-pound turkeys from the United States delayed it.

The Patricias paraded Dec. 31 to hear the new program outlined and to receive Col. Stone's best wishes for 1951.

Fear Pakistan To Boycott Conference

Insisting Dispute Over Kashmir Be Placed On Agenda

LONDON, Jan. 2—(CP)—The Cabinet at a meeting today shaping final plans for the Commonwealth Prime Ministers conference is understood to have given the raw-material supply problem a top place on the agenda.

Defence Chiefs of Staff were called into today's meeting. The prime ministers open their conference Thursday.

The Cabinet met without receiving any news whether Liaquat Ali Khan, Pakistan prime minister, will attend the Commonwealth parley. Liaquat Ali postponed his departure by air from Karachi to London at the week-end. Press reports said he wanted to be sure Pakistan's dispute with India over Kashmir would be on the agenda before coming to London.

Britain is reliably reported to oppose any discussion of the status of Kashmir, where forces of Moslem Pakistan and Hindu India have been facing each other since fighting broke out in 1948. A cease-fire has been in force while the United Nations sought agreement on a plebiscite.

4 Leaders Arrive

Four representatives to the nine-power talks have arrived in London, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent of Canada arrived Monday. His RCAF transport plane which was to have flown him to London airport was diverted by fog and snow to St. Eval RAF base in Cornwall and he finished his journey to London by train.

The other prime ministers who already are here are Don Senanayake of Ceylon and Sir Godfrey Huggins of Southern Rhodesia. South Africa's Interior Minister, T. Donges, also arrived Monday. He represents Prime Minister Daniel Malan who is ill.

At London's Waterloo station, Prime Minister St. Laurent assured reporters that he was "always optimistic" where peace is concerned. "My faith that sanity will prevail over the present turmoil is unshaken," the Canadian leader said.

Two $50 Fines Paid For Having Deer

Fines of $50 each were paid by Clifford McInroy, 24 Cricket Place, on two charges under the Game and Fisheries Act when he entered written pleas of guilty in police cour today.

Gerar F. O'Brien, 204 Wolsley St., charged jointly with McInroy on one of the charges, also entered a written plea of guilty and paid a $50 fine.

They were jointly charged with having a deer in the Peterborough Crown Game Preserve Nov. 10.

McInroy was also charged with carrying a rifle in the game preserve. O'Brien previously pleaded guilty to the same charge and paid his fine which through an error on the summons sent to him was $20 and costs instead of the normal minimum of the $50.

City Council

Informal Discussion

Presumably, in caucus prior to the inauguration, the council had informally discussed the assignment of committee work. Later in committee of the whole, Ald. Miller said: "I am here to do the best I can for the ratepayers. I did not think that the finance chairmanship was going to fall into my lap. Now, Mr. Mayor, I wish to offer the opportunity of reconsidering this appointment. I feel that chairmanships should be changed from time to time. Last year, I appreciated the responsibility of being chairman of the fire, water and light committee. I wish to say that I don't want you to appoint me chairman of finance unless you feel that I am capable of doing the job".

Mayor Swanston replied that he had every confidence in the qualifications of ability of Ald. Miller, and the appointment rested as a recommendation to the business meeting of the council tonight, with the general report of the committee of the whole at this stage of setting up the new administration.

In calling the meeting to order this morning, Mayor Swanston congratulated the citizens on their attendance as expression of their interest in the affairs of the council and of the well-being of the city.

Encourages Council

"Your presence is a real encouragement to the council," His Worship said. "I am glad to see so many of the former members of the council, mayors and aldermen of other years, here today. I also welcome again the delegation from the women's Civic Study group. Attendance of their representatives at our meetings throughout last year was gratefully noted, and I think the council has done much better work. I hope the citizens and our former members of the council will avail themselves of the opportunity which is always theirs of coming to the meetings of the council".

Major Cyril Everitt of the Salvation Army, president of the Ministerial Association, invoked the blessing of God on the new council in its municipal trust, its deliberations and business, and also on the people of Peterborough. He quoted opposite texts from Scripture significant of the authority deputed to chosen men, including man's relative duties to God and to Caesar as head of the state, and closed with the admonition of St. Paul: "Let every man be subject to higher power, for there is no power but from God..."

Brotherly Attitude

Preceding the Lord's Prayer, Major Everitt emphasized its words of address, "Our Father," denoting the fellowship of men and women, under the fatherhood of God. It signified the obligation of living together in brotherly concord. Its petition for the coming of the kingdom of God, sought a social order in which Jesus would be at home. It asked a prayer for a community into which He would fit; homes into which He could enter without embarrassment; a city in whose streets He could walk without a broken heart; industries in which He could move about without indignation, with duties and rights of employer and employee truly recognized; amusements which He could approve; literature which He also could read.

The words 'Thy Kingdom Come' conceived a society in which all men lived as brothers.

Major Everitt prayed for God's gift of wisdom in the assembly and work of the council in the year now begun.

Former mayors present today were: Archibald A. A. McIntyre, William H. Taylor, James Hamilton, Wm. G. Ovens.

Former Aldermen

Citizens present who had once fulfilled the aldermanic mandate were: Herbert J. McCannan, Malcolm McIntyre, James Juby, John E. Sullivan, James Dutton, Fred T. Tuggey, James Ellis.

Others attending included: The Rev. W. J. Gilling, Vincent Eastwood, chairman of the City Trust Commission, Clare G. Collins, James Fraser, Gerald Grady, T. J. Carley, K.C., Lorne Beebe K. S. Don't Expect Compulsory Job Channeling

OTTAWA, Jan. 2 (CP). — The stepped-up defence program is going to make a heavy call on manpower, but present prospects —barring outright war—are that there will be no compulsory channelling of labor into vital industries.

Instead of that Second World War expedient, according to informed sources, the government will rely on a series of integrated measures to overcome the expected manpower shortages. These include:

1. An accelerated program of selective immigration with the emphasis on immigrants who can fit into Canadian jobs. Already announced are plans to fly in immigrants from Europe and to lend money to those who need it to get to Canada.
2. Directing essential materials into defense industries, which will tend to cause a flow of labor to these from civilian-production industries.
3. An expansion in the government vocational training plan to produce more skilled workers—the group in which the most acute shortage will be felt.

Increase Training

4. Increasing the training of skilled workers within industry itself.
5. Intensification of the Labor Department's drive to place older workers in industry. Many of these had valuable experience in war plants between 1939 and 1945.
6. A possible system of priorities for defense-plant jobs in National Employment Services offices. Under such priorities, the service would try to sell this type of work to job applicants, but without compulsion.

Officials think these measures will do the trick, at least so far as taking care of the production program now envisaged by the government and essential civilian requirements.

Inevitably some industries are going to be hit by manpower shortages and, already, scarcities of skilled tradesmen and experienced semi-skilled workers are developing. By next spring, when the defence program will be in higher gear, the shortages will be still sharper.

Base Metals Climb To New High Ground

TORONTO, Jan. 2 (CP). — Base metals climbed to new high ground as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

From a mixed opening they advanced strongly with the base metal index reaching a new high since it was first compiled in 1934. Sherritt Gordon held the spotlight in the group, jumping 27 cents in extremely active dealings. Leading issues, including Consolidated Smelters, International Nickel, Waite Amulet, United Keno Hill, Quemont, Falconbridge, and Steep Rock, chalked up gains ranging to 75 cents.

Western oils were also strongly ahead in continuation of last week's climb. Pacific Petroleum paced the list with a 35-cent jump.

Industrials were mixed with price changes limited to fractions. Senior golds slipped fractions while junior producers were mixed and quiet.

Sunday Programs

VICTORIA, B. C. (CP).—Permission for presentation of Handel's Messiah and similar choral works on Sundays may be sought by the Victoria Choral Society. The society recently was obliged to re-schedule its annual presentation of the Messiah from Sunday to Monday.

Three Families Left Homeless

SUDBURY, Jan. 2 (CP). — Three families are homeless today as a result of New Year's fires in Sudbury suburbs. A family was burned out in Neelon township Monday night while two families with seven small children lost their home on the Kelly Lake road, in Waters township Monday afternoon.

A fire of unknown origin levelled the nine-room, two-storey home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Laframboise, on the Kelly Lake road.

The Laframboise family were having dinner at the home of Laframboise's mother, Mrs. D. Laframboise, several hundred feet away on the same road.

Another family occupying the house, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Mistimis and their two small children, were home when the fire broke out, but managed to escape.

In Neelon township, fire gutted the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Paul, late Monday night, while the couple was visiting friends.

Fliers of navy Skyraider bombers from the U.S. Aircraft Carrier Valley Forge reported their deadly low level attacks forced Red troops to retreat from a ridge six miles south of Hwachon. That is 50 miles northwest of Seoul.

The Communist wedge drive into the west flank was described in a field dispatch by AP Correspondent John Randolph as amounting to "a major pullback and a big sag in the defence line across South Korea".

MacArthur's headquarters said that, in addition to the thrust south of Tongduchon, Red forces had penetrated to nine miles northwest of Uijongbu and to Kapyong. The penetration northwest of Uijongbu is within 20 miles of Seoul. That to Kapyong is at a point 35 miles northeast of Seoul.

Between nine and 10 Chinese and North Korean Army Corps—up to 300,000 men—were on the battle line. MacArthur said there were six Chinese army corps and that prisoners have been taken from a seventh army corps last known in action around Hungnam in northeast Korea. That is the area evacuated on Christmas Eve by the U.S. 10th Corps.

Three North Korean Army Corps also were listed by MacArthur's headquarters at the front.

An eighth army spokesman said the Communist threat on both flanks was serious but not critical.

Canadian Destroyer Rescues Navy Flier

TOKYO, Jan. 2 — (CP) — The Canadian destroyer Sioux rescued a Royal Navy flier during recent naval operations off the coast of Korea, it was announced today.

The flier, one of the men from the Royal Navy light fleet carrier Theseus who made 630 Korean war sorties in December, was identified as Lieut. D. P. W. Kelley of London. He had to ditch his plane immediately after taking off from the carrier. The Sioux moved in and picked him up 12 minutes after his plane sunk.

The naval announcement gave neither the date nor the exact location of the incident but it is believed the Sioux was carrying out escort duties with the Theseus off Korea's west coast.

Canada And UK Fail To Settle Bacon Contract

OTTAWA, Jan. 2 (CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner Saturday disclosed that Canada and the United Kingdom have failed to reach agreement on a new 1951 bacon contract.

In a statement, he said the British Food Ministry has offered to buy Canadian bacon at the 1950 prfce of 29 cents a pound. Canada has not accepted this price.

The government, he added, was going to continue to support the bacon market at 32½ cents a pound for grade A Wiltshires.

Since current prices were higher than the support price, he said he did not believe the government's meat board will obtain deliveries of "any important quantities" of bacon.

However, whatever quantities were obtained, would be made available to the United Kingdom or to any other country to meet their requirements, "at prices to be agreed upon.

Not Yet Accepted Offer

This was an indication that the government has not yet accepted Britain's offer to pay 29 cents a pound—the same as in 1950—for 130,000,000 pounds of Canadian bacon. Britain wanted 60,000,000 pounds in 1950 but only about 35,000,000 were shipped.

Mr. Gardiner, in a statement, said he had pointed out in several discussions with the British Food Ministry that there was little hope of getting bacon in Canada at the 29 cent a pound price.

Even after these discussions, said Mr. Gardiner, "the British ministry has not offered to pay more than 29 cents."

"After considering all the facts the government has decided to authorize the agricultural prices support board to offer to buy at prices calculated to return to the producer per pound for Grade A hogs the equivalent of the amount he would have received had Wiltshire sides been sold to Britain at $32.50 (per hundredweight) delivered at Canadian seaboard."

New Reactor

Chalk River's present NRX reactor, a big, complex cylinder 34 feet high, is capable of scientific activities and studies that can't be duplicated elsewhere in the Western world. It will still be used and still will be valuable but will be superseded by a new and far superior pile based, as is the present reactor, on the heavy-water principle.

Begin In Summer

Construction will begin in late summer. It will virtually double the capital outlay at the six-year-old project on a lonely bank of the Ottawa River 125 miles northwest of the capital. The new reactor should be completed probably some time in 1958.

The cabinet has approved the new construction. It will be submitted to parliament soon in the form of a $30,000,000 estimate. Parliamentary approval is considered certain.

Mr. Howe predicted the reactor will do these things:

1. Its improvements—the fruits of years of study at Chalk River —will "keep Canada in the forefront of advancing knowledge in this important field of scientific research" and allow her to retain her "outstanding position."
2. Provide facilities for attacking "some of the fundamental factors" involved in the great problems of breeding and tapping the atom for the tremendous powers existing within it.
3. Assuring enough plutonium and allow the supply of radioisotopes to catch up with demands.
4. Guarantee the permanency of Canada's atomic position. While she had only the one important reactor there was always a chance that a breakdown would bring the whole Chalk River project to a halt.

Eye On Power

Some scientists at Chalk River told reporters there recently they think the reactor Canada builds after this next one will really mark the start on Canada's use of the energy for power purposes. Studies made with the one coming up should open the way.

Mr. Howe said the new reactor will be a heavy water-moderated reactor just as the NRX pile is. That means that heavy water brought from Trail, B. C., will be used as the controlling influence in keeping the splitting atoms from erupting into explosion.

This will be Chalk River's third reactor. The first was the Zeep, still in use but only as a minor partner to the second, the NRX, which has the world's highest flux density or outpouring of nuclear bullets called neutrons, the splitters of the atom.

St. Laurent Making Official Calls

By E. S. JOHNSON.

LONDON, Jan. 2 — (CP). — Prime Minister St. Laurent, here to represent Canada at the conference of Commonwealth Prime Ministers, spent a busy time today paying official calls and meeting old friends in London.

Well rested after a long train journey Monday from St. Eval RAF Airport in Cornwall where his plane was diverted from London Airport by unfavorable weather, he started a tour of engagements in a driving snow-and-sleet storm.

His first call was at Buckingham Palace to sign the distinguished visitors' book. He did not see the King and Queen this trip, but before conclusion of the Commonwealth Conference he will dine with other visiting Prime Ministers as guest of Their Majesties.

There was also a courtesy call at 10 Downing Street where the conference will open at 11 o'clock Thursday morning. St. Laurent had a friendly talk with Prime Minister Attlee before Attlee called in his Cabinet for its first meeting of the New Year.

The main Cabinet business is understood to have had a bearing on some of the major subjects to be dealt with at the conference.

May Be Invied

None of the visiting Prime Ministers attended today's Cabinet session, but some of them may be invited to one during their stay.

After taking leave of Attlee, St. Laurent stopped off at Canada House for a talk with L. Dana Wilgress, Canada's High Commissioner to the United Kingdom.

He also made a tour of the building which he last visited in 1949, and chatted for some time with members of the staff. He plans to meet representatives of the British press later in the day.

The Prime Ministers' conference will be in session Thursday and Friday, but the weekend will be left free for the visitors. This will give them an opportunity for informal meetings between individual delegates.

Attlee, who will spend the weekend at Chequers, the Prime Minister's country home, may entertain some of them at lunch[illegible] Saturday.

Report Quintuplets Born To Siberian Woman, 1 Dies

LONDON, Jan. 2 —(Reuters)— Quintuplets—four boys and a girl —have been born to a Siberian woman and four of them survive tonight, a Tass News Agency message to London said Monday.

The four babies "are developing normally," Tass said. It was not known which of the five, born just before the New Year was rung in, had died.

The mother is Elena Skomkina, wife of a collective farmer at Uspenka near Barnhaul in the Altai region. The message did not give her age.

Local organizations and the collective farm administrators "are doing all they can to help the family," Tass said.

Donate House

Farmers and their wives working on the farm held a meeting and voted to hand over an entire house to the Skomkina family. They also granted a gift of money.

There have been many reports of the birth of quintuplets since the Dionne quintet was born in 1934 at Callander, Ont. Not all of these reports have been authenticated.

Argentina's Diligenti quintuplets, children of the millionaire businessman Vallotta de Deligenti, born July 15, 1943, when their mother was nearly 40, came into the world without a doctor in attendance.

Before the Dionne girls came along, the last recorded appearance of quintuplets had been at Lisbon in 1866, but the longest-lived of that group survived only two weeks.

USSR Prompt Answer Raises Peace Hopes

PARIS, Jan. 2—(AP)— Russia's prompt answer to the west's bid for a Big Four meeting raised new hope here today that the world's ills can be cured around the conference table rather than on the battlefield.

The French foreign office was cheered by the Kremlin's favorable reaction to the idea of a Big Four meeting that would talk about all the world's hot and cold wars.

The fact that the answer took only nine days in coming boosted the belief that the Soviet leaders are ready to talk things over.

One high-level source said "there are some disappointments in the Soviet message, but none so great as the cheering factor that the door is now open to settle by diplomatic means the problems that beset the world."

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 2 (ENS). — A surprise party was held for Stanley Richardson at his home in Lakefield Wednesday evening.

An address was read by Charles Lee expressing the regrets of all that due to ill health Mr. Richardson had been forced to resign as patrolman for the Department of Highways one year ago. The party has been delayed due to this illness.

W. J. Chartran presented Mr. Richardson with a pen and pencil set and a purse of money as a token of all the highway employees' appreciation for his good fellowship and understanding during his seven years as patrolman and also the 10 years before that when he was a fellow worker.

The widespread nature of Canadian prosperity in 1950 is illustrated by stock market action.

On the Toronto Stock Exchange, for instance, more than 500,000,000 shares of 913 stocks were traded in 1950, or 50,000,000 more than in the previous record year of 1936. The value of these transactions was around $90,000,000, also a record.

The Exchange comments:

More noteworthy than these records has been the breadth of the list of traded stocks. Usually, activity in most years has had a large concentration in certain types of industry.

As an illustration, the previous peak year of 1936 had most volume confined to mining issues, with only 473 stocks participating in the total. In 1950, pending final figures, the trading ranged to around 900 separate issues, in itself a record.

Second Record

Another record established in 1950 will be the "quoted" or aggregate stock value of the companies listed. Several times the figure in 1950 has been well above the $9,000,000,000 mark and may when the final tabulation is completed, pass $10,000,000,000.

Since the Toronto Exchange listings comprise practically every phase of industry and a good percentage of the issued stock of the country's publicly-owned companies, the quoted value figure is an indication of the trend of Canadian industry as a whole. For comparative purposes, the value of New York Stock Exchange listings at Nov. 30 was in the neighborhood of $90,000,000,000.

Bond Financing

Canadian public bond financing for 1950 totalled $2,796,184,000, or more than twice the $1,361,752,000 of 1949, according to a compilation of Wood, Gundy and Co., Ltd.

The marked increase is accounted for chiefly by new government of Canada issues, which accounted for $1,804,140,000, compared with $452,856,000 in the preceding year.

QUADRUPLE AMPUTEE — Curley Christian, of Toronto, Canada's only quadruple war amputee, is believed to be the only one in the Commonwealth. The 66-year-old, U.S. - born Negro lost both arms below the elbows and both legs below the knees while fighting with the Canadian Army at Vimy Ridge in 1917. A stretcher-bearer, he was buried for 12 hours when a bomb exploded in a trench. Christian was a semi-pro baseball player before the First World War. Now retired, he spent some time as a cigar salesman after being provided with artificial limbs.

Society Woman In Disgrace Discovered Dead

LONDON, Jan. 2 —(AP)—Lady Elizabeth Roberts, shapely 33-year old blueblood once denounced by a London judge as "almost a shame to her own sex," was found dead in her bed Monday clad only in a sweater and panties.

The twice-married daughter of the Dowager Marchioness of Townshend lived in Belgravia, not far from Buckingham Palace.

Police said her death was believed due to natural causes. But they ordered a post-mortem operation to seek the true cause.

Lady Elizabeth made frequent appearances in London courts. The most publicized charge brought against her accused her of stealing 56 pounds worth of furnishings from her mother's home.

Life of Dissipation

The recorder of the City of London, Sir Gerald Dodson, sitting as judge in the case at the famed Old Bailey Court, said she had ruined her life by dissipation and added:

"You have become a woman who is almost a shame to her own sex."

She was put on probation for three years.

Lady Elizabeth was married in 1939 to Sir Richard White, a baronet. They were divorced in 1947 and Lady Elizabeth regained her maiden name of Lady Elizabeth Townshend. At that time she observed: "Lady Elizabeth White is dead." In March, 1949, she married actor Clifford Roberts.

Persons at her flat in Belgravia said Monday Lady Elizabeth had been in bed with a cold for two days before her death. She was alone Sunday night, they said. Her body was discovered today by neighbors in the building, who heard repeated ringings on her telephone.

Say Doing Best Produce Nickel

OTTAWA, Jan. 2 — (CP) — Trade Minister Howe said Saturday night that Canada is straining every effort to produce all the nickel she can.

He was commenting on a Washington dispatch reporting that a United States Senate defence sub-committee had urged that the United States Government appeal to Canada for help in solving a critical shortage of nickel. The sub-committee's report urged that Canada grant special tax incentives and give other assistance to Canadian producers to step up their output.

Mr. Howe said the Canadian Government had gone "thoroughly" into the question of expanded production with the International Nickel Company of Canada, listed in the sub-committee's report as one of the world's leading nickel producers. The company was straining every effort to produce al lthe nickel it could. Production now is at an all-time high.

He knew of no tax concessions that could help increase output. If the U.S. sub-committee knew of any, he would be glad to consider them.

Canada now supplies virtually all nickel used in the U.S.

Japanese Army And Navy Believed Coming In 1951

By WILLIAM JORDEN

TOKYO, Jan. 2— (AP) —The Japanese are sharply divided on the matter of rearming their country, but all believe that if and when rearmament comes it should be planned and carried out by the Japanese themselves.

They see it coming closer. Gen. MacArthur told them in a New Year's message that "if international lawlessness continues to threaten peace," it will be their duty to "mount force to repel force."

Many Japanese are convinced that a new Japanese army and navy are in the cards for 1951. An air force appears less likely right now, but may not be far in the future.

Before building up armed forces, however, Japan wants a peace treaty that will make it an independent country once again.

Spokesmen for two of Japan's leading political parties insist that rearmament is not necessary.

Stresses Defence

Commenting on MacArthur's statement, Eisaku Sato, secretary-general of Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida's Liberal Party said Japan should take measures to protect herself. "However, self-defense does not necessarily mean the rearming of Japan," he said.

Another Liberal Party leader, chief cabinet secretary Katsuo Okazakgir, told newspapermen: "The Japanese are determined to defend Japan primarily by themselves."

Just three days ago Prime Minister Yoshida told the country he did not consider rearmament necessary.

On the other hand, a poll conducted by a leading Japanese newspaper disclosed that about 45 per cent of those questioned thought Japan should have armed forces. About the same percentage thought their country's security could be assured by the United Nations.

Half of those quizzed insisted Japan's armed forces should be strictly Japanese. Only a 23 per cent thought they should be integrated with UN fighting units. The rest expressed no opinion.

Survival Struggle

ALBANY, NY, Jan. 2 (AP)— Governor Thomas E. Dewey urged the United States Monday to marshal all of the world's anti-Communist forces for a struggle of survival against Russia's Red empire. Taking his third-term oath of office "under the shadow of war," Dewey said the US should develop powerful allies and maintain atomic bomb air bases "around the world."

Local Elections—A La Russe

Russia, like Canada, has been having local elections. They began on December 17th and finished Christmas eve in the villages, districts, regions and cities of the U.S.S.R. They are a wonderful show. Nearly everybody votes, and every candidate gets a nearly unanimous vote. In Russia, the voter does not choose between two or three candidates; he either votes for the one name on the ballot or votes for nobody. Thus are the officially-approved candidates elected.

* * *

The defenders of Soviet democracy insist that thus through the local Soviets the ordinary people take part in the central government. The villager votes for a man known to him; and this man goes to the council as a person who knows the village's problems and needs and presses its interests there. The district Soviets take cognisance of the Soviet village Soviets, and so the process goes on right up to the top, to Stalin himself.

* * *

The Russian radio system broadcast this explanation of the democratic process:

"Power is in the hands of the workers, who exercise it through their deputies—near 1,500,000 of them—in the local Soviets. The people maintain constant contact with their Deputies. The contact is continuous from bottom to top. Stalin has said that the Deputy is the servant of the people and that he should pursue the line traced for him by the people. Should he deviate from this line the electors have the right to call for a new election and to dismiss their erring Deputy."

That sounds wonderful; as good, really, as the democratic process in Canadian municipal elections where a dismissed policeman of good repute can be elected Mayor of his own city.

But there is a red barrier across the democratic Russian path, and Mr. Molotov has outlined it quite clearly. The "line traced .... by the people" for their Deputies is really the line traced by the Politburo. It is the Communist Party line.

"The Deputies in Council take decisions which become compulsory for citizens, establishments and organizations within the jurisdiction of the Soviet. They are responsible to the people that all decisions taken are strictly in accordance with the directives issued by the Party and the Government....No one may hinder the Deputies in their duty of expressing the will of the people....They must be ruthless to the enemies of the people....They must explain the main laws and decisions of the Supreme Soviet of the USSR and of the Government and Party organs...."

Mr. Molotov's words point to the Russian definitions of "people" and "citizens". "Citizens" (on whom Council decisions are compulsory) are individuals. "People" are the people as a mass, in other words, the State. The deputies are responsible, therefore, to the State, not to individual citizens.

* * *

We still prefer our own system, imperfect as it may be, where people are people and not fragmentary, equalized, undifferentiated embodiments of the State.

A Popularizer Of Music

The death of Dr. Walter Damrosch at the age of 88 ends a remarkable career of musical education. Damrosch was a fine orchestral conductor, but his was never among the dozen names which provoke great excitement and almost fanatical devotion among music-lovers. He was an admirable musician who could, and did, conduct anything, but he shed no new light on the orchestral repertory. His great gift lay in another field; he was a man who could arouse an interest in music in millions of people who were not otherwise affected by it. His lectures, his concerts, his radio talks and his concerts for children led unnumbered people to find pleasure in music. He was not himself a Toscanini, a Bruno Walter, or a Beecham; but he was the man who prepared audiences for these men. It would be impossible to calculate the influence of Walter Damrosch in enlarging the musically literate public of this continent during the past fifty years. He taught the concert-goers of today their musical A.B.Cs.

It is difficult for many of us to realise how small the musical public was at the turn of the century. Opera could be heard by few, and concerts by first-rate artists were available to a not much greater audience. There was more amateur music-making, perhaps, but much of it was on a very poor level. The modern level of musical appreciation, the widespread concerts, broadcasts and sale of phonograph records, our superb modern orchestras, are the work of about fifty years of development in musical taste in which Walter Damrosch was a great leader.

Th work is not finished, of course. The great audience which exists for symphony concerts has not yet learned to appreciate smaller things which are eminently worthy of attention—string quartettes, for instance. Many people mistake a showy technique for great musicianship—and no doubt many people always will do so. Realms of fine music are still little explored because even educated taste still clings to an eighteenth and nineteenth century repertoire. But there has been an astounding advance since 1900, and it is good to know that Walter Damrosch, who did so much to begin it, lived to see its developments.

Happy As Kings

Frequently, as we read the papers, we recall R. L. Stevenson's little rhyme:

The world is so full
Of a number of things,
I'm sure we should all be
As happy as kings.

Mankind is infinitely laughable, and apparently in the Southern States of the Mississippi Basin he is somewhat more laughable than elsewhere.

In Meigs County, which is in Tennessee, they have a school beauty contest. But—and this is the interesting and, to us, comical part of the affair—the contestants are not the pupils, but the teachers. Recently a teacher was chosen as "Miss Meigs County High School", but her hour of triumph was dimmed when one of the school principals and a Democrat politician got into a fight because there was a charge of favouritism in the judging; so fierce was the fight that all schools were ordered closed for several days. This was dismaying for the contest winner, whose name is Miss Annette Hipps.

We haven't a word to say against school teachers. We do not even suggest that they are unsuitable material for a beauty contest, though we do say that their beauty is sometimes of the quiet, easily-overlooked variety. We do not even hint that the children of Meigs County are stupid, though we wonder how it is possible to hold a teachers' beauty contest down there without a riot. We refrain from suggesting that a lady named Hipps enters a beauty contest with at least one marked disadvantage. We suggest nothing about the affair at all. We only say that the news of this Tennessee hullabaloo reminds us of Stevenson's verse, and fills us with a deep, inner joy.

Immunity Issue At Washington

Reports from Washington claim there is considerable support there for the appeal of Senator Lester Hunt, of Wyoming, for the protection of citizens against the abuse of Congressional immunity. Supporters point to the self-evident fact that conditions have changed enormously since the founding fathers wrote into the U.S. Constitution the provision of English law forbidding suits against legislators because of anything said in Congress. In early days, the charges could not be widely circulated; today, the charges are broadcast to the entire nation, and reputations may be damaged without much hope of redress.

As Senator Hunt emphasizes, there is considerable irony in the fact that while Senators may make verbal attacks on private individuals with impunity, there are strict rules forbidding Senators from attacking each other on the floor. He therefore advocates one of two courses: abolition of the immunity provision, or permission for libelled citizens to sue the Government for damages.

There appears to be more support for the latter course than for the former. It is argued that a citizen whose reputation is ruined may suffer far more than one struck by a Government truck, and in the latter case the injured person is allowed to sue the Government. There is also a further suggestion that permission be granted to sue the Senate itself, thus placing the responsibility closer to where it belongs. The idea behind this suggestion is that the Senate would discipline its vituperative members more severely if the threat of slander suits existed. Apparently there has been no suggestion that permission be granted to sue individual legislators.

Since similar immunity conditions prevail in Canada—and since abuse of Parliamentary immunity is not altogether unknown here—it will be interesting to see what happens to Senator Hunt's appeal.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Thank Heaven, the dispute must now die down as to whether the half century ended on December 31, 1949, or December 31, 1950.

Has it ever occurred to you that the reason lightning never strikes twice in the same place is because it doesn't have to?

A Yogi has been found in India who feels acute pain when near water. All children are born this way, but they pick up the washing habit after twenty years or so.

The Brantford Expositor suggests that a good way to get the Scone Stone back is to bill the Scots for 600 years storage at, let us say, $20 a year. The same paper, we regret to say, asserts that although the traditional way to pronounce Scone is "Skoon", it should be pronounced Skon, for after all, it's skon, hasn't it?

America's Year of Worry and Awakening

By NORA BELOFF

FOR Americans 1950 has been a year of wealth and a year of worry. The turn of the century finds them better off than ever; more houses, more meat and butter, more automobiles, more refrigerators, more nylon clothes and far more television sets. But the year has also brought so many international shocks that in terms of human happiness these probably cancel out all the whole pile of extra comforts and conveniences.

✧ ✧ ✧

AS 1950 opened the major worry was unemployment—then at nearly 5,000,000; and an embarrassingly public slanging match between the Air Force, Army and the Navy, over which of them should bear the brunt of a multibillion dollar cut in military spending.

✧ ✧ ✧

BY the end of the year, business profits had broken every record in history, the Government was disturbed not over unemployment but over manpower shortages, and the three armed services were working perfectly together trying to elaborate safe means of spending defence money as quickly as Congress was voting it.

✧ ✧ ✧

ALREADY by the summer of 1950, the slump scare had vanished. Principal reasons were high-level government spending, rearmament and plenty of private buying which — owing to instalment purchase and easy credit terms—did not collapse when incomes dropped.

✧ ✧ ✧

THEN came the unprovoked aggression in Korea, and President Truman's bold decision to send American forces to lead the world's first experiment in collective security. This was the turning point: some Americans who were in Europe at the time said they hardly recognized their own country when they got back.

✧ ✧ ✧

SINCE June 25th, many thousands of American boys have lost their lives and many tens of thousands more are missing or wounded. Military spending has tripled; there are 50 per cent. more men in uniform today and the Army is planning to quadruple its force by the end of this year. The Treasury is expected to receive 50 billion dollars in taxes for this fiscal year, against original estimates of 37 billion dollars. Finally, the Government of this vociferously "free enterprise" country has been given sweeping powers to control every corner of the national economy. Already basic raw materials are being allocated, building has been curbed, credit curtailed and just as the year was ending the Government slapped the first controls on wages and prices.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE average American has not yet felt the full impact of industrial mobilization. The cost of living index shows a rise of barely 5 per cent. since the Korean crisis, with wages in most major industries holding their own. Nevertheless, all the symptoms of grave inflation are present: the index wholesale commodities has risen almost 40 per cent and some raw materials from abroad, including tin and wool, have more than tripled their prices. Meanwhile, uncertainty over the future of the dollar has discouraged savings, while fairly bright prospects of immediate employment has inclined ordinary American consumers to run into debt rather than deprive themselves of what they want.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT the psychological hurricane which arose after the Korean crisis was even more spectacular than the economic one. Confusion, bitterness, irresponsible howls for Atom bombs and ultimatums against Soviet Russia, wild witch-hunts for left-wingers here at home, an outcry for scapegoats which victimizes even Secretary of State Dean Acheson himself—all this left the outside world wondering if all America had run amok.

✧ ✧ ✧

AS it turned out, however, the noisiest sections of the public were neither the most representative nor the most powerful and panic—if it existed at all—soon subsided. But the anxiety went on: for the first time, Americans were beginning to count up the human and financial burden of defending the whole free world against the Soviet Colossus.

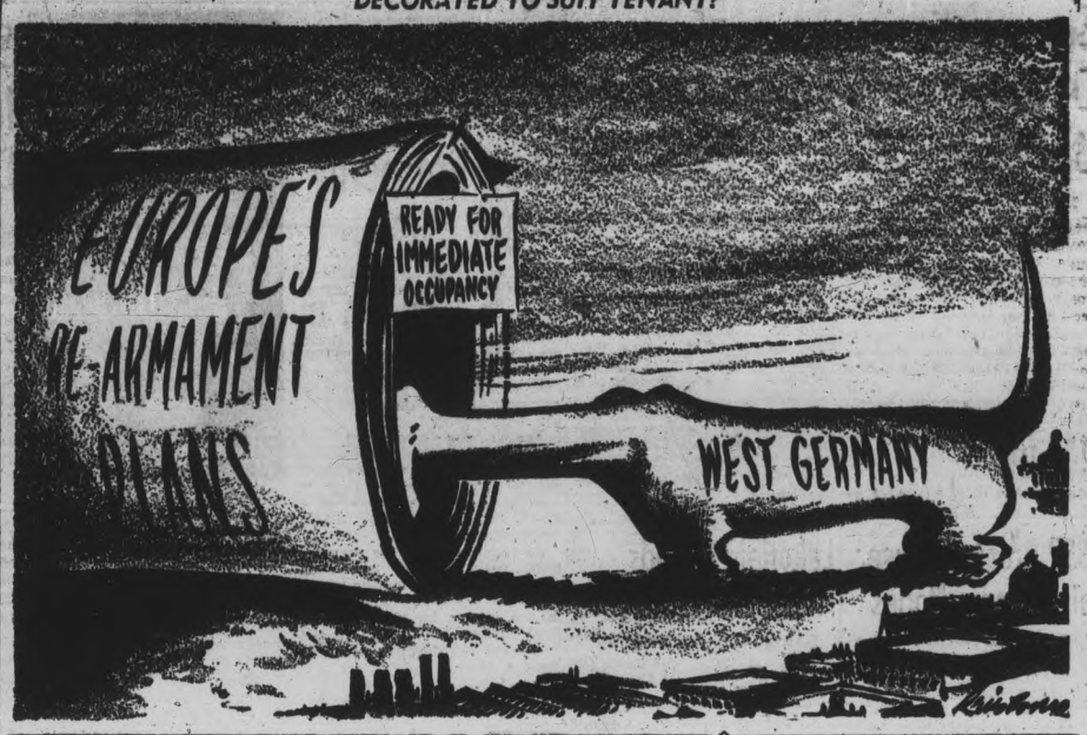
✧ ✧ ✧

TOWARD the end of this year, notably after the reverses in Korea, a few well known politicians have tried to crash in on public disquiet with old-fashioned isolationist speeches. Most thinking Americans, however, agree with their Government that in this Atomic Age such ideas are ostrich folly.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN any case, by the end of 1950, Americans had already gone far too far to pull out. Through NATO (the North Atlantic Treaty Organization) and through the United Nations the Americans within these past twelve months have committed themselves as never before to collective security. Last spring they agreed to merge their Western defence into a single 12-Power military force and before the year was out, America's greatest soldier, General Eisenhower, became its Supreme Commander.

✧ ✧ ✧



MEANWHILE, also under American sponsorship, the United Nations virtually discarded the Big Power veto which formerly might have hamstrung collective military sanctions against Communist aggression. Under the American "Peace Plan", whenever the veto-ridden Security Council fails to act, the veto-free General Assembly can rush into the breach.

✧ ✧ ✧

AS 1950 ended, it was plain that the American democratic tradition had accepted a position of world leadership from which the country could no longer escape. So much has happened so quickly that many Americans are still wondering what it is all about and where it is all leading. Such bewilderment, it is reported, is tragically apparent on the battlefields of Korea. One young soldier who had lost his best friend in the recent retreat wrote bitterly to his own vicar here at home, asking what these terrible sacrifices are for. In a very moving reply, his minister expressed feelings which most intelligent Americans certainly share: "We are in the grip of evil necessity and it does no good to disguise the fact. But if we are ever to break the power of this necessity and be free men again, free to build a better, gentler, happier world, we shall have to grapple with reality on its own terms. That is what your battles in Korea are teaching us. We are awakening—and I hope it is not too late—to what reality requires of us".

Letters To The Editor

VEXED SCOT

Sir: Regarding your comments on the history of the Stone of Destiny, I am afraid your source of information has not provided you with the history of the Stone which is generally accepted as authentic in Scotland.

According to our teaching, the Stone was brought (not stolen) from Ireland by the Scots under the leadership of Fergus (the first king of Scots in what is now called Scotland).

As for your "legend" that "as long as the Stone remains in England, the friendship of the Scots and English will endure", this has no foundation of fact whatsoever.

No, sir! The legend, which has proved itself true, runs as follows: Where e'er this Stone of Fate is seen, the Scottish race shall reign. Futhermore, as a Scot myself, I take exception to your remarks anent "the Scots descending hungrily on London". Those unfortunates who were unable to compete with their brother Scots at home (through lack of intelligence and initiative) found it easy to obtain important posts in the South.

Yours, etc.,
SUAS ALBA!

COUNTY REFORESTATION

Sir: Why two overseers to cut and remove some dead and dying timber from our reforestation lands in Peterborough County?

An overseer was appointed about a year ago, a young returned soldier at a salary of $1,200 per year. About midsummer of this year above mentioned overseer waited on County Council for an increase of $100.00 a year owing to higher cost of living, but council refused to grant any increase.

With the result another overseer was appointed at a salary of $1,500 a year but to my astonishment and I am sure to the astonishment of many more county taxpayers in the very dying days of the 1950 Council, another overseer was appointed to oversee the last appointed overseer, at a cost of $9.00 per day to dispose of said timber cut as he saw fit. And the said $9.00 per day man is none other than the chairman of the Reforestation Committee.

Fellow taxpayers, this figures out to more than $4,000 per annum. Is it any wonder our Reforestation plot is showing deep in the red? And as one of those reeves told me it was a gamble as far as the Council was concerned, whether they made or lost. And with that thought in mind why didn't they employ a man with timber experience, a qualified bush man? And first of all get the cost of operating this timber, then with the market price known, in my opinion it would be much easier to determine a loss or a profit.

I am sure the already overburdened country taxpayer must be alarmed at this kind of representation. After all I believe the greatest motive in the mind of the people when this Reforestation scheme was entered into was conservation. What conservation is there going to be if young green timber is to be cut and taken out at cost, or even a margin of profit?

I would like to ask the Reforestation Committee and the County Council in general, what are the incoming Councils, say three to five years from now going to fall back on to meet expenses under this setup if the timber of any commercial value is cut now?

Thanking you, I remain,
COUNTY TAXPAYER.

One Place For False Teeth

(London Daily Mail)

People who take their teeth to a party but don't use them to eat, and then forget where they left them, will have to pay for replacements.

Colonel E. W. Lennard, chairman of Bristol Executive Council of the National Health Service, says:

"Too many people are treating the dental service as a beauty act and not a health act."

He instanced four cases of application for replacement of dentures which the committee turned down:

1. A woman packed her teeth in a trunk and sent it as advance luggage. She lost the trunk and the teeth.

2. A father came home to find that his dentures had been used by his schoolboy son in an experiment in dentistry.

3. A woman lost her teeth in her handbag.

4. A man lost his teeth on a shelf under the table in a cafe.

Said Colonel Lennard: "We are not prepared to supply replacements to people who merely use their false teeth on social occasions to look their best.

"There is only one place for false teeth—in your mouth."

Aid To Inflation

(Windsor Star)

Though inflation bears most heavily on those with fixed incomes, it also is felt by wage earners and other producers. Too often, however, we are apt to ignore or never understand one of the ingredients of inflation.

President B. C. Gardner of the Bank of Montreal has pointed this out. "If we as a nation insist on doing less and less for a dollar, we can hardly complain if the dollar does less for us."

Those who fail to give a fair day's work for a fair day's pay do contribute to inflation, by increasing unnecessarily the costs of finished products.

'Florodora'

(Brantford Expositor)

It was in November, 1900, that the curtain of the Casino Theatre, in New York, rose on a musical show called "Florodora," which had been brought over from London. Today the comedy is mainly a memory, although there is a legend about the beauty of the Florodora girls and the song, "Tell Me, Pretty Maiden", is still good on records. Also, alas, people will persist in misspelling it "Floradora".

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain; for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain. Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work: but the seventh day is the sabbath of the Lord thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle nor thy stranger that is within thy gates:

For in six days the Lord made heaven and earth the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the Lord blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it (Ex. 20: 7, 11.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Bless the Lord, O my soul: and all that is within me, bless his holy name....Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases....He made known his ways unto Moses, his acts unto the children of Israel. (Ps. 103: 1, 3, 7.)

✧ ✧ ✧

For the law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ. (John 1: 17.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And, behold, there was a certain man before him which had the dropsy. And Jesus answering spake unto the lawyers and Pharisees, saying, Is it lawful to heal on the sabbath day? And they held their peace. And he took him, and healed him, and let him go; and answered them, saying, Which of you shall have an ass or an ox fallen into a pit, and will not straightway pull him out on the sabbath day? (Luke 14: 2-5.)

Say Hutterites Won't Fight To Defend U.S.

By LOU BABB

AUGUSTA, Mont., Jan. 2 (AP)—A leader of the Hutterite religious sect says "We could not raise a hand" if the United States were invaded. "All we could do is pray to God to help us."

The Rev. Joseph J. Kleinsasser, head of the Milford colony near here, was interviewed Monday as a storm raged in Montana over whether young men of the sect should be subject to the military draft.

Last week, the Pondera County Draft Board resigned because two Hutterites classified as non-combatants two years ago have not yet been called. Two other boards also have threatened to quit.

Mr. Kleinsasser said the Hutterites believe in supporting the government in everything except a war effort.

"In Canada in the Second World War, they put our young men in work camps," he said, "and they did that in this country, too. We can do work that doesn't have anything to do with fighting, but we can't bear arms.

Won't Wear Uniform

"If they should decide to classify our young men as non-combatants or for comoat duty, they will refuse to wear the uniform or carry guns.

"We can't even buy Victory Bonds, because they help out the war. When they came around last time and asked us to buy them, we gave money for the poor and needy instead."

The Federal Bureau of Investigation is considering whether the Hutterites can be classified as conscientious objectors and thus be made exempt from military duty.

The sect, formed in Moravia in 1528 by Jacob Hutter, spread to the United States in 1877, when about 70 members settled in South Dakota. Now there are about 2,500 in this country and Canada. There are 900 in Montana in 11 colonies.

Asked how the members settled differences among themselves, Mr. Kleinsasser said:

"We are not supposed to quarrel, but you know how some people are. We try to settle everything peacefully before the sun sets.

"If the whole world was like us there wouldn't be any war."

Dr. E. H. Wood Scores 8-End

Dr. Edward H. Wood, FACS, Ottawa, scored the first eight-end in the two-year history of Rideau Curling Club last Friday night. His victim was Dave McCann of the Ottawa Curling Club.

Dr. Wood was active in sports in his youth in Peterborough, especially in supporting hockey and football teams. Of his eight-ender, the Ottawa Journal believes that it was the first in the history of the city bonspiel.

The end resolved itself into a duel between the two skips for a button position, with Rideau irons lying around the rings. McCann twice reached inside scoring position, but Dr. Wood took out both, one after the other, and lay shot with all his rinks irons counting.

Their Peterborough friends will be interested in another item from the same issue of the Journal showing that Mrs. Wood is also a skip with a rink entered into a Rideau ladies' club bonspiel beginning today.

Dr. Wood is consulting surgeon at Ottawa Civic Hospital.

King George Awards Cripps One of Highest Honors

LONDON, Jan. 2 (Reuters) — Sir Stafford Cripps, who wrecked his health in his efforts to solve Britain's economic problems, has been awarded one of the most select honors the King can bestow.

The former chancellor of the exchequer—known as Mr. Austerity—was created a Companion of Honor in King George's New Year honors list published Monday.

The Companionship of Honor was set up by the late King George V for men and women who have done distinguished work of national importance. It has been held by Winston Churchill since 1922 and by Premier Attlee since 1945.

The order, which carries no title, is limited to 65 members. It also was awarded today to Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies of Australia.

Cripps resigned as Britain's economic chief Oct. 17. He now is in a Swiss sanatorium for treatment of an internal ailment.

Also On List

Also on today's honors list is Ninette de Valois, director of the Sadlers Wells ballet, now winding up its second dollar-earning tour of the United States and Canada. She now may call herself "Dame" (of the Order of the British Empire).

She was one of 89 women on the honors list.

Musical composer William Walton was created a knight, and poet Siegfried Sassoon was made a Commander of the Order of the British Empire (CBE).

The order of merit, restricted to only 24 members, was bestowed on Sir Alexander Cadogan, who headed Britain's delegation to the United Nations until last summer.

3 New Members

The King appointed three new members to his Privy Council, which advises him on high constitutional affairs.

They are: Sir Owen Sixon, Australian high court judge who served as United Nations mediator in the Kashmir dispute; Baron Macdonald of Gwaenysgor, who as Sir Gordon Macdonald was the last governor of Newfoundland, now part of Canada; and the Earl of Drogheda, deputy speaker of the House of Lords.

Dr. Christopher Hiton, connected with a new atomic research plant in Northern England, was one of 27 knight bachelor created in Britain. Eighteen more were created in the Commonwealth and the colonies.

Cicely Courtneidge, a British musical comedy star, was made a Commander of the Order of the British Empire, as were Joan Cross, soprano and Herbert Wilcox, British film producer.

Humble men and women of Britain were also recognized by the King.

Among them was Mrs. Fanny Thorne, an 88-year-old farm worker, who stacked eight acres of barley single handed in 11½ hours. She was awarded the British Empire Medal.

Suggest U.S. Build Up War Grain Reserves

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—(AP)—A group of farm and economic experts Monday urged the United States government to build up the country's grain reserves for emergency use in case of war.

Declaring that "only the luck of experimental crops saved us from food disaster" during the Second World War, an agricultural policy committee of the National Planning Association said in a statement:

"We cannot gamble on getting the same kind of weather in the fifties as in the forties. A prudent storage policy should prepare for a series of grain crops well below those of the last several years."

The National Planning Association is a private non-profit group whose purpose is planning in agriculture, business and other lines.

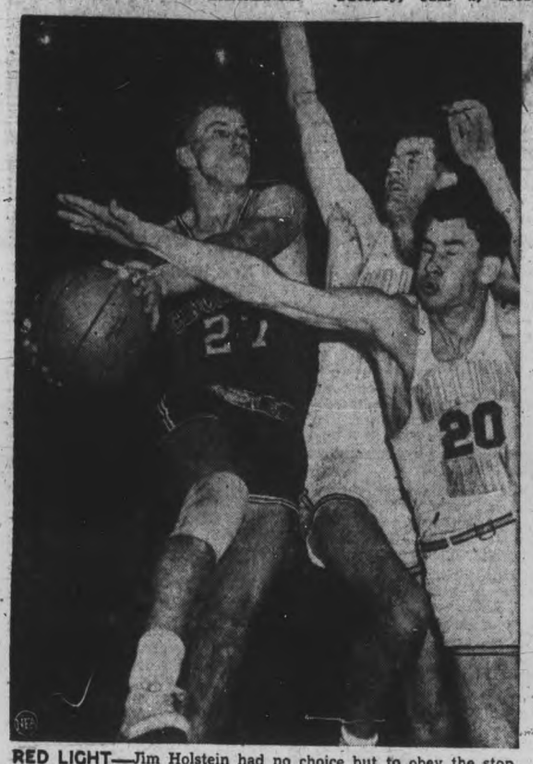
Dad struts his stuff when the children beg for a backyard rink. Why, he's an old hand at it! A bit of healthful exercise, then he stands back proudly to eye his handiwork. Loud applause from the younger set rings in his ear!



Then Dad gets the urge to don his old skates. Before long, he's circling about gracefully, amid admiring stares from his astonished offspring.

Yes, it's all wholesome fun—the kind that means relaxation, lots of good fresh air, and healthy exercise for the whole family.

Oshawa Edges Links, 6-4 To Tighten "B" Puck Race

Oshawa Bees came up with one of their better games at home last night in the junior "B" hockey derby to gain a 6-4 decision over the league-leading Oddfellows for their sixth win of the season.

A bad second period proved costly to IOOF who played somewhat below form in this frame, though they came back strongly in the final minutes to almost pull defeat out of the fire with two goals whilst holding their rivals scoreless for the final 28 minutes of play.

Tighten Race

Bees' win further tightens an already extremely close race as the Motor City boys now have 12 points to tie Belleville Rockets for third place three points behind Oddfellows and Lindsay Kinsmen, each tied with 15 points, to date. The latter two teams meet Friday night at Civic Arena.

Oddfellows opened the first frame with two fine tallies early from the sticks of Clapper and Buckton, the former on a long low shot just inside the enemy blue line on a passout from Wyatt. Buckton, who fired two sizzling goals, combined nicely with Ray Douglas 15 seconds later close in to give IOOF a good start.

Oshawa fought back with gusto led by Ted De Gray, starry centre on the second line who scored two and held a 3-2 margin to end the first. Continuing a strong offensive in the second, Bees enjoyed a good margin in territorial play, though IOOF were outlucked a few times and Lawrence, Deeth and Hexton found the range with Oddfellows unable to dent the mesh.

Back in Form

Bun Kingdon's battling crew played up to form in the third frame and dominated play in the final minutes as Ab Buckton and Dean West scored nice tallies with Doris, Wasson and Wyatt each lending a hand and the whole crew showing a new lease on life. Bees' early margin stood them in good stead, as they edged out an important and hard-earned victory.

De Gray, Haxton, Etcher, Chiroski, Wilson and Lawrence were outstanding for Bees; while, Armstrong, Buckton, Douglas, Doris, West and Brian Robinson were the pick of the league-leaders in last night's battle.

Mythical Team Of All-Stars In Half Century

(Fred Maybee starts one of several articles today on his selection of an all-star Canadian hockey team of the past half-century. Those disagreeing with him may send in their own selections for publication. Fred's actual choices will be listed in the next few aeticles.)

What is the strongest possible hockey team that could be assembled of players up to 1950?

Last summer we brought together a mythical all-star baseball team that met with favor with many fans. Stars of both major leagues over a long period of time were considered and their relative merits weighed at their respective positions. We reached the conclusion that out of the thousands of names, one great team could be assembled that would, barring accidents, probably go undefeated over an entire season. This team included Bill Dickey, great former Yankee star behind the plate; the immortals Mathewson, Johnson, Alexander, and Grove on the hill; Gehrig at first, Gehringer at second, Traynor at third, and Wagner at short. Then the outfield, of course, with Cobb, Speaker, and Ruth. It is hard to believe that a stronger team than this could be produced in he next century. Connie Mack would, of course, handle the squad. He was a fine psychologist, respected by players and fans alike.

Well now, what about hockey?

NHL Is Young

Although Canada's national winter game has been played over 50 years, the National League as we know it has been in existence but little over half that time. Many great stars of yesteryear like Fred (Cyclone) Taylor, the older Patricks, Duke Keats, Rusty Crawford, Joe Hall, Alfie Phillips, Joe Malone, Hod Stuart, Newsy Lalonde, and others have not the appeal in major rating perhaps to younger fans as have some of the modern stars like Syl Apps, Morenz, Cowley, Clancy, Shore, Richard, Nighbor, Dye, the Cooks, and a hundred more. Though the game has expanded and assumed a more colorful all-round appeal, we nevertheless feel that the old-time stars were just as brilliant, if not more so, than those of today and the recent past. Even though their sphere of activity was more limited and their names not as widely known in their day as stars of today are in ours, we will therefore try to consider the merits of all performers past and present for the purposes of this selection regardless of the company in which they played, or when.

Naturally, it will be hard to please everyone. If your choice at any position differs from ours, let us hear about it.

As in baseball, we were fortunate to see many of hockey's great stars and super-stars around different part of the country over the past three decades or more. No man has seen them all. But of those we have not seen we have heard and read much, and feel we can give a fair estimate of their several abilities.

This team will have 14 men, a manager and coach, and should, barring accidents, play 70 games without defeat, even under the new rules.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

So, it's 1951, the holiday season being all cleaned up, and the winter's grind coming up. Hefty hockey action from now on, with the first OHA senior "B" game of the year here tomorrow eve at Civic Arena at 8.30. It's Belleville Redmen vs. the Petes, and the revamped Redmen, who made Eagles hustle plenty last week on local ice, may down the Jopling bunch. But the latter puckists are hungry and hustling since being nudged out of first place by the Eagles, and they'll do their darndest to defeat the Quinte crew. It should be a fine senior fray to start off '51, and likely a big crowd will take in the action.

* * * * * *

Canadian Press poll named Edmonton Grads as Canada's outstanding basketball team for the half century. While some scribes named certain years, most of 'em just said: "Edmonton Grads—any year." And that's for sure. An amazing team of girl cagers over a long period, defeating the best in the world with montonous regularity. A crowd of 3,500 saw them perform here back in '36 at the Exhibition Grounds under lights, as they were starting out for Europe. They waltzed through a Peterborough all-star team to win by nearly 100 points. Percy Page's peerless cagers disbanded about a decade ago, but they won't be forgotten in our time.

* * * * * *

Big Train All Alone

And the poll on the country's outstanding athlete for 50 years was a runaway for Lionel Conacher. The Big Train, now a Toronto M.P., had it all to himself. We saw him playing ball here for the Hillcrests in the 20s and hockey at the Brock for a Toronto senior squad. The big guy didn't learn to skate till he was 16, yet went on to play on two Stanley Cup teams. Yes, we were at the Gardens the night he helped Maroons knock Leafs off in the final game, Conacher being like a second—or roving—goalie. He had the size, speed and a great competitive spirit in all lines of sports.

* * * * * *

Remember Conny here the night fiery little Ernie Legon crowded the awkward-skating defenceman into the corner? The crowd jeered Lionel, who looked at his tormentor, then grinned and moved away. But a bit later, husky Frankie Collins tried to clip him him along the boards and Conacher—deciding enough was enough—promptly flattened him on the ice. No one bothered him after that. He was light-heavy boxing champ of Canada, and it took about four tacklers to pull him down when he got rolling on the grid-iron. Ted Reeve says he was the best athlete all-around, but hardly tops in football—yet a Cornell coach said if Conny had been playing in the States he would have been all-time All-American. He played lacrosse and many other games, and was an outstanding star in them all.

* * * * * *

To Start Arguments

Fred Maybee has given us his opinion on the all-star hockey team of the half century. Because of it's length, we'll run it in several articles. He picked an all-time all-star ball team last summer and we agreed with most of it. Though not his choice of Ruth over Cobb, as the latter's records prove him a much better all-around player than the colorful Bambino. Some may disagree with Fred's puck choices, and they're welcome to send in selections of their own. Seldom can anything be proven by these mythical all-star selections as rules and times change, but they often start a lot of arguments and revive pleasant memories—if nothing else.

* * * * * *

Junior "B" Oddfellows—remind us tomorrow and we'll tell you of an interesting exhibition tilt they had the other day with the Old Petes—dropped a toughie in Oshawa last gloaming. Started a bit slow and came on fast later but were stung by the Bees 6-4. However, Bun Kingdon's bunch are still tied for top spot with Lindsay (these teams tangle here Friday) with Oshawa and Belleville tied just back of 'em by three points. Quite a scramble, eh? Buckton, Douglas, Armstrong, Brian Robinson, West and Doris, were the pick of the Peterborough juniors in this lively joust. The boys can rest now till this week-end but then a stern task faces them. As it does Lindsay, too.

CITY CARPETBALL

We resume activities after the holiday season and the schedule for the week of January 1 is repeated: Legion No. 7 vs SOE No. 8; Glens No. 6 vs Legion No. 5; St. George's No. 10 vs Fire Hall No. 9; LOL No. 2 vs St. Luke's No. 1; and Quakers No. 4 vs Legion No. 3. The schedule for the week of January 8 is: Legion No. 3 vs St. George's No. 10; SOE No. 8 vs St. Luke's No. 1; Legion No. 5 vs LOL No. 2; Legion No. 7 vs Quakers No. 4; and Fire Hall No. 9 vs Glens No. 6.

Results of the final games of the first half:

The Southend Saints invaded the "Old Citadel" and caught the defending Sons unprepared, although they gave St. George's a strong fight. The first game was tied in the fourth frame, then the Southends collected in three out of the next five ends and were leading 11-8 when the Sons came back with a four to go ahead 12-11 and then St. George's scored a big one in the final end to deadlock at 12-all. The second game was St. George's all the way and they won it 13-8 thereby taking three points away from SOE.

Legion No. 7 was at home to Legion No. 5 and two close games resulted. The first one was tied twice, in the fifth and seventh frames, but the Old Sweats proved too good, for the Big Bens in the rest of the game to take it by a narrow margin of 12-9. The second game was also closely fought being deadlocked three times, but this time the Big Bens proved the stronger finishers taking the game 12-8.

The third match of the week was fought at the Legion Hall between Legion No. 3 and LOL No. 2 and the Legionnaires went down to defeat twice before the Orangemen's White Charger but not without a battle. Scores of the games 12-10, 11-9.

The Glens had as their opponents Quakers No. 4 and the Glens lost six ends to the Full-O-Pep team by singles taking the balance of the ends and the game 10-6. The second game saw the Quakers come from behind and tie it up in the fifth frame, but the "up and at them" Glens went to work and onl allowed the Pep team to score two more singles while they banged home a 6, 3, 2 and 2 singles to take the game 19-8 and sweep the match 4-0.

St. Luke's No. 1 were the guests of the Somekeaters and the East City boys being without gas masks were under a handicap and while they fought hard and almost pulled the first game out of the fire, they lost it 17-11.

First Half Standing

The second game was the Fire Fighters all the way, final score 22-4.

	W	L	T	P	Av
Fire Hall No. 9	9	5	4	22	56
Glens No. 6	11	7	0	22	53
LOL No. 2	9	6	3	21	50
St. George's 10	9	7	2	20	55
SOE No. 8	9	7	2	20	53
Legion No. 5	9	7	2	20	48
Quakers No. 4	9	8	1	19	53
Legion No. 3	7	7	4	18	51
Legion No. 7	7	11	0	14	44
St. Luke's No. 1	2	16	0	4	40

The standing has changed with new teams moving into the lead positions, but the race is so close that the top eight teams are separated from top to bottom by only four points.

Bill Wilson has gone back to Toronto for further treatment on his injured hand. The schedule for the President's Cup will be run next week.

Baptie Curlers Capture Examiner Cup

By HERB. MARTIN.

Harry Baptie's rink of R. Hayden, H. Thompson, and F. Ferguson won the Examiner Trophy and first prize in the curling bonspiel here Saturday, one which drew a capacity 28 rinks. The Baptie quartet was high for three wins, but followed closely by Dr. Cliff McKee, last year's winner. Other three-game victors were K. Bissett and George Gobel, as Jim Dutton was high for two games, and V. Brown for one.

Keen competition prevailed from 9 a.m. till out in the evening. Three Keene rinks and the local curlers served up some excellent curling, the 'spiel being of schedule calibre, though some younger players were in it, too. The committee handled it all well.

Tonight, it is schedule games, with Wednesday night being for the Neill Trophy. The results on Saturday:

The Winners

First and Examiner Trophy — R. Hayden, H. Thompson, C. Ferguson, H. Baptie, skip.
Second—Dr. Worton, L. Reynolds, P. McArthur, Dr. McKee, skip.
Third—R. Buchanan, H. Woodcock, C. Johnson, K. Bissett, skip.
Fourth—C. Coones, L. Bissett, E. Lowes, G. Gabel, skip.

Louis Meets Beshore In Comeback Try

By CHARLES C. CAIN.

DETROIT, Jan. 2 (AP). —Joe Louis, former heavyweight boxing champion, and young Freddy Beshore of Harrisburg, Pa., have only one thing in common and they'd like to forget about it.

The painful memories involve the seaback each suffered this year at the hands of Ezzard Charles, current heavyweight king.

Louis was especially pained by the loss to Charles—suffered in a title fight Sept. 27. He immediately hit the comeback trail again with his sights set on the possibility of another crack at Charles.

Beshore, stopped by Charles in the 14th round of a bloody scrap Aug. 15, also cherishes hopes of getting a return bout with the champ.

The hopes of Louis and Beshore cross here tomorrow night when they meet in a 10-rounder, with the International Boxing Club hinting that the winner will meet Charles.

It will be step No. 2 on Louis' latest comeback effort which got under way Nov. 29 when he won a decision over Cesar Brion of Argentina at Chicago.

4-1 Favorite

Fight followers—of whom about 10,000 are expected to throng Olympia Stadium for the bout — have installed Louis a 4-1 favorite over the navy veteran.

They based their calculations on Louis' gym workouts last week in which he battered his sparring partners with all his old time ferocity.

Beshore matches—and perhaps surpasses—Louis in his lack of love for Charles.

Said Beshore: "My fight with Charles was postponed three times before it finally was held. I had him in a bad way when they stopped the fight and gave him the decision because I had a cut ear."

The 25-year-old Beshore will give away about 25 pounds to Louis—the Harrisburg fighter expects to come in at 185—but is 11 years younger than the former champ.

Pair Break Record For 3rd Wicket Stand

SYDNEY, Austarlia, Jan. 2 (Reuters)—Len Hutton with 150 and Reg Simpson with 155 not out, broke the England record for a third wicket stand against New South Wales today when putting on 236 runs.

Their sparkling partnership came only three days before the third cricket test, to be played on the same ground.

Largely to the pair's efforts, the English tourists ended the third day's play with a first-innings lead of 48 runs and seven wickets in hand.

The English side had then scored 381 for three, in answer to the 333 of New South Wales when play ended.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Nineteen-year-old Joe Culmone and Willie Shoemaker wound up all even for 1950 United States national riding honors in a duel that didn't end until the waning hours of the old year.

They each booted home three winners on foreign tracks Sunday and ended with 388 for the year after the tightest race on record. The jockeys also tied the 44-year-old national mark set by Walter Miller.

There is no Sunday racing in the United States so both had to fly to widely-separated tracks to battle right to the last hours.

Culmone rode in all eight races at Havana, Cuba, and Shoemaker rode the entire card of 11 events at Agua Caliente, Mexico. Culmone flew from Florida and Shoemaker from New Orleans for the final day.

The final standing, plus Miller's 1906 record:

	Mts.	1st	2nd	3rd
Shoemaker	1634	388	263	229
Culmone	1674	388	280	219
Miller	1384	388	300	199

The Florida division of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association Sunday at Miami unanimously accepted an offer of a $40,000 increase in purse distribution at Tropical Park race course and called off its proposed strike that would have become efective Tuesday.

The HBPA's 10-man executive committee and Nathan E. Herzfeld, president of Tropical Park, conferred after a two-hour meeting of some 200 members of the association. Herzfeld offered to increase purses $200 a race retroactive to Dec. 23.

Minor league baseball is planning an all-out celebration of its first half century in 1951—if the world situation permits.

President George M. Trautman of the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs (the minors), says complete plans have been made for the "Golden Jubilee" season.

"It is possible that present plans may require revision," he said at Columbus, Ohio, "but as of this moment not one league of the 57 which finished the 1950 season has notified us of its intention to quit. All leagues plan to operate in 1951."

Minor league officials expect more than 400 baseball clubs to help out with the celebration.

"Each city," said Trautman, "will make its own program, but all will follow the general 'Golden Anniversary' idea."

Australian champion Frank Sedgman defeated Art Larsen, United States champion, at Adelaide, Australia, Monday for the South Australian singles tennis title. Sedgman won 6-2, 6-1, 6-3.

Bolero, a 6-to-1 shot, outran 12 rivals to capture the $50,000 San Carlos Handicap Monday before a New Year's Day gathering of 38,000 at Santa Anita. Your Host, the favorite, ran second. Eddie Arcaro bootde Bolero home in 1.21 flat, a world record for seven furlongs. The old mark of 1:21.2 was held by Ky Colonel at 1.21 2-5.

Jim Konstanty, ace relief hurler of Philadelphia Phillies, has been voted the outstanding athlete of 1950 by the Philadelphia Sports Writers' Association. Konstanty was the National League's most valuable player award winner.

Chicago White Sox outfielder Marv Rickert, who hit .237 last season, was sold Saturday to Baltimore of the International League. The amount of money involved was not disclosed.

Sam Jethroe, outfielder for Boston Braves and the National League's "rookie of the year," is nursing a broken hand today. Jethroe hurt his right hand while closing a garage door at his home in Erie, Pa.

TVL-ers Ready To Go

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 2 — (ENS). — Games for the first three days of the schedule of the TVL have been announced by the president of the league. They are:

Jan. 3—Norwood v. Brinton, at Hastings.
Campbellford at Marmora.
St. Peter's at Stirling.
Jan. 5—Brinton at Campbellford.
Stirling at Norwood.
Marmora at St. Peter's.
Jan. 8—Norwood at Campbellford.
Marmora at Stirling.
St. Peter's at Brinton.

Due to the fact that it is difficult for Peterborough teams to obtain ice for their home games, some of these will be played temporarily at Hastings. Just how long this arrangement will be carried out is not known.

The TVL schedule this year is a packed one, and it is hoped the natural ice rinks will hold out until the season is over.

Injury-Riddled Leafs Halt Detroit's Runaway

By EDGAR SIMON,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

The advance billing called for Detroit Red Wings to run away and hide from the rest of the National Hockey League over New Year's weekend. But something went wrong.

The Wings, riding an 11-game unbeaten streak, squared off with the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs, a team of cripples with five men out of action and others on the limp, for a home-and-home series.

The consensus of Toronto and Detroit observers was that the Detroiters were lucky to finish the weekend where they started it—a single point ahead of the battling Toronto crew.

Terry Sawchuk's brilliant goaltending was chiefly responsible for a 3-1 Detroit victory in Toronto Saturday night. But even Sawchuk couldn't save the Wings from a 4-2 beating in Detroit on Sunday.

A three-way tie developed for third place among Chicago Black Hawks, Montreal Canadiens and Boston Bruins. Hawks and Canadiens tied 3-3 New Years night after the Montrealers had beaten the fading Hawks 4-3 Saturday. Boston split two decisions with the last-place New York Rangers losing 3-0 at New York Sunday and edging the Rangers 3-2 Monday night at home.

Injury-Riddled

Leafs went into the weekend without two regular centres—Ted Kennedy and Cal Gardner—and had Max Bentley, their third regular pivot-man banged up Saturday night to the point where he was below form for the second tilt. Wingman Howie Meeker was on the shelf, and two other forwards — Joe Klukay and Sid Smith—were hampered by injuries. Defenceman Hugh Bolton and Bill Juzda also sat out both games.

Bobby Hassard and Chuck Blair two amateur centres, filled in, with Hassard setting up Tod Sloan's tally in the Saturday game. Metro Prystai, Gord Howe and Syd Abel were the Detroit goalgetters, Abel shooting the puck into an empty net when Leaf goalie Turk Broda was pulled for an extra forward in the last minute of play.

Young John McCormack, a centre from Edmonton, who sees offensive action rarely when Leafs are at full strength, was the star of the Sunday game, driving in two goals and feeding passes to Fleming Mackell and Harry Watson for the others. Jim McFadden and Jim Peters were the Detroit scorers.

The Black Hawks, winless in their last eight games, fought hard to keep their hold on the third rung. Maurice Richard's second goal and tally by Elmer Lach robbed them of victory Saturday night after Roy Conacher's two goals and a third by Doug Bentley had given them a 3-2 lead at the end of two frames. Rookie Vern Kaiser scored the fourth Canadien goal.

Do Their Best

The Hawks were fighting from behind all the way in Chicago Monday night. Defenceman Lee Fogolin earned them their tie with an early third-period marker. Lach, Richard and Doug Harvey shot the Montrealers into the lead, but Chicago tied it up every time, with Gus Bodnar and Bep Guidolin firing Hawks' earlier tallies.

The Rangers, chronic cellar-dwellers since the season opened, came within a point of fifth place when they blanked the Bruins before the largest home crowd of the season—14,327 cheering fans—on New Year's Eve.

It was Chuck Rayner's second shutout of the season and was also featured by a brace of goals by Nick Mickoski. Edgar Laprade scored Rangers' third goal just 32 seconds after the game started.

Veteran Bill Quackenbush fed passes to his brother, Max, and to captain Milt Schmidt in the third period to give the Bruins their edge Monday night. Vic Lynn was the other Boston marksman while Mickoski and defenceman Pat Egan were the Ranger goal-getters.

Irish Trip Dutchmen, Tie For First

By The Canadian Press.

The crowds at Ontario Hockey Association major series games generally are small Saturday afternoons. The past weekend was no exception. Even Toronto St. Michael's Monarchs had gaps in their ranks. Playing with just 11 Irishmen in uniform, St. Mikes defeated Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen 6-2 and clambered back into a first-place tie with Toronto Marlboros.

Marlies can regain sole possession of the circuit's top spot with a victory over the Tigers in Hamilton tonight.

The victory for the shorthanded Saints avenged a 6-3 defeat at the hands of the Dutchies Friday night.

Coach Johnny (Peanuts) O'Flaherty said after the game, "we were lucky to even have enough men to make up a team." During the fixture O'Flaherty did a fair job of filling the holes in his injury-riddled ranks with a two-goal effort in the first period to match two for the Dutchies by Harvey Jacklin. Other scorers for the Monarchs were Ken Watson, Bill McCracken, Jack Meldrum and Gord Hannigan.

In the OHA's 10-team junior race the front-running Toronto Marlboros defeated St. Catharines Teepees 2-1 and Windsor Spitfires beat Toronto St. Mikes 3-1 in a Sunday doubleheader. In Saturday games Oshawa Generals won over Stratford Kroehlers 4-2 and Guelph Biltmores defeated Waterloo Hurricanes 6-2.

Third Victory

The Marlies moved five goals ahead of their nearest rivals with their third straight victory. Earl Balfour scored the winning goal while St. Kitts was shorthanded. Chuck Lumsden got Marlies other counter and Jim Robertson knocked in Teepees' goal.

As a result of their victory in the first half of the doubleheader Windsor moved up into a second-place tie with Barrie Flyers who have spent the last few days playing exhibition games. Ed Joss, Earl Johnson and Eldor Thomas scored for Spits and Jack Weldrake for the Collegians.

Guelph took over fourth place with its victory over the hapless Hurricanes, now 27 games without a win. Guelph goal-getters were Ken Laufman with three, Chuck Henderson with two and Ron Murphy. Fred Pletsch and Claude Watters tallied for Waterloo.

Oshawa Generals created a three-way tie with St. Catharines and Galt for fifth place by downing Stratford. Alex Delvecchio, the loop's leading point getter, tallied twice for Oshawa with Rio Caron and Gordon Boniface getting the others. Stratford scorers were Bob Bailey and Gord Myles.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Detroit's star right wing, Gordie Howe, moved into the individual scoring leadership of the National Hockey League during the New Year's weekend, one point ahead of Max Bentley of Toronto.

Bentley has failed to gather a point in three games and Howe picked up a goal and an assist in two games. He now has 14 goals and 23 assists for 37 points. Bentley has 14 goals and 22 assists for 36. Thus Howe also tops the assist department.

In third place is Toronto's Tod Sloan with 31 points while Cal Gardner of the Maple Leafs, who has failed to count in two games, is fourth with 30 points.

Tony Leswick of New York Rangers picked up a minor, a major and a misconduct penalty in two games against Boston Bruins to take over the bad-man honors. Leswick now has spent 70 minutes in the cooler—one more than Toronto's Gus Mortson.

Mythical Watson Mystifies ConanDoyleFans

By ALVIN STEINKOPF.

LONDON — (AP). — Remember Dr. Watson, who used to ask Sherlock Holmes foolish questions? Who was always flabbergasted by the keenness of the master detective's deductive processes?

A lot of persons have thought Dr. Watson was just an invention of author Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

But if he isn't alive, and real, there is something suspicious about the letters-from-readers column of the Times. Because over the signature of Dr. Watson there was a protest recently about the unfeeling action of the Council of Marylebone, the London borough which manages Baker Street, where the detective reputedly did his master-minding at No. 221B.

The Council rejected a suggestion that some sort of a Sherlock Holmes museum be set up as an attraction of the Festival of Britain next year.

Dr. Watson, who gave no address, was indignant. He wrote that he hoped "second and better thoughts will prevail." He also declared Sherlock Holmes is still alive, but "so absorbed with beekeeping in Sussex" that he has not heard about the Council's wretched behavior.

Fun For Correspondents

The Watson communication brought a rash of other letters, one signed with the name of "Kate Whitney," who figured in the Sherlock Holmes thriller, "The Case of the Man With the Twisted Lip."

Then came a letter from a woman who said she had been Holmes' landlady at 221B. She suggested there must be a lot of worthy Holmes relics kicking about. She said there ought to be a search for his cherrywood pipe, his cloak and his deerstalker, which is the sort of a hat a deerstalker wears.

And sure enough, relics are turning up. Robert H. Sharp, who is councillor on the very Council which did not like the museum idea, said he has Holmes' famous violin.

Councillor Tom Vernon of Marylebone, who had chilled the museum suggestion, wrote to defend himself, and indicated the Council may reconsider its action.

Holmes fans are not discouraged at all by the fact there is no such London address as No. 221B Baker Street.

Youth Wounded Under Peculiar Circumstances

Mrs. Ruth McGregor, 22, 109 Hunter St. E., has been arrested by police on a charge of giving false information to the police in connection with the wounding early Monday morning of Russell Sutton, 21, who boards with Mrs. McGregor. She was remanded in police court today to January 4. Bail was set at $1,000.

Police are waiting for doctor's permission to get a statement from Sutton who was reported by hospital authorities this morning to be in good condition.

Sutton was shot through the lower left arm. There are four bullet holes through the sleeve of Sutton's short station wagon coat. The sleeve of the shirt he was wearing is saturated in blood.

But police have not yet established where the shot was fired. They have a story from Mrs. McGregor, but are waiting to see how it checks with Sutton's explanation.

A 50-foot trail of blood leads from a few feet south of the garage into the door of the apartment rented by Mrs. McGregor and her husband, and at the rear of 109 Hunter St. E. McGregor was spending the week-end in Port Credit with some relatives.

The first story of how Sutton was shot was told by Mrs. McGregor to police. She said she went with Sutton and another couple, Mr. and Mrs. James Goodman, 12 Edgewater Blvd., to the Aragon Club to the New Year's dance.

While there Sutton kept wandering away from the party. Mrs. McGregor herself kept asking a policeman on duty at the dance to dance with her.

About 2.30 a.m. she said she drove Mrs. Goodman home and then returned to the dance for the two men. About 3.30 a.m. they decided to return home. Sutton and Mrs. McGregor went out to the car while Goodman went into the washroom in the club.

As Sutton was unlocking the car door he had his left hand on the top of the car. Suddenly a shot rang out and Sutton said "Someone's shooting at us!"

They both jumped in the car and crouched down. Goodman soon came out and they drove away. Goodman asked why Sutton was crouched down on the seat and Mrs. McGregor told him Sutton was just feeling pretty good and was taking a little rest.

They told him nothing about the shooting. After dropping Goodman off at his home, Mrs. McGregor continued, they drove to their home on Hunter St. They then decided to go to Dr. Herbert Young, but could get no one at his office so they drove to St. Joseph's Hospital.

St. Joseph's Hospital officials notified police about 5.15 a.m.

SECOND BABY born in Peterborough on New Year's Day was a girl, (TOP) daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Clinton of 39 Hunter St. E. She was born at St. Joseph's Hospital at 2:05 a.m., and weighed eight pounds, three ounces. The third baby (LOWER) was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mullins of 501 Murray St. He arrived on Monday evening at the Peterborough Civic Hospital at 8:55 p.m., and weighed eight pounds, one ounce.

Others bowled while some used the swimming pool and the billiard table.

Kenneth Kingston, Gordon Dobbin and the YMCA staff welcomed the members. Refreshments, coffee, tea and cookies were served by other members of the physical committee, George Scott, D. A. Loomis and Jack Gillespie, chairman of the committee.

New Year Babies Add Three To Population

The population of Peterborough increased on New Year's Day by the very small decimal figure of .008 when three new citizens were born in city hospitals.

The first to arrive was a boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Driscoll of 470 Park St. N. The stork was considerably past midnight, 1:17 a.m., and the young fellow weighed six pounds, seven ounces. His mother was confined at St. Joseph's Hospital and at the same institution, the number two arrival cried her first at 205 a.m. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Clinton of 39 Hunter t., E., and weighed eight pounds, three ounces.

Many hours elapsed before Mster Three arrived, a boy to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mullins of 501 Murray St., at 8:55 on Monday evening.

Infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Maxwell of 651 Frank t., came closest of all to being the city's New Year baby. She was born at St. Joseph's five minutes before midnight on Sunday and weighed six pounds, five ounces.

Two Groggy From Gas Fumes

Firemen used an inhalator Saturday night on a Peterborough mother and her two-month-old baby after coal gas fumes had made them groggy.

Mrs. Guy Chimenti, 487 Murray St., and her baby daughter Mary Louise, both had an inhalator used on them for a couple of minutes early Saturday night. Apart from a headache Mrs. Chimenti had no ill effects and Mary Louise is fine.

Neither mother nor daughter were overcome by the fumes but firemen administered oxygen just to be on the safe side.

Mrs. Chimenti was alone in the house with her four children — Peter, 9; Jo Anne, 7; Paul, 5, and two-month-old Mary Louise. She smelt the gas and asked Peter to phone and tell her husband who works downtown. He in turn called the fire department.

"No, we weren't overcome," Mrs. Chimenti told the Examiner. 'All that was wrong with me was a headache. It could have been fatal though if the fumes had continued while we slept."

Gift Service Held For Mission Children

MILLBROOK, Jan. 2 (ENS). — A special white gift service was held Sunday in St. Andrew's United Church for the benefit of sick children in mission hospitals. The special collection taken in addition to the regular offering amounted to more than $100.

The Sunday school marched in in a body and occupied the front seats. Frances Elson and Marlyn Husser, dressed in white nurses' uniforms, stood at each side of a child's cot in which the white gift basket was placed. The Sunday school children placed their gift envelopes in the basket. Then it was carried by Glenn Fallis and Bernard Ingham to the door where they held it for the congregation to put in their gifts as they went out.

Readings were given by David McKnight from the primary department, Muriel Mae Husser from the juniors and Helen Ingham from the intermediates.

Mrs. Lawrence Winslow sang a solo, and Mrs. G. A. Spicer took the solo part in the anthem.

Rev. T. G. Husser, who conducted the service, told the story of a white gift.

Mayor Purchases First License

Mayor M. J. Swanston was the purchaser of the first licence plate issued in Peterborough and district motorists this year.

The plate, S5851 was issued to Mayor Swanston when the Chamber of Commerce opened at 9:15 this morning.

Jim Dorris, issuer for this district, and his staff were kept busy during the day with steady streams of people requesting licence plates and drivers' licences. By 10:30 more than 50 plates had been issued and more than 100 driving licences given out by 11 a.m.

The deadline for both plates and driving licences has not been set by the Motor Vehicles Branch of the Department of Highways, but it is expected that the date will be sometime in mid-March.

Licence plates for doctor, trailer, motorccyles and dual purpose vehicles such as station wagons and suburban vehicles will not be available until January 15.

The delay is due to a shortage of steel.

The thieves entered the property by climbing a wire fence after throwing their toboggan over it. They loaded the bronze ingots onto the toboggan, hauled it 150 yards to the fence, threw the ingots over, then the toboggan, and climbed out themselves.

Cost of Hospitals To City Increased 23 Times In 10 Years Mayor Says

Peterborough hospitals cost the city $230,000 last year as compared with $9,672 ten years ago, Mayor M. J. Swanston emphasized in his address at the inaugural of the council this morning. "This major item of municipal expense has in increased from one-half a mill in 1940 to 5.94 mills in 1950."

"With hospital costs being such an important item in the civic budget, the importance of the responsibilities of the Board of Governors can be appreciated," His Worship commented, prefacing an observation that the residents of the county pay nothing toward the operating deficit of Civic Hospital.

Mayor Swanston remarked that Peterborough had overtaken most of its major projects, directed attention again to the recent lag in the city's industrial expansion.

"In making this my third inaugural address as your Mayor, my task today is pleasant and yet somewhat difficult. It is always most encouraging to feel that as Mayor one has the confidence of the citizens. I am accepting my re-election as an endorsation of the policy I have endeavoured to pursue, that of direct action by Council to meet all problems as they arise."

Welcomes New Aldermen

"It is a pleasure for me to welcome as members of this Council, the two newly-elected Aldermen —Harold Rehill and Norman Graham. By the very success of their candidature at the polls it is clear that they both are held in esteem by the electors.

"The return to the Council of Aldermen Gillespie, Burrows and Young will be particularly helpful in the conduct of city business this year. There is little that is of greater benefit in municipal work than experience, and the training that these Aldermen have secured in the past will be of benefit to the Council.

Few Big Problems

"I found some difficulty in preparing this address. This is because we have so few really difficult municipal problems in Peterborough at this time. Certainly I know of no city in Ontario which, since the war, has done more to grapple successfully with its needs. Project after project which had been planned for many years have, during the past several years, been started and carried to completition. These include: the erection of the new Civic Hospital; the addition to the Sewage Disposal Plant; laying the sewer under the Otonabee River to eliminate the pollution of Little Lake; covering of the Park Street ditch; establishment of many low-rental housing subdivisions; improving street lighting; commencing the building of the new City Hall; extending the system of paved roadways.

"These works, of course, were commenced and completed only with the hearty support of the ratepayers. Not only this Council, but other municipal organizations, have played their part in establishing this record of civic improvements. Both School boards have added extensively to educational facilities, and this year the Board of Education, with the endorsation of the ratepayers, will commence the building of the new Collegiate on Monaghan Road south of Lansdowne Street.

"The Utilities Commission also has fulfilled its part by improving and extending the water works system and our power lines and facilities. The Commission also established the use of propane gas in the city. We are fortunate in having a modern and most satisfactory water works system. I understand that the capacity of the Filteration Plant will be increased greatly this year, when the Commission starts the plant addition which has been planned for several years."

"It is not mere boasting to say that probably the citizens here are receiving better general municipal services than anywhere else in Ontario. However, many of these improvements were financed by debentures and are still to be fully paid for, and this fact is seriously affecting our municipal tax rate at this time."

Need New Industries

"The best means of lightening this burden is to increase the number of taxpayers by securing the establishment of new industries in the city. These new industries not only pay taxes themselves, but also attract new citizens to the city who in turn require homes, on which they will pay municipal taxes. Peterborough has increased its population by 50 per cent. in the past 10 years. Most of this population is now adequately housed, and there is no reason why we should not have a well-organized program to secure new industries. It is probable that this can best be accomplished by the employment of an Industrial Commissioner, on either a full or part-time basis.

"The greatest single problem facing this council is financing the operation of the new Civic Hospital. When attention is directed to the fact that last year a total of $219,268 of city taxes was needed for Civic Hospital purposes, representing a total tax rate of 5.94 mills, it will be realized that this hospital has become a major item of municipal expense. The city in 1950 also spent $10,650 in aid of St. Joseph's Hospital. Ten years ago the city's total expenditure for hospital service was $9,672, representing less than one-half a mill.

"With hospital costs being such an important item in the civic budget, the importance of the responsibilities of the Board of Governors, who are charged with the management and operation of the hospital, can be appreciated. Every decision of that Board has a definite bearing on the tax rate.

New Year's Free Bad Accidents

Not one drunk driver was arrested by either city or provincial police in the whole of the city and the county over the New Year's weekend.

Drivers had been given plenty of warning by both police forces and they apparently took it to heart. There were some minor accidents, but no serious ones. There were two hit-and-run accidents.

"The people of Peterborough are to be congratulated," Chief Constable John Thompson said today.

Driving conditions on side streets in the city and side roads in the county were very slippery. A bright warm sun Sunday melted the snow on roads that had not been worn bare by traffic. Sunday night after the sun went down and the mercury dipped to five degrees above zero many of the roads became almost glare ice.

Most township roads and many county roads were still snow-covered and icy. But highways for the most part were bare and safe for driving.

But despite the treacherous roads, accidents were not excessive. Drivers have either slowed down on the drinking or left their cars at home. Or perhaps they have become more skillful under the influence, but whatever the reason, they are staying out of trouble which is what the police want.

Parent Education Said Getting Good Results

TORONTO —(CP)— Reaction to the parent education work being carried out in Ontario is "exceptionally good," says Mrs. Harry H. Johnson, psychologist at the University of Toronto's Institute of Child Study.

Mrs. Johnson, mother of two adult sons, is one of the experts engaged by the Ontario Education Department's community programmes branch to train lay leaders in parent education work.

She recently gave instruction to 13 parent education leadership groups throughout the province. These groups are made up of persons who afterwards lead study groups of their own. The series is divided into five phases, with one phase being taken each year, and as the series started in 1947 the most advanced groups still have the fifth phase to study.

Five Sections

The five sections are a course on discipline; study of the pre-school child; study of the school-age child; adolescence and, last, family relations.

Discipline, the first part of the course, does not stress punishment but rather the art of fitting individuals into a democratic culture. Mrs. Johnson says this means "developing people who can abide by necessary restrictions and be able to use freedom."

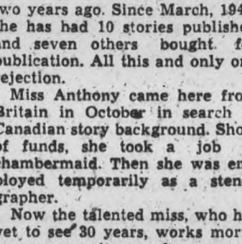
The present system of parent education based on discipline is a relatively new development, she says, made possible because of knowledge gained over the past 15 years on how people develop.

Many teachers and members of church groups are getting enough training in this work, or else they have the theory but do not know how to put it into practice.

B.C. Waitress Talented Author

VANCOUVER —(CP)— Coffee shop patrons and patients in a doctor's waiting room don't know it, but they are being served by a blossoming young writer.

She's Marie Anthony, an actress who switched to writing two years ago. Since March, 1949, she has had 10 stories published and seven others bought for publication. All this and only one rejection.



Miss Anthony came here from Britain in October in search of Canadian story background. Short of funds, she took a job as chambermaid. Then she was employed temporarily as a stenographer.

Now the talented miss, who has yet to see 30 years, works mornings as a waitress, afternoons as a receptionist for one of the city's leading doctors.

Miss Anthony's latest story, "French for Christmas," appears in the December issue of a British women's magazine, "Modern Woman."

Her first story, "The Heroine was Playing," created quite a stir in British literary circles. Noel Coward, for one, heralded her as "one new little English writer."

Price Increase Brings Rush For UK Woollens

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON —(CP)— The first big price-rise in household woollens hit the British housewife in the midst of Christmas shopping.

A 66 2-3-per-cent increase in the price of blankets, scheduled for Jan. 1, sent December's shoppers scurring to the blanket counters. Many stores, sold-out of lower-priced blankets, encountered queries from disappointed customers demanding if this meant that existing supplies were going "under the counter" till prices rose.

"This is an unfair slur on the retailer," said John Ramage, director of the Drapers' Chamber of Trade. "The shopkeeper has nothing to gain by such a method his price margin is always strictly controlled."

Ramage said shops receiving heavy deliveries of blankets in the morning were sold-out within a few hours. "There has been an unprecedented sales rush."

The new prices mean an increase of nearly £2 10s. ($7.50) or single-size blankets and almost £3 10s. on double-size.

Huge Increase

"Blankets sold in 1936 for one guinea will now cost 10 guineas," said S. H. Leake, deputy-chairman of one of the larger chain stores. "We are expecting big sales resistance to the new supplies. At present, young newlyweds who cannot afford an eiderdown, make do with an extra blanket. Now it looks as if many will have to go without the extra blanket."

Another price boost directly affecting the home is the increased cost of knitting wools. Wool costing 10d an ounce in 1942, now cost 2s 1d. and may rise to 2s 3d.

Harold Wilson, president of the Board of Trade, however, announced that price-control—removed from knitting wool in May, 1950—would be re-established Jan. 2. The board is also considering control of manufacturers' prices.

This means that some wool prices will fall, but the board warns: "It does not mean that prices may not rise in the future. Present prices do not yet reflect the full effect of the heavy increases in raw wool prices."

King-Soles

The marriage took place last Wednesday at St. James United Church parsonage by the Rev. F. W. Craik of Margaret Anna youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Soles of Otonabee to Lawrence Elgin King, son of Mrs. Townsend and the late Mr. Elgin King of Palermo.

The bride wore a dress of blue silk crepe with black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Her cousin, Miss Annie Little was bridesmaid wearing a pink crepe and black accessories and corsage of pink roses.

The groomsman was Mr. Ernest Hay brother-in-law of the groom.

A reception was held at the bride's home in Otonabee. Later the couple left for Toronto and points west. On return they will live on Rose Avenue.

Hospital Cost

Appeal To County

"I consider that I would be lax in my duty as Mayor if I did not, at this time, direct the attention of the County residents to the need of their sharing a larger portion of the financing of the Civic Hospital. This hospital is recognized as being much more than a city hospital, and serves a large surrounding area. Each issue of the Examiner carries reports of County residents receiving its care and benefits. Records show that about 30 per cent of the hospital capacity and services are used to treat County patients. The citizens of Peterborough contributed more than 2½ million dollars to the building and equipping of the hospital and in 1950 paid $80,000 toward its operating deficit. So far, the County of Peterborough has contributed $130,000 toward the building of the hospital and guarantee nothing toward financing the annual operating deficit.

"Recent government statistics indicate that during the past 10 years, income of those engaged in agriculture generally has increased more than 100 per cent. It would appear that County residents are quite capable of carrying a fairer share of the actual cost of hospital treatment for their own sick. I do not suggest for a moment that the good people of Peterborough County want city taxpayers to pay a large portion of the actual per diem hospital costs of each County patient in the Civic Hospital. I understand that at the present time the loss per day on each patient in the hospital is $4.00, and under the present arrangement the whole responsibility for this loss must be borne by the city taxpayers. When it is recalled that the County Council has three representatives on the Board of Governors, it would seem that the County should take a share of the financial responsibility more in keeping with its voice in the hospital's management.

"Some municipal councils have taken action to assure low-rental living accommodation for their aged citizens. I recommend for consideration of this Council that a special committee should be appointed to investigate fully the advisability of this city constructing or renovating existing buildings for use as suitable apartments for aged couples. I know that our aged citizens deserve better accommodation than they now can obtain in the city, and they would be willing to contribute to the maximum of their financial ability. The operation of such living units should be a small expense in the municipal budget."

"Visitors judge cities now, I suggest, largely by the condition of their roadways and their system of traffic control. In recent years much improvement has been made in the condition of Peterborough's roads by the policy of laying a certain amount of new asphalt each year. We have also, for the past several months, had the benefit of the study and recommendations of a Special Traffic Control Committee, consisting of senior city officials. I hope that this Council will continue the policy of laying asphalt roadway surfaces, and also continue the services, in an advisory capacity, of the Traffic Control Committee.

An irritation to motorists is our failure to find a successful means of patching holes in our hard-surfaced roads. Some of these holes are made in almost new asphalt surfaces by maintenance crews of the water works department or our own Board of Works. It is a real necessity that a better method of patching these holes be found, so that the patching materials will stand the wear of traffic. The Board of Works, I suggest, should authorize the City Engineer to make inquiries among other cities on their methods and experience in patching roads. We must secure better results."

Better Parking Space

"Peterborough has an excellent downtown shopping centre and our merchants are progressive and enterprising. This Council must assist the efforts of our merchants to attract and hold shoppers downtown by assuring proper and convenient parking space. Success in this can only be accomplished by establishing downtown municipal parking lots. Soon the former market square will be in operation as a metered parking area. It is only proper that this valuable downtown property should return some revenue to its owners, the city taxpayers. I hope it may long be available for use as a parking lot and that its revenues will be sufficient to encourage this Council to purchase additional property downtown—even if it means the razing of old and dilapidated buildings—to provide additional parking areas which will be metered to guarantee a reasonable return on the investment by the ratepayers.

"This action, in my opinion, is necessary to maintain the city as a shopping and tourist centre, and also to maintain the value of downtown properties on which the merchants pay high taxes. A city without good traffic control and without proper parking facilities in this age of motor vehicles, is a city which is bound to decay in commercial importance."

Expect A Surplus

"Although the financial books of the city for the year just closed are not finally balanced and the records totalled, indications are definite that in the main all departments have kept within the budget fixed for them at the start of the year. We should complete the year with a reasonable balance to our credit.

"There has been the opinion current in the city for some time of the need for greater centralizing of responsibility in our administrative system. This has been done very effectively in a number of centres of comparative size to Peterborough and without the appointment of a City Manager. I believe we have in our employ officials of the highest quality and capabilities and whose training and experience fit them for any additional responsibilities and duties which the Council cares to give them. There are two distinct spheres of management in a city of this size, one the clerical or administrative staff and the other the engineering and works departments. I suggest that Council should consider making two appointments, a senior official as head of each of these two broad departments. Then it is my thought that we would secure the most efficient service and relieve the Council of responsibilities other than that of decisions on policy."

Military Welcomes New Year With Gala Celebration

Invitations extended by officers of the 50th HAA Regiment, RCA, of Peterborough, admitted 250 of their friends to the gala New Year's Eve party and dance in the Officer's Mess.

A somewhat different spirit prevailed this year as the traditional welcome was offered 1951 by the military. Though there was little mention of the crises overhanging the world, it seemed that in many minds was the thought, "Let's be gay and enjoy ourselves while we can." And, in keeping, the ladies' gowns were chosen with much care for this occasion and made a charming kaleidoscope of fashion and colour in the Armouries drill hall, turned into a cabaret ballroom.

Taking the Sunday year-ending in stride, the officers presented a floor show by the CGE Pipe Band between the hours of ten and eleven in the evening and commenced the serving of a sumptous buffet dinner before midnight.

Television at 1950-51 Party The 15th at Kawartha Club

The 15th annual New Year's Eve party at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club gave 1951 a lively welcome with 150 couples participating. For the first time television was included on the program, thus bringing to the patrons the biggest entertainment thrill of the period since 1935.

Television and refreshments were enjoyed during the late Sunday evening hours with plate suppers being served in the main lounge both before and after midnight. Hats, horns and favors were handed out a half hour in advance and the din increased until the orchestra commenced with "Auld Lang Syne" and 1950 became a memory.

1951 New Year's Day At Home Extends Tradition 48 Years

From New Year's Day 1903, when the Sergeants' Mess at Peterborough Armouries was of the old 57th Regiment, until 1951 there have been many changes of command and personnel but the New Year's Day "At Home" has been carried on in the same manner, except for a few interruptions in times of war.

Non-commissioned officers of the 50th HAA Regiment, RCA, were the traditional good hosts to their friends Monday afternoon January 1st. RSM Hugh Davidson and BSM J. K. Brown and BSM E. A. Killingbeck were extending a cordial welcome, and their spirit infected the guests so that joviality and good fellowship prevailed throughout the crowd.

Flowers and candles on the tea table carried out a red, white and blue theme and the Mess was festively decorated. Pouring tea were Mrs. Hurrell Dodds whose husband enjoys the longest term of membership in the Sergeants' Mess and Mrs. J. K. Brown, Mrs. D. Jones and Mrs. E. A. Killingbeck.

Arduous Duties of Royalty Outlined in British Book

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON

LONDON —(CP)— An insight into the arduous duties of royalty and their untiring service to the Commonwealth is given in a new book, "The Royal Family," (Odhams Press) illustrated and published in aid of King George's Jubilee Fund.

The author of the volume is Dermot Morrah, editor of the "Round Table," and proceeds will be devoted to the advancement of the welfare of the younger generation.

Touching briefly on the visit of the king and queen to Canada in 1939, Mr. Morrah refers to their landing at Wolfe's Cove, where English troops had scaled the ramparts to the Plains of Abraham nearly 200 years before.

"It was a fitting sign of the reconciliation of the centuries," he writes, "that the first appearance of an English King in the new world should be on the historic ground of these battles long ago, and that not only Mr. Mackenzie King (the late prime minister) but a French-Canadian senator, with the cry of 'Vive Le Roi,' should bid them welcome to their loyal city of Quebec."

Merry Margaret

In relating some amusing experiences in the royal household, the author underscores the wit of Princess Margaret. On one occasion some years ago, after The National Anthem had just been played, she ran to the king and asked: "Papa, do you sing God

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"If you're not a good boy, the installment collector will take away your bike and train!"

DOROTHY DIX

Creating Home Atmosphere Usually Up to the Woman

DEAR MISS DIX: Does all responsibility of the home environment depend upon the wife? Must a wife never show that things go wrong with her, or that she is sad and depressed? Must she get behind her husband and push him into success without letting him know she does it? Must she see that the children are educated morally and intellectually? Must she keep herself well dressed and attractive? Must she develop some special social talent so that her husband and children may be proud of her?

MRS. N. E. W.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You have outlined the work of a superwoman. Of course, all of the responsibility of the home environment should not depend upon the wife. It is just as much the man's business to help make a happy home as it is the woman's. The children are Father's no less than Mother's and it is his business to help rear them and develop them mentally, morally and physically just as much at it is Mother's. The husband is just as much obligated to be interested in the wife's work and try to encourage and stimulate her as it is for her to take an interest in his career.

He Passes the Buck

But in the home it is conditions and not theories that confront us, and the plain unvarnished fact is that the average man passes the buck to his wife. If a woman wants her children to grow up in a peaceful and happy home, she has to make it. Very often she has to ignore the grouchiness of an ill-tempered husband. Sometimes she has to shut her eyes to her husband's philandering, because that is the only way in which she can hold her home together.

She must teach her children the code of morals by which they will live and die, for it is the things that a child learns at its mother's knee that sets the pattern of its conduct as long as it lives. And Mother must keep herself looking attractive in her children's eyes as well as her husband's if she is to hold them. She must be her children's sweetheart, their guide, counselor and friend. She must be teacher, nurse, cook, shopping agent and a thousand other things, and she generally is.

And millions of women take all this endless work in their stride and just call it a day.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a young girl 18 years old just starting out in the business world. What can I do to improve my business ability? What books should I read on this subject? How should I deal with the people I meet? How can I learn to be poised, industrious and overcome self-consciousness?

GREENIE

ANSWER: I take it from your letter that you are a stenographer and so the book I would most earnestly recommend for your perusal is the dictionary. You have no idea how few stenographers can spell, nor with what a death grip we who hire them hang on to one who does know how to spell and who has some familiarity with words of more than one syllable.

If I had lots of time, as you have, I would take up the study of a foreign language until I could take dictation in it, for thereby would I increase my usefulness and my chances of getting a better salary.

And I would familiarize myself with the business in which my employer was engaged and particularly with the technical terms used in it so he would not have to stop and spell out phrases. I would practice my typing until I could turn out clean and accurate work.

Time will cure you of your self - consciousness. Experience will give you poise. And you will be industrious, or not, according to your own will power and desire to succeed. For the rest, the best advice that I can give you is to be friendly with all, but familiar with none.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: What do you think of a young man who has been keeping steady company with a girl for some time, but who dropped her when he found out that she was straight and went to another girl who wasn't so particular? I am very unhappy because I care for him, but don't you think that if he had loved me he would have had some respect for my standing by my principles?

SALLY

ANSWER: What are you grieving about? You should be down on your knees thanking God for your lucky escape. He did not love you. He was merely amusing himself with you and he had no intention of marrying you, so in any event he would have left you. I should think that his conduct would have killed any vestige of affection that you may have felt for him.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

. . at my own kitchen table.

Is my audience suffering from the same type of satiation?

Anything that I want to suggest as a special-purpose menu for today or tomorrow is special only in its simplicity. It requires no instructions.

However it does require skill to poach an egg perfectly and to make uncurdle-able tomato soup and to bake potatoes that result in skinful of snowy whiteness swimming in butter. So, I will pass on a few hints for the record. Your young daughters might profit from some of these elementary lessons. Mine does.

The Perfectly Poached Egg

Grease or butter a pan, with a lid or frying-pan. Fill with boiling water to depth of at least 1½ inches. When it is boiling add 1 tablespoon vinegar and ½ teaspoon salt. Slip in eggs from saucer or cup into which they have been broken. As soon as eggs are in water, turn off heat, cover, and let simmer or just cook off of the heat for about 4 or 5 minutes—the length of time depends on your individual taste. With a perforated and curved skimmer lift out eggs onto buttered toast (or spinach or corned beef hash or what-have you). Dot eggs with butter and garnish with a couple small sprigs of parsley.

✧ ✧ ✧

Tomato Cream Soup

(I am describing each step in detail to help you prevent curdling.)

Boil 1 No. 2 can tomatoes with 1 whole clove, ¼ of a bay leaf, 1 slice onion, 2 peppercorns, or shake of black pepper, 1 teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon salt for 10 minutes, gently. Mix together 2 tablespoons margarine and 2 tablespoons flour and ½ teaspoon soda. Add half of this to the tomatoes when they are cooked and stir until thick, in top of double boiler heat 2 cups whole milk or 1 cup whole milk and 1 cup top milk. When very hot stir the remainder of the flour-butter mix into it, until thick. Let the tomato mixture stand off the heat to cool just a little. When serving time arrives remove the bay leaf and peppercorns and onion slice and clove and very slowly pour the tomato mixture into the white sauce, stirring. (If desired tomato mixture may be strained as manufactured soups are, but many people like the little pieces of tomato through their soup.) Taste for salt and pepper. Occasionally I like to add about ¼ teaspoon of curry powder to Tomato Cream Soup. Celery leaves may be added to the tomato mixture too.

Perfect Baked Potatoes

Use very large potatoes for this—even if some of your diners are not big eaters and would only want one-half of a large potato. Wash the potatoes so well that skin is white and clean enough to eat. Bake in oven of 475 or 500 deg. Fahr. The very high heat changes the starch in the potato to a sugar and that is what gives some baked potatoes their excellent flavor. Butter the skins when they are about three-quarters tender. Remove to serving dish and make slash in top, squeeze potato to make the fluffy centre break through top, add generous piece of butter and sprinkle with salt and pepper.

John Wayne Gets Success The Hard Way

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 2—(AP)—Twenty years ago a young football player named Duke Morrison was up for his first movie role in "The Big Trail".

The producers decided he would have to take some drama lessons. So he was sent to a cloak-slinging thespian who have him some pointers in elocution. There was a disagreement after the third lesson and the coach told the movie bosses: "This boy can never be a success".

A few days ago, Duke Morrison, better known by his screen name of John Wayne, was named the No. 1 money-making star of 1950.

Wayne hasn't always been riding the gravy train he is enjoying now. He worked hard in many rough-and-tumble quickies until John Ford uncovered his acting talents in "Stagecoach".

Has No Success Secret

I asked Wayne for his secret of success in attaining the position of box-office king. His reply was typical: "How the hell should I know"?

But he did explain what he looked for in movie scripts: "I think a story has to have basic emotions. A kid a dog a woman's love a man's love those are the things that strike at people's hearts and make them like a movie. That's why a picture with basic human qualities is better than the fluff of a drawing-room picture.

He is taking his first vacation in a long time as soon as he finishes his current film, 'The Flying Leathernecks", and retakes on "Jet Pilot".

"I plan to go to Venezuela, where I have some financial interests," he said.

Up to now, this group of drugs has been used only sparingly because of the toxic effects produced.

Forest Fire Damage Lower

TORONTO, Jan. 2 — (CP) — Forest-fire damage in Ontario in 1950 was only slightly more than half of the 1949 destruction.

Provincial Lands Department officials said Sunday that this year's 985 fires burned over an estimated 36,000 acres, partly forested. In 1949 the toll was 60,065 acres burned over by 1,834 fires.

The hazard conditions in 1950 were about normal," T. E. Mackey, chief of the forest protection division, said in a statement.

Despite the reduced damage, forest-fire causes were about the same as usual, Mr. Mackey said. Some 85 per cent of all blazes were caused by human carelessness. Smokers and campers were chiefly to blame.

13 Fatalities Mark Light New Year's Toll

By The Canadian Press

Canada turned the mid-century corner with a celebration subdued in some respects by New Year's Eve falling on Sunday.

But a Canadian Press cross-country survey today showed that Canadians in general gave 1951 a hearty yet sensible welcome. There were no major disasters, the weather was good in most parts of the country, and fatalities were light.

Thirteen fatalities marred weekend celebrations.

A Canadian Press survey today showed this distribution of the comparatively light toll by provinces: Ontario, five; Quebec, four; Alberta three; Manitoba, one.

From Friday midnight until early today six persons died in traffic accidents three by asphyxiation and the others from a variety of causes.

For those who wanted them, there were horns to blow, noisemakers to whirl and streamers and confetti to toss—mostly at late-starting parties at hotels and clubs. Much of the revelry was concentrated on house parties.

Midnight movies also drew crowds.

Polar Bear Club

A swim in the Pacific Ocean at Vancouver was the high spot of New Year's Day for members of the Polar Bear Club, led by Peter Pantages, 54. An estimated 8,000 spectators watched 31 men and 10 women njoy their annual frolic in the waves.

In Ottawa, diplomats, government officials and the man on the street attended the Governor-General's New Year's levee. Viscount Alexander stood for more than an hour to shake hands in the Hall of Fame of the parliament buildings.

The weather for the holiday varied from cloudy and mild in Vancouver to clear and cold in Winnipeg and Ottawa. Snowflurries in eastern Nova Scotia caused some traffic snarls.

Weekend fires included a $100,000 feed store blaze in Ottawa and an outbreak that caused an estimated $150,000 damage to a water heater company plant near Hamilton.

6—In Memoriams

LLOYD— In loving memory of my mother, Mrs. Cora Lloyd who passed away on January 1, 1948.
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear,
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach,
Sweet to remember her who once was here.
And though absence is just as dear,
—Ever remembered by daughter, Doris and family.

McCONNELL—In memory of our father, William McConnell, who passed away one year ago today.
Oh, God, what a weight of sorrow
Must we, the lonely ones, bear;
A lonely home, a silent voice
And only his vacant chair.
—Ever remembered by Nelson, Lois and Harold and Gertrude.

SARGEANT: In loving memory of Matt Sargeant who passeed away 5 years ago today.
His charming ways and smiling face
Are a pleasure to recall
He had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
—Always remembered by son, Matt, daughter-in-law, Pearl and family.

Mission Circle Elects Officers

MILLBROOK, Jan. 2 (ENS)—At the December meeting of the Golden Link Mission Circle, Friday evening, the slate of officers was presented. Those of 1950 were returned with one exception.

After the election, conducted by Miss Margaret Smith, the Rev. T. G. Husser installed the following:

Honorary president, Miss Estella Hetherington; advisory president, Mrs. W. E. Ball; president, Mrs. M. E. Hobbs; vice-president, Miss Jean Burnham; recording secretary, Betty Lunn; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Bruce Ingham; treasurer, Miss Edith Thorn; pianist, Mrs. Arnold Fallis; Christian stewardship, Mrs. Ernest Powell; temperance secretary, Mrs. Homer Ouelette; literature secretary, Mrs. Lavern Gibson; supply secretary, Miss Marjorie Skitch.

The worship service was conducted by Miss Jean Burnham. It had as its theme the Christmas story. Mrs. H. Ouellette, the temperance secretary, read as her report a humorous poem on temperance.

Further plans were made for the meeting to be held on April 17 when all the missionary groups of the church are to be invited to tak part, and when the film on Japan Fujita is to 5e shown.

Mrs. M. Hobbs, at whose home the Circle met, reminded the group that the closing date for the presbyterial essay contest on "Why I Should Like To Be a Missionary" is January 20.

Miss Betty Lunn, giving the secretary's annual report, told that there were 31 paid up members on the roll with an average attendance at each meeting of 23 members and three visitors.

The treasurer, Miss Edith Thorn, reported that $50 had been sent into presbyterial headquarters, and that another $50 would be sent before the end of the year.

Mrs. Hobbs, in giving the president's report, reviewed some of the highlights of the year: the winning of over 97% in the presbyterial efficiency contest, the mother and daughter banquet given for the CGIT and the sunset service held in June.

Among the guests Friday evening were a former president of the circle, Mrs. Joseph Thorndyke, now of Toronto, Miss Margaret Smith, now serving as a deaconess in Barrie, and her sister, Dorothy, who is prominent in young people's work in the Hamilton conference.

Miss Margaret Smith, the first member of the Golden Link Circle to volunteer for full-time church work, told of her duties as deaconess. Her mornings are spent in the office of the church, planning meetings, answering telephone calls and looking after the membership roll. In the afternoon she calls on newcomers, shut-ins and parents of Sunday school children. Evenings are taken up by meetings. Her special responsibilities are a young adult group, a CGIT of 50 girls and work with teachers of the Sunday school.

At the close of the meeting records of Dickens' Christmas carols and of Christmas music were played.

Supper hostesses were Mrs. Eric Fallis, Mrs. Aubrey Fallis and Mrs. Delbert Olan.

A U.S. NAVY CORSAIR FIGHTER PLANE lies atop an ammunition bunker, a total wreck at the Naval Air Station, Alameda, Calif. Ensign John F. Taylor, 23, was practicing "touch and go" landings when his wing tip hit the ground and cartwheeled the plane on to the bunker. Crash crews smothered the flaming wreckage with chemicals and Taylor escaped with two fractured legs.

$100,000 Fire Sweeps Building

OTTAWA, Jan. 2 — (CP). — A stubborn $100,000 fire swept through the byward market premises of the Ritchie Feed and Seed Company Monday, leaving the three-storey structure a mass of charred wreckage and giving firement a six-hour battle. The flames ate through tons of stock and poultry feed, as well as quantities of cod liver oil and molasses. Thousands of New Year's Day spectators lined the market area to watch the spectacular fire at 27-29 York Sreet.

Metropolitan Opera Has $400,000 Deficit

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 — (AP)—The Metropolitan Opera Company reported Saturday it incurred a deficit of more than $400,000 this year because a Federal admission tax "had to be paid" from its income.

Formation of a fund committee to raise $750,000 in the next two years to help support the company's operations was announced by George A. Sloan, the board chairman of the Opera Association.

"Until this admissions tax is eliminated for non-profit musical organizations, our financial problems will be considerably more difficult," he said.

Truman Won't Fire Acheson, Most Influence In Cabinet

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—(AP)—Shortly after noon each Monday and Thursday State Secretary Dean Acheson stuffs his black book of top secret reports into a tan brief case, takes a private elevator to the state department's garage and climbs into his official automobile.

A few minutes later he is in President Truman's oval office.

This routine pilgrimage to the headquarters of the government's executive power symbolizes the extremely-close relationship between Acheson and Truman. That is one of the reasons why any insider will tell you that Harry Truman will never willingly fire Dean Acheson.

Acheson's Decision

If the grimly-determined campaign of congressional Republicans succeeds in unseating him, it will be, in the opinion of these insiders, because Acheson fires himself.

Truman's strong support for his secretary of state was reaffirmed Dec. 19 in an extraordinary press conference statement. Senate and House of Representatives Republicans by majority vote had demanded that Acheson get out. The president reviewed Acheson's record and declared: "Communism—not our own country—would be served by losing Dean Acheson".

The two men could hardly be more different, yet they are close and respectful friends and have been for several years now. There seems little question that Acheson has been the president's most-trusted adviser and the cabinet's most-influential member at the White House.

Acheson Aloof

Truman is a warm-hearted, quick-tempered professional politician with a friendly, folksy manner.

Acheson has none of that quality He is a diplomat's diplomat, a professional in international politics.

To his foes, and perhaps sometimes to his friends, he appears arrogant, disdainful, high-handed, hard-headed and steely cold. Some people, but relatively few, know him as a good companion and brilliant conversationalist, a user of earthy language and a teller of breezy tales.

The president and Acheson are similar in trying to take a long view of America's foreign interests, in their toughness in a fight and above all in their loyalty to each other and to their jobs.

There have been occasions when other secretaries of state forgot who was president. Acheson apparently never forgets. He rarely if ever says "my policy." He said "the president's policy."

Checks With Boss

He does nothing important without the president's approval. He ever checked with the president before announcing recently that he had no intention of resigning.

In any estimate of Acheson's embattled position today, it is necessary to keep his relationship with the president in mind. As for Truman, he has expressed the conviction that Acheson is one of the greatest secretaries of state in history.

History will decide whether the president was right, but obviously it is a view bitterly rejected by the powerful Republican minority in Congress.

Canada's Speaker Gets Sport Title

LONDON —(CP)— Ross Macdonald, Speaker of the Canadian House of Commons, has been elected patron of the London Caledonian Games Association. The organization is affiliated with several hundred Scottish societies scattered throughout the British Commonwealth.

The honor was bestowed as a prelude to the association's sports meet to be held in conjunction with the Festival of Britain next May at London's White City Stadium. Among other patrons are the Duke of Buccleuch and Queensberry, the Earl of Rosebery and Lord Burghley, winner of the 400-metre Olympic hurdles title in 1928.

Founder of the games, Councillor John Hannay of Chelsea, said the association was highly honored by Mr. Macdonald's acceptance.

"It is hoped," he said, "that many Scottish societies in Canada will become affiliated with us. What is more, we are looking forward to the time when Canadian athletes and pipe bands will be competing at our games."

Claims Record

CARACAS, Venezuela, Jan. 2—(AP)—A government decree published Sunday restored constitutional liberties to Venezuelans and lifted most other curbs imposed after the assassination of President Delgado Chalbaud Nov. 13. Strict press censorship was relaxed, imposing only limited restrictions on the publication of political news.

Feldspar Found In Saskatchewan

REGINA —(CP)— The Department of Natural Resources says analysis of Saskatchewan's first major find of feldspar has shown it to be top quality for use in the manufacture of pottery or glass.

The samples were found early this summer by Dr. J. B. Mawdsley of the University of Saskatchewan during radioactive investigation in the Nunn Lake area, 40 miles east of Lac La Ronge village in northern saskatchewan.

The feldspar deposit was in a flat-lying dike about four feet thick, with about 5,000 tons exposed at the outcrop. A. J. Williams of the Provincial Resources Department said the flat outcrop would make for easy quarrying. However, the same type of feldspar was produced in South Dakota and markets for the Saskatchewan output would be local and possibly slow to develop.

Roebuck Enjoys New Zealand Life

WELLINGTON, N.Z. —(CP)— Senator Arthur Roebuck, leader of the Canadian delegation to the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association conference, listed some of the things in New Zealand which had impressed delegates when speaking at a state luncheon to members of the association in Wellington.

At the top of the list, he said, he put the high calibre of the dominion's public men.

Then the visitors had been greatly impressed with the harmonious relations between Maori and European. If only such relations could be established throughout the world, mankind would be much happier.

Senator Roebuck said he was amazed at the marvellous growth in New Zealand. He had seen a pine tree native to California which had grown to 17 inches in diameter in 15 years. It would take 40 years to grow such a tree in Canada.

Even more wonderful was the pasture growth. He knew of no country more responsible or rewarding to human endeavor than New Zealand.

Escape Injury

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Jan. 2—(AP).—Six crew members and two passengers escaped serious injury when their ice-coated C-54 transport cartwheeled into a mass of wreckage after an emergency landing Saturday night at Yakutat Alaska.

MRS. JOHN PARKER, 51, of St. Jacques le Mineur, Que., met instant death when this panel truck in which she was a passenger collided with a CPR train at St. Philippe de Laprairie, two miles south of Laprairie on the South Shore of the St. Lawrence river. Four other persons in the truck escaped unhurt. Det. R. Paiement, of Provincial Police, who investigated, said the driver of the truck, Philias Thibedeau, same address, apparently noticed the train and tried to stop but the vehicle skidded onto the intersection before it came to a halt and was hit.

Red Troops Shatter U.N. Lines, In Seoul Outskirts

TOKYO, Jan. 4—(Thursday)—(AP)—Leading elements of seven Chinese Communist armies early today were reported to have surged to the outskirts of Seoul and began re-forming for the assault of the ancient capital. Associated Press correspondent Stan Swinton reported from a United States Eighth Army post that the dying city's fall depended upon how soon the fast-charging Chinese units could reassemble.

Seoul, lighted by unheeded fires which devoured buildings, still was held by U.S. and Allied infantrymen. They were fighting to hold their withdrawal line against overwhelming odds.

The Chinese in the onslaught used some tanks, but the main assault was borne by Communist infantry. The Reds struck in wave on wave, heedless of heavy losses.

The ancient city was virtually deserted by its more than 1,000,000 civilians. President Syngman Rhee and cabinet fled only a few hours before the Reds smashed the second line of defence to the north.

The telephone line to the capital went dead at 2.35 p.m. (12.35 a.m. EST) while AP correspondent William J. Waugh was reporting latest military developments and the pitifuls exodus of the remaining civilians. He could hear the muffled boom of the big guns.

(While censored field dispatches identified Allied divisions engaged in the battle north of Seoul, Tokyo censors refused to let them be mentioned in the roundups.

(Until he was cut off, Waugh relayed the word that there was little opposition to the Chinese advancing on the city from abandoned Uijongbu, 12 miles north. The Reds swept through a gap in the defences of the U.S. 24th division.)

Tight Censorship

The Eighth Army at 7 p.m. (5 a.m. EST) clamped a tight censorship on news about Seoul until "some sort of official announcement" is made.

(Two other American divisions—the 1st cavalry and the 25th—and a British brigade were committed to the battle for the battered old city.)

Heavy casualties on both sides were reported.

The Communists struck first before dawn in light strength.

They punched an opening between British and American units and poured through the line 10 miles northeast of Seoul and two miles south of of abandoned Uijongbu. More and more Reds swarmed through the gap. They stepped up the intensity of attack with fresh troops.

Shortly after the assault began, and American divisional officer told AP Correspondent Stan Swinton that the Chinese were "moving recklessly through a hole in our line, risking air attack in a way I have rarely seen".

Rigidly Disciplined

The rigidly-disciplined enemy moved down open roads against the blazing strafing runs of low-flying Allied planes. Carrier planes joined air force fighters and bombers in supporting the withdrawing United Nations ground forces.

Youth Arrested For Shooting At Constable

TORONTO, Jan. 3 —(CP)—An exchange of shots with a police constable early today put one Toronto youth in hospital on a charge of attempted murder. Three others were arrested as material witnesses after what police said was an attempt to steal a truck.

In hospital with a wound in the abdomen is Barry Thornton, 20, charged with the attempted murder of Constable Haslan. Held as material witnesses are Marshal Hall, 19, William Corbett, 21, and George Brittain, 22.

Police said Brittain and Hall attempted to steal a truck from a northwest Toronto car lot. Constable Haslan arrested them and took them to a corner police box, covering the youths with his gun while calling a patrol car.

Police said Corbett and Thornton then came up behind Haslan. Corbett grabbed the constable while Thornton fired a wild shot from a .38 revolver and exclaimed: "Okay, copper, drop the gun." The constable whirled and returned Thornton's fire.

Corbett fled but was recaptured with Brittain and Hall. Thornton's condition at hospital later was reported as "satisfactory" after removal of the bullet.

The four later were remanded to Jan. 12 on bail of $10,000 each. They also are charged with attempted auto theft. Corbett, an amateur boxer, faces an additional charge of obstructing police.

Abandon Hope Of Getting Truce

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 3 (AP)—The UN cease-fire committee announced today it had abandoned hope of getting a truce in Korea.

Report of the three-member body was laid before the General Assembly's political committee by India's Sir Benegal N. Rau. The report said:

"The group regrets that it has been unable to pursue discussion of a satisfactory cease-fire arrangement. It therefore feels that no recommendation in regard to a cease-fire can usefully be made by it at this time."

The report disclosed for the first time the cease-fire terms laid down by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's UN command.

They included the following provisions:

1. All government, including Communist China, should cease hostilities at once.

2. A demilitarized zone 20 miles wide should be established just north of the 38th Parallel.

3. Supervision of the cease-fire should be carried out by a UN commission.

4. Prisoners of war should be exchanged on a one-for-one basis, pending final settlement of the Korean question.

5. The General Assembly should be asked to confirm the cease-fire arrangements.

Acheson Insists Russians Explain

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3—(AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson said today the west must have 'further clarification" of Russia's position on a proposed four power meeting before it can assume that Russia is ready to take up outstanding world problems.

The United States, Britain and France, he told a press conference, have already opened discussions about what move they will make next in response to the latest note on this subject from Moscow. Acheson's statements implied that he ymay ask Russia to explain its position further.

Contrary to some interpretations in news dispatches from London and Paris, Acheson said he Soviet note received here Monday does not accept a proposal of the western powers for exploratory talks on world problems prior to a meeting of the our foreign ministers.

All the Russians are willing to do on this point, Acheson said, is have a meeting of deputies to discuss an agenda for the foreign ministers.

Actually, he added, the new Russian note "merely restates the Soviet position" first put forward two months ago that the foreign ministers should meet to discuss German rearmament.

Elephant Enjoys Romping In Snow

LONDON, Jan. 3 (AP). — An elephant named Rajah snapped his ankle chain and went out to play in the show at the London Zoo Tuesday.

A truck disputed the right of way. Rajah ripped the headlights off with his trunk.

Up came a telvision car for a zoo program of the BBC. As Rajah closed in on the costly equipment, keepers closed in on Rajah.

Trumpeting happily and tossing snow around with his trunk, he was led back to his stable.

"He's only five years old," explained a keeper. "Likes to have a romp now and then like any youngster."

Big Purge Under Way In Red China

Want Only Fanatics Party Members To Carry Out Policy

CALCUTTA, Jan. 3—(AP)—Communist China is accompanying her military venture in Korea with a drastic purge in her own ruling communist party, according to reliable reports reaching India.

These reports say Peiping's rulers have directed party leaders to slash Communist card carriers in China from 6,000,000 to about 3,000,000. The object is a hard core of completely-loyal communists, willing to follow without question whatever program is outlined by the Moscow-Peiping axis.

The same reports said similar instructions have been issued to all Communist parties in Asia to "trim the unhealthy fat" from their operations.

Moscow Orders

Should these reports be correct, they would indicate that the purge orders originated in Moscow. They also may mean the patterning of Asia's Red groups on the Russian system—the limiting of party membership to a relatively-small number of fanatic Communists, capable of organizing and directing large masses of untrained and largely-illiterate peoples.

The mention of 6,000,000 members in the Chinese Communist party appears excessive to observers here familiar with China.

They point out, however, that vast groups of Chinese—including more than 1,000,000 troops—shifted allegiance from the Nationalist to the Communist banner when Chiang Kai-shek's forces collapsed in the spring of 1949. Many of these sought party membership to prove their loyalty to the Red cause.

A Different Story

A Hong Kong pro-Communist newspaper said today that 10,000 parading student and labor "volunteers" for military training in Communist China were wildly acclaimed on New Year's Day at Canton by 50,000 massed spectators.

"Long live our volunteering heroes," the crowds shouted. "Build up our new navy and air force."

The account, by the pro-Communist Ta Kung Pao, was grimly reminiscent of the pre-war demonstrations staged by Hitler in Germany.

Red China calls its huge fighting force in Korea "volunteers."

Says World Gov't Only Peace Hope

GENEVA, Switzerland, Jan. 3 (AP). — India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru said here today that final world peace can be achieved only through world government.

Delegates to the People's World Convention now meeting here went to Geneva Airport to greet the Indian Prime Minister who stopped briefly on his way to London for the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference opening Thursday.

"If we work hard enough we can achieve world peace," Nehru told the delegates. "But I have long believed that the only way it can finally be achieved is through world government."

A PACKED REFUGEE TRAIN heads south through Seoul railroad yards as Koreans continue to flee from the ancient capital, which recently was reported to practically abandoned, as massed Communist armies threaten the city.

Truman Signs New Tax Bill, Highest Ever

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP) — President Truman signed today the new $3,300,000,000 tax bill, slapping a 77-per-cent super-levy on corporation "excess profits."

It lifts the United States' tax collections to the highest dollar figure in history, but Mr. Truman said "the task ahead of us will require more and much heavier taxes."

He added in a statement:

"I shall, in due course, submit to the Congress recommendations for substantial tax increases."

The bill signed today raises tax collections to $45,000,000,000 or more a year—well above the record $43,900,000,000 set in 1945 during the Second World War.

Critical of Provisions

Mr. Truman, who had asked that this bill hike taxes by $4,000,000,000 was critical of some of its provisions.

He said some features of the new measure will probably give an undue advantage to some corporations "especially in relation to the tax burdens necessarily borne by others."

"Excessive exemptions and relief provisions," he added, "create inequities and reduce the government's revenues."

For this reason, he continued, he is requesting Treasurer Secretary John Snyder to keep excess profits taxes under continuous review so that if some provisions need revision the facts can be placed before Congress without delay.

Keeps Up Record

PARIS, Jan. 3—(Reuters) Mme. Fernand Clerel, who already has two sets of twins as well as four other children, today gave birth to triplets. The triplets—two girls and a boy—weighed about four pounds each. All are reported doing well.'

New York City Food Supply Prepared For Any Crisis

NEW YORK, Jan. 3—(AP)—New York city has armed its system of food supply against an atomic blitz or any catastrophe. It didn't take any extra equipment to do the job. What it did take—and still requires—is the mass participation of food merchants and transport operators and their willingness to join test incidents to learn what to do in a crisis. City Markets Commissioner Anthony Masciarelli, who studied military logistics to plan the city's food defence, said the emergency system now is in readiness.

"In the event of a catastrophe," he said, "this city will be able to keep eating."

Through an elaborate system of "alternate plans" set up for use under various contingencies, Masciarelli said the city can keep its food lines open even if 65 per cent of the normal supply channels are knocked out.

Damage would have to be this extensive "before the housewife would find it dificult to get food."

Gigantic Undertaking

Supplying food needs of the sprawling metropolitan area, with its population of 12,838,143, is a gigantic undertaking even under ordinary conditions.

Daily the area consumes 54,000,000 pounds of food brought here by ship, rail, truck and air, and distributed through hundreds of warehouses and storage plants.

To keep the huge supply machine running, even though part of it becomes wrecked, Masciarelli and members of the food and transport industries have worked out army-like tactics to become efective at a moments' notice.

Unified Force

The system at once would bring food haulers and distributors into a unified force with their facilities, in effect, pooled for mutual aid.

Phases of the emergency or alternate operations would be called into play as demanded by the situation.

The over-all system is based on detailed charts listing capacities, locations and operations of the city's food distributors, and maps show highways, rail routes, and waterways now used for hauling food, or available for alternate use.

Control of the system would be through police-civil defence telephone communications, or as an alternate method, by radio.

Snows 46 Days

HOUGHTON, Mich., Jan. 3—(AP)—The weather man says its going to snow in Houghton today and tomorrow. Townspeople are used to hearing that. It has snowed in this northern region town every one of the last 46 days in a row. Right now there's 31 inches of snow on the ground. More than 104 inches have fallen since the 46-day string began.

Ike's Headquarters Ready For Business

PARIS, Jan. 3 —(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's first headquarters as supreme Atlantic army commander will be ready for business Friday, the day before the general is to fly to Europe.

Today the headquarters, Paris' Astoria Hotel, is a mess of ladders, painters, repairmen and telephones that won't work.

Sharply-uniformed military policemen guard the entrances and check visitors' passes. Across the street are four civil policemen—just in case French Communists try a picketing demonstration.

"We'll be in shape for SHAPE in plenty of time for the boss," said an officer, referring to the Atlantic pact designation of "Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe."

The Astoria is to serve only as temporary headquarters for the international army.

Yugoslavia Condemns Rejection UN Appeal

LONDON, Jan. 3 (AP)—Yugoslavia's Communist party today condemned Red China's rejection of the United Nations appeal for a cease-fire in Korea.

It was equally critical of the North Korean invasion of its Southern neighbor, which it said was backed by Soviet arms, and of Gen. MacArthur's march across the 38th parallel towards the Manchurian border.

2,000,000 Refugees Jam Highways In South Korea

PUSAN, Korea, Jan. 3 (Reuters)—Two million homeless South Koreans are trudging the pot-holed highways and ox tracks of their beseiged country looking for some place to live.

Whatever may lie farther on, there is no room for them in this crammed south-coast port.

Every square foot of living space in churches, schools, theatres and factories has long been taken. Military authorities say there are no more buildings to requisition. They are down to distributing straw mats, a pitiful protection against the outdoor cold.

Every day several thousand refugees arrive in this filthy, sorrowful city to risk death from exposure and starvation.

Boys and girls become hordes of grimy, naked beggars, barefooted and shivering under surplus army sacking, and crowd the Pusan railway stations. Hunger drives men to prowl the city at night, killing and stealing ruthlessly in search of food.

But nothing stops this southward flowing tide of homeless people. Money has lost its meaning. Money cannot buy food which does not exist, nor shelter from a temperature which never rises above zero.

They come from Pyongyang the Communist northern capital, and from still farther north near the Yalu River and the Manchurian border. They come from Seoul, the South Korean capital which now is a frozen ghost town. One hundred thousand have come from the Arctic cold of Northeast Korea—from Hamhung and Hungnam cities, blasted out of existence by United Nations' artillery and air power.

The refugees are not fleeing from the cold. They believe they are fleeing from starvation and firing squads. The women believe they are fleeing from rape.

Pledge Bigger Production In Fuel Crisis

Attlee Asks Mine Union Heads For Extra Coal In Next 4 Months

LONDON, Jan. 3 (AP)—Prime Minister Attlee urged Britain's coal miners today to meet a looming fuel crisis by producing 3,000,000 extra tons in the next four months.

Union leaders of the 688,000 diggers of the state-owned pits promised their "enthusiastic support."

The exchange of views took place at a 95-minute emergency meeting. The muddle was prompted by a long spell of freezing and snowy weather which has cut fuel reserves to the danger point.

At Liverpool, where one-fifth of the 800,000 population was away from work with influenza, industry was seriously affected and homes were running short of coal. The same situation existed to a lesser degree in other northern England centres.

Coal stocks above ground at the end of December were estimated at 13,000,000 tons — 2½ weeks' supply. This is far below the 16,357,000 tons available at the end of 1947, also a bad year.

Widespread Suffering

At that time factories were forced to lay off nearly 3,000,000 workers for lack of fuel and there was widespread suffering in heatless homes.

British coal output in January, February, March and April of 1950 totalled 71,811,000 tons. If Attlee's appeal succeeds, the miners will up this to about 75,000,000 tons.

If the miners fail to come through, industrial chaos is predicted both by the British press and official spokesmen.

Stocks of both industries and power stations have already been sharply cut by unusual demand during the current cold spell. Power stations are down to an average four-week stock, against the six-week supply considered the minimum for safety.

The NUM already has warned the government that working conditions must be improved if workers are to be recruited and output stepped up. It was believed these demands were renewed at today's meeting.

Mother Saves Small Baby And 2 Other Children, Blame Stove In Kitchen

Neighbor Spots Blaze, Turns In Alarm As Mother Roused From Bed; Town Organizes Relief Fund For Family

COBOURG, Jan. 3 (ENS)—Two-year-old Johnny Hoar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hoar, who live on the outskirts of Cobourg, was burned to death at 9 a.m. today when a fire gutted their home. The blaze is believed to have started from the kitchen stove. Mrs. Hoar was aroused from her bed by the smell of smoke after her husband had left for work. She grabbed 3-weeks-old Donna from her crib in the children's room adjoining the kitchen and then herded Allan, 4, and Gale, 3, outside.

When she returned to the room for Johnny, she was driven back by a wall of flame and smoke which she was unable to penetrate.

Neighbor Sounds Alarm

The alarm was sounded by a neighbor, Mrs. L. McCracken, and the Fire Department hurried to the scene. After 20 minutes of fighting the flames, Firemen Wilf Campbell and Mat Geraldi succeeded in reaching Johnny who, they believe, suffocated before being burned.

The two older children were treated for minor burns and are progressing favorably. It took firemen 45 minutes to bring the fire under control. The house was one-storey, insul-brick covered.

Mr. Hoar, an employee of the town, stated he could not understand how the fire occurred.

"Everything, the house and stove, was all right when I left for work," he said.

Mayor Jack Burnett authorized a relief fund and contributions are already being received at the Police Station and at the town clerk's office.

Halt Subsidized Food Shipments

OTTAWA, Jan. 3 (CP)—The cabinet has decided on the general policy of wiping out subsidized food shipments to Britain, informed officials disclosed today.

That was one of the reasons why 1951 Anglo-Canadian bacon negotiations collapsed, the officials said. The switch in policy now also leaves some doubt as to whether any new Anglo-Canadian cheese contract will be negotiated successfully.

Britain offered to buy 130,000,000 pounds of bacon at 29 cents a pound—the 1950 price — on the understanding that the government would continue the bacon subsidy of 3½ cents a pound.

The cabinet declined the British offer as too low. Even though it will continue to support the Canadian bacon market at the 1950 support price of 32½ cents a pound.

Britain also has offered to buy 77,000,000 pounds of Cheddar cheese at the 1950 price of 25 cents a pound. In order to obtain Cheddar for the British market last year, the government granted a subsidy of three cents a pound.

Further negotiations on cheese now have been shelved. The government's price support of 28 cents a pound now is ended.

Officer Charges Sabotage At Armories

TORONTO, Jan. 3 (CP). — A Toronto paper today quotes Capt. A. L. Ferguson, army public relations officer here, as saying a Communist underground is responsible for "sabotage" of army equipment at the University Avenue Armories.

(Capt. Ferguson later emphasized that he had expressed "a personal opinion only.")

The paper says an RCMP spokesman said there is nothing to indicate sabotage.)

(Some police and fire department officials said Tuesday night they believe two small New Year's day fires in the armories were the work of a "crank" rather than saboteurs.)

Since the fires, which caused damage estimated at $100, permanent-force guards have been stationed in and around the armories and at Fort York armories here. There has been no case of wilful damage at Fort York.

Small Underground

The Star quotes Capt. Ferguson as citing the "possibility that Communists had commissioned a fledgling underground to disrupt defence preparations."

"He brushed off as improbable suggestions that a 'crackpot' was responsible," the newspaper quotes him as saying ". . . these incidents appear to be a test by a small group—perhaps a forerunner to bigger tasks."

Although some police spokesmen said Tuesday night the fires looked like the work of a "crank"—because there were "thousands of better opportunities" for sabotage—one policeman supports Capt. Ferguson's theory, the newspaper says.

"A police anti-subversive squad officer who declined to be quoted by name backed Ferguson's belief that Canadian Reds had formed an embryo underground to test acts of sabotage."

No One Injured In Crash Landing

LONDON, Jan. 3 (AP). — A Pan-American stratocruiser made a belly landing at London Airport today, causing a flurry of "crash" reports. However, no passengers were aboard and the nine crew members were not injured.

The plane, "Washington Clipper" had landed its passengers at Hurn, England, Tuesday after receiving reports of snow-covered runways at London.

The right landing wheel crumpled as the plane touched down and the right wingtip hit the ground, causing the craft to slither off the runway.

Plan To Standardize Army Medical Work

OTTAWA, Jan. 3 (CP) — The drive for Canadian and American military standardization is being extended to the army medical field, it was announced jointly today by Washington and Ottawa.

The announcement said one of the features of the move is that Canada will trade her knowledge of health problems in the Arctic for U.S. experience in tropical medicine.

The new step consists of formation of liaison teams by the U.S. Army Medical Service and the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps to further co-operation in standardizing military medical instruction and equipment of the two armies.

Union Heads Ask Gov't For Controls

United In Drive For First Time To Approach Cabinet

OTTAWA, Jan. 3—(CP)—Heads of Canada's four major trade union centres will meet here today to plan an unprecedented joint brief to Cabinet on price-rent controls.

Now united in a joint campaign for reimposition of price controls and retention of rent controls, the four bodies with membership of more than 1,000,000 will go before Cabinet together for the first time in Canadian labor history.

Their leaders are expected to seek a date with the ministers some times before the Jan. 29 opening of parliament or early in the new session.

The joint presentation will be in addition to the regular annual submissions of the four organizations, which will be laid before Prime Minister St. Laurent and his ministers later this winter.

Uniting in the joint brief are the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, the Canadian Congress of Labor, the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor and the Dominion Joint Legislative Committee of the Railway Transportation Brotherhoods.

General Strategy

Besides drawing up the main arguments in their brief today they will also consider general strategy in their country-wide campaign on controls, which was launched last month. A major point, it was expected, will be arrangements for a lobby of members of parliament.

Expected to attend the meeting are President Percy R. Bengough and Secretary-Treasurer Gordon Cushing of the TLC; President A. R. Mosher and Secretary-Treasurer Pat Conroy of the CCL; President Gerard Picard and Secretary-Treasurer Jean Marchand of the CCCL and Chairman A. J. Kelly, and Secretary J. B. Ward of the Railway Brotherhoods' Committee.

THE DUCHESS OF WINDSOR became a crowned head at last—when she was named as Queen of the "10 Best Dressed Women of 1950." Wally's wardrobe polled enough votes among fashion editors and designers to make her 'top' woman on the hoity-toity totem pole.

New Czech Ban Against Canada

OTTAWA, Jan. 3 (CP).—Official word of a second Czechoslovakian diplomatic blow at Canada was awaited here today, one that would near an end to fairly frequent flights to Prague by an RCAF transport plane.

So far, the external affairs department said, no official word has been received from the Prague legation that the Czechs have banned flights of western military planes into their country.

A news report from Prague said four western diplomatic missions — including Canada — are understood to have been told their military planes now are banned from Czechoslovakia.

The action, if confirmed, would follow a year after the Czechs expelled two RCAF non-commissioned officers, members of the staff of the Canadian Air Attache, on charges of sabotage and misbehavior which Ottawa denied. Canada, in turn, ousted two Czechs here.

OTTAWA, Jan. 3. (CP)—Three persons were revived by a fire department inhalator crew Tuesday after being overcome by coal gas leaking from a furnace in their Carling Avenue home. Revived were I. S. McGee, 53, Miss M. McGee, 18, and Miss R. McGee, 12. None required hospital attention.

St. Laurent Busy Preparing For Conference

LONDON, Jan. 3 (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent conferred with advisers in his hotel suite today in preparation for Thursday's opening of the Commonwealth conference.

Several callers dropped in to pay their respects and messengers brought official documents bearing on conference business.

Later today, with other Commonwealth leaders, he will attend a service at Westminster Abbey which will be attended by the King and Queen.

A crowded agenda of official engagements will begin tonight with a reception by the South Africa Club.

The premiers will lunch Thursday with the King and Queen, and Thursday night St. Laurent will be guest of honor at a private dinner given by L. Dana Wilgress, Canadian high commissioner to Britain. Monday he will be principal speaker at a Canada Club dinner to which more than 500 distinguished guests have been invited.

Everything Ready

All is in readiness in the cabinet room at 10 Downing Street, Prime Minister Attlee's official residence, where the conference opens Thursday morning.

Delegates will sit along the green-topped table where many of the empire's historic meetings have been held.

Before official deliberations behind closed doors, preliminary ceremonies will be recorded by newsreel cameramen and for the first time a Commonwealth conference will be televised for British viewers.

Red Troops

Pilots reported killing an estimated 1,200 Communists. This brought to nearly 10,000 the Red casualties from air attack alone since the enemy offensive began New Year's Eve—but hundreds of thousands of Communists were still rolling southward.

The U.S. Eighth Army reported the entire U.N. line, stretching 150 miles across Korea, pulling back an unspecified distance. In Eastern Korea, the Reds had pushed as far as 27 miles south of parallel 38, old boundary between North and South Korea.

Two major Red drives were in progress, the Eighth Army said. One led straight toward Seoul down the old invasion road through Uijongbu. The other swept along the Chunchon-Wonju highway toward Wonju, a central Korea rail and road centre. Chunchon, 50 miles northeast of Seoul, may have fallen to the Reds.

Terrific Blow

Tense U.N. troops had waited long hours in the sharp cold for the assault. There had been a brief respite since the New Year's Eve attack. The new assault fell on them like a thunderclap.

(AP Correspondent Jack Macbeth, under fire with the 24th Division, reported the Chinese struck before sunrise in company strength. By early morning the Reds hit in battalion strength and then in regimental force.

"The latest reports said a full Chinese division was taking part," Macbeth, a former Canadian newspaperman, added. His report covered the action in the middle sector of the 24th Division.

"Today's (Wednesday's) Red push marked a sharp change in Chinese tactics. Heretofore the Reds have confined their major activity to night time.

"Casualties in the centre of the American Division's lines were reported heavy. The enemy also was believed to be taking heavy losses.")

American heavy artillery and fighter support was called for as soon as the Chinese infantry swarmed to the attack.

"This does not look good," one regimental commander told Macbeth at the time.

Ottawa Happy As U.S. Moves Exchange A-Data

OTTAWA, Jan. 3 — (CP). — Canada's capital reacted with guarded pleasure Tuesday to official notice that the American Government probably will seek soon to open the way for freer exchange of atomic information with Canada and the United Kingdom.

That move, plus another here, indicated greater Canadian-US co-operation in the atomic field is emerging in two important respects—swapping of secret information. But the first crack in a curtain that fell at the time of the famous Fuchs case in London emerged in a Washington press conference during the day.

Will Revise Act

There Gordon Dean, US Atomic Commission chairman, said the commission probably will ask Congress within the next two months to revise the Atomic Energy Act to allow greater freedom in exchanging information and material with Canada and the UK.

That was what Canadian, American and British officials were seeking and had just about agreed upon when the Fuchs case broke. The negotiations ended there. The general feelings appeared to be that it was no time to be asking Congress to ease the bars when a spy was being charged and convicted of passing out too much information.

Klaus Fuchs, a native of Germany, was sentenced to 14 years' imprisonment as a spy who gave Russia vital secrets.

Dean's statement indicates the Americans feel the time may be ripe again to proceed.

Ottawa is pleased, but officials are cautious. They don't want to do or say anything to stir up US reaction that could kill their hopes.

The greatest boon, it is felt there, would come from opening the atomic field to that free flow of views and knowledge which traditionally produces the best scientific results. Both Canada and the UK now get secret US information, but not as much as they would get if the American Act were altered.

Railwaymen To Get Benefits By February

MONTREAL, Jan. 3 (CP) — Canada's 125,000 non-operating railwaymen who won concessions in wage and hour benefits in the recent Kellock report will begin harvesting their gains by the end of the month, it was learned here today.

Railway officials are working on the pay adjustments won by the men when the government-appointed conciliator, Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock, awarded them a seven cent an hour wage increase, retroactive to Sept. 1, 1950.

Railway and union spokesmen will meet here next Monday to work out plans for the 40-hour five-day week that goes into effect June 1, 1951.

Output Down

CALGARY, — (CP)—Alberta's coal production for 11 months this year was 7,216,969 tons, or more than half a million tons lower than a year ago. One-fifth of the decrease was accounted for in November production.

Ottawa Using Far East Expert Dr. H. E. Norman

OTTAWA, Jan. 3—(CP)—The government has called one of its top Far Eastern authorities to Ottawa at a time when Asiatic problems have assumed an unprecedented significance here.

He is Dr. Egerton Herbert Norman, 41-year-old, Japan-born son of a United Church missionary, who has quietly taken over the job of heading the Far Eastern Division at External Affairs headquarters.

He has just completed his third lengthy spell in Japan, this last time as head of Canada's liaison mission in Tokyo, and it has been said of him that he is accepted by the Japanese as one who knows and understands them in a way matched by very few occidentals.

He has long been a student both of Japan and China, and speaks both Japanese and Chinese.

Important Questions

He has come to Ottawa at a time when big Asiatic questions are appearing on the horizon. One is Canada's stand on a Japanese peace treaty, including Japanese rearmament, in the light of the Korean war; a Korean settlement; recognition of Communist China; Canadian aid for South and Southeast Asia under the $5,200,000,000, six-year Commonwealth aid program.

He is taking part now in informal government talks about Japanese rearmament and other phases of a peace treaty, a question thrust abruptly into the news by Gen. MacArthur's call for restoration of arms to the Japanese.

Dr. Norman is eminently qualified to advise the government on the rearmament question. He has written a book on the history and character of the Japanese army system as well as others on the emergence of Japan as a modern state.

UK Gives Eisenhower Control Of 3 Divisions

LONDON, Jan. 3 (AP)—Britain Tuesday formally committed more than three British divisions in Western Europe to the command of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Eisenhower, as supreme commander of the 12 Atlantic Allies' international army in Europe, already has been promised three divisions by France as soon as he sets up his headquarters in Paris next week.

A government spokesman said Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell had sent a note to Belgian Foreign Minister Paul Van Zeeland detailing the British troops Eisenhower will have at his disposal the moment he opens headquarters.

The note was sent after the Cabinet and the King surrendered control over the troops.

They include the 7th Amored and 2nd Infantry Divisions in Germany; the 24th Infantry Brigade in Austria; and two infantry battalions in Trieste. The forces in Germany soon are to be reinforced by a third division—the 11th Armored.

Eisenhower also will take over command of American forces in Western Europe and a Canadian force which will be sent soon.

Flowers For Destroyer

TOKYO, Jan. 3—(AP)—A group of South Korean lighthouse keepers sent a floral tribute to the Canadian destroyer Cayuga for coming to their aid while they were ill and without food.

A letter addressed to Capt. Jeffry V. Brock of Winnipeg, commander of the Canadian destroyer force in the Pacific, said: "You have travelled many thousands of miles across the Pacific Ocean to help us in Korea. "I am a small man in Korea, but your men brough me food and medicine. This shows you have a love for all men and I thank you very much."

Change Of Policy In Korea?

It is, of course, difficult to find out what is happening in Korea, for although news from the war front is plentiful it does not reveal a coherent pattern. One thing, however, is of great interest and significance: the late Lieutenant-General Walker has been replaced by Lieutenant-General Ridgway, commanding the Eighth Army; Ridgway is not what is called "a MacArthur man". He is, of course, subordinate to General MacArthur, but it is thought that he may represent the White House and the Pentagon more directly than any officer has done up to the present, and it may be that his appointment is the first of a series of military and political changes of policy; it is interesting that as soon as he assumed command of the Eighth Army the previously independent Tenth Corps was incorporated in it.

* * *

The Chinese drive which began on New Year's Day is obviously of the most serious kind. Two-fifths of the entire Chinese armed strength is now in Korea, and Peking is reported to have approved the largest war expenditures in Chinese history—three thousand million pounds sterling. The spearhead of the drive appears to be the Chinese Fourth Field Army under Lin Piao of two hundred thousand soldiers. Peking's renewed threats to drive the U.N. troops from Korea, if they will not withdraw, are to be put to the test.

* * *

What will happen? Will there be a fight to the finish, probably along the Imjin River? Or will the U.N. troops pull out of Korea? A fight on the Imjin seems unlikely, for it would be hard to keep the U.N. right flank from being turned in the eastern sector of the front. But there appears to be a strong feeling among the troops in Korea that the settlement will be made by political, rather than military, leaders—that Washington, rather than General MacArthur, will make the important decision. Without discussing the merits or demerits of political guidance of a campaign, it may be said that such a feeling cannot encourage the highest morale among troops in Korea. Many emotions can bring out the best in a fighting man, but bewilderment is not one of them.

More About The Scone Stone

A correspondent whose letter appeared on this page yesterday rebuked us for saying that the Stone of Scone was stolen from the Irish by the Scots. We have looked further into the matter, and apologise for our libellous remark. The Stone was borrowed, and through some oversight it was never returned. Later, when it was similarly borrowed by Edward I of England there was a similar piece of neglect. Anybody who has ever had a book borrowed from him knows how these things happen.

The Stone was borrowed from Ireland by Fergus the Great, the son of Erc; he borrowed it from his brother, Murtagh Mac Erc, the King of Ireland. He wanted it because the stone, which was kept at Tara, used to give out a roaring sound whenever a rightful monarch came near it; the approval of the Stone was much valued.

This should provide a good lead for Scotland Yard; they have only to take a rightful monarch of the Irish-Milesian line with them in their search for the Stone, which will undoubtedly roar when he comes near it.

The Radio License Predicament

A case has attracted our attention which concerns a radio license; a woman who had not bought a license was fined $2.50 by a magistrate; she refused to pay the fine, declaring that she thought the charge for the license unjust, and demanded that she be sent to jail instead; the magistrate declined to jail her for such a small sum, gave her a week to think the matter over.

So far, so good. The charge for a radio license is not large and is, in our opinion, perfectly just. But it appears that some official in the Department of Transport has said that if the woman does not pay her fee, the Department will confiscate her radio set. This we do not like. We do not think that the Department can do it legally, and even if it were legal to do so we would not like a law which made it possible for a government department to confiscate property in such instances.

The problem arises, of course, because of the curious circumstances which surround the licensing of radio sets in this country. The Department admits that it cannot collect all the fees; but when it finds someone who has not paid a fee, and who refuses to do so, there is a threat of confiscation. There is something wrong about such a system, and we think the Department should give serious thought to a new method of licensing, or a new method of collection, which will prevent a great loss of money every year, and an occasional show of tyranny.

It has been said many times that if the licensing of radios were in private hands, means would be found to collect a greater proportion of the fees than the government now thinks possible. Perhaps the Department should seek advice from private business on this matter. The present method, and such offshoots of it as the court case which we have mentioned here, are unsatisfactory.

Who's A Guy?

A member of the Toronto Board of Control made a small fuss before Christmas because a civic official had referred to him as "a guy". We think that he was right to do so, although there are many people who refer to all male beings as "guys"; they seem to feel that there is something finicky about the word "man". But "guy" is a word to be used with discretion. So far as we can find, it came into use shortly after the lamentable attempt of Guy Fawkes to blow up the British Houses of Parliament; effigies of this incendiary were called "guys", and so the word came to mean an odd-looking or ill-dressed man. In the U.S.A. it gained a wider usage as a word for any low-bred fellow.

A phrase which we particularly dislike is "the little guy", meaning the citizen of small income and slight social, political or intellectual influence. It is one of those patronizing expressions such as "The Little Man", "The Common Man", "John J. Public" and the like, which should not be applied to any decent self-respecting citizen of a democracy.

The Abominable Xmas

Bidding farewell to the holiday season the Ottawa Journal remarks: "One good thing—we won't have to see that abominable abbreviation 'Xmas' again for 50 weeks or so". We do not share the Journal's detestation of 'Xmas'. We regard it as a legitimate abbreviation or contraction of "Christmas". The X is the first letter XPICTOC (Christos) the Greek word from which 'Christ' is derived; theological students sometimes use Xt and Xtianity in their notes as useful abbreviations, so why not Xmas? No, we have no quarrel with Xmas.

But the people whom we loathe, abhor, execrate and utterly condemn are those who insist on pronouncing it "Ex-mas". They rank, in our list of criminals, even below the outcasts who call doctors "Doc" and professors "Prof". If the Journal wants to begin a campaign against them, we shall be glad to wield a barrel-stave in the fight.

A Blow For The Right Of The Male

A New Jersey court has recently given an interesting and significant judgement, to the effect that if an engagement is broken off, the male partner to the engagement may seize the wedding gifts and sell or convert them to his own use.

This is good news. It is altogether too often taken for granted on this continent that wedding gifts are for the bride-elect alone, and very often the gifts themselves give evidence of the belief. The set of white matched luggage is obviously not for the bridegroom's use; those silver-mounted fittings for a dressing table are not chosen with a thought of him; the china is not chosen with an eye to his taste, nor is the linen; virtually all the wedding gifts are aimed squarely at the girl who has been lucky enough to get him. And yet he will have to live with much of that trumpery directly under his eye for the rest of his life. We are glad that a court has made it plain that he has a proprietary right in it, and can sell it if the engagement comes unstuck.

Women, by a happy arrangement of nature, frequently reach their highest beauty during the weeks before marriage; it is painful to add that their natural grabbiness achieves its finest flower at the same time. Then, if ever, they look upon the world as their oyster. It is pleasant to know that a court of law has reminded the female sex that a marriage is not a celebration of triumphant feminine cunning, but a contract into which two people enter with equal rights, both in the moral sphere and in matters relating to property.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The man who thinks the world owes him a living is quite right. He merely underestimates the work of collecting.

The Russians, it appears, do not like women wrestlers. Working on that narrow but firm foundation of agreement, can't we broaden our mutual sympathies?

A clergyman who has lived for many years among our Canadian Indians points out that they never suffer from baldness, ulcers, thrombosis or nervous breakdown. "For the Indian there is no yesterday and no tomorrow; there is only today; as a result, he's untouched by the ills of modern high pressure civilization", says the reverend gentleman. But we must also point out that the Indian has never contributed anything to civilization, which is very far from being wholly bad.

ON THE MARGIN

Recent Fiction

THE PARASITES, by Daphne Du Maurier (Ryerson Press).

"The Parasites" is our annual treat from the pen of that master craftsman whose "Rebecca", "Frenchman's Creek", and "The King's General" still hold their popular place in the average book-reader's library.

In this novel Miss Du Maurier has turned from her recent historical reveries to a modern story of a theatrical family, and this is a subject upon which she is well informed since she comes from a very fine line of theatrical aristocracy herself.

The story is told in a familiar manner, a series of flashbacks, reminiscences of the three "Parasites" themselves during a quiet Sunday afternoon. In this way we meet Pappy, the famous singer; his daughter Maria; Mama, a famous dancer whom he marries and who brings as her dowry an infant son Neill; and Celia, born into this ready made family.

Dragged across the world in the wake of their parents, nursed only by their mother's dresser, alternately indulged and dismissed, the children set their feet firmly in the only soil they know and understand—the theatre. Only after Mama dies does the family split up and find even their own world has no security for them.

* * *

THE climax comes when Charles, after twelve years of marriage to Maria, finds someone else and asks for a divorce using, as part of his justification for breaking up the marriage, the accusation that she and her family are Parasites. Since Charles himself lives off inherited money, in a house handed down for centuries, and is waiting to inherit a family title, I personally feel that he was in no position to make such an accusation. But then I do not accede to the theory that emotional and artistic labours are not work, as is truck-driving or factory employment. Anything that keeps one under the prying eye of the public must be twice as exhausting as a job that "quits at six".

I will not spoil this book for you by giving details of how each of the Delaneys faces himself after Charles' outburst and how each solves his own special problem. Suffice to say that you will not anticipate Miss Du Maurier's final curtain. "The Parasites" is an easy book to read and it will hold your interest right up to the last paragraph.

FOR THE RECORD by Mary Borden (Heinnemann).

This is, I imagine, what would be considered a timely novel since it concerns the insidious but relentless advance of the communistic party in a "Small Country" somewhere in Europe. This unnamed country is a principality and Louis, reigning prince, had managed to escape to England during the Nazi occupation of his country where he had organized an air force, and by flying with them on some missions to drop supplies to his underground resistance, had built around himself a cloak of glamour and legend that made his return after the war a foregone conclusion. The red party in his country was not disheartened but set about slowly and systematically to ruin him. To this end they planted their own followers as his servants and even managed to supply him with a secretary whose sole objective was to spy on his every move and to copy all his correspondence and hand it over to the interested officials. It is through the eyes of the secretary that we are able to follow the gradual collapse of all the important characters on the prince's side.

The secretary, Alex, is a warped and perverted type of man who is solely dedicated to his cause. Then Isobel, the American wife of the prince, arrives on the scene and Alex falls in love with her. Not as an ordinary man would fall in love because he is incapable of that emotion. Isobel comes to the country with a heart full of good hopes and energy and a great desire to help. With the aid of a priest and the convent sisters she sets up a youth shelter and a babies' home. Isobel's father sends enormous sums of money in the care of the priest whose influence with Louis and the people is very great. The communists make ample use of this, and he is finally arrested and accused of being in the pay of a capitalist country, the proof being the cheques received through Isobel.

The account of the priest's interrogation and torture and his final trial are so reminiscent of the recent trials in Hungary that one feels that that part, at least, is a sad page of recent history.

THE outcome is obvious, the secretary is completely on the side of the Prince by now but is absolutely powerless himself as his changed loyalties have rendered him useless to his party, and he is as much a prisoner as his prince. He is able to get through to the higher officials where all else has failed and brings about an agreement with them. Isobel is persuaded to go home and Louis promises to follow although he knows that he will never leave the country alive. He and Alex live together in captivity for a few weeks and then the prince is offered a post in his country's government because they feel he would have a stronger voice in UNO than another communist; he would also have the chance to become puppet president when the government had succeeded in worrying the old president to death. Asking for time to decide Louis takes the only possible way out. Subsequently Alex escapes to Austria and living in a hovel there writes the story of the whole episode so that the legend of the prince should remain intact and that the priest should not have died so courageously for nothing.

There must be a moral to this but I failed to find it. The book is full of long-winded political arguments and the amazing similarity between the Communist ideology and the Nazi ideology as depicted here is interesting and their methods seem to differ very little. However I have enjoyed other works of Mary Borden's much more, we have the 'Red menace' staring at us from the newspapers every day and enough red ink on our bank statements to make another colour and another subject more entertaining to read about.

Letters To The Editor

GNAWED BY THOUGHT OF MARGARINE

Sir: In your issue of Dec. 19th I noticed an article signed Margarine User, which struck me rather with disgust. This letter seems to be in pretence, an answer to or from a Nurse a few days previous, but appears to be directed with malice, personally at the farmers in general. Summing it all up it seems rather frivolous to pay any heed to this man. However as we pass along from day to day there is often certain things said that sort of gnaw. So here goes.

This man says lower the price of butter as he says he has a big family and has to buy a pound every other day. He appears to be looking for sympathy. Big family. Bah! Whose fault is it he has the big family? I am sure almost anyone could have the same if they wanted one. That is no reason why the price of butter or any thing else should be sold for half price to help him and his big family. Perhaps he could use the lard as he proposes. Tallow, or even a good helping of castor oil might help his big family, especially him.

I am a farmer but luckily I do not have to depend on the butter question alone. But I know there are hundreds whose almost only income is the dairy. Butter source and with the price lowered to about half it was when margarine came on the market their buying power is reduced to about half. We all know, now, that wages are high and other commodities are high too and not many bargains now, quite different to what it was many years ago. For instance, I happen to have a payroll of a mine that operated 1874, and I see men worked for 40c, 50, 60c, 75, $1.10, $1.15 and $1.25 a day, 10 hours. How would you like to work for that wage Margarine User? I guess not. However you say lower the price of butter. Why not pool your wages with the farmer and work for half pay? Some one ought to go to your employer and offer to work for half your wage which would be identically the same thing. I would wager a few dollars you would soon blow off some steam. We don't use margarine and hope we never have to, but as it is a substitute for butter I would suggest it be put on the market at the same price and let Margarine User have it, or anything else he could get cheap.

Thanking you for your valuable space.

QUININE FOR DISTEMPER

Sir: First of all, Happy New Year—but the news of an epidemic of distemper (dogs') in and around Peterborough is disturbing—it is such a horrible disease and dangerous to children. I should be interested to know if anyone else has had success in treating it with very small doses of quinine (plain quinine sulphate, no mixtures)? Having found quinine useful for myself during a year of influenza epidemics I noticed the resemblance between early 'flu symptoms and those of distemper (running eyes and nose and a husky cough—as if the dog were trying to dislodge a fishbone or something from the throat) and when our pup began to show these symptoms she was treated to a quarter of a grain of quinine several times a day 'till the symptoms went, and then a few extra for good measure. She is now nearly nine years old and though a number of times she has shown the first symptoms of distemper they have always been checked before reaching the acute stage.

When the acute stage is reached—I doubt if the quinine would help — but the early stage often lasts for weeks and there is time then to treat and perhaps save the dog. A moderate dose for a grown up person is usually about two grams, four times a day, for several days. I reckoned from that—a big child—half as much—one grain, small child—halve it again—one half grain — a small dog (mine was a small cocker spaniel) one quarter grain. I took a two grain capsule and emptied it on a piece of writing paper — made a few small papers ready, squared up the powder and divided it into eight. It is not easy to get an exact amount on each paper but it doesn't seem to matter.

There may be reasons why it is not advisable to use quinine for distemper but (apart from one slight accident which I put down to the quinine) there have been no obvious ill effects from the use for our dog. One veterinarian prescribed it (at my request) and an Old Country man who raised dogs told me they used it for distemper, but apart from these two I haven't heard of its use, but would be glad to know if others have successfully treated their dogs with it.

I have spoken of it to people who did not know what quinine was—perhaps the Editor would oblige us with a note of explanation.

Thanking you, I am,

Yours truly,

ELEANOR FIFE

ED. NOTE: Quinine sulphate is a well-known treatment for fever, and may be bought without a prescription.

Cultural Backwaters

(R. J. Needham in Calgary Herald)

As for Ottawa being a cultural backwater, it is, in comparison with Toronto. Toronto is a cultural backwater in comparison with New York. Calgary is a cultural backwater in comparison with Ottawa. (That should make Ottawa happy.) Lethbridge is a cultural backwater in comparison with Calgary. And so on down the line till you come to some place so culturally benighted that they never heard of Ottawa, or Toronto, or Barbara Ann. When does the next train leave?

Children, obey your parents in the Lord: for this is right.

Honour thy father and mother; which is the first commandment with promise; that it may be well with thee, and thou mayest live long on the earth. (Eph. 6: 1-3.)

Discontented Minority

(Sudbury Star)

The malcontents and discontents in Northwestern Ontario have now organized themselves into a New Province League, a group which is promoting secession from Ontario and the ultimate formation of a new province.

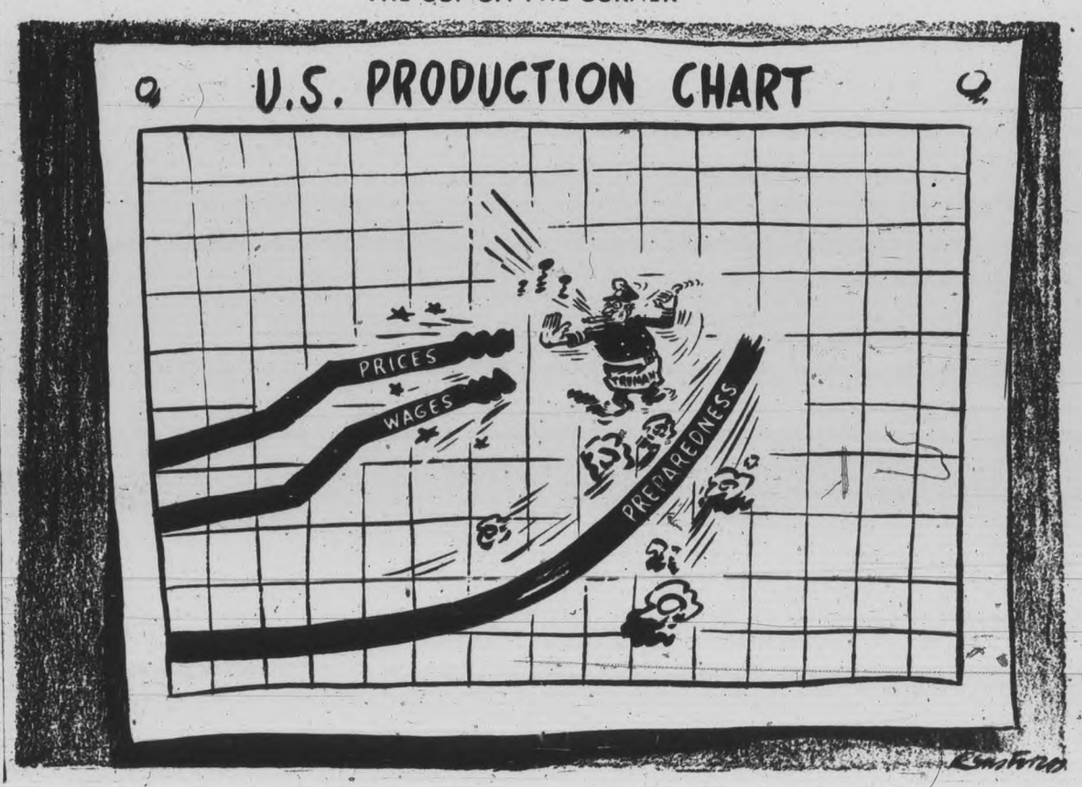
Mayor Hubert Badanai, of Fort William, has disclaimed any connection with the new organization, and declared: "As mayor, I am under obligation to promote cohesion of citizen thought and no disintegration."

The unrest in Northwestern Ontario can be traced to a small group and is by no means indicative of the opinion of the majority of the people living in this section of the province.

Strangely enough there is no move for annexation with Manitoba, which would seem to be a logical solution to the grievance that the seat of the Ontario government is located too far away from the Lakehead.

In some respects the government has gone out of its way to send ministerial and other delegations to the Lakehead to study its problems. The government has expended vast sums, for instance, in the study and control of budworm infestation in the Lakehead forest area. New power projects have been constructed and pulp and paper industries established. For all this, the government gets not one word of thanks from the malcontents and discontents.

Some months ago we expressed the view that this section of the province should perhaps be cut adrift for a test period. It might then find that its population is not sufficient to support highway and other necessary expenditures.



Exploding Turkeys

(Los Angeles Times)

After an Irish turkey exploded in an English oven, "Watch that turkey!" has become the password among relatives and friends of Irish people living in England. The "bomb" was a harmless, well meant gift of a half bottle of Irish whisky put inside a dressed bird to hide it from the vigilant customs men.

More than 640,000 turkeys crossed the sea from Ireland to England—20,000 of them in an air lift operation—before Christmas, but many of them will never be eaten because the generous Irish have loaded them with a stuffing of cigarettes, whisky, nylon stockings and even American fountain pens. New safety razor blades are sometimes hidden under the trussed wings of the turkeys.

THE COP ON THE CORNER

Korea, Manitoba Flood Among Top 1950 Stories

By The Canadian Press

War in Korea was the overshadowing event in the world news picture of 1950.

Telegraph editors of Canadian daily newspapers voting in a Canadian Press poll were unanimous in naming the invasion of South Korea and related events as the year's top news.

Asked to name the six biggest world breaks and the six top Canadian, most went beyond the single fact of war in Korea to list successive phases of the campaign among their choice. Their choices of the four greatest stories of the war are: Outbreak, United Nations intervention, U.S. landings in force, invasion by Red China.

Other world yarns rated near the top were the Truman assassination attempt Nov. 1, the British election of last February in which the Attlee government barely retained power, announcement of U.S. decision to develop the hydrogen superbomb, the Attlee-Truman meeting a month ago, and events centring around the Holy Year ceremonies, including the fatal crash of the plane Canadian Pilgrim with more than 50 Quebec Province people aboard.

The Manitoba floods which beleaguered Winnipeg last May were the unquestioned top in Canadian news, with the August railway strike in second place.

The selections, with Korean war treated as one story:

World news: 1, war in Korea; 2, Truman assassination attempt; 3, British election; 4, hydrogen bomb decision; 5, Truman-Attlee meeting; 6, Holy Year activities.

Canadian news: 1, Manitoba flood; 2, railway strike; 3, Rimouski-Cabano fires; 4, special brigade for UN service; 5, Mackenzie King death; 6, Canoe River troop train wreck.

As in 1949, when the announcement of Russia's possession of the atom bomb led the list, world stories in 1950 were mainly concerned with the moves of nations rather than individuals. An exception was the attempt on President Truman's life by Puerto Rican fanatics.

Also in 1949, disaster topped the Canadian stories, though the month-long Manitoba floods were in contrast with the sudden single break—the Noronic fire—which led the Canadian list a year ago.

Two Hamilton Men Admit 13 Burglaries

BEAMONT, Tex., Jan. 3. (AP)—Two Hamilton men who left home six weeks ago to tour the United States admitted Tuesday night 13 house burglaries and three safe robberies in Pennsylvania, Florida, Louisiana and Texas.

The two — James T. Irwin, 23, and David Crosgrove, 20 — are held here on charges of burglary. A hearing for them is scheduled later this week.

BRAVE SMILES are exchanged in Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, as Mrs. Clara Smith greets her quadruple amputee son, Pfc. Robert Smith, 20. Pfc. Smith had both legs amputated below the knee and both hands as a result of frostbite in Korea. "Bob Smiths" throughout the United States have formed a club to help their handicapped namesake.

Dies of Leukemia

KINGSTON, Jan. 3. (CP)—Ten days after he learned of capturing first prize in an essay competition sponsored by a Canadian mining journal, William J. Losee of Ottawa, a 28-year-old graduate of Queen's University, died in hospital here Saturday. Mr. Losee, who served in the Royal Navy's Fleet Air Arm during the Second World War, died of leukemia.

Atomic Vessels Still A Dream

LONDON, Jan. 3 (AP)—Those atomic-driven luxury ocean liners are still only a dream, an authoritative shipping journal reported Tuesday.

In its first annual report in 12 years, Lloyd's Register of Shipping said:

"The early application of atomic energy in marine engineering is scarcely to be expected. Even with the important developments now taking place, it will be many years before it will be possible for nuclear fuel to replace present sources of power for merchant ships."

The report also said the "31,000 steamers and motorships which constituted the 84,600,000-ton world fleet of 1950 were a far more efficient instrument of commerce than the 30,000 ships which made up the 68,500,000-ton fleet of 1939."

Britain, it said, was the world's greatest shipping power, controlling 25.8 per cent of the total tonnage. The Commonwealth controlled 31.3 per cent and the United States 19.1 per cent, including lake shipping.

Truman Party Urges Unity To New 82nd Congress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP)—The 82nd United States Congress set to work today amid Democratic pleas for national unity and Republican demands that President Truman clarify his international aims.

Reflecting grimly on American casualties in Korea, the Senate and House of Representatives began organizing their ranks for two years of grappling with vital problems which may lead to devastating world war or peace.

Stronger in both houses because of their victories in the November elections, Republicans gave clear signs that they will move to force a reassessment — and some possible changes—in American relations with other countries.

To Determine Policies

Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, scheduled for re-election as chairman of the Republican policy committee, told a reporter he thinks the major problem of the new congress will be to "bring about a determination of military and foreign policies."

"The president's military policies and many of his foreign policies are hidden in darkness now," Taft said. "Congress and the people must know what we intend to do about Korea and what our military commitments are to be abroad."

Taft foresaw Congress' almost complete absorption with the issues of rearming against the threat of Soviet aggression—such questions as military appropriations, new taxes, economic controls and changes in the draft law.

Senator Ernest McFarland of Arizona, elected Tuesday as Senate Democratic leader, told reporters he thinks the chief thing to be accomplished now is to achieve national unity.

McFarland declined to forecast the trend of legislation until President Truman reports on the state of the union at a joint meeting of both houses Monday. The president will outline his program then and in budget and economic messages later.

'SPIEL AND CUP WINNERS — A young rink captured the annual Examiner Trophy curling bonspiel here over the New Year weekend, and it was Skip Harry Baptie's first time to pilot his quartet to an important victory. The competition drew a capacity entry of 28 rinks and was marked by keen curling throughout, the Baptie team taking three wins for high score. The happy warriors (three from the Western Clock Co.) are shown above, admiring the trophy. They are, left to right: Hec Thompson, Carl Ferguson, Harry Baptie (skip) and Pat Hayden.—(Examiner Photo)

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Wally Bent's speedy Belleville Redmen are here to do battle tonight at 8.30 in Civic Arena with Drake Jopling's second-place Petes. And it should be a dandy senior "B" puck scrap between the well-matched squads. Only senior struggle here this week, and no doubt a big crowd will take it in. Petes are hustling in an effort to overhaul the top-flying Eagles, while Belleville has revamped its lineup in a determined drive to climb past the Kingston Nylons, currently nestling in the third slot of a keen group race. Don't bet too heavily on this one, or give any odds, as both teams are hungry and will be shooting the w.k. works.

Over the long holiday week-end, an interesting hockey joust was staged at the arena. Junior Oddfellows were slated for a drill but big Don Crowe (back for a visit) got an idea and lined up a bunch of the older Petes' stars, so the latter played the juniors. It ended 5-2 for the youngsters in a fine tussle, but the older chaps claimed that with a bit of conditioning and Ray Harding in goal (he was absent) they'd still show the IOOF-ers how the game should be played. There's a chance a later exhibition may be arranged between the teams, with the public let in on it this time. Such a tilt should go over big.

* * * * * *

Those Old Stalwarts

With young Red Wasson in goal, the old boys had Jim Ellis, Jack (Smoke) Gardner, Don Crowe and Drake Jopling for defence. One line had that starry trio of other days, Bun Kingdon, Honey Tompkins and Art Heal. And another one had Don Coughlin, Red Creighton and Les Burton. Ed Starr dropped in briefly but had to leave shortly for Montreal. Frank Buckland was back as coach, while Spiros Zakos looked after the juniors, and Len Symonds refereed. Honey and Les scored the oldsters' goals. Rubbery Art Heal was as tricky as ever, Ellis pulled some of his old fancy rushes, Gardner and Crowe bumped all and sundry—and they all had a whale of a time. This team, plus a few more, won the Eastern Canada intermediate "A" title back in 1940, remember?

Public school hockey league schedules are in tonight, and should be clipped by those concerned. Seniors and intermediates open on Jan. 8, the seniors running through to March 7 and the intermediates to Feb. 12. Juniors have a shorter go of it, from Jan. 16 to Feb. 13. Playoffs then follow in each bracket. The times, places of games and referees are listed, also. The teachers, on their own time, act as coaches and referees for the youngsters and do a swell job each winter in starting a raft of kids off on the right track in hockey. As they do in other sports during other seasons of the year.

Skiers' Pix Appeared

A couple of pictures appearing in the latest copy of Canadian Sport Monthly concern Peterborough skiers. There's a shot of Molly Craig, energetic head of the women's executive in the Ontario section of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association. And there's a group pix of the executive of the Peterborough Ski Club, celebrating its 20th anniversary this winter. The group includes: President Cyril Monkman, Jack Sackville, Pat Moyles, Shirley Mortimer, Ted McCuaig, Ken McIntyre and Toby Westbye. A good bunch working against winter odds to promote the healthy outdoor sport of skiing. A hefty membership in the club now and lots of local youngsters learning to slither down the slopes.

A fine former all-around athlete hasn't hung 'em up entirely yet. Looking over the lineups of an exhibition hockey game in which St. Peter's CYO entry in the TVL took a 5-4 overtime win from Warsaw Flyers, we were surprised to see Ira Dundas listed with the victors. Yes, he's playing defence for them and will give Coach Johnny Russelle some aid in directing the players, Don O'Connell being manager. Most of the team's "home" games will be played on foreign ice, as is the case with Brintons—also in the TVL. Ira is certainly a veteran as athletics go, but is always in top condition and can still play a lot of hockey, lacrosse or what have you. The team is at Stirling tonight, Brintons meeting Norwood in Hastings, and Campbellford going to Marmora to open TVL play.

Demarco Still Rules Atop AHL Scoring List

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (CP). — Ab Demarco and Grant Warwick of Buffalo Bisons hold their first and second place ratings in the American Hockey League scoring race.

Demarco leads handily with 64 points on 27 goals and 37 assists. Warwick has 49 points—12 goals and 37 assists.

But the biggest gains of the last week were by a pair of Cleveland Barons — Freddie Thurier and Wally Hergesheimer. Thurier picked up 10 points to tie George Sullivan of Hershey Bears for third with 46 points. Rookie Hergesheimer tallied nine times to nose out Jackie Gordon of Cincinnati for fifth place. His total was 45 points.

Demarco had the most goals with 27, but Hergesheimer edged close with 25.

Ivan Irwin of Cincinnati continued to lead the bad-boy parade with a total of 95 minutes—including three majors and one misconduct.

Gil Mayer of Pittsburgh was far ahead in the goaltending department with an average of 2.06 on 68 goals allowed in 33 games. He also led in shutouts with three.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

Besides our regular schedule games, Neill Trophy and Saturday night games, we have three outstanding events coming up very shortly—and while they are very interesting from a local point of view—they are also interesting to curlers all around this district.

On Monday, Jan. 15, we have the Ontario Tankard games for this district (No. 3) and no doubt these games will be watched with interest. The Ontario Tankard is looked upon as the premier event of the province. These games are played according to the rules of the Ontario Curling Association.

Then the same week—Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, the ladies have their big open bonspiel for the Warne Trophy. This is a big event for the ladies, and the committee is making great preparations. They expect 32 rinks from all parts of Ontario. Up to date, we believe they have 20 entries — no doubt they will reach their objective.

The following Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the men hold their 3-day open bonspiel and they, too, are hoping for a capacity entry. It will be run on a straight elimination basis and all rinks are assured of at least four games. We are not certain of this, but believe that there are four trophies up for competition. Now, you local curlers, get your entry into Mr. McKee or I. Moore before it is too late. There is just a chance that this 'spiel might be over-subscribed.

Rochon Victor

Southpaw Henri Rochon of Montreal, top-seeded foreign player in the Dixie tennis tournament, wore down Jim Vuille of St. Petersburg, Fla., before finally defeating him 6-3, 7-9, 6-0 yesterday.

Likes Taylor At Centre For All-Stars

(Fred Mabee gets down to brass tacks and starts picking his all-star hockey team of the half century. His story is being run in several parts, the piece today dealing with the greatest centre.)

There have been many great stars at centre. There was "Cyclone" Taylor, nick-named for his speed. He played in the east in his younger days and later in Vancouver for many years. Joe Malone of the old Canadiens had a fine career, as had Frank Frederickson, the old Victoria star under Patrick. Then there were Morenz, Nighbor, Frank Boucher, Nels Stewart, Barry, Hooley Smith, Primeau, Cowley, Apps, Weiland, Burch, Goodfellow and Schmidt, to name a few of the best.

To us the three outstanding would be Cyclone Taylor of Listowel, Frank Boucher of Pembroke and Howie Morenz of Stratford.

Since we have three lines we can use all and now its just a question of who would be best in order of merit. Taylor and Morenz were faster than Nighbor beyond question through the latter was speedy enough and by far the best defensive player of the three.

Likes Taylor

On the whole, both on attack and defence, over a long period of time, we are inclined to give Taylor the first spot on our team. He lasted 20 years, could backcheck with the best and won all-star rating at centre for almost his entire career. Ten thousand people can't be wrong, so it's the Listowel boy at centre.

Next, we give the palm to Nighbor, the old Senator star who led Ottawa to Stanley Cups in 1921, 23 and 26, and who lasted close to 20 years as a player. Defensively he had no peer and his poke-check captivated the fans who saw and really loved the man for his matchless, scientific play. Close in, he rarely missed on attack.

King Clancy, who played behind him for nine years once said "Just give me old Dutch and you can have all the rest." We saw him perform many times and feel that none save Taylor could replace him on an all-time cast.

In fact, we select Taylor only because of a margin on attack (the records will bear us out) and extra speed, but Nighbor was a fine playmaker and used his head at all times to save his legs.

Spectacular One

Morenz of course was the most spectacular of all and also the most colorful we would say, though Taylor fans could argue this too. Morenz was undoubtedly the best drawing card in hockey from 1924 until 1934—not excepting the great Shore—a natural tribute to his color. He was a great competitor, indomitable on attack and a very good backchecker though his offensive play was his forte. Like the others, he was a gentleman, always.

Many may ask why we should choose two men ahead of the man chosen by many as Canada's best hockey players of the first half century. The answer is we make our own decisions and they are free from prejudice of any kind. Morenz is third, in a close race.

St. Peter's Victors

St. Peter's CYO entry in the TVL puck setup with a 5-4 overtime win over Warsaw Flyers of the EPL in an exhibition game, a speedy and rugged affair. Tony Giardino and Al Menzies stood out on defence, with Al Griffin and Mike Forestell good up in front for the winners. Cavanagh was solid in goal, Watts starred for Warsaw with three markers and Lonsberry was effective. Others on the SPS squad were O'Heron, Conway, Vyse, Mongraw, Williams, Basciano, Russelle, Donoghue, O'Connell, Marshall, Ira Dundas and McGrath.

Classics Preferred

BRISTO, England — (CP) — Prisoners at Horfield prison here are showing a marked preference for the classics. The most popular books in the jail library are the works of Shakespeare and Byron.

Lots of Help

LONDON — (CP) — When a motorcoach collided with a motorcycle, expert attention was on the spot. Nurses of the Royal Free Hospital piled out of the bus to give first aid to the bike rider.

WILLIE SHOEMAKER, left and Joe Culmone wound up all even for the 1950 US national jockey championship. They both booted home three winners on Sunday on foreign tracks for a total of 388 winners for the year, which tied the 44-year-old US record set by Walter Miller. There is no Sunday racing in the United States so both had to fly to widely-separated tracks. Culmone rode in all eight races at Havana, Cuba, and Shoemaker had mounts in eleven events at Agua Caliente, Mexico. Inda Celcio Pertierra, president of Oriental Park race track in Havana, is shown presenting a watch to Culmone.

Lakefield Triumphs Over Keene In EPHL

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 3 (ENS).—Opening the EPHL here last night Lakefield defeated Keene 7-3. They took a 2-0 lead in the first on goals by Sloan and Calberry, as Wilford and Birch aided on one each. They scored two more next heat, Calberry from Morrison and Chittick from Dunford, while Brown notched a marker for Keene. G. Sellaby and Anderson got the other Keene goals in the third period, but Lakefield counted three, Lambert, Dunford and Calberry being the marksmen, and Birch aiding on one. The 10 penalties were fairly evenly divided.

Keene—Goal, E. Musgrave; defence, Stock, Shearer; centre, Hayfield; wings, D. Musgrave; L. Sellaby; alternates, Brown, G. Sellaby, Anderson, Manbeck, Thompson, Whalen, Wright, Coby, Burns.

Lakefield—Goal, Blake; defence Hamblin, Lambert; centre, Birch; wings, Calberry, Morrison; alternates, Sloan, Wilford, Geraldi, Hockaday, Knox, Dunford, Chittick, Montgomery.

Referee, W. Houle.

County Boys' Hockey

The east district Peterborough county boys' work board has organized bantam and midget hockey leagues with four entries in each. Tom Gall of Keene is president, D. D. Kirk vice-president, and Doug Whalen secretary-treasurer. Here and There In Sport

Black Jack Stewart, one of the heaviest body-checkers the National Hockey League has ever known, may be at the end of his career.

The 34-year-old veteran of 10 seasons with Detroit Red Wings, playing this year with Chicago Black Hawks, will spend another three weeks in hospital and then wear a special brace to support his back.

The X-ray examination revealed Tuesday he suffered a spinal injury called a "split disk" last Dec. 14 in a game against Toronto.

His retirement would mark the end of one of the longest and most valuable careers in NHL history.

Native of Pilot Mound, Man., he played with the famous Portage La Prairie Terriers before hitting the big time. After 1½ years with Pittsburgh in the American Hockey League, he went to Detroit, providing a tower of strength behind the blue line until last fall.

Never a prolific scorer, Stewart notched 30 goals in his league play with Detroit. His occasional scoring rush usually came at a crucial time. He bagged five in nine years of playoffs.

In 1943-44 and '45-'46 he served with the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Last fall he was traded to Chicago in hockey's greatest player swap. With him went goalie Harry Lumley, forward Pete Badando, and farmhands Don Morrison and Al Dewsbury. Detroit got centre Metro Prystai, wing Gaye Stewart, defenceman Bob Goldham and goalie Jim Henry.

He is a member of Detroit's Hockey Hall of Fame and was five times a member of one of the all-star squads. He was the first defence player in NHL history to win all-star rating under the changed rules, both before and after the advent of the centred red line.

At New Westminster, B. C., Doug Grimston, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, Tuesday night lifted the suspension of coach Hap Emms and Leo Labine of Barrie Flyers of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series. The two were suspended after a wild exhibition game recently in Port Arthur.

Officials of the Thunder Bay Hockey Association, who watched the game between Barrie and Port Arthur Bruins Dec. 27, charged that Emms made no effort to control his players during a brawl in which three Barrie Flyers including Labine drew match penalties.

Labine was suspended for deliberately attempting to injure a player.

New York Rangers of the National Hockey League called up young Vic Howe of Saskatoon from their New York Rover team of the Eastern Amateur Hockey League Tuesday. Howe, a younger brother of Detroit's Gordie Howe, the National's top scorer, will be up for a three-game try-out.

Ken Schultz of Preston, Ont., veteran Cleveland left winger injured Sunday night in an American Hockey League game against Providence Reds, today was reported in good condition in hospital. Schultz suffered a head injury when driven into the boards by player-coach Terry Reardon of the Reds seven minutes after the start of the game.

Meanwhile Barons recalled Lloyd Doran, 29-year-old centre from Porcupine, Ont., who had been loaned to Denver. Doran will replace Schultz.

CANADA'S ONLY BOWL GAME played on New Year's day, The Garbage Bowl game took place on the Montreal West Athletic Grounds in Montreal with the pyjama clad Southside Bombers emerging as victors over the underwear attired Northside Combines (not combinations). It was rough going with plenty of chills for the battlers and much wear and tear on the uniforms as shown in the above photos. The gridiron was covered knee-deep in heavy snow. The game only saw one touchdown as compared with the high-scores of the US bowl games. The Southside ploughed through the snow in the second quarter for the TD after scoring a rouge in the first stanza to win over the Wolly Wollies 6-0. It was the second annual Garbage Bowl Game.

Howe, Sawchuk Power Wings To Leadership

MONTREAL, Jan. 3 (CP). — A couple of smooth young operators —right wing Gordie Howe and rookie goalie Terry Sawchuk — last week powered Detroit Red Wings into the National Hockey League leadership.

Winning two out of their three games, the Wings moved one point ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs, the team that has led the circuit almost from the start of the season. Detroit now has 47 points.

Howe, at 22 a veteran of 4½ seasons with the Red Wings, picked up nine assists and one goal to take over individual point-getting honors in the league.

Equally important was the cool defensive play of the 21-year-old Sawchuk in the nets. Sawchuk has played in all 34 of Detroit's games this year and has let in less pucks than anybody else—67, for an average of 1.97. He has four shutouts so far, one less than Toronto's Turk Broda.

Statistics released by the league today showed that the number of goals being scored is increasing all the time. The average in a game for the week ended Dec. 25 was 5.2—highest figure reached this season.

Breaks Monopoly

Detroit's big drive broke the Toronto monopoly on the individual scoring leadership. Leaf Max Bentley went through the last week without a point, and finally relinquished the total-points and total-assists leadership to Howe.

Howe has 14 goals and 23 assists while Bentley has 14 goals and 22 assists.

In third place is Toronto's smart young sniper, Tod Sloan, with 18 goals and 13 assists for 31 points. But Sloan had to give up the goal-getting leadership to Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens, who picked up three goals to run his total to 19—one more than Sloan. Richard also has 10 assists.

Tony Leswick, scrappy New York Ranger forward, picked up a major and a misconduct besides several minors to become the league's top bad man with 70 minutes. He took over the position from Toronto's bruising defenceman, Gus Mortson, who has 69.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Jolly Jack Adams now manager of the Detroit Red Wings of the N.H.L., was made captain of the old Toronto St. Pats 28 years ago today. Adams then was a star centre with the old St. Pats and at this date in 1923 was among the top scorers of the National Hockey League.

Majors Mangle Hurricanes, 12-1 Nightmare

By The Canadian Press.

Waterloo Hurricanes, the freshmen of the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A Circuit, have said repeatedly that they have no designs on the Memorial Cup in their first season—they're building for the future.

If anyone ever thought the management made the statement with tongue in cheek, they should be convinced today.

The Hurricanes, who battled through their first 27 games without a victory, had looked good in defeat on many occasions and seemed ripe to end the drought when they faced Toronto St. Michael's Majors, the closest team to them in the standings.

What followed was a Waterloo nightmare. The ninth-place Majors pinned a smashing 12-1 defeat on the hapless Hurricanes — the worst beating they've taken all season.

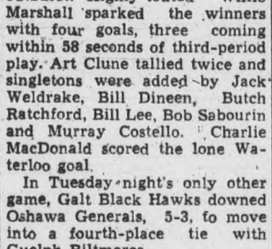
Eight-goal Outburst

The Irish ruined them in the third frame with an eight-goal outburst. Highly-touted Willie Marshall sparked the winners with four goals, three coming within 58 seconds of third-period play. Art Clune tallied twice and singletons were added by Jack Weldrake, Bill Dineen, Butch Ratchford, Bill Lee, Bob Sabourin and Murray Costello. Charlie MacDonald scored the lone Waterloo goal.

In Tuesday night's only other game, Galt Black Hawks downed Oshawa Generals, 5-3, to move into a fourth-place tie with Guelph Biltmores.

Penalties killed the Generals, who had two men in the box when Galt sewed up the game. Seven of the eight penalties went to Oshawa.

Ken Wharram scored twice for the winners and Lou Jankowski got a pair for Oshawa. Johnny Sleaver and Hal Empie of Galt and Al Mills of Oshawa were the other marksmen.



The league-leading Toronto Marlboros, five points ahead of the pack, travel to Windsor tonight to tackle Windsor Spitfires while Barrie Fliers, tied with Windsor for second place, meet the fourth-place Biltmores at Guelph.

In the OHA's major loop, Toronto Marlboros get a chance to break their tie with Toronto St. Michael's Monarchs at the top of the standings when they meet the third-place Tigers at Hamilton.

Stearns Top Scorer

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 3 (AP).—Kansas City's Cal Stearns, who last week was tied for third pace, dominates the scoring race in the United States Hockey League, figures showed today. Stearns scored five goals and aided in six others in a week-long scoring spree that sent him ahead of team-mate Ike Hildebrand, who moved into second place during the week. Len Halldorson of Tulsa, last week's leader, dropped to a tie for third place with Ian MacIntosh of St. Paul.

Board Appointed Hear Appeals On Court-Martial

OTTAWA, Jan. 3 — (CP). — A five-man court-martial appeal board was named Tuesday to launch the new system of allowing Canadian servicemen to fight court-martial decisions.

The Defence Department said the board, under Mr. Justice J. C. A. Cameron of Ottawa and Belleville, will be "prepared to hear appeals when appropriate provisions of the new National Defence Act are proclaimed."

That Act, passed in 1950 by Parliament, ended the traditional rule that no appeal of a court-martial conviction is allowed.

Mr. Justice Cameron, a member of the Exchequer Court, and a veteran of two world wars, will handle the job on a part-time basis as will his colleagues.

Other members are B. M. Alexander, Ottawa lawyer and wartime wing commander; Duncan A. MacTavish, Ottawa lawyer and wartime naval captain; Louis R. Audette, wartime naval commander and now a member of the Maritime Commission; Leonce Plante, former Recorder of the City of Montreal and a First World War infantry veteran.

Can Make Appeals

Appeals may now be made as to the severity of the sentence; the legality of any or all of the findings; or the legality of the whole or any part of the sentence. The officer or man convicted by a court-martial has 14 days after receipt of the minutes of the proceedings of the court in which to launch an appeal.

If the appeal only concerns severity of sentence it will be handled by service authorities. If the appeal as based on legality of the findings or the legality of the sentence it will be heard by the board.

Upon hearing of an appeal rejecting a guilty verdict on any charge, the appeal board, if it allows the appeal, can set aside the findings of the court-marial and direct a finding of not guilty or direct a new trial.

On hearing an appeal respecting the legality of a sentence passed by a court-martial, the board, if it allows the appeal, will refer the proceedings to the Defence Minister.

BUSHMAN, world famous gorilla, was found dead in his cage at the Lincoln Park Zoo in Chicago recently. The great ape, 22 years old, had been the biggest single attraction at any Chicago zoo for the past 20 years. An estimated 3,000,000 persons visited his cage annually. He weighed 550 pounds and was six feet, two inches tall. Zoo veterinarians said Bushman died of a heart attack.

See City Manager System Discussed By New Councils

By The Canadian Press.

Municipal taxation and the city manager system of civic government were among topics discussed Tuesday when the councils of several Ontario communities held their inaugural meetings for 1951.

Mayor Thomas R. Brophey of Windsor said his city must cooperate with other municipalities in bringing pressure on provincial and federal governments to have the whole system of municipal financing overhauled and reformed. He also urged strengthening of Windsor's law enforcement system.

Mayor Brophey, who defeated former Mayor Arthur Rheaume by 38 votes in the Dec. 6 mayoralty contest, was sworn in Tuesday. A recount is scheduled to start Thursday.

Hamilton's Mayor Lloyd Jackson, back for a second term, said he is convinced many income-earning properties are not bearing their fair share of the tax burden. He reviewed reassessment proceedings and expressed hope for a slightly lower tax rate for homeowners in 1952. He said proposals for this year include improvement of eastern and western entrances to the city as a civil defence measure.

Want City Manager

Mayor James Clare of Guelph urged that his city try the city manager system of municipal government. The mayor, re-elected by acclamation for his second term, said he thought appointment of a city manager would improve the efficiency of civic government.

Sarnia city council, at its first regular meeting of the year, Tuesday set up a committee to choose and hire a city manager. The entire council was named to a special annexation committee to deal with problems arising from Sarnia's annexation of surrounding areas to bring its population to 35,000.

Mayor Howard Winter of Brantford, in his inaugural address, advocated the sale of Brantford's market square.

"If we dispose of it, the increased revenue from business assessment on lands and buildings erected thereon would greatly assist our financial problem," he said.

Reeve Arthur George of Stamford township, near Niagara Falls held out no hope for tax reduction in his municipality this year. He suggested that money be taken from a surplus fund to help keep the tax rate down.

Report Sun Influences Cosmic Rays In Tests

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP)— Strong new evidence that the sun may be the principle source of the cosmic rays which bombard the earth was reported Tuesday as the basis of upper atmosphere studies made in far northern Canada.

The National Geographic Society and the Bartol Research Foundation of Philadelphia's Franklin Institute told of the findings in an interim report on research conducted at the top of the atmosphere of Fort Churchill, Man.

A major item in the new evidence of the sun's place in the cosmic ray picture is instrument readings which show a vast increase in the weight of the ray barrage" soon after solar flares or eruptions in the sun. The instrument readings were taken by means of balloons.

Many Events of Interest Marked Centennial Year

The 100th anniversary of the incorporation of the municipality of Peterborough was marked by many impressive and varied events during the 1950 centennial year.

The centennial year celebrations were officially opened on May 20, when Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent visited the city with his wife and daughter, Mrs. Madeline O'Donnell. On this occasion, the prime minister also opened the new civic hospital.

The first of the events to mark Peterborough's 100th birthday was a play entitled "Centennial Pageant" which was presented by the students of the Normal School in mid-February.

Special Play Written

Drama again came to the fore in the centennial year with the presentation of "At My Heart's Core", written especially for the occasion by Robertson Davies and presented by the Peterborough Summer Theatre in the week beginning August 28.

For the sportsmen of the city there was the water sports' exhibition held in Little Lake on July 1 that climaxed the Dominion Day centennial celebration. The water sports were followed by a fireworks' display.

Centennial sports week was another event that took place during the summer.

On June 6, citizens had the opportunity of glimpsing what local industries have been contributing to the city's growth in the last 100 years at the Kiwanian Centennial Industrial Show. This show was opened by the Hon. Harold Scott, minister for the Department of Lands and Forests.

Another centennial show was presented on November 28—the Peterborough Scottish concert and festival held in the collegiate auditorium.

Exhibition In Library

Collections of antiques, pictures, original records, books, portraits and pioneer costumes were on display on three occasions. The largest display was at the Public Library, which opened on July 25, and was largely the work of Miss Genevieve Sullivan of the library staff.

Smaler displays were presented at a Centennial Tea given by the Local Council of Women on March 31 and the "Old Time Tea" by the Women's Art Association on May 11.

On September 19, more than 3,000 people attended the Peterborough centennial street dance held on Aylmer St., between King and Charlotte streets.

A religious commemoration of the centennial year was held on September 17. The Civic Arena was filled when all denominations attended a joint service that was the culmination of a day dedicated to the observance of centenary Sunday in all churches.

On July 14 a centennial edition was published by the Peterborough Examiner.

This past year was not without festive decorations. In the early fall, the public utilities commission hung plastic birthday cakes at all the main intersections of the city.

December 1, the Hon. Leslie Frost, prime minister of Ontario officially ended Peterborough's centennial year with the laying of the foundation stone of the new city hall. It was the prime minister's second visit for earlier in the year he had opened the new wing of St. Joseph's hospital.

Throughout the past year the centennial committee has arranged and directed the special events that were presented. The members of the committee were: James Hamilton, Ross Dobin, Robertson Davies, Robert Bolton and William Ovens.

New Project To Make Village A City

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 3 (CP). The western world's growing need for aluminum will hew a city, destined to be British Columbia's No. 3 metropolis, from a wilderness stronghold.

From a giant smelter to be constructed at that city of the future, now the hamlet of Kitimat, will ultimately flow possibly 300,000 tons of aluminum ingots a year.

Government and business leaders say these developments—and many others—will come of an agreement just signed between the B.C. government and the Aluminum Company of Canada—a pact that will lead to a $500,000,000 development.

The agreement, subject to ratification by the provincial legislature, gives the company water rights in the Tweedsmuir Park area, about 400 miles north of Vancouver.

Covers Water Rights

It covers water rights in the Tahtsa-Kemano watersheds of Tweedsmuir Park, where the company proposes to develop a 500,000-H.P. power plant on the Memano River as the first stage of a 1,500,000-h.p. development.

Construction of the power-plant would follow building of a dam in the Grand Canyon of the Nechako River, about 160 miles from the coast. This would back up waters in the Tahtsa-Kemano watersheds to permit hydro development.

The power site is about 50 miles from Kitimat which, it is estimated, will become an aluminum boom town of perhaps 50,000 population. Vancouver and Victoria now are the only B.C. cities with popuations exceeding 50,000.

Government sources earlier said it probably would take five years for the proposed smelter at Kitimat to reach full production. Purpose of the plant will be to process bauxite, aluminum ore.

Period May Be Cut

But because aluminum is a vital defence material, this period may be slashed. No serious opposition is expected when the project is discussed in the legislature.

The ore would be taken by ship to Kitimat. Observers say the project may mean a boom, too, for the port of Prince Rupert, near Kitimat.

Lands Minister E. T. Kenney, who announced the agreement on Tuesday said: "It (the project) is the biggest thing we've ever seen. I doubt if there has ever been a larger contract before in Canada."

Lama Intends Stay In Tibet

NEW DEHLI, India, Jan. 3— (AP)—Tibet's boy ruler, who has fled from his Chinese-Communist-threatened capital, has no intention of leaving Tibet, authoritative sources, said Tuesday.

An earlier press report said the 16-year-old Dalai Lama has reached the mountain hamlet of Yatung, one day's march from sanctuary in the Indian protectorate of Sikkim. It is presumed here that he has set up a provisional capital in Yatung.

Government officials also said Dr. S. Sinha, India's representative in the Tibetan capital of Lhasa, is remaining there despite the Dalai Lama's departure. It was reported earlier that Sinha might return to India "for reasons of personal safety."

Another conflicting dispatch from Kalimpong, published here in the Statesman said the Tibetan ruler had left Phari Dzong only yesterday and would enter the 50-mile long Chumbi valley tomorrow. The valley is the gateway to Sikkim.

Pick MacArthur Newsiest Figure

By The Canadian Press.

Gen. MacArthur, head man of United Nations forces fighting in Korea, was the world's newsiest figure in 1950.

Canadian newspaper telegraph editors, voting in a Canadian Press poll, picked the UN commander over President Truman of the United States. Others mentioned were Soviet spokesman Malik and Vishinsky, Winston Churchill, Pope Pius, and—one vote—Josip Broz Tito, who headed the list last year.

Canada's newsiest personality, the editors found, was Hon. L. B. Pearson, Minister of External Affairs. He displaces Prime Minister St. Laurent, who nosed him out last year and was this year's runner-up. Others who got a vote or two were Charlotte Whitton, Hon. C. D. Howe, and Indian Jack Jacobs, an Oklahoman.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 3 (CP—The Sadler's Wells Ballet Company arrived in Winnipeg Tuesday for a four-day stand. And two members of the company said Winnipeggers can thank the King and the Red River flood for their chance of seeing the famed dancing troupe.

Officials said the company's North American itinerary was being arranged at the time of the floods. Just at this time that King George VI received a member of the Sadler's Wells Company — and put in a strong word for including Winnipeg. Otherwise the western city would not have been included because of its distance from other centres on the itinerary.

Epidemic Hits Muskrats Quarter of Population Lost

THE PAS, Man., Jan. 3 (CP)— The prolific muskrat, little marshland rodent whose pelt means more than $1,000,000 to Northern Manitoba trappers annually, is sick.

Laboratory tests made on carcasses shipped to Winnipeg indicate that a virus infection still unknown definitely may be the slayer blamed for reducing the province's muskrat population by one-quarter.

In the season of 1948-49, more than 1,084,000 muskrat pelts were taken at an average price of $1.30 each. And that was a season hampered by adverse spring trapping weather in the Saskatchewan River marshes.

Game officials here blame the 1948 flooding in the area for this season's decline. Thousands and thousands of the rat houses were flooded, drowning or freezing the parents and litters. Warm weather rotted the bodies and the disease followed, aided by a harsh winter last season. Food is not the answer because the natural forage of the muskrat is back this year in more abundance than last.

Winnipeg laboratory workers still are investigaing, as well, an unknown disease that struck the beaver population last year. But they report that beaver, along with fox, weasel and squirrel, seem unaffected by the muskrat ailment. Closely-related mice, however, are scarce.

Monty Woolley Suffers Anew, Has Beard Dyed

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 3—(AP)—This week Monty Woolley suffered yet another indignity to his famed beard—he had it dyed.

The beard is a source of constant discomfort to the noted actor. Not that he dislikes it. Oh, no. He just dislikes the way people bedevil him about it.

I found Woolley in an expansive but acid mood on the set of "Will You Love Me In December" His hair and the beard were tinted a rich golden color, about the shade of Susan Hayward's tresses. The dye job had been done for a scene in which the actor impersonates the head of a giant motor corporation.

"I had to sit under a dryer so I wouldn't go out in the cold with a wet beard," he grumbled. "It was awful."

Christmas Worst

Woolley's worst time of year is Christmas: "Women hold their children up in front of me and say, 'See—there's Santa Claus'."

And then there are the people who want to pull the beard—"mostly females in bars." He is also subjected to all sorts of stale repartee. Most common is the question: "Do you sleep with the beard outside or under the sheet?" His usual answer:

"That remark was first pulled in the time of Rameses II and it wasn't funny then."

I asked if he ever felt badgered enough to shave the thing off.

"Heavens, no," he replied. "My agent would faint if I even mentioned it."

UTOPIA IN WINTER — A picture of snow covering the old snake fence and the little frozen creek is one that evokes a touch of nostalgia during the holiday season in all but the most hardened city dweller. The scene, appropriately, is Utopia, near Barrie.

Saudi-Arabia Gets 50-50 Deal

CAIRO, Jan. 3 (AP) — The Arabian American Oil Co. (Aramco) has signed a sweeping new agreement with Saudi Arabia which in effect will mean a 50-50 split in profits from the huge amounts of oil the American-owned company takes out of that rich Persian Gulf area.

The agreement, announced Tuesday, was signed Dec. 30 at Jidda after a week of negotiations following an announcement by King Ibn Saud's government that foreign companies in Saudi Arabia henceforth would have to pay income taxes. Aramco has up to now been exempted from these taxes.

The new agreement, which is retroactive to Jan. 1, 1950, provides that Aramco will pay up to—and not exceeding—50 per cent of its net profits in income taxes to Saudi Arabia, after income taxes to the United States are deducted. In addition, Aramco, one of the world's biggest oil combines will continue to pay the present 34-cent royalty a barrel into the desert monarch's coffers.

Based on last year's all-time production of some 200,000,000 barrels of oil from this area, the new agreement is expected to pour some $100,000,000 into the Saudi Arabian treasury.

Use Tear Gas On Mob

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Jan. 3—(CP).—Police read the riot act Tuesday and then used batons and tear gas to beat back a mob of striking sugar estate workers attacking non-strikers. There were several hospital cases but police said no arrests were made. The strike at Worthy Park, now in its fifth week, stems from a political argument centred around which union should have bargaining powers.

South America Granted Increased Loans

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development has made loans totalling $232,775,000 to member countries in South America.

The bank gives this total in announcing its most recent loan, one for $2,600,000 for power development in Colombia. This loan follows two others to Colombia—one for $5,000,000 in 1949 for purchase of agricultural machinery and one last November for another hydro-electric project.

The bank comments in part:

The main trends in the Colombian economy are favorable. Economic development has been proceeding well, particularly in the last five years. Capital formation is at a relatively-high level, with private adjustment providing some three-quarters of the total. There has been a notable expansion of production, and it is estimated that the volume of industrial production has increased 143 per cent from 1939 to 1948.

Production Diversified

Production is becoming increasingly diversified, enabling Colombia to utilize more of her own resources to meet her consumption requirements. However, the country still remains heavily dependent upon the export of a single commodity—coffee . . .

The prospects for oil, second largest export, have been improved recently by an agreement satisfactory to both the Colombian government and the foreign oil companies concerned. Under this agreement the de Mares concession, the largest producing field, has been transferred to the government. Refinery capacity will be enlarged under government ownership and foreign management, and petroleum products will be distributed within Colombia by the refiners.

HOME SEWING: "With five children all under 10 I've simply got to learn to sew. I haven't time to take any night courses or anything like that. Is there a book simple enough to help me?"

The Singer Sewing Book, obtainable at any Singer Centre, would be just what you want. It costs $3.95.

SOAP SUDS: "After I wash my daily bundle of woollens in a detergent it takes 10 to 15 minutes and coaxing to work the sudsless foam down the drain. I do not have this problem when washing dishes. Can you solve it for me? And please don't say to use less detergent. I have cut it down to the minimum that will still get the clothes clean."

The soap companies say that if you have cut the detergent to the minimum, the only way to cut your suds down would be to use a little soap in the water too. If you use half detergent and half soap flakes your problem will probably be solved. And something to remember—when using a detergent alone for washing clothes you use a good cupful to a washing machine of water.

FINISHING FLOORS: "We are planning to sand and finish our hardwood floors. Is it necessary to steel wool them before putting the wax on?"

Floor experts say yes. The steel wool removes any little fibres of wood that have risen or dust that has settled and leaves a smooth surface for waxing and polishing.

Prison Guards To Take Course

VICTORIA, B.C., Jan. 3 (CP) —Prison guards may take training at the University of British Columbia in the planned revamping of B.C.'s prison system.

Attorney-General Gordon Wismer outlined principles for B.C. prison reform, based on the report of a special committee. The report has been completed, Mr. Wismer said, but has not yet been made public.

"Our aim," he said, "is to modernize completely our penal system, placing emphasis on rehabilitation more than on punishment."

An essential step in getting the plan into full operation, he said, was construction of a new jail to hold 400 to 500 prisoners.

Once present overcrowding was eased, prison officials could swing into a new program for training and otherwise attempt to reclaim prisoners for a return to a normal existence.

All prison guards, he said, would be specially trained with the new approach in mind, and consideration now was being given to penology at the university.

Killed By Horse

HUDSON HOPE, B.C., Jan. 3—(CP)—Neil Gething, 87-year-old pioneer mining engineer who arrived in the Peace River country by dog team more than 50 years ago and discovered a "mountain" of coal, was killed New Year's Eve by a horse. He was associated with Lord Rhondda the Welsh coal magnate who invested millions in an unsuccessful effort to bring a railway to the coal properties near here.

Strike Blow At Gambling Rings

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP)—A bill aiming a blow at big-time crime by prohibiting the shipment of slot machines across state lines was signed into law Tuesday by President Truman.

The only exception is where states pass laws specifically exempting themselves from the interstate ban.

The legislation is designed to hit organized gambling in the pocketbook. Federal and state law enforcement officials who attended the attorney-general's conference on organized crime last February estimated the slot machine take at $2,000,000,000 a year. The California Crime Study Commission reckoned that possibly 20 per cent of that total, or $400,000,000, is protection money used to bribe public officials.

Jail terms of up to two years and fines up to $5,000 are provided for violators of the new law.

Plan State Visit

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP)—French President Vincent Auriol is expected here March 28 for a visit of state as a guest of President Truman. Officials said Tuesday the week of March 28-April 3 has been agreed on for the visit. It will be the French President's first trip to the United States. He will also visit Canada.

426 Die Over Holiday

CHICAGO, Jan. 3 (AP)—Accidents killed 426 persons across the United States during the three-day New Year's weekend, a final tabulation showed today. This was one more than the 425 killed a year ago. But it fell sharply below the total of 724 violent deaths during the long Christmas weekend.

May Move Equipment

DETROIT, Jan. 3 (CP)—A plan to move most of Detroit's fire-fighting equipment to outlying points if an atom bomb warning sounds was approved Tuesday by the Detroit Fire Commission. Under the scheme, 42 engine companies and 22 ladder companies would shift to 11 fire stations outside the heart of the city in case of emergency. Only 17 companies would remain in the central section.

VOL. CII. No. 2 — WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 3, 1951

Holds Decision In Taxi Liquor Charge

Judgment was reserved in a charge of bootlegging against Geoffrey (Gip) Feeley, local taxi operator, heard today in police court before Magistrate W. R. Philp.

Feeley was charged following the arrest Nov. 3 of one of Feeley's drivers, Kenneth Thompson, brother of another taxi operator in town, Frank Thompson.

Thompson was arrested by Provincial Constable Jack McKendry at Wallace's Point.

Constable McKendry testified he watched Michael O'Brien of Wallace's Point phone Feeley's Cabs and order a case of beer about 8:15 p.m. No beer arrived so O'Brien phoned again an hour later.

Asked To Bring Beer

Some time later Thompson arrived driving one of Feeley's cabs. He was asked to bring the beer inside. As a result of a conversation with Jack Lane in the house, Lane produced $10.

Constable McKendry stepped into the picture at this stage and arrested Thompson. In the taxi was Miss Mina Campbell.

Miss Campbell testified she called for a taxi that night and after a talk with the driver, went along when he drove to Wallace's Point. She saw him go to the trunk of the cab and take out what looked to her like a case of beer and carry it to the house.

Thompson testified he had worked for Feeley at nights for about six weeks. The night of Nov. 3 on instructions from the dispatcher at the taxi office, he took a case of beer to the O'Brien home at Wallace's Point and was there arrested.

Beer On Hand

He got the beer from a '35 model car which was registered in his name, but he said was owned by Feeley. He said there was quite a quantity of beer on hand for sale on the weekend.

He said the price of a case of 24 pints was $8. He said he was paid $3 a night for driving the taxi and roughly $1 a case for beer he delivered. He said he frequently bought beer and liquor with Feeley's money.

Under cross-questioning he denied he was buying the '35 model car and also that he had borrowed $120 from Feeley for a down payment on it.

Feeley's brother, Leo, testified he had been in the office the night of Thompson's arrest. He said the only call for beer that night was answered by him about 8.45 p.m.

Someone asked for a case of beer and he answered "Sure, I'll send you a case of beer."

"Another Phoney"

Then he hung up and said to the boys in the office, "There's another phoney one."

Three of Feeley's drivers, Edward Hie, Gordon Locks and Norman Fry, testified they had worked for Feeley about a year each and were told not to carry beer or liquor in their cabs after closing time each day.

Feeley took the stand in his own defence. He said he loaned Thompson money for the '35 car.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw produced a postcard Feeley said he sent to friends here from New York.

"Tipped To Blow"

The postcard read in part, "Got tipped to blow as things were going to get hot so I took the tip and here is where I ended up . . . Don't tell the boys."

It referred to domestic troubles involving another man and woman, he said. "I didn't want the boys to know I was away with the party I was with."

He was away from the morning of November 5 to November 11.

"Did you make a phone call in which you talked to your son or Thompson about turning the car over to you?" the Crown Attorney asked.

Feeley denied he had given any such instructions. He said he was talking to another of his drivers, Adolph Carravagio.

He said he knew nothing about Carravagio immediately filling out papers for a transfer of ownership of the car.

"You won't deny going to the police station to ask Chief Thompson for a man to go with you while you paid Thompson $300?" Feeley said he did.

"Was that $300 to persuade Thompson not to testify?" the Crown asked. "Not a bit," Feeley answered. He admitted asking Constable Sherman Keliele some time after he was charged to go with him to catch Thompson selling beer.

He said he wanted to show that Thompson was selling beer and he was being made the goat. He said later he came to the police station to have Thompson arrested.

"Do you deny driving a man up to the Empress Hotel and letting him out and sending him with money to pay the $100 fine against Edward Collins in that case?" the Crown asked. "I certainly do," Feeley asserted.

He denied that Collins had ever worked for him. (Collins was in December fined $100 and costs for obtaining liquor illegally from police allege. Frank Thompson, Kenneth Thompson's brother.)

Asked by his counsel Gordon H. T. Farquharson why he went to the police chief, he said people were trying to bribe him.

Cable From King

It read:

"The King and Queen are much interested to hear you are celebrating your 101st birthday and send you happy congratulations and good wishes." The cable was signed by the Private Secretary.

City To Borrow $1,493,749 Meet Expenses

Aldermen P. J. Anglesey and J. A. Dewar and Mr. William Tinker were reappointed members of the board of health in one of six bylaws in the council's first business of the year Tuesday night.

Authority to borrow up to $1,493,749 to meet current expenses until receipt of 1951 taxes was a routine bylaw introduced by Ald. T. D. Miller. Borrowing for the welfare account was also provided. Maximum is $15,000 a month, but the total expenditure in 1950 from the city treasury did not exceed $35,000.

Another routine resolution authorized appointment of deputations by Mayor Swanston who is also required to certify their expenses.

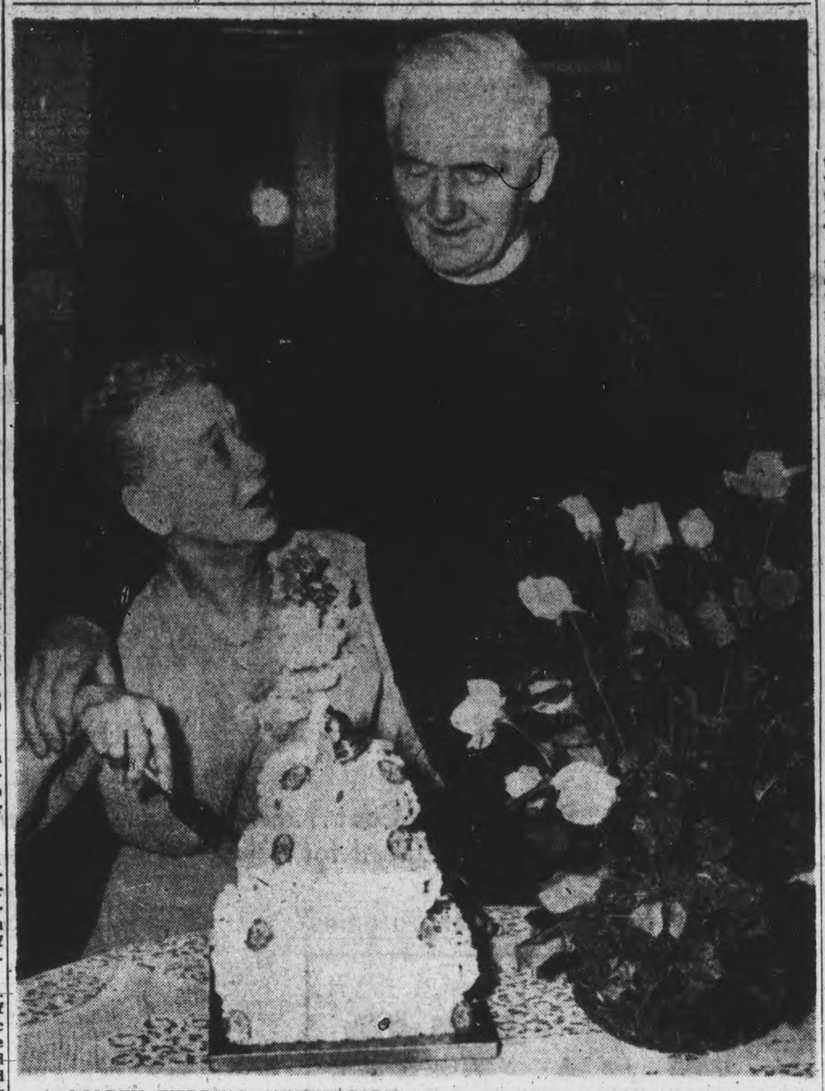
City Solicitor Huycke was instructed to prepare a bylaw for for the issuing of $100,000 debentures to finance the construction of the proposed office building of the Utilities Commission at Aylmer and Dalhousie streets.

John R. Marshall, Dr. G. S. Cameron and John L. Welch of the Board of Governors of Civic Hospital are requested by the council to carry on until the end of January. Their terms expired at the end of December. Further appointment was deferred for a month because of the illness of Mr. Marshall, chairman of the board.

Service stations are permitted to remain open after regular hours as provided in a motion by Aldermen Young and Graham. A schedule of rotating dates is to be supplied to operators.



Three Are Nominated To Civil Defense Body

Nominations of the Chamber of Commerce to the Civil Defense Organization that is being organized by the council are: Wilson M. Gemmell, E. G. Baker and Ross Thompson.

A letter from J. J. Dorris on behalf of the Chamber commended the council for its initiative in planning the defense body, according to the recommendation of Ald. J. A. Dewart.

ENTERTAINED COUNCIL

Members of the City Council were entertained last night by Ald. T. D. Miller and Mrs. Miller at their home on Hillcrest Ave. It was a pleasant social extension of the first business meeting of the year.

A GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY was celebrated on Tuesday by the Rev. and Mrs. David Lowry Gordon of 39 Manning Ave. After 50 years in the Christian ministry in various pioneer settlements of Northern Ontario and Western Canada, the Gordons moved to Peterborough about five years ago. One of their sons, is the Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon of Trinity United Church.

Further Trial Census Slated For City

The merchandising and services section of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, Ottawa, has taken further steps in its trial census of Peterborough, which was conducted during October.

At that time, the census dealt only with the number of retail and wholesale establishments in the city.

At the end of December, forms were sent to all these establishments from this section of the bureau to be filled in and returned by February 28.

Used in 1951

The information obtained from this trial census will be used in the forthcoming census of distribution in 1951—to redraft items, if necessary, on the forms to be used. In addition, it will be used to enable the bureau to tabulate figures.

The letter accompanying these forms states, "in accordance with the provisions of the Statistics Act, the information given in reply to the items on this form will not be available to any persons who are not of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics."

December 1950 Colder Than '49

Everyone may have their own private opinions about the weather in December but cold official facts produced by weatherman Jim Harrison show some interesting differences from and similarities to a year ago. It was colder in December, 1950, than in December, 1949, but a great deal drier.

Here are the differences: December 1950, maximum temperature 45, on Dec. 3rd, minimum 16 on Dec. 27, average temperature, 20.7 degrees. Rain was .21 inches, snow eight inches and total precipitation, 1.01. In December, 1949, the high was 57 on Dec. 22nd, low 12 on Dec. 8th; average temperature 22.6; rain, 2.81 inches, snow seven inches and total precipitation, 3.51 inches.

Golden Wedding Climaxes 50 Years' Religious Work

Rev. and Mrs. David Lowry Gordon, 39 Manning Ave., Tuesday celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. The celebration climaxed 50 years of working together in churches in towns and cities across the Dominion.

Mr. Gordon has a widely varied life in the ministry which started in a pioneer coal town in British Columbia and is continuing now in the Peterborough district as he fills in from time to time as a supply preacher for other ministers.

Mr. Gordon, father of Trinity United Church's minister, graduated in arts from Queen's University in 1897. After a summer as a student missionary at St. Joseph's Island in Georgian Bay, he went back to Queen's to study theology.

The next summer he went to Scotland and England. Next year he took a summer course in Manitoba College, completed his training and was licensed to preach.

In September the same year he went to British Columbia where he was ordained and inducted into the Presbyterian Church in Fernie.

In The Rockies

This was a new coal mining town in the heart of the Rockies founded two years before he arrived. Several Peterborough people were interested in the Crow's Nest Coal Co. which had started the mine.

The first miners were 200 men from Nova Scotia but when Mr. Gordon arrived the community had grown to a town of 2,500. Miners had come from Sand Coulee, Montana, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

In 1900 Mr. Gordon returned to Ontario at Christmas and in Picton was married to Anna Augusta Porter by Rev. Canon Loucks, Mr. Gordon's brother, S. B. Gordon of Ottawa, was groomsman and was present Tuesday at the golden anniversary.

The bride's sister, Maud (Mrs. M. W. Bruce of London) was bridesmaid. She was not able to be present for the occasion here.

Moved To Fernie

Mr. Gordon took his young bride back to Fernie, where they lived for the next four years.

In May, 1902, an explosion killed 129 men and sparked off labor troubles. The miners struck twice within a few months and closed the mine for three months.

The following year there was a mountain slide at nearby Frank which killed a large number of men, women and children who had lived and worked at Fernie.

In 1904 a fire swept Fernie and wiped out the business section of the town.

The same year Mr. Gordon brought his family east and took a church in Forrester's Falls in the Lanark Presbytery. In four years he moved again, this time to Russell in the Ottawa Presbytery for another six years.

Drunk Driver Gets Seven Days

Joseph Leo Feeley, 271 Romaine Street, today pleaded guilty in Police Court to a charge of drunk driving, and wass entenced to seven days in county jail.

Constable Douglas Stark testified he arrested Feeley following an accident on Lansdowne Street near the Locks Bridge. He said Feeley had been driving a coupe east on Lansdowne Street.

His car met in collision with a pickup truck driven east. Tire marks showed that the Feeley car had been over on the north side of the road.

After the impact Feeley started to drive away, but his car had gone into the south ditch about 30 feet away.

He said Feeley appeared to be in a very drunken condition. He swayed as he stood and had to be helped when he walked. When placed in the police truck, he began to shout and kick the interior of the truck.

Youth Depressed Wounds Self-Inflicted

Russell Sutton, 20, admitted shooting himself in the lower left arm beside some box cars a short distance from the apartment at the rear of 109 Hunter St. E. where he was boarding, police detectives said today after an interview with Sutton in hospital Tuesday afternoon.

Police said he was apparently trying to arouse sympathy because he felt people were trying to get him to do things he did not want to. He had been drinking, although he was not drunk, and it made him depressed enough for him to shoot himself.

Likely Lay Charge

A charge of creating a public nuisance will be laid against him.

He had been at a dance New Year's Eve after midnight with Mrs. Ruth McGregor, 33, with whom he boards. He told police, after he came home with her, she offered to make a cup of tea. While she was preparing it, he went up to his room, took out a loaded .32 calibre Colt automatic, put on a coat and walked out.

He walked south along road which runs beside railway tracks at the side of the house, and then pulled out his gun. He shot at his arm once, but missed, and the bullet went harmlessly through the sleeve of his coat.

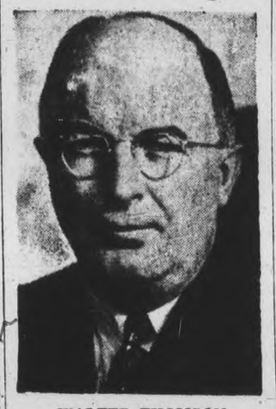
His second shot smashed into his arm about five inches above the wrist, splintering some of the bone.

He then walked back to the house and was eventually driven to St. Joseph's Hospital shortly after five a.m. Monday morning. Hospital officials informed police.

Mrs. McGregor previously told police Sutton had been shot at and hit by someone as Sutton and she were getting into her car at the dance hall.

Charged in Court

She was charged in police court Tuesday with giving false information to police.



Detective-Sergeant John Stevenson searched the area where Sutton had shot himself and was handed an empty cartridge shell by a railway employee.

When he and Detective-Sergeant W. A. Clark first heard the story of Sutton's being shot at the dance hall they tagged it as a phoney and questioned Mrs. McGregor closely. She then told a story similar to the explanation later given in hospital by Sutton himself.

Constable Stewart Fife carried out the initial stages of the investigation and cast immediate doubt on the dance hall shooting story when he could find no trace of blood where Sutton was supposed to have been shot, nor in the car.

However, a trail of blood was found outside the Hunter St. apartment which appeared to stop a short distance from the house, but was found on a wider search to lead to the spot where Sutton said he had shot himself.

Walter Thomson To Visit Riding

WALTER THOMSON

Peterborough Liberal Association is holding its annual meeting Tuesday, Jan. 9, at 8 p.m., in the Canadian Legion Hall.

"This is an open meeting," Mr. A. H. Lewis, president, told The Examiner today, "and all Liberals are requested to turn out to meet and hear our new provincial leader, Walter Thomson.

"There will be the usual business of an annual meeting, election of officers and so on for the coming year, but it is also important that we are having a chance to meet the man who won he leadership of the Liberals of Ontario."

Ready To Discuss Ashburnham Service

Peterborough Bus Lines are ready to discuss possibilities of a service into the Caddy-McFarlane district of Ashburnham that rapidly filled up with houses in the last two years. It lies east of Armour Road to the Canal.

Fred Jennings followed up a petition to the Council last month with enquiry Tuesday night as to whether any action might be forthcoming.

"We have a letter on file from L. R. Mitchell of the bus company, telling us they have made a survey of that area," Mayor Swanston said. "We can arrange a meeting any time now."

Youth, 18, Stabbed In Back 15-Year-Old Boy Held Following Fight At Rink

Harry Collins, 18, of 744 Chamberlain St. was stabbed three times in the back Tuesday night in a southend fight. He is in St. Joseph's hospital with wounds in his back. A 15-year-old boy is held in connection with the wounding. Another boy, 17-year-old James Cooper, 171 Clifton St., is in police custody as a material witness. Police say that the juvenile will be charged with wounding. Sometime later police recovered the knife, believed used, in a theatre. It was a folding pocket knife with about a two-inch blade.

Two girls who witnessed part of the fight told police the following story (Doreen Vandenberg, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Vandenberg, 650 Brown St. and Caroline Swan, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Lee, 631 Brown St.):

The two boys called on the girls and all went up to the Turner park rink to see what the ice was like. The girls also went to the Vandenberg home as one wanted her slacks. When they returned to the rink the fight was on.

The scuffle moved to the corner of the park building and they heard Collins say: "Put down that knife."

Collins then ran behind another building and called out, "I've got a club."

The boy followed Collins behind the building and a few minutes later the girls saw him run out to his bicycle and heard him call to Cooper to follow.

Shortly afterwards the two were picked up in a theatre by Detective W. E. Clarke. They were taken to the police station where the dark, wavy-haired 15-year-old walked into the station with a cigarette in his lips and a sullen look on his face.

Returning from a grocery store with foodstuffs Walter Larock, 713 Chamberlain St. heard some of the swearing that went on at the fight. By the time he reached the scene Collins was running home screaming.

"There's always fights around here," Larock told the Examiner.

Mrs. Vandenburg said that the girls are chums and had walked up to the rink to see how the ice was. She explained that Doreen knew the juvenile when she attended Central school several years ago but Tuesday night's visit was the first he had made since they lived in the southend. The boy had visited the Vandenberg neighborhood when they lived on Sherbrooke St. near George St.

"I never allowed Doreen to go out with boys," she said.

Brenda Davies Plays In Ottawa

Brenda Davies, who appeared as Mrs. Frances Stewart in the Peterborough Centennial Play, "At My Heart's Core," will play the same role when the Canadian Repertory Theatre of Ottawa presents the play for a week in the national capital beginning January 8. Other members of the Ottawa cast who were seen last August in Peterborough are Don Glen, who appears as the Hon. Thomas Stewart, and John Primm as Mr. Edmund Cantwell. Mr Glen is a permanent member of the Ottawa company, and Mr. Primm, who is stage director of the New York Civic Opera, is able to appear because the appearance of a ballet company at the Civic Centre in New York sets him free for three weeks.

"At My Heart's Core" will also be performed for a week in Edmonton, during February.

Operating Loss At Cafeteria November $634

Operating loss of the cafeteria of Civic Hospital in November was $634.02 as reported to the council Tuesday night by John Hornal, superintendent. Price marked up five per cent in December are expected to adjust the balance in that account.

Mr. Hornal wrote that presumably the discussion which prompted the council's resolution asking for information about the cafeteria financing "followed from incorrect interpretation of the monthly statement figures of the hospital as of Oct. 31, 1950 by some readers of the local press when a $10,000 decrease in the budget of estimated cafeteria revenue was assumed to be a loss".

Statement of Fact

"The hospital's statement was simply a statement of the fact of the non-realization of an estimated cafeteria business volume. The figures for the cafeteria operation for Nov. 1950 are:

Food and direct purchases	$3,500.00
Salaries	1,648.50
Depreciation on equipment	103.92
Electricity	35.00
Heat	25.00
	$5,312.42
Actual revenue in November	4,678.40
Loss	$ 634.02

During December 1950 the Board will have the benefit of a 5 per cent increase mark-up in prices. Patronage of the cafeteria is approximately as follows:

Student nurses	60%
Paid employees	35
Visitors and doctors	5

Systematic Control

The cafeteria in the new hospital was established following the fullest consideration of the many surrounding pertinent factors. The cafeteria has established a systematic control of food, has eliminated any free food concept and is considered a potent factor in promoting food employee morale.

In the opinion of the Board of Governors any significant increase in prices charged at the present time would not produce net revenue to the hospital."

Plan Revision Civic Salaries

The civic payroll is due for early scanning by the Council Mayor Swanston suggested to the Council last night.

The firemen are looking for another increase, in addition to the $150 they obtained by arbitration last year. The men of the Police Department did not even get that much. Members of Council were in sympathy with the force, but with no budgetary provision in the estimates of the Police Commission for that kind of unexpected petition the claim for more money was laid over for 1951.

It is understood the policemen intend to include in their 1951 application the amount they did not get last year.

"The whole salary schedule will have to be taken up," said Mayor Swanston, "and it is not too early to begin thinking about the appropriations."

1950 Building $3,492,812

Permits For 302 New Houses Taken Out

Building in Peterborough during 1950 fell about $280,000 short of the 1949 record of $3,781,799. Permits were issued in 1950 for buildings valued at $3,492,812.

More houses were planned in 1950 than in 1949—302 against 270—and their value was greater. Value of houses for which permits were issued in 1950 was $2,243,850, against $1,077,900 in 1949.

But in view of rising costs of building materials during the year, building was actually less than in 1949. Miscellaneous items, including buildings, totalled $1,971,854 in 1949 against $1,248,962 last year.

Two Apartments

Included in 1950's miscellaneous items were two apartment buildings valued at $200,000, the new city hall, $643,062 and an elementary school (North Monaghan) $120,000.

Largest blocks of houses were started by the Cobourg Lumber Company, and by Donald Ephgrave, a Peterborough contractor. The lumber company obtained permits for 25 houses—13 at $8,500 each, six at $10,000 each and six others at $10,500 each.

Mr. Ephgrave planned to build 23 houses at an estimated cost of $6,000 a house. Most of the rest of the houses built in 1950 were built by private individuals. Some city contractors did, however, undertake to build small groups of three and four houses.

The average estimated cost of a house was $7,430, with estimates running as low as $3,000 and as high as $20,000.

Under miscellaneous items fall stores, warehouses, apartment houses and additions to factories, as well as one clinic.

Actual building fell much in line with the predictions of contractors and building supply sellers made early in 1950. They said then that 1950 should be a good year for building, though they were reluctant to forecast a record year.

Prospective builders had plenty to worry them during the year. Cement at one time was not to be bought and at other, shorter intervals, some classes of timber disappeared from the market.

England May Need Lawyer To Get Coronation Stone

By SAUL PETT.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 — (AP).— The British Government may need a good lawyer more than a good detective to recover the Stone of Scone stolen from Westminster Abbey Christmas Day.

And in a court fight, the Crown may have to explain a little paper signed, sealed, and delivered just 600 years ago.

This engaging theory is advanced by a kilted Scottish Highlander whose family owned the historic coronation slab long before Britain did.

His name is Seumas, Chief of Clannfhearghuis of Stra-chur, which means he is a tribal leader of most of the Fergusons throughout the world. Which also means he is the representative of the Fergusons' common ancestor, Fergus the Great, who lived about 1,500 years ago.

The chief is an explorer, archeologist, and mapmaker, who is a director of the Explorers' Club in New York.

Now, Britons boast that 27 of their kings have been crowned on the ancient slab of sandstone.

The chief quietly points out that 48 of his Gaelic ancestors, beginning with the first, Fergus, in 436, were crowned on the stone as rulers of Scotland long before the English ever heard of it.

But about the theft—the chief is certain that Scottish Nationalists who want their own Parliament and Prime Minister took the stone. They could have only one purpose—to dramatize their cause, he believes.

"To do that," the chief continues, "they probably have or will take the stone to Scotland and will reveal it. Then it will be up to the British to come and get it.

"When they do, I think it likely that the Scots will make a court fight of it. Because after all, you know, there was the Treaty of Northampton."

That treaty was signed in 1328 and contained a promise by Edward II of England that the old stone would be restored to Robert the Bruce of Scotland. It was never returned.

Now, Edward II was preceded by Edward I who invaded Scotland and made off with the stone in 1292, transferring the slab to Westminster Abbey. His idea was to defeat an old Gaelic prophecy concerning the Lia Fail, or Stone of Destiny, as the old Gaels knew it. This was the prophecy:

"Cineadh Scuit saor an fine
Mun budh breag an fhaisdne
Mar a fuighid an lia fail
Dlighid flaitheas do ghabhail."

Translation:

"The nation of Scots, the free people,
If the prophecy is not false,
Where the hoary pillow is found
There shall sovereignty have ground."

Actually, if you want to be technical, the Scots have not the first claim on the Stone of Scone. The Government of Israel does. For, according to legend, the stone first cropped up in Bethel, Palestine, where Jacob had his dream of the angels. That night, according to the legend, he used the stone for a pillow.

Later, through the course of a strenuous history, the stone was taken to Egypt, then to the Spanish Peninsula, Ireland, and finally up to Scone Abbey in Scotland.

For the record, Chief of Clannfhearghuis did not swipe the stone. Christmas Day, he was in New York City.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Man Should Save Friend From Predatory Women

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a friend, a man around 50, who is married and has nearly grown children, but who has fallen in love lately with a woman whom he met by chance somewhere.

Dorothy Dix

This woman wants my friend to help her divorce her husband, and get him to get a divorce from his wife, and marry her. Do you think my friend has any chance of happiness with a woman who, first, while married, accepted his attentions, knowing he had a family; second, poured out her grievances against her husband to him, saying he was jealous, suspicious, and didnt' provide for her, etc.; third, accepted money and clothing from him; fourth, carried on a secret correspondence with him, and met him clandestinely?

My friend thinks a lot of my opinion and I will risk butting in and give him a good talking to if you so advise.

OLD BACHELOR

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I certainly do advise you to try to save your friend from this predatory lady, if you can. I think that we are altogether too mealy-mouthed about such matters, and that when we see our friends about to make fools of themselves and wreck their lives it is just as much our duty to head a rescue party and try to save them as it would be to save them from some physical danger.

Has No Honor

The woman you describe has neither courage nor honor nor heart nor delicacy of feeling. No married woman who has a love affair with a married man has any real principle. No woman who would break up a home, who would take a husband away from his wife and half-orphan children, has any heart. Such a woman is a curse to her husband, and if your friend is foolish enough to marry her, he will bring down the punishment he deserves on himself for having proved a traitor to his wife and children.

I have small pity for any man who is weak enough to let a woman cajole and flatter him into forgetting his duty to his family and his honor as a man. He really isn't worth anybody taking the trouble to save from his folly, except for his children's sake, for it is they who have to pay the final price of his wrong-doing.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband and I are in a perpetual argument about whether or not he should help me with the housework. He says: "My job is to support you and the baby and not to be a washwoman or nursemaid or cook." I say that after I have done my own housework besides taking care of a 15-month-old baby that I am so tired and nervous that I need a little help and that he might give me a lift by at least looking after the baby while I do the dishes. Would you advise us about what work each of us should do in the home?

THE QUARRELERS

ANSWER: I don't think that question can be settled definitely because there are too many angles to the situation. So much depends on so many different things, and particularly, as in your case, on the wife's health.

Evidently you are overworking. Not only affection and sympathy for you should prompt your husband to help you with the housework but prudence also counsels it. For if your burden isn't lifted a little you will soon have a breakdown and then he will have trouble a-plenty.

In those cases where a husband supports the home and the wife is well and strong I do not think that she should call upon him to add the housework to his job, any more than he should expect her to help him out on his, but the situation is entirely altered when the wife is frail and delicate and not able to do all of the work alone.

Personally, I do not see why a husband and wife who love each other should count every lick of work one does for the other, and each be so afraid that he or she will do a little more for the other's comfort and happiness than he or she is entitled to. To my thinking the greatest happiness that life can give us is being able to serve those we love and make life easier and pleasanter for them.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 23 years of age, married and a father of two children. I am happily married and am crazy about my wife and babies, but in spite of this I am attracted by beautiful women and desire to have dates with them. What do you have to say?

BILL

✧ ✧ ✧

ASWER: Merely that you are like a lot of other men. You are polygamous by nature. But don't forget that in running after many women you will lose the one woman who really loves you.

Neighbors Honor Midwife of North

THE PAS, Man., (CP)—Midwife of the North is Mrs. William Mercredie's title.

She's been delivering northern Manitoba babies for more than 30 years. And at her home town, the little settlement of Thicket Portage, 185 miles north of The Pas, on the Hudson Bay railway, her neighbors soon will honor Mrs. Mercredie—and her husband—on their 60th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Mercredie is 76 now. She was born in Edmonton, the daughter of Joseph Chartier, a boat captain on the Athabaska River in the days when freight was transported by land from Edmonton to Athabaska landing and from there down river by barge to Fort McMurray and north into the territories.

It is estimated that Mrs. Mercredie has brought into the world more than 200 babies—and that is not counting the children of her own relatives. Of these she can count at least 70.

Mrs. Mercredie's reputation as a nurse and midwife spreads throughout the north country. She has tended the sick at Grand Rapids, Cross Lake, Thicket Portage, Piwitonei and Gillam.

Effective Living New School Class

VICTORIA (CP) — A class in "Effective Living" has been started by the British Columbia Department of Education.

Stressing desirable family and community relationships, the course also includes material formerly handled separately in guidance, health and alcohol education programs.

For pupils in Grades Seven to Nine, the aims are to accept duties and responsibilities as well as privileges and rights of family living.

Teachers are enthusiastic over the possibilities of the course. Olive Herridge, a school vice-principal, said: "We don't want students to feel that their family is 'wrong' or that they are not getting a square deal at home. We want them to have an opportunity to look at themselves and see what they can do to make things better."

While some pupils do not take a part in the general open discussions, one teachr said, "At least, they're hearing about experiences of others and can see that others have their problems, too."

Other topics touched in the course include family budgetting, home planning, vocational planning and course selection, use of leisure, including after-school jobs.

The Rev. A. A. Mathews conducted installation of the new officers who had been elected at December meeting, after which Mrs. George Munro, new president, took charge. Mrs. A. R. Bennett sang two solos. "Just for today" and "Gateway of the year." Her accompanist was Mrs. W. L. McNeil. Mrs. W. H. Frise chose for the Bible lesson "Message of the talents," and Mrs. H. J. MR. AND MRS. NORMAN BOOTH pictured just after their marriage Saturday afternoon at All Saints' Anglican Church. The bride is the former Joan Dinsdale.—(Choate Studio Photo.)

Booth-Dinsdale Wedding

The marriage of Joan Dinsdale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dinsdale, 83 Jackson Avenue, to Mr. Norman Booth, son of Mrs. Manley Turner, was solemnized Saturday afternoon at All Saints' Anglican Church. The Rev. W. J. Gilling officiated and Mrs. A. W. Watkins played the wedding music.

The bride wore a gown of star white slipper satin. The bodice was fashioned with off-the-shoulder effect and a net yoke and small satin collar. The sleeves tapered to a point over the hands and the full skirt fell into a slight train. She wore her mother's fingertip veil of tulle illusion, fastened to a garland of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations centred with an orchid.

Miss Helen Dinsdale was bridesmaid for her sister. She wore a gown of gold taffeta with matching bandeau headdress, and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Groomsman was Mr. Donald Price.

A reception was held at the bride's home where her mother received wearing a green crepe dress and brown accessories and a corsage of white roses. Assisting her was the groom's mother, wearing wine crepe with matching accessories and corsage of white roses.

Later the bride and groom left for a short honeymoon in Toronto. For travelling the bride wore a navy wool gabardine suit with matching accessories, a mouton coat and an orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Booth will live at 417 Dublin St.

Anne Wilkins Becomes Bride Of Richard Walsh, Hastings

At St. Peter's Cathedral Saturday morning nuptial vows were pledged before Monsignor P. P. Butler by Ann Therese Wilkins, Reg.N., and Mr. Richard Ambrose Walsh of Hastings. The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hughes Wilkins, 372 Rubidge St., and groom is son of Mr. Frank Walsh, Hastings, and the late Mrs. Walsh.

Poinsettas and roses were effective as decorations in the church. Organist Mrs. R. G. Aman played during the mass and during signing of the register Mr. George Daly sang "On this day" and "Ave Maria."

A gown of parchment white bengaline was the bride's choice. It was fashioned with a finely tucked bodice, back and front, and a panel effect was carried out in the skirt front by appliqued bands of guipre lace, with the same lace trimming the high medieval style collar. The very full skirt flowed into a long graceful train and the long close-fitting sleeves were finished with points over the hands. Her full, embroidered French net veil was caught to a Mary Queen of Scots headdress of fine lace and she was carrying a bouquet of white gardenias and red roses.

Mr. Wilkins gave his daughter in marriage and she was attended by her sister Miss Margaret Wilkins of Montreal. The bridesmaid's frock was of ice blue net over taffeta in bouffant style, and topped with a cape of blue and silver lame with stand-up collar. Her headdress was of blue net and her bouquet of gardenias and roses.

Groomsman was Mr. Francis Walsh of Hastings. Ushers were Gerald Walsh, cousin of the groom, and David Walsh, cousin of the bride.

A reception was held in the Empress Hotel Kawartha Room where the bride's mother received in a gown of navy crepe and lace, wearing a navy felt hat and corsage of red roses. Assisting was the groom's sister Miss Margaret Walsh, wearing brown crepe with hat to match and a corsage of bronze roses.

Leaving on a wedding trip to Buffalo and vicinity, the bride was wearing a taupe wool crepe dress and matching accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Walsh will live in Hastings.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was gowned in white Chantilly lace with a yoke of tulle net bordered with a cuff of the lace and caught with pearl trim. The tightly fitting bodice was fastened at the back with self-covered buttons and had long sleeves tapering to points at the wrist. A full skirt of the lace fell over an underskirt of white satin. She wore a beaded headdress which held her fingertip veil of tulle illusion and she was carrying a cascade of gardenias and white 'mums.

Bridesmaid was her cousin Miss Leona Lucano whose gown of blue faille taffeta was designed with a portrait neckline and short sleeves on the tightly fitting bodice and had a full tired skirt. She wore a helmet of the dress material with pink ostrich feather trim and matching pink mittens. Her bouquet was a cascade of Johanna Hill roses.

Mr. William Hayes was groomsman for his brother and the ushers were Private Gerald Lucano and Francis Hayes, brothers of the bride and groom. During signing of the register the bride's uncle Mr. Anthony DeNoble sang "Ave Marie" and "On this day."

She was assisted by the groom's mother who was wearing black printed silk with a black hat trimmed with green plumes and corsage of white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayes left on a wedding trip to Ottawa and points east. Going away the bride wore a navy crepe dress with pink and navy accessories and a grey topcoat.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Serving of Wheat Germ In Porridge

My praise of wheat germ is unstinted, and I feel good about boosting something that is so precious and which costs so little. (Something like the best things in life — sunshine, love and flowers — being free.)

If you are in the habit of serving porridge—and all good providers should serve it at least every other morning especially to their growing children—then the routine of utilizing wheat germ is simple and may easily become habitual. You stir one-half cup of it into the cooked cereal about one minute before serving time. There is no change in flavor except an improvement.

Cautionary Note

Do not do a "Kill-the-goose-that - laid - the - golden - egg" act by buying and using old or rancid germ. Since it costs only ten or eleven cents per pound at the seed or feed store, a new supply of one pound should be bought very two weeks. (For our family that is what I use up one way and another.)

✧ ✧ ✧

You will remember that I gave you some specific methods for making cooked cereals last week. I wanted to include mention of wheat germ in cooked cereal, but since it deserves space of its own I reserved this piece until today.

✧ ✧ ✧

Sources and Functions of Wheat Germ

(1) Most of the Vitamin B factors are found in wheat germ.

(2) Some of the positive functions of Vitamin B are: Essential to maintain good appetite; normal digestion and good tone of the gastro-intestinal tract depend on it; normal functioning of the nervous system is dependent on "Thiamine," which is one of the Vitamin B factors. Some Vitamin B factors are essential for normal metabolism of growing cells and tissues and for digestion of fats.

You see it covers an immense amount of territory and none of us can afford to neglect it.

I would like to give you a few examples of its deficiency signs and symptoms but they are too alarming. Suffice it to say use it in the following ways I have suggested.

✧ ✧ ✧

Wheat Germ in Cooked Cereal

Use one-half cup along with the raw cereal when you stir it into the water. For every two cups water used use ½ cup wheat germ.

Sprinkle wheat germ on dry cereals, using 2 tablespoons for each bowl of dry cereal.

Add as much as one cup of wheat germ to your batches of cookies. Cookies especially suited to its use are those with a shortbread base and meringue and nut top. You put the wheat germ in the shortbread bottom layer. It goes especially well in hermits and oatmeal cookies put together with dates.

Sprinkle wheat germ over the bottom crust of your apple and mince and cherry pies, before you add the filling. Wheat germs thickens ever so slightly so if you are using flour or cornstarch or tapioca to thicken the pie juices, reduce the amount a little. If you have other ideas for using wheat grem please let me know them.

Myself — I take it straight — from a dessertspoon followed by a drink of milk.

Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near
—Ever remembered by wife and family.

KIDD—In loving memory of our dear dad, Bruce W. Kidd.
They say time heals all sorrow,
And helps us to forget,
But time so far has only proved
How much we miss him yet.
For your presence is ever near us,
Your love remains with us yet,
For you were the kind of a father,
Your loved ones would never forget.
—Always remembered by the family.

KIDD—In loving memory of a dear husband, Bruce W. Kidd, who died five years ago Jan. 2nd.
Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break but all in vain;
To have, to love, and then to part,
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never—
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.
—Ever remembered by his wife, Mary.

THOMPSON—In loving memory of Mr. A. Thompson, who passed away two years ago.
Nothing can ever take away

LOUIS FLORENCE

Louis Florence Citizen 50 Years Dies

A resident of Peterborough for 50 years Louis Florence, 298 Elias Ave., died suddenly at his home New Year's Day and was buried Tuesday. He was in his 68th year.

Mr. Florence was born and educated in Lithuania and came to Canada while still a youth. His parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. David Florence who took up residence in Kingston for a couple of years and then came to Peterborough.

He entered the scrap metal business with his father, under the firm name of D. Florence and Son, Bethune St., and later left it to branch out on his own in the furniture business. Still later he rejoined his father in the scrap metal business.

But he was best known, both to local businessmen and residents, as the proprietor of the Florence Shoppe, 376 George St. There for the last 23 years he has sold ladies' wear.

He leaves his wife Mrs. Jennie Florence; two daughters, Mrs. Allan B. Collis, Peterborough, and Mrs. Ben Karp, Toronto; three sons, Earl Florence, Ottawa; Albert Florence, Peterborough, and Dr. Max Florence, Ottawa; three sisters, Mrs. Minnie Fine, Toronto; Mrs. Annie Black, and Mrs. Ben Green, both of Peterborough; also a brother, Harry Florence, Peterborough. He also leaves five grandchildren.

Mr. Florence was a member of Beth Israel synagogue. He was also a member of the local B'Nai B'Rith lodge.

The funeral Tuesday was at the Benjamin funeral home, Toronto, Rabbi Reuben Slonim, Toronto, and Rabbi J. Mayer, Peterborough officiating. Burial was in McCaul Street cemetery.

Pallbearers were Aaron Black, Ben Abramsky, Hymie Smith, Ernest Fine, Harold Florence, and Jules Fine.

Rebuild Pole Line Park Street South

"I think we are getting a bargain," said Mayor Swanston in a comment on the undertaking of the Utilities Commission to rebuild the electric pole line on the west side of Park Street, south of Lansdowne Street.

"I think so, too," said Ald. E. C. Braund, who had asked whether the Council was required only to take out certain trees and trim others.

A motion by Ald. A. B. Burrows and Ald. H. T. Rehill instructed Armar Butcher, parks superintendent, to give the Utilities Commission "full co-operation."

Ross L. Dobbin, manager of the Utilities Commission, has estimated at $13,000 the new power line cost to the Commission.

The construction of the concrete drain on Park Street last year, the filling of the trench and levelling of the ground on the west side of Park Street, left the pole line where it had stood when that section of Park Street was only a North Monaghan township road.

The drain job entailed the setting back of the electric power poles. It is expected that Park Street appearance will be extended south to Cameron Street to conform with its layout north of Lansdowne Street.

Mrs. Welford Dawson

Funeral of the late Mrs. Welford Dawson, 80, the former Eliza Jane Fair, was largely attended a week ago Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of her son Harold A. Dawson in Otonabee. Service was conducted by the Rev. B. Morwood of Mark St. United Church, assisted by the Rev. E. W. Rowland of Grace United Church, her former minister and close friend.

The pallbearers were Lawrence, Robert and Frank Dawson, Mackintosh Bradshaw, Dougal Matchett and William Hutchinson. Burial was at Little Lake cemetery.

Mrs. Dawson as a former resident of South Monaghan, where she was born, and was active in community and church work at Bailieboro for many years. Her husband predeceased her in Sept. 1943, and she had resided in Otonabee for the past six years.

Floral tributes were received from Ottawa, Kingston, South Porcupine, Lindsay, Ayr and Detroit.

Four Of Five Far-Sighted, Lions Club Told

Four out of five people are far-sighted, one out of the five short-sighted, and nearly 85 per cent of all have astigmatism, Lynn E. Morrison, local optometrist, told the Lions Club Tuesday night. The club was holding its first monthly meeting of 1951 at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club.

These facts, he said, would be disclosed if one were to examine the eyes of an average group of people. He added that perhaps there would be some perfect eyes but that the chances of finding them would be no better than finding individuals who are perfect in other respects.

Mr. Morrison explained that when light enters the ideal eye, it travels its entire length in order to reach the retina and comes to focus and register an image or nerve stimulus. If the eyeball happens to be too short (farsightedness) or too long (nearsightedness) or irregularly curved (astigmatism), the rays of light will not focus where they should and the resulting vision will be less than perfect. Eventually trouble will develop, he said, and glasses will be required.

Vestibule of the Brain

It is surprising, he said, that the eye acts as a vestibule to the brain. The eye, he added, becomes the organ of sight, but the brain does the seeing. This can be proved by accidents where the back of the head is injured, the eye escaping all contact, and yet blindness results in both eyes.

Disease, injury and aging may result in changes in the eye that disturb the passage of light through these bodies and result in distressed vision, said Mr. Morrison. An ulcer on the cornea, caused by an injury of some nature, will cause the eye to appear misty, red and stop a portion of light from passing through.

Cause Total Blindness

Glaucoma, a term used to designate a great increase of fluid pressure due to faulty elimination of the constant generation of fluid, will in many cases cause total blindness unless caught in the early stages. Cataracts, a common handicap, he said, and one which all would be subject to if the life span was long enough, results from a change in the composition of the cells in the crystal lens. The lens become opaque and light cannot reach the retina.

Mr. Morrison gave several simple rules for saving the eyes: Eliminate eyestrain, undue taxation and irritation by wearing a proper lens prescription, this of suitable tint where occupation for climate demands it (he stressed that this does not mean the indiscriminate use of sunglasses); check and recheck eyes as often as the optometrist thinks necessary; ferret out diseased conditions of the body and take steps to eliminate them.

Mr. Morrison said that middle-age diseases of the body and eyes are too often painless, gradual, and insidious. They steal upon the victim and destroy his health and sight before he is aware of their presence. Against this, he said, there is no protection but eye care, no safeguard but watchfulness, no insurance but that which comes from moderation in living, regular habits, the avoidance of acts that overtax and strain the eyes.

New Zealand Tries Experiment

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Jan. 3 (Reuters) — The New Zealand meat producers' board is sending 5,000 tons of meat to Canada and the United States on a trial basis late this month or early in February.

J. J. Evans, general manager of the board, said: "This is not a hunt for dollars but a serious attempt to lay the foundations for a permanent trade with North America for our meat."

The board arranged with the British ministry of food to sell some meat outside Britain pending conclusion of an Anglo-New Zealand meat pact.

The intitial distribution would comprise 3,600 tons to the U.S. and 1,400 tons to Canada. It was considered likely that another 1,000 tons would be available.

The board, following discussions with American producers, has taken care that the time of shipment does not act to the producers' detriment.

New Zealand has not exported meat to either country since the Second World War.

France Denies Treaty Broken

PARIS, Jan. 3 (AP).—France has rejected Soviet charges that the treaty between them was broken when France joined the North Atlantic Pact.

Information Minister Albert Gazier announced that today's cabinet meeting approved a reply denying the charge. It will be forwarded to Moscow this week.

The Soviet note was sent Dec. 15, on the eve of the Brussels meeting at which North Atlantic foreign ministers decided on plans for rearming western Europe.

It accused France—a similar note went to Britain—of violating its treaty of friendship with the Soviet Union. The Russians attacked the projected arming of Western Germans, and accused aggression against the east.

the western powers of organizing

Today's cabinet meeting heard Foreign Minister Robert Schuman give an account of the international situation. A committee of ministers was named to study a reply to the latest Soviet note on proposals for a conference of the big four foreign ministers.

Flames Destroy Parish Hall

OTTAWA, Jan. 3 (CP) — Fire followed by a boiler explosion early today destroyed the two-storey St. Francis D'Assisi parish hall in the city's west end, caused damage to a store and temporarily forced residents of two apartments above to the street. Damage was estimated at $75,000.

Origin of the blaze was undetermined. It broke out shortly after 1 a.m., a few hours after Joe Martel, the building superintendent, left the hall after checking the furnaces and finding all was in order.

The boiler explosion wrecked the flaming structure shortly before 2 a.m. Fire Chief Gray Burnett said the whole building "just blew apart."

Shortly after the fire was brought under control, a $10,000, two-alarm blaze razed Brady's barb-a-cue restaurant in the central part of the city, and for a time endangered two adjoining stores.

Firemen, who brought the blaze under control in less than an hour, said the fire probably started in the kitchen of the restaurant and apparently had been smoldering for some time.

Witness Calls Ilse Koch "German Beast"

AUGSBURG, Germany, Jan. 3 (CP)—Weeping with rage, a witness today called Ilse Koch a "beast" as a German court resumed its atrocity trial of the former "Red Witch of [illegible]."

Mrs. Koch, charged with murders and complicity in others at Buchenwald concentration camp, sat pale and silent as she heard the bitter denunciation by Herbert Gossman, one-time prisoner of the Nazis in the [illegible].

"She should come out [illegible] and then she wouldn't live a minute longer," he raged.

Gosman said he had seen Ilse Koch order Buchenwald prisoners to crawl on the ground. He said she often threw cigaret butts into groups of prisoners, then wrote down the numbers of those who stopped to pick them up.

Previous witnesses have told of prisoners being whipped after Mrs. Koch wrote down the numbers of their uniforms.

The Rev. Gerhard Masshaenser, a Roman Catholic priest who was confined at Buchenwald, said he once was slow in greeting Mrs. Koch when he met her walking through the camp with her husband, the camp commander.

"This swine doesn't want to greet me," she complained to her husband.

The commander then ordered the priest to crawl on the snow-covered ground, the witness related.

Steel Production In United States 3 Times Russia's

NEW YORK, Jan. 3— (AP)—Steel production in the United States in 1950 topped Russia's by 3½ times, and was within a haair of equalling the combined output of all other countries in the world, the Iron Age says today.

The metal-working weekly says American companies produced 96,954,000 net tone of steel ingots and castings last year; Russia produced 26,500,000 tons; and the total world output was 194,154,000.

American production this year should exceed 100,000,000 tons, the weekly says. (Others have predicted 104,000,000 tons, or more).

"It is already obvious that steel expansion during the next two years will be far greater than was reported to the secretary of commerce during the middle of last year," the Iron Age says. (Commerce Secretary Charles Sawyer said plans called for a total capacity of nearly 110,000,000 tons by the end of 1952).

Rapid growth of defence and essential civilian steel orders was reported by the Iron Age. Such orders will take at least one-third of total steel output within a few monthes, the weekly predicts. Steel consumers were warned that trese priority orders would be taking more than half of the total production of flat-rolled steel products.

From there he went to Cobalt and entered another frontier town. He was there only four months when World War I broke out. For the next five years Mr. Gordon as Home Mission Convener organized a system by which home missions in the district were supplied with preachers even though young students joined up instead of entering the ministry until the war was over.

After the war Mr. Gordon moved to Agincourt, considered one of the finest rural congregations in Ontario. There, followed 11 happy years, but in 1929 the Home Mission Board asked him to take on the job of immigration chaplain at Quebec where he represented both the United Church and the Baptist until the winter freeze-up.

At the close of navigation, Mr. Gordon and his family went to St. John, N.B., and the following spring, Mr. Gordon was transferred to Montreal.

When the depression started, the work of chaplain gradually shifted from helping stranded new arrivals to comforting families brought to Montreal to be deported.

Canada's treatment of these aliens who had been taken into Canada and then tossed out to seek a home in much less prosperous countries was a black mark against her, Mr. Gordon said.

In 1935 the Home Mission closed the office and Mr. Gordon accepted an invitation from the Sandwich United Church in Windsor to be its minister. Here he stayed for the next nine years.

Retired In 1945

In 1945, after 46 years in the active ministry Mr. Gordon retired. But three months later, he accepted a call to become minister's assistant in Chalmers United Church in Guelph and there he spent the next four years.

But by this time Mrs. Gordon's health was failing and they moved to Peterborough. Mr. Gordon is confined to her home but she continues to take an active interest in the work of the church and in the happenings in the world.

Mr. Gordon continues to enjoy good health and during the past year has acted as supply preacher in many of the district's churches.

Though he has seen much of the more sordid side of people's lives he found an amazing wealth of kindness in common people.

A preacher's life is not an easy one, he said. His life was threatened several times by people who sent anonymous letters or stuck placards at the front of the manse. But these threats left him largely unperturbed.

He said if he were young again he would choose the same calling. But the second time he would be more aggressive against alcoholic drinks.

"They never do any good, but only an infinite amount of harm," he said.

Rev. and Mrs. Gordon have three sons, Dr. D. Bruce Gordon of Peterborough; Dr. Stuart D. Gordon, plastic surgeon on the staff of the General Hospital, Toronto; and Kenneth B. Gordon, office manager and cash accountant of an Amherstburg company.

Head-on Crash Injures Two

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 3 — (ENS)—Two people were injured and three others shaken up Tuesday afternoon when two cars met almost head-on on a slippery road about six miles north-east of Campbellford at Petherick's Corners.

One vehicle, driven by Donald Kerr, of Bonarlaw, struck another driven by Stanley Kerr, of R.R. 2, Campbellford, causing considerable damage to the front of both cars. Stanley Kerr was driving alone and received only a shaking up in the mishap, while Mrs. Thomas Fry received a broken wrist. Mrs. Thomas Brunton suffered an eye injury, while George Brunton and Donald Kerr were slightly dazed, but uninjured. All were in the Kerr auto.

Walter Brunton, who operates a garage and service station at Pethericks, phoned Campbellford police, who in turn had the call radioed to Provincial Constable Donald W. Erskine, who was contacted in Belleville. He sped to the scene.

Dr. W. W. Baker attended the injured persons and removed Mrs. Fry to the Campbellford hospital, where X-rays revealed a broken wrist.

Constable Erskine has laid no charges, and the investigation is continuing. The two drivers are not related.

English Tourists Fail To Score Victory

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 3 — (Reuters)—On the eve of the third cricket test, the English tourists today made a gallant but vain bid to beat New South Wales here.

The match ended in a draw. New South Wales then was still 90 runs in arrears with only four second-inning wickets remaining.

Freddie Brown, England's captain, declared the innings closed at 553 for eight wickets, the highest total of the tour, thanks to a double century by Reg Simpson who was finally out after scoring 259.

Scores: New South Wales 333 and 130 for six, Eigland 553 for eight declared.

Cars Collide In Final Campbellford Crash

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 3 — (ENS).—Campbellford police had a busy year during 1950. The tally on the year's work reveals there were 48 auto accidents, 1,281 telephone calls and 163 investigations of various natures. While the number of accidents was quite large for a town the size of Campbellford, no fatalities occurred.

The 48th accident, and final one for the year 1950, occurred late on Saturday afternoon, when William Fisher of RR 1, Campbellford, travelling east on Bridge Street attempted to make a left turn onto Rear Street. Russel Willis, who operates a taxi was going west on Bridge Street, and the two cars met at the intersection. The Fisher car was not damaged to any great extent, but the Willis auto received considerable damage to the bumper, fender, headlight and grill. No one was injured. Chief Constable George H. Hardy, who investigated with Provincial Constable Donald Erskine, said no charges would be laid.

Oil Refinery Contract Given Kellog Company

TORONTO, Jan. 3 (AP)—First contract for the new $18,000,000 refinery near Sarnia for Canadian Oil Refineries, has been awarded to Canadian Kellog Co., Ltd., Toronto, it is announced by W. Harold Rea, president of the Canadian Oil Companies.

Tenders for construction of other units are being called by Stone & Webster, Canada, project managers.

The Kellog Company will design and erect several major process sections of the refinery, including a fluid catalytic cracking unit, a gas recovery system and fractionating equipment to produce butane and propane gas. It will also build a catalytic polymerization plant.

Levelling of the first part of the firm's 400-acre St. Clair River site at Froomfield now is under way. Construction of the units assigned to Kellog will begin in the spring. The complete refinery, fed by 20,000 barrels of Alberta crude oil a day, is scheduled to be in operation in 15 months.

Wilfred Shiner Retires, 45 Years At CGE

Blasts from the CGE whistle this week will not summon Wilfred G. Shiner, 311 Frederick Ave., to work but will likely bring back memories of 45 years in Canada's largest electrical workshop. He was retired on a company pension Friday night.

Since June, 1905, Mr. Shiner has watched the CGE expand from a payroll of 800 to nearly 4,800. He then as a man of 25 was introduced into the brass department which was located on the west balcony of the machine shop. At that time the late George Tovey was foreman of the department, and Arnold Prest the assistant.

From the brass department Mr. Shiner moved into the controller department and in September of 1909 was transferred into the main office. There the late F. M. Somerville undertook to teach him accountancy and the complex procedures and systems of cost accounting since have been his work.

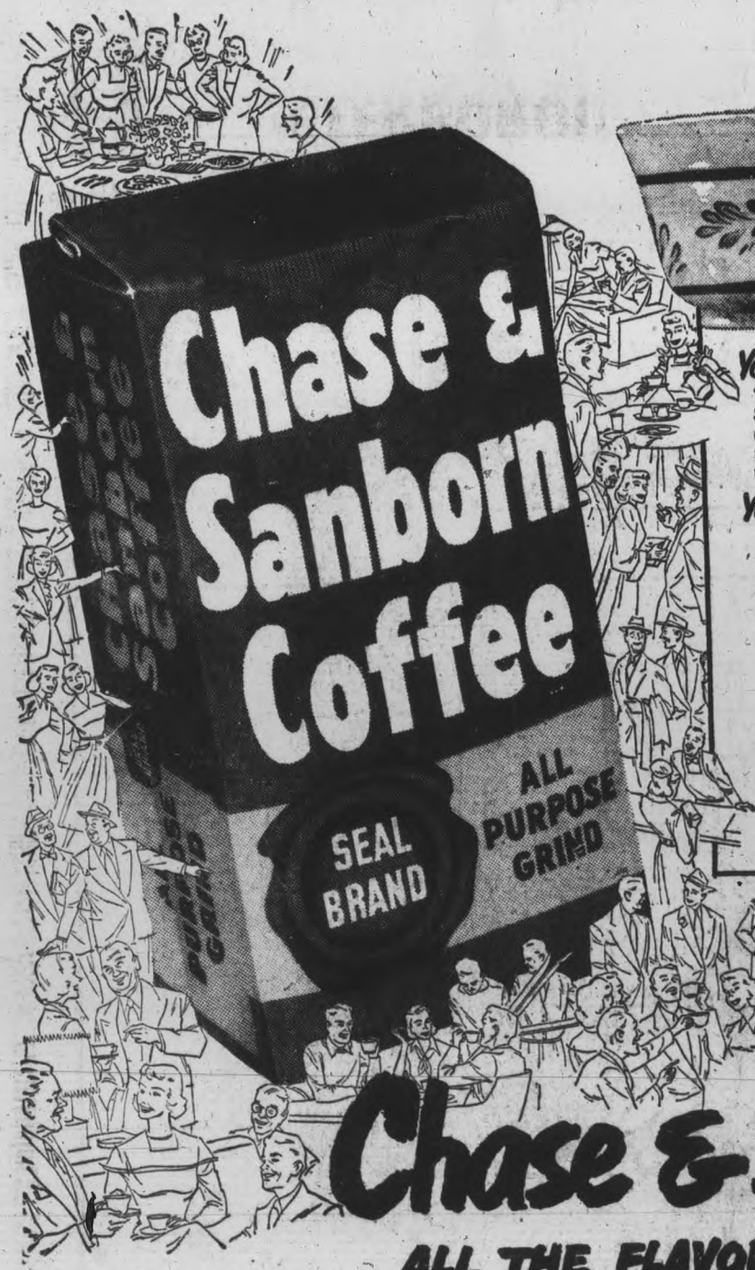
The main office of 1909 is not the main office of today. It was then located in the present laboratory building. Mr. Shiner recalls that the staff then of the cost, accounting and payroll departments totalled 20 persons.

During the following years Mr. Shiner assumed a position of increasing responsibility in the cost department. Most recently he was the leader of several cost sections until the decentralization of office groups moved sections into the divisions.

In December, 1948, Mr. Shiner was appointed supervisor of the general cost section and directed this work from his main office desk.

Aside from his official capacity in the Peterborough works, Mr. Shiner has taken interest in several employee organizations. He was associated with the Social and Athletic Club practically from its beginning in 1927 and served as a director and auditor. Mr. Shiner was also an auditor for the Mutual Benefit Society, a trustee of the Quarter Century Club and president of the shop bowling league at various times.

Offices outside the CGE have been held by Mr. Shiner such as fraternal, church and service groups. Two of his main outside interests are his position as treasurer of Murray St. Baptist Church and his work with the Peterborough Boy Scout Association. He has been secretary of the Scout group for the past 10 years.



FIRST ICE BRIDGE — Strong south winds blowing off Lake Erie during the weekend pushed thousands of tons of ice down the Niagara River and over the falls to form the first ice bridge of the 1950-51 season. This view, taken from the Canadian side, shows the veil of white mist rising above the American Falls. While it will easily support a man, the ice bridge is filled with deep crevices and treacherous holes, making any attempt to cross it impossible.

Chinese Reds Capture Seoul Push After Retreating Army

US Doesn't Intend Ask UN Permission To Bomb Red China

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—(AP)—President Truman said today the United States is not considering asking the United Nations for permission to bomb Communist China. He made this clear at a press conference in which he again expressed hope that a Third World War can be avoided this year. He also said, in response to questions as to what point would have to be reached before he would have to consult Congress on a declaration of war, that if the proper time arrived, the proper action would be taken.

He hopes the time will never come when he would have to ask for a declaration of war, he said, adding that the time has not come yet.

He said the action in Korea is proceeding under the direction of the United Nations and the United States is always willing to negotiate.

But, as to the Russian reply to a proposal for a big four foreign ministers conference, he said he would stand by State Secretary Dean Acheson's statement Wednesday.

Need Clarification

Acheson said that further clarification is needed as to what the Russians are proposing. He said the Russian note appears only to restate the Soviet position that the ministers should meet to discuss German questions.

Mr. Truman emphasized that the United States is not formally at war, and he added the U.S. is carrying out its obligations to the United Nations.

At the Pentagon today, Defence Secretary George C. Marshall said the situation in Korea is developing "almost exactly as anticipated and that U.N. forces have been deployed to meet this anticipation."

Marshall also said that the U.N. force in Korea had in many instances been fighting against "almost incredible" manpower superiority of the Communists.

Truman refused to comment on the military situation in Korea.

At the same time, he said appointment of an ambassador to Franco Spain did not contemplate inclusion of Spain in the mutual defence assistance program.

That has not been under consideration, he said.

16 Firefighters Overcome In Newsprint Fire

VANCOUVER, Jan. 4 (CP). — Firemen stood guard throughout the night at a smouldering newsprint storeroom where a three-alarm fire launched a multi-pronged attack Wednesday.

The fire, in a three-hour rampage:

Damaged the four-storey Parks Hotel; forced 75 guests to flee for their lives; sent 16 firemen to hospital; caused The Vancouver Daily Province to run off its final edition on the presses of The Vancouver Sun, its afternoon rival; and destroyed 500 tons of newsprint, worth $54,000.

The fire also gutted a restaurant on the ground floor of the 72-room hotel. Fire department officials have set total damage at more than $100,000.

The storeroom was in the basement of the hotel, which adjoins The Daily Province building on downtown Pender Street. Smoke damage was reported heavy in the newspaper circulation offices.

The editorial employees and pressmen stayed on as long as they could. They dashed into the smoke-filled building for about 20 minutes at a stretch to dash off bits of the story in relays.

But firemen finally ordered them out when it was feared they might be overcome.

Back Home

The Province today resumed publication at its own plant.

Cause of the fire was not known. Fire wardens reported the blaze, marked by volumes of dense smoke, was under control by 4:00 p.m. Wednesday, three hours after the outbreak. But the fight was by no means over. Thick smoke prevented fighters from reaching the heart of the blaze.

Besides the firemen treated at hospital, about 30 others were treated at the scene—victims of the choking smoke.

Thousands Die In China Purge

HONG KONG, Jan. 4 (AP). — A press report said today that "thousands" have been executed within the last two months inside Communist China.

Thousands more are reported undergoing mental and physical rigors of newly-formed "re-education" camps springing up throughout the country, largely in the always-dissident area of South China.

Reasons for t is sudden purge are not entirely clear, but there are at least two obvious possibilities:

1. Guerrilla resistance throughout the mainland may have become too strong for Chinese Communist authorities to deal with in anything short of strongest measures.

2. The Chinese Reds, possibly believing a third world war is inevitable may be eliminating all dissident elements.

The Communists themselves reported Wednesday from Hankow, the capital of Kwangsi province, that 43,699 "bandits" were eliminated there in November and December.

Rumor Canadians To See Action Soon

TORONTO, Jan. 4 (CP) — A Toronto paper says today in a Tokyo dispatch that Canadian troops are "expected to go into action much earlier than expected as result of the fall of Seoul and the swift advance of the Chinese Communists."

(Canadians in Korea last reported training at Miryang, a town about 27 miles northwest of and inland from the south-coast port city of Pusan, are the 2nd Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.)

The newspaper says that Brig. F. J. Fleury, chief of the Canadian military mission in the Far East, "was flying from Tokyo tonight to visit the battalion."

The men were described by their commander, Lt.-Col. J. M. (Big Jim) Stone of Salmon Arm, B.C., as "ready to fight," the story says.

Must Make Sacrifices Europe Told

Eisenhower Warns U.S. Can't Bear Full Defence Burden

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 — (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said today the European democracies must make equal sacrifices with America if forces are to be built up capable of defending Europe and maintaining peace.

Preparing to leave for his combined European command, he told a press conference:

"If every sacrifice by America is not matched by equal sacrifices of the European democracies this thing cannot win."

At the conference he also said:

1. "I believe that this movement among the western democracies is one for peace and nothing else. The western world feels it has the right and duty to itself to live in tranquility. That is all we are trying to do."

To Visit Capitals

2. He will visit each capital of the North Atlantic treaty organization nations during the trip which he will start about noon Saturday. He will return to the United States around the end of January for few days of conferences, then go back to Europe.

3. The purpose of this first trip is to talk with the officials of the various countries and "reassure myself that we are not working at cross purposes."

4. He does not know yet what the set-up of the supreme headquarters command will be and does not expect this first trip to produce a complete set of plans for that.

Dollar Holdings Down 45 Million

OTTAWA, Jan. 4 — (CP). — Canada's official holdings of gold and U.S. dollars totalled $1,742,000,000 at December 31, 1950, down $45,000,000 from the November 30 figures, the Finance Department announced today.

At the end of 1949 the corresponding figure was $1,117,000,000.

At September 30, 1950, the gold and US dollars holdings stood at $1,790,000,000 and at October 31, $1,827,000,000.

All figures are in terms of US dollars.

December's reserves were down only $48,000,000 from September 30, the day the government "freed" the Canadian dollar from 11 years of government control.

Financial experts considered the reduction minor.

Brophey Acquitted

WINDSOR, Jan. 4 (CP). — Henry Brophey was acquitted by Magistrate A. W. Mac MacMillan today on a charge of illegal possession of liquor when police were unable to prove that liquor in his home had not been bought under legal permit. Brophey's home was entered Dec. 6 — the same day that his brother, Thomas was elected Mayor of Windsor.

Theatres and Restaurants Unofficial Banks In Strike

DUBLIN, Jan. 4 (Reuters). — Theatres and restaurants all over the Republic of Ireland have become unofficial banks to keep the business and social life of the country moving during a strike of bank employees.

"Please tender exact amounts in payment," the acting bankers announce outside their premises, and they arrange that all small change they collect is passed back into general circulation as quickly as possible.

Because of this and because Christmas shopping put record sums of money into circulation—the country's 750,000 workers received their full wages last week Most employers are confident they can repeat that achievement next Friday.

The banks have not opened ice Christmas because the 4,000 employees want higher pay and cost-of-living bonuses.

Bank employees here have traditionally regarded themselves as among the most genteel members of society.

Therefore they do not picket the banks in a regular way. But, at evening, there are always strikers strolling about near the back doors of the banks, for non-striking senior officials of some banks have passed out funds to business men through the back doors. If the strikers see any attempt to repeat that, they have a polite word with the callers.

The public is taking the strike, now in its ninth day, philosophically. It regards it as a "kid glove" strike and probably the strangest and most picturesque the country has ever known.

The strikers are comparatively poor men. As they are getting no strike pay, they must depend on the generosity of friends.

Mayor's Vote Margin Increased In Recount

WINDSOR, Jan. 4 (CP)—Mayor Thomas Brophey's election margin over defeated Mayor Arthur J. Reaume increased from 38 to 43 votes by noon today as a recount of the disputed Dec. 6 civic election began.

The gain was found as ballot boxes for 23 polls in three of the city's five wards were opened and recounted by three recount judges. There are 185 polls in the city.

Fiery Volcano Worries Officials

CATANIA, Sicily, Jan. 4 (AP). —Europe's tallest volcano today went into its 40th day of violent eruption amid increasing fears worse may be yet to come.

The government of Catania, 20 miles south of the half-mile wide lava stream spouting from the snow-crested eastern slopes of Mount Etna, said in a special announcement:

"Serious concern is begun to be felt because of the continued violence of the eruption."

In its first month the lava outpour rolled to within yards of the villages of Milo and Fornazzo, which were evacuated of their 2,000 inhabitants and stripped of everything movable.

MRS. FANNY HORNE, 88-year-old British farm worker, was made a member of the Order of the British Empire in the New Year honor list of King George VI. Here she stands in the garden of her four-room cottage at Home Farm, Preston, England. Mrs. Horne, who has 19 great-grand children, spent the last two weeks threshing on the farm. She has been a widow for 36 years.

Kennedy Forecasts 1951 See Highest Food Prices

TORONTO, Jan. 4—(CP)—Agriculture Minister Kennedy of Ontario Wednesday forecast for 1951 the highest food prices in the province's history. He blamed this on a shortage of farm manpower and said it is as acute as during the war.

James C. Weaver of Owen Sound, speaking at the same meeting, said decreased dairy production will result in event of war, unless the public is willing to pay higher prices or the Federal government releases more stabilization funds.

Mr. Weaver president of the Ontario Milk Producers League, told its annual convention the dairy industry should have a "proper place" in the national economy.

This should include, he said, extra support for agencies to control surplus milk and return of arbitrating powers to a reconstituted milk control board. The board was disbanded a year ago and milk prices now are set by a board headed by a judge.

Push Prices Up

Mr. Kennedy said rising prices and the attraction of labor to city industries were continuing to push up Ontario food prices.

"The workingman is not going on the farm, now, he's going to the city," he said. "And that in spite of the fact that he is offered from $125 to $150 a month, free house, free milk and free wood."

Mr. Kennedy's advice to the milk producers was: "the more the farmer has to do with his product until it reaches the consumer the better for him. The farmer should be able to sell all of his products for himself anywhere in this province."

Want Bigger Returns

If there is any increase in food prices this year it will probably be due to the inadequacy of farmers' present returns, rather than a shortage of farm labor, George Stirling, field man for Middlesex County Federation of Agriculture, said today.

Mr. Stirling said that in Middlesex last year there was a shortage of farm labor, but it was "not as acute as in previous years."

Price, Wage Controls Promised By Truman

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (AP)—President Truman said today across-the-board price and wage controls will be put on wherever necessary and possibly as soon as it can be done.

He told a press conference it would require legislation to clamp controls on food, but said that as soon as it is physically possible wage-price controls will be set wherever it is legally possible.

As for rationing, he said, the government will have to cross that bridge when it gets to it.

Rationing would require control of food prices which contributed so heavily to the rise in the cost of living.

Seek Some Way Halt Red Peril

LONDON, Jan. 4. (CP)—Grave leaders of nine commonwealth countries in vital talks opening today sought ways to halt the march of Communist imperialism and to avert a third world war.

The prime purpose of the 10-day conference is to co-ordinate more closely the fight of commonwealth countries against Communist encroachments.

Defence policies of the vast group — covering more than 500,000,000 people in five continents —in case a new world war does start were placed high on the list of subjects the ministers are to ponder.

Prime Minister Attlee, who opened the talks at 10 Downing Street, was expected to take the line that the commonwealth should work more actively for peace and not simply be a group of powers passively awaiting war.

Two Men Arrested Fight Over Moose

TORONTO, Jan. 4 CP).—The Ontario Lands Department said today that two men have been arrested following a fight over the shooting of a moose at Gogama in Northern Ontario. They will appear for trial at Sudbury.

L. P. Collin, alleged to have held a conservation officer at gunpoint while removing part of a moose carcass, is charged with armed robbery, officials said here. Another man, unidentified, is charged with obstruction.

Conservation officers S. Rodwell and J. Emo were investigating the shooting of the animal when they were accosted by Collin, a department spokesman said.

Nab Confidence Man

AGEN, France, Jan. 4 — (Reuters) Alexander, Baron Von Ludinghausen-Wolff—the man with 36 aliases, five passports, and 100 convictions for confidence tricks and other offences in almost every country in Europe—Wednesday received his longest sentence ever, five years. The lanky 48-year-old Baron was sentenced for stealing a Francisco Goya self-portrait from a local museum.

UN Soldiers Stunned At Retreat

Ordered To Hold Their Positions At Any Cost Earlier

AN AIR BASE IN SOUTHERN JAPAN, Jan. 4—(AP)—The order to abandon the South Korean capital of Seoul and defences north of the city came as a complete surprise to Allied front-line units who had just been told to hold their positions at any cost.

When the carefully-blueprinted pullback began, other United Nations units along the front began to move southward through the virtually-deserted city while troops of a British brigade fought a successful delaying action.

The rearguard defence then was taken over by an emergency regiment, which held the line while the British troops passed through to the rear.

At about midnight the British troops were ambushed by an enemy force of undetermined size just north of Seoul. The Tommies fought their way out of the trap.

After the others had cleared the smoke-covered city, the American Regiment moved through the deserted streets on its way to the pontoon bridge over the river. Fires burned unopposed throughout Seoul.

Children Abandoned

The withdrawing Americans occasionally saw little children, separated from their parents, wandering aimlessly down the empty streets.

The plan called for the narrow floating bridge to be blown after the last UN troops were on the south bank. Royal Engineers from the British Brigade handled the demolition job.

Engineers from American units had broken up much of the ice across the Han. Assault boats were busy plowing back and forth removing supplies and, the last troops.

By mid-morning the last American elements had passed over the bridge to positions south of the river.

For the second time in six months of war, Seoul was again in the hands of Red invaders from the north.

$10,000,000 Fire Sweeps Stores

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Jan. 4 — (AP).—Fire swept by a stiff wind roared through eight buildings in the centre of the business district early today. Damage was estimated at more than $10,000,000.

Three firemen were slightly burned.

Fire chief Clarence Bassemier estimated the damage soon after the fire was brought under control. He explained that it had swept through some of the largest buildings in the downtown area and had destroyed some expensive merchandise.

Cause of the blaze was not determined.

The fire raged out of control for four hours before more than 200 firemen from several Illinois and Indiana cities got the upper hand.

It jumped across main street and gutted Hoffman's department store, one of the largest in this city of 140,000 in southwestern Indiana on the Ohio river.

Several other buildings were damaged by water, smoke and heat.

Off Princess' List

LONDON, Jan. 4—(AP)—London buzzed tonight with reports that Lord Ogilvy, often seen with Princess Margaret, is soon to become engaged to Lady Pamela Mountbatten, younger daughter of Earl and Countess Mountbatten. That would leave the gangling Earl of Dalkeith, handsome, 27-year-old Scots nobleman, practically head and shoulders ahead of the field of young swains vying for the affections of the vivacious Princess.

Child's Body Discovered Mile From Safety

VANCOUVER, Jan. 4 (CP) — Safety was only a mile away, but 12-year-old Norman Fielders could drag his bruised, weary body no further.

The red-headed boy who loved hiking was found dead Wednesday night. Mountain cold had taken his life some time after he left his Vancouver home Sunday morning to watch skiers.

Surveyor Bob Neil, an employee of the Greater Vancouver Water Board, found the body while coming down Grouse mountain.

"He was lying on the logging road just beside a root about 18 inches high," said Neil. "He had dug his way under the root during the night—you could see where he had been digging in the sand.

"He had stayed at the spot for some time. If he had only had some cookies or a chocolate bar he could have made it".

Inside the "cave" were a small pair of mittens and one rubber boot. The boy's body was soaked and his leg badly bruised, from stumbling over logs.

Norman was the son of Mrs. Cyril McLellan. She said the boy often went on trips up the mountain which overlooks Vancouver from the north shore of Burrard Inlet.

The spot where the body was found is only one mile over fairly-open terrain from a tea room, where Neil, fellow surveyor Guy Stone and two RCMP officers carried the body. The lower level of the mountain also is dotted with homes.

Police said exposure was the cause of death.

The discovery ended a four-day hunt which stretched across the lower mainland of British Columbia.

Two Vancouver schoolgirls, Marilyn Long, 15, and Freida Newfeld, 13, escaped a similar fate last week on Mount Seymour, near Grouse.

Ships Jam Harbor 3,000 Dockers Sick

LIVERPOOL, England, Jan. 4 (AP).—An epidemic of influenza disrupted Liverpool shipping today, bringing on harbor conditions that haven't been seen here since wartime convoys flocked into port.

An estimated 30 per cent of Liverpool's working people—including 3,000 dockers—were in bed with the 'flu.

The harbor was jammed with ships waiting for berths.

About 1,000 nurses were away from their jobs. Hospital authorities appealed for retired nurses to come back temporarily. Nearly 800 bus drivers and conductors and 25 to 30 per cent of telephone operators were ill.

Meanwhile, in London the Ministry of Health said epidemics of 'flu so far are confined to the Lancashire area around Liverpool and to the northeast coast.

Smash Across Han River After Allies

U.N. Forces Withdraw From Inchon Port, Head For New Base

TOKYO, Jan. 4 — (AP) — Communist Chinese hordes today seized abandoned, fire-gutted Seoul and smashed across the frozen Han River to battle retreating Allied forces west of the South Korean capital. The Reds were moving swiftly in a giant pincer movement aimed at shoving the United Nations troops into the Yellow Sea at Inchon, Seoul's big port 18 miles to the west.

It was later announced that U.N. forces protecting the Inchon supply port, withdrew by sea tonight while naval guns shelled the path of the approaching Reds.

U.S. Eighth Army headquarters said Reds in an estimated battalion strength were across the Han and fighting an Allied unit one mile west of Seoul at 11 a.m. Other Reds were in contact two miles west of the city.

Attack Road Blocks

Two Allied road blocks were reported under attack. Their locations were not given.

The swift follow-up of the Reds' seizure of the South Korean capital—the crossing of the frozen Han — underlined Gen. MacArthur's report on the danger of a pincers enveloping Inchon.

It was from an amphibious landing at Inchon that the Allies crushed most of the North Korean Red Army in a vise last September. Seoul was retaken from the Communists then and the Korean war seemed in its final phases.

Too Many Soldiers

But the sheer weight of shrieking and seemingly-endless Chinese Red manpower forced Allied troops to quit the ancient, devastated South Korean capital today.

They blew the last bridges over the frozen Han River at noon. Nearby Kimpo airfield was aban-

Pilot Saves 49 In Crash

CHICAGO, Jan. 4 (AP) — Forty-nine persons were saved today by the skilful work of the pilot who made a forced landing of a C-46 airliner minutes after the takeoff.

All 49 walked or were taken to safety, seconds before two gasoline tanks exploded and the big craft burst into flames. Occupants of the plane were 46 passengers, including a 10-month-old baby, and a crew of three.

Three persons suffered minor injuries and an expectant mother among the passengers was taken to a hospital.

Through adept handling by pilot Marvin Staddon, the plane was landed in an open field when it had failed to gain altitude after taking off from Midway Airport. The plane, one passenger reported, bounced along the open field, skidded into a haystack and remained upright.

The fire broke out after all 48 had left the ship. It still was burning in the field a few blocks from the airport several hours later.

Report Major Battle In North Indo-China

SAIGON, Indo-China, Jan 4 (AP)—A French military spokesman said tonight that a major battle is being fought in North Indo-China but no details will be announced until completion of the current phase of operations.

Meanwhile, for the fifth consecutive day, French army headquarters issued a communique which shed little light on events on the embattled northern fronts.

The communique said that Communist-led Vietminh forces are still attacking the line of French forces guarding Hanoi. No change in the situation—whatever it is—was reported in the Tienyen-Moncay sector on the northeast Indo-China frontier.

The spokesman who revealed the major battle was the personal representative of the new commander-in-chief and high commissioner, Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny.

RCAF Plane Goes Into Bog After Overshooting Runway

NORTH BAY, Jan. 4 (CP)—An RCAF North Star plane suffered minor damage when it overshot a runway at North Bay airport late Wednesday and plowed about 200 feet through a bog.

None of the 15 RCAF and National Research Council personnel aboard was injured.

The four-engined, 30-ton aircraft was on an "ice seeking" exercise out of Rockcliffe airport, near Ottawa.

Authorities declined to divulge names of those aboard pending an official investigation.

It was believed the heavy craft, loaded with de-icing and experimental equipment, overshot on landing due to the slippery surface of the runway, brought on by mild weather and heavy rain. A crew member said the plane touched down satisfactorily, but skidded on the slippery runway.

It bulldozed a path four feet deep through heavy mud and snow, coming to rest about 200 feet from the end of the runway.

Force of the impact snapped one of the four-blade propellors, bent another and damaged sections of the understructure.

Getting the plane out of the mud may be troublesome it was indicated. Lowering temperatures and snow froze the craft solidly in the mud during the night.

Canada Will Foot Bill to Train Airmen for Allies

OTTAWA, Jan. 4—(CP)—Canada is preparing to triple the pace of trainees entering her flying schools by the end of 1951 as a major contribution to joint western defence that will make her once again a vital airdrome of democracy. Officials estimate there may well be 2,200 potential airmen training here by then. A swift, sharp, costly expansion was indicated Wednesday night by Defence Minister Claxton in announcing that Canada "now is offering . . . to increase substantially" the numbers of airmen to be trained here for her North Atlantic Pact allies.

The figure now stands around 300, with 100 or more Europeans here and 200 Britons coming, starting this month.

Mr. Claxton mentioned no new figures, but it is estimated reliably that the government is willing to boost the North Atlantic Treaty Organization total to at least Britain—while preparing to absorb 1,200 Canadians this year.

Triple Trainees

That would mean some 2,200 potential air crew in training at year's end, or roughly three times the 1950 total. RCAF experience is that 25 per cent or more fail to make the grade.

The expansion will mean the reopening of three or more wartime airfields, mostly on the prairies, purchase of more training planes, strenuous efforts to enlist and train ground crew, and a total bill in the next fiscal year of possibly $40,000,000 arising from NATO training.

RCAF sources say Canada may have to have some help from other countries in ground crew if enlistment figures don't increase smartly. They think it will be late this year before the program is in full stride.

The arrangement is that Belgium, Britain, France, Italy, the Netherlands and Norway transport their would-be fliers here and clothe and pay them while here. Canada foots the bill for the rest, out of her arms-for-Europe program which now is feeding on a $300,000,000 parliamentary appropriation, expected to be boosted at the impending session.

Wheat Payments Split Cabinet

OTTAWA, Jan. 4 (CP)—A huge money problem that primarily concerns Western wheat farmers, but which may touch the pockets of many other Canadians, has developed two opposing camps in the cabinet.

The problem is slowly developing to a head and is expected to result in a decision soon—probably within the next four weeks.

The controversy in the cabinet is an outgrowth of the constant prairie demands for a final payment on 1,250,000,000 bushels of wheat delivered for sale to the Canadian Wheat Board during the last five years.

The board, say officials, has about enough in its treasury to pay five cents a bushel on all of the deliveries. That would mean about $62,500,000. Western farmers, however, have demanded at least three times that amount.

The latest request, from the three Western pools, is for a final payment of 15 cents a bushel, or about $187,500,000. To make that kind of payment, the government would have to dig deep into the treasury.

In informed quarters it is reported that Agriculture Minister Gardiner is backing the prairie farmers to the hilt.

Attlee Promises Talks On Kashmir

LONDON, Jan. 4 (CP).—Commonwealth leaders anxiously sought Wednesday night to end Pakistan's boycott of vital peace-and-war strategy talks.

Prime Minister Attlee has cabled Pakistani Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan promising the opportunity of a back-stage discussion about Kashmir—focus of a two-year quarrel between Pakistan and India.

Industrials Continue Climb On Exchange

TORONTO, Jan. 4 — (CP) — Industrials climbed to new high ground for the third straight day as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

They opened slightly lower but soon recovered and advanced steadily with gains ranging to more than a point. Steels paced the list with a solid array of advances.

Base Metals were ahead on an average although they were fairly mixed. Hudson Bay headed the group with a $1 jump. Consolidated Smelters, United Reno Hill, Sherritt Gordon and Waite Amulet went against the trend with losses up to 75 cents.

Golds were quiet with gains and losses limited to pennies. Senior Producers were mixed while Junior Producers drifted lower.

Western Oils declined slowly.

Deplores Increase In Juvenile Crime

HALIFAX — (CP) — After 25 years as crier at the Halifax county court, James Granville says one of the big changes in the court in recent years has been the increasing number of young people in the prisoners' dock.

"Every year the boys appearing seem to become younger and they are charged with more serious crimes," says the crier, who is retiring at the age of 86.

Mr. Granville's solution to the increase in juvenile delinquency aims at the home.

"I believe more supervision at home is needed," he says. "Too many of these young boys are allowed to run the streets and then they end up in the prisoner's dock."

The crier says another thing he's noticed in recent years is the large increase in the number of criminal cases.

doned after its installations went up in an awesome tower of smoke and flame.

Dynamite Buildings

Even as men and equipment were still pouring aboard ship, army demolition experts were setting off thunderous charges that left the railway yards and docking facilities in flaming ruins.

The enemy would not be able to find a thing it could use.

The explosions along the waterfront rocked the deserted city.

Towering flames lit the ship-filled harbor.

The troops who boarded ship were for the most part men whose job it was to keep the port operating to handle allied supplies.

They had been on duty here since Sept. 15, when the United Nations troops stormed ashore and wrested the strategic port from North Korean Communists.

Rear Admiral L. A. Thackrey, senior officer of the U.N. naval forces off the west coast, said:

"Our job so far has been carried out smoothly and efficiently, and if all goes well we will have all of the men and equipment safely out of here before the night is over."

More than 10,000 were moved out tonight (Thursday), and the rescue job still was on.

Where they are going is a closely-guarded secret.

Only a frightened fragment of Seoul's normally-1,500,000 population remained in the ruined city. Dusty roads to the south were choked with military traffic and a pitiful mass of humanity.

AP correspondent Stan Swinton reported the order to abandon Seoul and its defences to the north came as a complete surprise to Allied front-line units.

A British brigade fought a successful delaying action while other units withdrew in orderly fashion. Then an American division took the rearguard action.

Bring Out Wounded

Swinton said the British troops were ambushed on Seoul's outskirts about midnight, but fought through the trap. Helicopters brought out British wounded.

Carrier planes joined United States air force bombers and fighters in laying an explosive curtain to shield the withdrawals.

At 4:50 p.m. Thursday, the US Eighth Army announced Seoul had been successfully emptied of all UN troops.

Gen. MacArthur's war summary called attention to the wide flanking movement in the middle of the peninsula. He reported an estimated 180,000 Chinese and Korean Communists driving toward Wonju, 55 miles southeast of Seoul.

Wonju's capture, he said, would place the Reds in a position to trap Allied forces in the west and north. It also would menace the main route to Pusan, old beachhead supply port in southeast Korea.

US marine and naval planes roared off carriers to strike at the Reds around the clock. U.S.A.F. planes kept up a drumming 72-hour attack that headquarters estimated cost the Communists more than 5,500 troops and 4,000 buildings housing men and material.

Aground, it was a dark day for United Nations arms.

MacArthur reported a raging battle in central Korea, southwest of Kapyong. Kapyong is the apex of a triangle formed by Seoul, 35 miles to the southwest and Wonju, 40 miles to the southeast.

How that battle was going was vague. But the US Eighth Army reported Wednesday a general withdrawal was being made all along the 150-mile front across Korea's waist.

Bigger Offensive

The Red attack burst through Allied lines Wednesday morning, gaining momentum faster than the sharp New Year's Eve attack.

Each hour it became more apparent that the new offensive was far bigger than it seemed at first. The North Korean radio at Pyongyang said the Communists were engaged in a fierce battle to wipe out "the enemy along the entire length of the 38th Parallel."

But the Reds were moving considerably south of the parallel, former boundary which separated Russian and U.S. occupation zones in North and South Korea. It was across Parallel 38 that the Russian-made tanks of the North Korean Reds plunged June 25 to invade the UN-sponsored Korean Republic.

Lt.-Col. Macbeth Dies Suddenly

OTTAWA, Jan. 4 (CP).—Lt.-Col. J. D. Macbeth, executive assistant to Veterans Minister Hugues Lapointe, died suddenly early today at his home at nearby Hazeldean, Ont. He was 47.

Educated in Ottawa, Col. Macbeth was former executive assistant to Milton F. Gregg, when the latter was Veterans Affairs Minister and carried on in that position when Mr. Lapointe took over the portfolio last August.

Col. Macbeth was given command of a signals unit in England during the Second World War while still in his thirties, and was one of the youngest men in the Canadian army to become a Lieutenant Colonel.

The son of Mrs. Madge MacBeth, a well-known Canadian author, he was in command of the 3rd divisional signals before going overseas and reverted to the rank of captain to go on active service.

His decorations included the French Croix de Guerre and his military activity overseas extended through Italy and most of western Europe.

Cab Owner Claims

Frank's brother, who was driving for Feeley, that he had been arrested on a charge of bootlegging.

"So in order to get back at the brother, you planned this whole thing didn't you?" Mr. Fair charged.

Planned Nothing

"I didn't plan nothing," Feeley answered.

He admitted he drove to the Booth farm and saw a police car there. Asked if he had pointed out Collins to police walking on Monaghan Rd., Feeley said "that's right."

Constable Dennis Traynor testified he received a phone call from Feeley and went to his taxi office with Constable Andre Dalton, picked up Feeley, who pointed out Collins.

He asked Feeley why he and Thompson couldn't get along.

Nothing Against Thompson

Feeley said he had nothing against Thompson, that it was Collins who had a grudge against Thompson. He said Collins had told him that when working he had stolen some frozen chickens and sold one to Thompson. He said Thompson "squealed" on him and Collins lost his job.

"Feeley has the reputation of being one of the biggest bootleggers in Peterborough, hasn't he?" Mr. Fair asked Constable Traynor.

"That's right," the constable replied.

Of Collins, Mr. Fair asked, "He seemed to be expecting you, didn't he?" "I thought so," the constable said.

Constable Dalton testified earlier they had been given a tip by Feeley that Thompson would be delivering a case of beer to 1013 High St. but it had proved a dud.

Later, about 1:30 a.m., the station got another call from Feeley to go to his taxi stand and from there they went with Feeley in the back seat and picked up Collins.

Stopped Collins

He said they stopped Collins and asked him some routine questions and all the time he was asking the questions, Collins kept pushing a bottle of liquor in his pocket toward the officer to make sure the officer saw it.

As they were driving Collins into the police station, Feeley said to Collins, "Why don't you tell them what you did?"

Collins then said, "I bought a bottle of liquor from Thompson on Douglas Ave. for $7.

He said they got a search warrant and searched Thompson's home but found only four bottles of wine and two bottles of whisky.

Thompson took the stand in his own defence. He said Collins phoned him and asked for a bottle of liquor. He said he and three others "had quite a laugh about it." Ten minutes later Collins appeared and asked to be taxied to his mother's place at the Booth farm where there was a party.

Saw Feeley's Car

He drove Collins and took along Michels. As he was driving out of the lane at the farm he saw Feeley's cab there. He drove Michels on to Mount Pleasant to Michels' aunt's home. At Mount Pleasant his car slid into the ditch and they both spent the night there.

He said in the month before the charge was laid against him he had had numerous phone calls and people coming to the house asking for liquor. He said they told him Gip Feeley sent them.

He said he had people try to pull him out of his cab and using obscene language in front of his passengers. He said all claimed Feeley sent them. He denied that either he or his help had sold a bottle of liquor to Collins or anyone else.

Samuel Calladine, another taxi operator, said he had heard Thompson ask Feeley why he sent two youths to his home for liquor and he heard Feeley admit he had sent them and came and picked them up.

Pat Larock said he was called to Feeley's office. Gip Feeley gave him $20 to pay Collins' fine, but when he arrived at the station to pay it, he didn't have enough money. He was driven back in one of Feeley's cabs and that was the end of it for him.

Council Amends Procedure Passing Bylaws

In the passing of bylaws, city council has amended its procedure from separate to collective consideration in second reading, as proposed by City Clerk Outram at the committee of the whole Tuesday morning, and adopted by the council that night.

This change avoids the shuttling of members from their seats to the mayor's chair as in turn they were appointed to preside in committee of the whole for the second reading. It provides some saving in time, and also avoids appearance of confusion to persons attending in the gallery.

Bylaws are given three readings in their course of receiving statutory effect. The first reading, so-called, is merely introductory. Only the title is read. For the second, the council transfers to committee of the whole for reading of the complete text. The mayor leaves his chair and names an alderman to take his place in presiding over the committee. That responsibility by local custom circulates around the council, so that all members share in it.

Most bylaws have been discussed previously in committee, and as the clauses and provisions have already been agreed upon, their second reading is dispensed with in the formula of being "taken as read".

Only Titulary

The third reading, like the first, is only titulary. By the new procedure, bylaws shall be introduced separately at any meeting, but "Those bylaws which have received first reading shall then be presented in succession to committee of the whole for detailed consideration and adoption on second reading."

The effect of reducing movement within the council for the second reading will require only one transfer of the council to committee of the whole for all the bylaws which will be dealt with separately but also collectively in succession at that one committee sitting.

That means that only one alderman will move to the mayor's chair at any meeting to preside in committee of the whole from the mayor's chair. On fairly numerous occasions there have been ten or twelve bylaws to be passed at one sitting of the council. They required ten aldermen to take the chair of the mayor in the second reading. And when there were more than ten bylaws at one meeting, the rotation of chairman of committee of the whole extended into a second round of the members.

The effective change is in the second reading. Nor is there any alteration in suspending third reading for another occasion if approval of a bylaw by the Ontario Municipal Board or other provincial authority is required.

After its second reading in that circumstance, it is mailed to Toronto for consideration there, and approval. Third reading follows on its return.

In the amended practice, aldermen will not move so often as in the past to the mayoral seat throughout the year.

GREGORY MENDEL
Augustinian Monk

For centuries the laws of inheritance had been a mystery. Finally a priest in a monastery found the solution. He had no elaborate equipment — just a good eye and a careful hand.

This monk, Gregory Mendel, in the little monastery in Brunn, Czechoslovakia, with nothing but a monastery garden for a laboratory, formulated those laws of heredity that are now the basis of all our knowledge of the subject. For his experiments he used common garden peas. He crossed and recrossed them. After years of patient observation, he discovered that the appearance of certain characteristics, such as greenness or yellowness in the pods, largeness or smallness, and so on, was governed by mathematical laws. And he found that by means of these laws he could predict the result of the crossing of two divergent strains.

It has since been proved that these laws apply to all living things. Today they are constantly being used to improve the products of the farm. The lesson of Mendel is that good observation and good workmanship, even in the humblest surroundings, can achieve wonders. Observation and experiment rule the world. But good observation is not possible without good vision.

Veteran Ship Sinks On Reef

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 4 — (AP).—One of the "unsinkable" ships of the Second World War today was reported on her way to the bottom off the northeast coast of Australia.

She was the 11,000-ton British freighter Pallana, which had survived German mines and attacks by German and Japanese bombers.

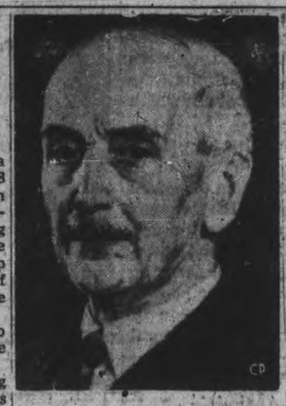
She hit a rock Wednesday night and was badly holed off Pine Peak Island, in the Great Barrier Reef, about 60 miles from the northeast Australian coast. Today her captain, F. R. Spurr, radioed that she had broken loose and was sinking slowly.

Her crew of 69, after taking to lifeboats, was reported aboard the Dutch freighter Singkep. The Singkep was standing by, but apparently unable to help the British vessel, which is owned by the Peninsular and Oriental Navigation Co.

There were no passengers aboard the Palana, which left Brisbane Tuesday without cargo to load lead and meat for Britain.

BATTLE-WORN — Canadian destroyers serving with UN forces are beginning to show the outward effects of long periods of duty in Korean waters. Sparkling with fresh paint when they left Esquimalt in July, they have taken on the look of battered seadogs. This is HMCS Cayuga, which headed the withdrawal and bombardment operation at Chinnampo early in December.

Rains Cause River Flood



GALT, Jan. 4 (CP)—Fed by a heavy run-off after nearly 48 continuous hours of drizzling rain the Grand River went on its second rampage of the season during the night. The light coat of ice which covered the river broke up and there was a sudden rush of water that shot up the level more than 10 feet.

There was some seepage into low-lying cellars but no damage of any account was done.

With the temperature starting to drop this morning, no serious flood threat is anticipated.

Robbed At Church

BALTIMORE, Jan. 4—(AP)—John G. Iago paused late Wednesday at a Russian Catholic cathedral here for a few moments of prayer. As he left the church, a young man met him in the vestibule, pointed a gun at him and robbed him of eight dollars.

ROUND THE WORLD—T. D. Moffat, Sr., chairman of the board of Moffats, Ltd., used to walk 20 miles to sell stoves from the first Moffat factory at Markdale, in Bruce county. Later he travelled the world to sell his products abroad. In January, 1951, at the age of 88, he started his fourth round-the-world tour.

Koch Ends Hunger Strike

AUGSBURG, Germany, Jan. 4 —(AP)—Ilse Koch, the accused "Red Witch of Buchenwald," today gave up her two-day hunger strike.

After a hearty breakfast, she munched an apple during pauses in her trial on charges of inciting murders and tortures of Buchenwald concentration camp inmates.

One of the witnesses against her today was Mrs. Rosa Roedel, whose husband preceded Mrs. Koch's husband as Buchenwald camp commander, and then served as his deputy.

Previous witnesses have praised Mrs. Roedel for her kindness to inmates, and contrasted her conduct with the alleged cruelty of Mrs. Koch.

Mrs. Roedel said Mrs. Koch was feared and hated by camp prisoners, and that she exercised a "fearful influence" over her commander husband.

City Manager Or Divided Authority?

In his inaugural address the Mayor made a reference to the problem of city management which has been on the minds of many citizens for the past five years. It appeared that the Mayor favoured the appointment, not of a city manager, but of two managers, one of the clerical and the other of the engineering side of the city's business. This would mean, in effect, extending the authority of the City Clerk and the City Engineer. Now although Peterborough is fortunate in having both a very able Clerk and an unusually capable engineer, we question how helpful such a divided authority would be in taking the burden of city business from the backs of the aldermen.

* * *

The appointment of a city manager has been discussed because Peterborough has reached a size where its business cannot be carried on by its aldermen without making unfair demands upon their time and energy. The job of a city manager is to carry out policies laid down by the Council. In order to do that, he must have a wide degree of executive authority; it is not his job to decide what shall be done, but it is his job to decide how it shall be done, and when, and by whom. We seriously doubt if two executive officials, presumably equal in authority, would be able to do the city's work as efficiently as one man directly responsible to the Council. And if such a harmonious arrangement could be made with the present pair of officials, we see no reason to believe that such harmony would persist between their successors.

* * *

We have no desire to urge the city manager plan upon the Council; we do suggest, however, that the people of Peterborough would like to have that plan thoroughly discussed by the Council, and its merits given full consideration. And if there were a discussion of the city manager plan, the plan of the two equal officials—clerical and engineering—could be discussed also, and a thorough examination made of it. For it is clear that the city's business cannot and should not be left so much to the aldermen as it is. They are elected, after all, to set policy, and not to carry it out personally.

What About Original Sin?

Commenting on capital punishment in a recent editorial, our esteemed contemporary the Brantford Expositor has this to say: "Capital punishment . . . is not and never has been a perfect deterrent although certainly effective as a retributive agent! Probably the ultimate solution will lie in the field of preventive psychiatry and psychosomatic medicine".

We do not share the Expositor's optimism. Apparently it believes that Man is perfectible through his own efforts; we are not so hopeful. More and more we are forced back upon the old theological concept of Original Sin as the only explanation for a wide variety of the misdeeds of men, individually and collectively. There is no easy solution to the problem of crime. Psychiatry throws some light upon it, but nothing that makes us look for a final solution in that quarter. We all have inclinations toward criminality in us, and he would be a bold man indeed who said that he escaped the consequences of those inclinations merely through an exercise of his own will. No, we cannot agree that some form of preventive psychiatry will materially reduce the incidence of crime. Banish poverty, banish ignorance, banish disease and yet crime, we venture to say, will remain.

In our progressive age it is unfashionable for us to receive reminders that we are all sinners, labouring under the burden of the Original Sin of Adam. But because we do not hear much about it, we would be unwise to assume that it is therefore no longer true.

A Forum Of Opinion

During 1950 we received about 600 Letters to the Editor, of which we published 407 during our 304 publishing days. During the year we had two interesting controversies, the first relating to the attempt to debar the Summer Theatre from the auditorium of Queen Mary School, and the second arising from some differences of opinion about the latest Papal Dogma. We had also the usual letters about the virtues and defects of margarene, letters relating to taxation and letters on varying phases of city business. We were happy to publish all those which were printed, even when they were somewhat harsh toward our own expressed policies. Those which were not published were rejected because they were unsigned, or because they were libellous, or simply because, at the time of their arrival, we had no room in which to print them.

Contrary to a widely held opinion, newspapers are under no obligation to print letters which reach them. Freedom of the press does not mean that anyone is free to express his opinions through the columns of a privately owned newspaper. But virtually all newspapers do publish letters, because they are glad to provide a forum for the discussion of public affairs and matters of general interest.

For Treating Arthritis

One of the many facets of the health of Canadians which the National Health Program is taking into account is research into the treatment and care of arthritic and rheumatic persons. (The National Health Program announced May, 1948, has been undertaken to assist provincial and local governments in all phases of their health work, and to correlate the efforts on a nation-wide basis. Thus far, $47,500,000 planned expenditure has been provided for in grants to the provinces.) Arthritis and rheumatism have been recognized in the National Health Program as among the chief diseases affecting Canadians.

On a national scale, the National Health Program is assisting the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, incorporated a few months before the Program was announced. It was arranged that all the provinces immediately contribute one per cent. of their general Public Health Grant to the Society, which in 1948 thereby received $60,000, and has like monies since.

Many new projects are being started across the country. Nova Scotia is planning to establish a treatment program. New Brunswick is organizing an outpatient clinic for arthritic patients. In Quebec the Provincial Government is planning to build a 200-bed Arthritis Unit at the Hotel Dieu of Montreal. Doctors to staff this are now taking postgraduate specialized work in the U.S.A.

In Ontario $43,000 in federal grants have been allotted to the provincial branch of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, and clinics are operating in London, Kingston and Ottawa. Federal funds will meet the costs of specialized equipment, and a part of the costs of two new mobile physiotherapy clinics now operating at Kingston and Ottawa.

And so plans and programs are gradually developing in the other provinces. For instance, British Columbia has two out-patient clinics and four mobile physiotherapy units, especially to provide for those sufferers from arthritis whose incomes are low.

The discovery of ACTH and Cortisone, and the striking results of these drugs in treating arthritis have stimulated research and clinical investigation in Canada. The Federal Government has given immediate financial support to a large-scale research program for the investigation of the characteristics and uses of the new drugs. This work is being done at various university centres, and additional funds have been made available to the Connaught Medical Research Laboratories for the development of a pilot plant to produce ACTH from pituitary glands collected at Canadian abbatoirs. Thus it is hoped that the supply of the drug available to Canadian doctors and their patients will be increased.

A disease like arthritis must be considered on a nation-wide basis, so that research can be co-ordinated, doctors and technicians trained, and expensive projects undertaken. One of the values of a National Health Program is that through it, such work can be synchronized and correlated without needless duplication, and that funds can be made available for a comprehensive, long task.

Peterborough Pays Its Taxes

At present Peterborough people have paid 95.63 per cent. of their 1950 taxes. In 1949 they paid 96.52 per cent. of the taxes due, leaving only 3.48 unpaid. Since these figures were published (in the 1950 auditor's report) undoubtedly some back tax money has trickled in.

The record of the last 35 years shows that Peterborough people pay up faithfully, and that they pay best in the boom years. For instance, in 1946, all but 2.45 per cent. of the taxes due were paid. (That was Peterborough's best year in this regard.) In the depressed early 'thirties the amount of unpaid taxes jumped to twelve and sixteen per cent. of the total due. The worst year was 1933, when only 83.35 per cent. of the taxes due were paid, leaving a balance outstanding to this day of 16.65 per cent. of the total tax bill of $923,290 or $153,727.

The amount of the taxes due seems to have little bearing on whether or not people pay them. In 1913 the taxes on the roll were $272,456. In 1949 the taxes on the roll were six times as great—$1,650,040. In 1943 94.54 per cent. of the taxes was paid; in 1949 96.52. Perhaps the tax-gatherers are more efficient now than they were three decades ago, but we think credit should chiefly go to the affluence of the times and the desire of the people to pay their bills when they can.

In Australia a new disease has been identified by the name "politician's paunch". When you get that, you lose the highly desirable "politician's punch."

Australia's 50 Years Of Nationhood

By WILLIAM FITTER
(From Melbourne)

FIVE months of celebrations began in Australia on January 1 to mark the fiftieth anniversary of the Commonwealth. It was on January 1, 1901 that the Commonwealth of Australia was inaugurated by the federation of the six British colonies of New South Wales, Victoria, South Australia, Queensland, Western Australia and Tasmania—a union proclaimed and constituted by an Act of the Imperial Government dated July 9, 1900.

* * *

THE celebrations will include parades, open-air concerts, Venetian carnivals, State banquets and fireworks displays. Literary, art and music prizes will be awarded, and the Prime Ministers of other Dominions, distinguished churchmen, sporting champions and the band of the Black Watch will visit us. There will be medals, flags and Federation booklets for schoolchildren, art exhibitions, and the re-enactment of historical events.

* * *

AND, much to the disgust of the more stridently patriotic, there will be performances of "Hiawatha". Even the promise of Osheke-Non-Ton, a full blooded Red Indian and a bass-baritone of unusual skill, in the title role, has failed to still their clamour that "The Man From Snowy River" or some such Australian ballad of the early pioneering "outback" life should be set to music and pageant instead. But for those who cannot reconcile "Hiawatha" with fifty years of Federation, there will be John Antill's aboriginal ballet "Corroboree" to remind us of our neglect of the dying black race from whom we took Australia.

* * *

AUSTRALIA has come a long way since its people decided to sink inter-colonial rivalries and build themselves into one nation. From a collection of small, essentially farming colonies in a faraway southern land she has grown into a self-governing Dominion and a major democratic stronghold in the Pacific. Since 1901 her three and a half million people have become eight million and, with the migration tide at the full, will soon be nine millions. Back in 1800 only 5,945 persons called themselves Australian.

* * *

FIFTY years have given Australia a balanced economy, her own vast iron and steel works, strong defence and general manufacturing industries. Sydney and Melbourne have become world-ranking cities, each of more than a million and a quarter people. But the "golden fleece" on which was founded the country's wealth is still its mainstay. The nation's 125 million sheep have given a wool clip worth £500 million this year, compared with some £5½ million in 1901.

* * *

RECORD prices have aggravated the immediate economic problem of inflation, but the graziers' rich rewards are turning other men's thoughts to the empty spaces awaiting development in this so-thinly peopled country—spaces which must be opened up, side by side with industrial expansion, to maintain the balanced economy achieved in the first half-century of nationhood.

* * *

THE sufferings of two wars, and an economic depression which left tens of thousands workless, have welded the young nation into a homogeneous, if somewhat aggressively patriotic people. "Advance, Australia Fair", their national anthem proclaims alike their pride in their vast sun-drenched continent and their faith in the future.

* * *

FROM the flat roof of Parliament House in Canberra—the city created amid sheeplands at a cost of £20 millions to house the Commonwealth Parliament—one can see reminders of both wars. In the distance, beyond parklands, the massive, domed War Museum recalls Australia's first contribution to the defence of the Motherland and democracy. Relics of that First World War include contour maps of the Western Front and the Gallipoli battlefields where Australians, with their New Zealand cousins, forged the imperishable name Anzac. "Tall, suntanned Gods from the South Seas", John Masefield called them: men who swore mighty oaths but fought like hell-cats and left Australia a legend and a tradition.

Between the trees, a mile away, you can glimpse that symbol of the Second World War, the United States Embassy, a Southern-styled mansion with graceful pillars, built by Australia as reciprocal Lend-Lease.

* * *

WAR came close in 1942. Singapore gone, the whole protecting chain of the Dutch East Indies gone, Japanese troops swarming across New Guinea, bombing Darwin, Broome and Wyndham, shelling Sydney and Newcastle from midget submarines. Britain, herself sorely tried, could do no more than release Australian troops from the Middle East. There was alarm and recriminations. Then General MacArthur flew in from the embattled Philippines and American troops and airmen arrived. Australian troops halted the Japanese in the jungle above Port Moresby; American and Australian air and naval forces smashed the Japanese invasion fleet in the Battle of the Coral Sea off Townsville. The danger passed, but Australians learned that they must strengthen and populate their continent to hold it against Asiatic aggressors.

* * *

THAT has been the keynote of national policy since the defeat of Germany and Japan, the one constant aim amid the confusion of party politics. Labour launched the great post-war migration drive ("a population of 20 million by the end of the century") and a five year defence programme costing £295 million. Its succesor, the Liberal-Country Party Government, is continuing both but at a faster tempo because of mounting tension between Russia and the democracies.

* * *

TIME has shown that public criticism of Britain, and the turning to America in the invasion crisis of 1942, were not in reality a turning away from Britain. Government gifts of millions of pounds and the spontaneous gift-food parcels scheme have shown that Australians still look to Britain as the Mother Country and are still proud of their 99 per cent. British origin.

* * *

WILL it be the same fifty years hence? The great migration is bringing in thousands of displaced persons, nearly 100,000 Czechs, Poles, Italians, Balts, Germans and Yugoslavs this year. Will these New Australians, as they are called, swamp us and wrest control from the Old Australians? The Jeremiahs tell us so. But the less pessimistic see only good coming from this infusion of new blood. The influence of European national customs, skills and artistic temperaments, they assure us, will broaden our culture, smooth off more of our rough corners.

* * *

THE future for Australia is full of promise, but the fruits will be reaped only with the same pioneering spirit, the same hard work and the same constant struggle against droughts, bushfires and floods that have marked the past fifty years.

INSIDE STORY

Britain's Blue Sunday

(By BERNARD DREW in THE LONDON SUNDAY EXPRESS)

AN Englishman who indulges in "sports or pastimes" outside his parish on Sundays is breaking the law. He is liable to a fine of 3s. 4d. each time he does it. To keep within the law he must play within the parish bounds.

Does he go boating on Sunday? Unless "under extraordinary occasion," or with the permission of a Justice of the Peace, he is again committing an offence, for which the fine is 5s. But travellers on the Thames are exempt by a special Act.

What about that man who comes in on Sunday mornings to do odd jobs? If gardening is his regular occupation he is breaking the law. And the householder is liable to a fine of 5s. for aiding and abetting him.

For the law says that no tradesman, artificer, workman, or labourer shall carry on his normal job on Sunday. Farmers and barbers, as well as professional men, are exempt.

Every member of the Church of England is bound by law to go to church each Sunday. There they must remain "orderly and soberly during the time of Divine Service." Penalty for non-attendance—ecclesiastical censure—is, however, obsolete, at least for laymen.

* * *

CONTRARY to a widely-held belief, a cheque bearing a Sunday date is valid. But generally a contract signed on Sunday is not.

The Sunday laws contain many snares for shopkeepers. There were over 30,000 convictions in one recent year alone for Sunday trading. A baker may prepare dough for Monday's bread. But to bake it on Sunday is an offence. He may, however, bake puddings and pies "for the poor."

A butcher must not kill on Sunday. But he may dress meat. To break the law may cost him 6s. 8d.—to be divided among the poor of the parish in which he does the killing. Milk may only be sold before 9 a.m. and after 4 p.m. Mackerel may be sold before and after Divine Service.

A Deptford shopkeeper, fined £1 in 1948 for selling a child a birthday card on Sunday, was told by the magistrate: "You can sell newspapers, periodicals, sweets, and tobacco, but not a birthday card."

* * *

A JURY may not give its verdict on Sunday. A prisoner whose term ends on a Sunday must be released the day before. You cannot be arrested on a civil debt on Sunday. But you may surrender voluntarily.

You must not play billiards or bagatelle publicly on Sunday. If caught the owner faces a fine of £10. To kill hares, pheasants, partridges, grouse, heath or moor game, black game or bustards is an offence punishable by a fine not exceeding £5.

The prohibition of Sunday entertainment generally is due to a law of 1780, passed in consequence of the Gordon riots. British M.P.s are pressing Sir Hartley Shawcross, the Attorney-General, to revise these old Sunday Observance Acts, some of which go back over 300 years.

When Parliament comes to discuss them, M.P.s no doubt will bear in mind the words of Sir William Blackstone, one of Britain's greatest legal authorities. He said: "The keeping one day in seven holy, as a time of relaxation and refreshment, as well as for public worship, is of admirable service to a State considered merely as a civil institution."

THAT'S ENOUGH

In the midst of her first driving lesson, Mrs. Williams complained to her husband: "George, that little mirror up there isn't set right."

"You think not?" George rejoined.

"No," the harassed student protested. "I can't see a thing in it but the car behind!"

1931 Mrs. A. Mowat, wife of the public school inspector, dies after a long illness.

Plans are being made for formation of a rifle league in Peterborough.

The C.G.E. shop hockey season starts with six teams playing.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Thou shalt not kill.
Thou shalt not commit adultery.
Thou shalt not steal. (Ex. 20: 13-15.)

* * *

For, brethren, ye have been called unto liberty; only use not liberty for an occasion to the flesh, but by love serve one another... This I say then, Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfill the lust of the flesh....

Now the works of the flesh are manifest, which are these, Adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness, idolatory witchcraft hatred, variance, emulations, wrath, strife, seditious, heresies, envyings, murders, drunkenness, revellings, and such like: of the which I tell you before, as I have also told you in time past, that they which do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God.

But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance: against such there is no law....

If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit. (Gal. 5: 13, 16, 19-23, 25.)

Blow To University Tradition

(Ottawa Citizen)

Traditionally, university students are rebels who refuse to accept any beliefs merely because these were acceptable to many generations before theirs. Students, so goes the popular concept, laugh at convention, strain at the rules that an unenlightened society has imposed on them. There are no pinks among them; they all are deep reds, and potential leaders of revolutions.

But like the Stanwyck-Taylor marriage, these notions concerning university students no longer stand up. The week-end papers, which reported that an idyll of Hollywood married life was to end in a California divorce, told also of the "reluctance to any change" displayed by University of Ottawa students. It seems the university's board of administration suggested that the garnet and grey school colours should be changed to gold, blue, and scarlet. The students thought differently; garnet and grey, they held, were a tradition with the university, one not to be tampered with. If they have their way, the university colours will be left as they are.

The incident at Ottawa University, trivial as it seems, may well mean the end of one tradition and the start of another. A hundred years hence some editorial writer may begin his piece: "Traditionally, university students are traditionalists ..."

10-Cent Fines, For Speed

(Walter Davenport, in Collier's)

We've just received a traffic violation ticket from Harold J. Fraley, chief of police in Tiffon, Ohio. No we weren't caught. It's just a specimen ticket to show us how a well run city handles traffic intelligently.

For example, it says on the ticket that if you're charged with "overtime meter violation" you had better hustle down at once to the traffic bureau. If you get there within the hour, it costs you 10c only. If more than an hour elapses between the writing of the ticket and your appearance at the bureau—one buck.

Last year 16,944 persons paid a fast dime as against 3,038 laggards who were charged a dollar.

You've got to hustle to save 90c these days.

Say U.S. Women Most Beautiful Girls In World

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 4 (AP)—American women can relax. An expert of international talent says they are the most beautiful females in the world.

The word comes from Mel Ballerino, talent executive at MGM, just returned from a six-month tour recruiting talent for the Roman epic, "Quo Vadis." In that time he cast 20,000 people from practically every country in the world.

"After seeing them all, I am convinced more than ever that American girls are the most beautiful in the world," said Ballerino, who despite his Italian name is a native of Los Angeles.

"You can spot an American girl on the bouevard of any country in the world. Her form, her dress and the way she walks make her stand out from all the other women."

Distinguishing Features

He pointed out the distinguishing feature of the American girl: "In the first place, she stands erect, much more so than any other nationality. She is taller and more statuesque. She has long, beautiful legs.

"Actually, she is like a thoroughbred racehorse. We are a mixture of all nationalities and the cross-breeding has created a race of long-limbed beauties."

Ballerino sought talent in France, Italy and Britain. Of the French women, he observed: "They are not especially beautiful but they are chic. No matter how a French girl looks, she manages to add something to her appearance that makes her attractive."

As for the British girls: "They have some real beauties, but they are usually cold and fragile."

And Italian girls: "They have a soft, dark, short kind of beauty."

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

The hoopsters return to action this week-end with a flock of basketball games around and about. Tomorrow eve at the YWCA, it's Nurses Srs. vs. CGE at eight, followed by Neill's vs. Grads in regular girls' play. Same eve at Collegiate sees a triple-header featuring Oshawa and PCVS teams, bantam, junior and senior in group openers, probably commencing at 6.30. Friday also finds St. Peter's senior and junior "B" teams trekking to Lindsay to begin their inter-scholastic schedules. Then on Saturday night at the "Y"—don't know what time yet—Oshawa Grads and Marines tangle in a men's intermediate "B" lakeshore group struggle.

* * * * * *

Each Thursday night at Civic Arena, a bunch of minor hockey games are staged, and some dandy action is dished up by the coming ice stars. Those juveniles are a short step out of OHA junior company, you know. Six tilts are on tap tonight, commencing at six chimes of the wooden-faced clock on the market hall. The games go thusly: Trojan bantams vs. Otonabee Wolves, Trojan midgets vs. the Marines, Oddfellows vs. Trojan juveniles, Empress bantams vs. St. Peter's, Martin-Hewitt midgets vs. SPS, and Clapper's juves vs. Lakefield Lions. Drop around and give 'em a look.

* * * * * *

Dads And The Kids

Stan McBride advises that the Oddfellows and the arena management got together and set aside three Friday nights for what they call "Dad's Nights". When dad can bring his sons or daughters (at no cost for the kids) to see OHA junior "B" jousts. Starting this Friday when the top two teams in the group, Lindsay Kinsmen and the local IOOF-ers, battle it out for undisputed possession of first place. Bound to be a streamlined, hot tussle and worth a crowd in any case. But they urge fathers to be "a pal, not just the old man" and accompany the youngsters to these puck contests. A good idea, as fathers can't go wrong in taking an active interest in the kids' athletic interests. They (the kids) grow up and leave you soon enough.

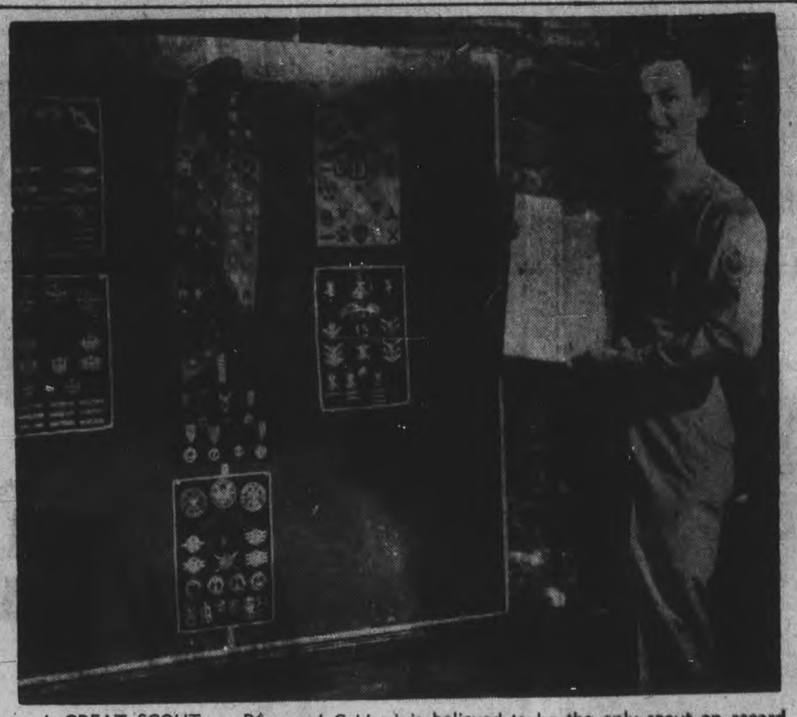
* * * * * *

According to the Port Hope scribe, something of a hockey feud is developing between Port Hope intermediates and Lakefield Indians, in that "A" grouping. Says he: "Games such as the one in Lakefield on Saturday can easily result in serious injury to players, and strict refereeing is most essential. Our opinion is that the Lakefield club was probably intending to even things up for the injuries received by two of their players when here last. If they were, they certainly succeeded." He might be right at that, as both clubs carry several Peterborough players, and there's nothing as nasty as a civil war, we've heard, where former friends meet in combat.

* * * * * *

Petes Moving Ahead

Rain and fog kept Belleville late and the crowd down at the senior "B" hockey joust here last e'en, but the Petes didn't mind too much as they pulled out an 8-6 win o'er Wally Bent's Belleville Redmen. It yanked the Jopling crew up close to the first-place Eagles and settled the Quinte gang well back in fourth slot. The Petes flew in one period and that did it, as the first frame was fairly even and the third was all Belleville. That five-goal splurge in the second—when the Gus-Leonard-Jack Mortimer-Chum Fryia line really dangled—did the trick. Mortimer led the local snipers, with Wade, Mason, Floyd, Dugan and Gus Leonard close behind. The Petes are off to play Nylons Friday.



* * * * * *

Before last night's game, it was announced via PA that one Sinkowitch would play goal for Belleville. But the Redmen later decided to use one of their regular players, defenceman Ed Schreider, in the net. Since Goalie Leforte is on the injured list, and the sub—Jack Keays—didn't show up for the game, they wanted to give this Sinkowitch a trial. He's one of a dozen applicants for the job following an ad run by the club in a Toronto paper for a senior "B" goaltender. However, the OHA hasn't yet okayed Sinky and if the Reds used him they'd have to keep him. They only want to try him out yet and see what he looks like. So, Schreider was used last p.m. here.

A GREAT SCOUT — Raymond Cobb, 25-year-old Palm Beach letter carrier, proudly holds a plaque given him after winning his 111th Boy Scout Merit Badge. He is believed to be the only scout on record to achieve this record. The picture was taken in Vermont where Cobb, who has been scouting since age 12, had just qualified for his skiing merit badge.

Petes Beat Redmen, 8 To 6 To Get Closer To Top Spot

Playing good five-goal hockey in the second period after fairly even first frame, the Petes defeated Belleville Redmen 8-6 here last night to creep closer to the top-place Eagles and drop the Quinte crew further back in fourth slot of the senior "B" puck race. Belleville were late arriving, the game starting 40 minutes later than usual before some 400 fans on a rainy, foggy night.

NEAT EFFORT—Jack Mortimer turned in a neat effort in the Petes' 8-6 senior "B" puck win over Belleville here last night, leading the snipers with three scoring points and checking back well throughout.

The Redmen had a 4-3 scoring edge in the initial inning and outscored the Petes 2-0 as they outplayed them considerably in the third chukker, but the Petes had a big margin in the second to rack up the count. Not the best of hockey was seen on either side, but it was mostly clean and generally fast throughout. The Jopling squad drew five of the eight penalties, getting the four handed out in the third heat.

Mortimer Led

Eddie Schreider, a defenceman, filled in at goal for Wally Bent's band, as Leforte is on the injured list, and Keays failed to show up. He played a fair game in goal for an inexperienced man. Jack Mortimer led the homesters with three scoring points, Floyd, Wade, Mason, Dugan and Gus Leonard each being in on two, as Fryia, Davison and West had a point apiece. Doug Free led the visitors with three points, Semark and Goyer being in on two each with singles going to King, Day, Bastedo, McDonald and Mulvihill.

Wade scored early from Mason on a play Tompkins started well back. Goyer got it back in a scramble. McDonald returned from a boarding penalty and Mason angled one by Schreider from Dugan. Free tied it up on a nifty combination play in close with Goyer, and Semark put Belleville up on a fast piece of work with Free and King. Mulvihill got another from Day as the Petes argued that it wasn't in, and then Floyd whipped the disc into the twine, aided by Davison and West. Horton drew a tripping penalty near the close.

Jake Starts It

Wade started it off again in the second from Dugan on a screened backhand slithering shot. Fryia put the Petes in front from Mortimer in close, and the latter added another from Gus Leonard as they pressed hard. Bastedo went over for tripping and it cost a goal, Mortimer from Gus Leonard once more in close. With Bastedo back, Floyd pilfered the puck from a defenceman to slap it by Schreider and make the count 8-4. Free's late penalty did no damage.

Davison was waved over early in the third for elbowing and was back when Semark scored from Free on a second thrust. Fryia got it for elbowing, followed by Wade for tripping but the Petes stood off hot pressure till they returned. Belleville kept pressing to make Harding hop but they could only garner one more marker, McDonald scoring in a scramble from Bastedo on Harding's doorstep with less than two minutes to go. Teams:

Belleville: Goal, Schreider; defence, Goyer and Williams; centre, Jones; wings, Green and Mulvihill; alternates, McDonald, Wardhaugh, Bastedo, Free, King, Semark, Day and Schmidt.

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Horton and Tompkins; centre, Wade; wings, Dugan and Mason; alternates, G. Leonard, Fryia, Mortimer, Garvey, West, Floyd, E. Leonard and Davison.

Calgary's New Arena

CALGARY, Jan. 4 (CP).—Calgary's new $1,250,000 hockey arena will be named the Stampede Corral, it was announced Wednesday following a meeting of Calgary Exhibition and Stampede Company directors.

Great Wingers Recalled Down The Years

(This is third in a series of articles by Fred Maybee giving his selection of all-star hockey greats of the half century.)

Now for the wings. Lets fill right wing first. Who were some of the best?

Those we were fortunate enough to see and who impressed us most were: George Hay, Bill Cook, Dit Clapper, Punch Broadbent, Charlie Conacher, Hooley Smith (who also played centre) Larry Aurie, Babe Dye and Johnny Gagnon. There were many others too and dozens we have heard of but those were best.

It is generally conceded—even by old-timers—that Bill Cook was the premier right winger of all time. Certainly we saw none better. His feats with the Rangers are hockey history and the ability to score important goals at crucial times was a hallmark of his play throughout his career. With brother Bun and Frank Boucher of the famous Hull clan of ice-wizards, he helped to form a line that probably rates the all-time best, as a unit.

A Power House

Charlie Conacher would rate second spot we feel without any strong argument because of his tremendous shot and all-round speed and skill. True, his career was brief but he made hockey history whilst in action, before a serious kidney operation cut short his career.

For third spot there are two strong candidates, namely: Reginald "Hooley" Smith and Aubrey "Dit" Clapper. Both were versatile, the former played centre as well, while the latter played half his career on defence and Clapper's 20-year endurance record surpasses Hooley's by only two years.

Although Dit played great hockey up front, we feel he was equally good on defence and since the giant can't be left off any all-time cast, we will move him to defence to make way for the colorful "Hooley".

The Left Side

Now over to the left side. Here again one could name dozens of stars. One of the best we saw in fact, Harry Watson of the old Granites, never turned pro. Then there was Aurel Joliat, the "Mighty Atom," 135 pounds of speed and dexterity, (he could turn on a dime), "Hurricane Hec" Kilrea of Ottawa, Toronto and Detroit, Busher Jackson, Babe Seibert, Wildor Larochelle, Cy Denenny, Herb Lewis and many more who could place there such as Newsy Lalonde and Alf Phillips.

For first spot though we'll settle for little Aurel Joliat of Canadiens from 1922 to 1937. The Ottawa Swiss boy could follow Morenz in the hardest going, stick-handle with Gottselig and was a prolific scorer. Morenz was also Swiss, incidently. For the second line we are going to choose Hec Kilrea by a narrow margin in a hot race with Busher Jackson and Bun Cook who were both great competitors, as well. The Ottawa boy broke in with the Senators in 1926 and under Nighbor's guiding hand developed into one of the best. He was as fast as Morenz any time we saw the two meet which was often, though not as colorful nor possessing Howie's shot.

The Great Lalonde

Newsy Lalonde, the great French-Canadian star of lacrosse and hockey, must place on this team so we are giving him the last forward spot left. His color and fight were unsurpassed.

Recently a friend remarked that Newsy had quite a few scars on his head or the relics of same.

"You see doz marks up dare," said Newsy.

"Yes, replied his friend, half credulously, half fearfully.

"Well, for every one you see dare, dee other fellow, she has two," declared Lalonde. None doubted his word.

Here and There In Sport

Allan McFater, 138¾ pounds, of Toronto, Wednesday night won a unanimous eight-round decision over Archie Goodbee, 137¼ pounds, of Hartford, Conn., in the feature bout of a Maple Leaf Gardens professional boxing card before 3,000 spectators at Toronto.

McFater dropped his Negro opponent down for a count of eight in the second round with a right to the jaw and again for a count of eight in the fourth with a right to the stomach.

In the semi-final, Thomas McMenamy, 140 pounds, of Belfast, Ireland, won an eight-round decision over Young Junior, 139½ pounds, of Springfield, Mass.

Other results included:

Russell Tague, Eldridge, Iowa, 129, won a six-round decision over Brian Kelly of Niagara Falls, Ont., 133½.

Gordon Wallace, Brantford, 160¼ pounds, scored a TKO in the second round of a scheduled six-round bout with Jimmy Tamponi, Plainfield, N. J., 154.

Harold (Peewee) Reese, veteran Brooklyn Dodger shortstop, Wednesday returned his signed contract for a reported $30,000 salary, the same pay as last year.

The 31-year-old club captain told vice-president Buzzie Bavasi in a phone conversation he regarded 1950 as an "off year" and looked for a comeback next season.

Reese underwent a hernia operation a year ago. He was slow regaining playing condition and did not hit his real stride until late in the season. He wound up hitting .260 in 141 games, a drop of almost 20 points from 1949.

Winger Lou Milani has been ordered to return to Moncton Hawks of the Maritime Senior Hockey League from Shawinigan Falls Cataracts of the QSHL, E. W. Connolly, MAHA secretary-registrar, said at Sydney, N. S., Wednesday night.

A star with Moncton for several seasons, Milani went to Cataracts in a trade for defenceman Phil Metcalfe and forward Burgess. The deal was made on condition it would be acceptable to the players. Metcalfe refused to return to the Maritimes where he formerly played with Glace Bay Miners in the CBSHL and Halifax St. Mary's of the Big Four.

Connolly also said Burgess has been ordered to return to Shawinigan Falls unless the teams reach a mutual agreement.

Pitcher Harry Dorich, drafted from Toronto of the International League, Wednesday signed his 1951 contract with Chicago White Sox. Dorish, 27-year-old right-hander, played most of the 1950 season with St. Louis Browns, winning four and losing nine, before he went to Toronto.

United States sportsmen paid $37,641,049—an all-time high — for hunting licences during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1950, the Fish and Wild Life Service said at Washington yesterday.

They also paid a record breaking $3,909,468 for federal migratory bird hunting stamps required of every adult waterfowl hunter.

The number of hunting licences sold dropped 132,159 below the 1948-49 total of 12,758,698 licences. Because of increased hunting fees in many States, however, the revenue from licences was $2,674,362 greater than in the previous year.

Hamilton Richardson, United States junior singles champion from Baton Rouge, La., had the tennis scare of his young life yesterday when he barely squeezed by Montreal's Henri Rochon in the third round of the Dixie tennis tournament. Richardson edged Rochon 6-2, 1-6, 6-4. The left-handed Canadian gave him trouble all the way and in the third set had the Louisiana youngster 4-3.

Barons Down Flyers; Buffalo Triumphs

By The Canadian Press.

There seems no stopping Cleveland Barons and Buffalo Bisons in the American Hockey League these days.

The divisional leaders Wednesday night won again to fatten their point margins over second-place rivals. Cleveland downed St. Louis Flyers 5-4 while Buffalo conveniently knocked off Cincinnati Mohawks 5-3. The Mohawks are in the western division's second place, 12 points behind Cleveland.

To round out the rosy picture for the leaders, Providence Reds came up with a 2-1 victory over Hershey Bears, runner-up to Buffalo in the eastern division.

May Discontinue Rose Bowl Game

RIVERSIDE, Calif., Jan. 4 (AP) —The fate of the famed Rose Bowl football game hangs in suspense today—and it will continue to hang that way for another two weeks.

Officials of the Pacific Coast Conference have electrified the world of college football by disclosing that the conference is seriously considering discontinuing, or modifying its annual participation in the oldest and richest post-season game of them all.

The conference will soon hold a special, unprecedented meeting to decide whether it will continue to participate in the New Year's Day grid classic next year and in the years to come.

College football, said H. P. Everest, president of the Pacific Coast Conference, is getting too big for its trousers.

"We must take steps to relieve the tensions, and this is the first step."

The pressure to win football games, as crystallized in any post-season Bowl game, is too much, said Everest.

Louis Scores 4th Round Win Comeback Hopes Improving

By GLENN ENGLE.

DETROIT, Jan. 4 — (AP). — Joe Louis' tremendous hometown following argued vociferously today, in the wake of Joe's smashing victory over out-classed Freddie Beshore on Wednesday night—that the old Brown Bomber is still the best heavyweight in the business.

Louis took another step up the comeback ladder by stopping Beshore handily in 2 minutes 48 seconds of the fourth round of a scheduled 10-rounder.

Referee Johnny Weber halted the one-sided battle to save the bloodied Beshore, his left eyelid badly cut and his nose battered, from further punishment.

Ex-champion Louis's many rooters—13,096 fans paid $41,425 to see the scrap — pointed out that it took current champion Ezzard Charles 14 rounds to finish Beshore last August.

Remarkable Improvement

That Beshore's crowding, wild-swinging tactics were tailor-made for Louis nobody woulud deny. But the experts were virtually unanimous in their belief that Louis showed remarkable improvement in disposing of the Harrisburg, Pa., ex-sailor in such workmanlike fashion.

Joe's lethal right hand, seldom thrown in his losing battle with Charles last summer or in his most recent so-so bout with Cesar Brion, was powerful. It was equally effecive in six-inch straight punches or in uppercuts. His famous left jab was sharp and shattering.

At the finish, the 36-year-old Louis was unmarked and not even breathing heavily. His trim weight of 210¼ testified to his good condition. This was nearly eight pounds less than he weighed for his "post-retirement" title fight with Charles.

Beshore, 10 years younger than Louis and nearly 19 pounds lighter at 191½, had no quarrel with Weber's decision.

Three stitches were required to mend the gash. At first it was thought that Beshore's nose was broken, but the doctors said his severe nosebleed was caused by rupture of an oft-injured nose cartilage, not from any bone fracture.

Better Fighter

Beshore sided with Louis' supporters in saying that the ex-champ is still a better fighter than Charles.

"Joe hits you square," Beshore said. "Charles just cuffs you."

Beshore, bent low and pushing at Louis from the opening gong, looked his best in the first round. In fact two of the three ring officials rated the round even.

The second was all Louis. The Brown Bomber held the crowding Beshore back to score with numerous short but damaging head and body blows.

In the third a grazing hook cut Beshore's eyelid.. Blood from this and his nose, injured earlier, covered Beshore's face.

When the round was over Dr. Joseph Cahalan looked at Beshore's eyelid. He said the fight could go on, but told Weber to stop it if the cut started bleeding again. Soon after the fourth round started, blood began pouring from the eyelid.

International Boxing Club officials said Louis' next fight will be February 7 at Miami, Fla. The probable opponent is Johnny Holman of Chicago.

Asked whether he is anxious to try again for the title soon, Louis said he is aiming "only for my next opponent, whoever that is."

Spits Clicking, Blank Marlies 2-0

By The Canadian Press.

A few weeks ago, Windsor Spitfires seemed to be looking for the shortest route to the cellar.

Their coach was under suspension for hitting an usher during a fracas in Barrie. And the Spits just couldn't do anything right.

Now Jimmy Skinner is back in the coaching box with a clean bill of health and his team looks like a cinch for first place before the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A schedule is many weeks older.

Jimmy's Spitfires won their eighth game in a row Wednesday night, blanking the league-leading Toronto Marlboros 2-0. That left them tied for second place with Barrie Flyers, who knocked off Guelph Biltmores 5-3. Both teams are just three points away from the leaders.

The top clubs fared little better in the OHA's major loop. Toronto St. Michael's Monarchs took a one-point edge over the Marlboro Majors by settling for a 3-3 tie with the last-place Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen while the Dukes took a 7-3 lacing from the Tigers at Hamilton.

Gains Tie

Dusty Blair's third-period marker gave Monarchs their tie after Jack Meldrum and Ken Watson had notched earlier goals for the leaders. Billy Flick scored twice and Don Oberholtzer tallied the third for the Dutchmen.

Johnny Conick, Murray Comfort and Carl Smelie scored two goals apiece as the third-place Tigers ruined the Marlboros. Harold Hursey notched the seventh counter while Bobby Hassard, Jack McKenzie, and Bus Wycherley connected for the losers.

Jim Anderson was the hero of Windsor's victory over the Junior Marlboros, taking passes from centre Erwin Grosse for both his team's goals. Glen Hall played brilliantly for his third shutout of the season, though Don Lockhart also shone in the Marlboro nets.

At Barrie, the Flyers made their first appearance after an exhibition tour in western Canada and overpowered the fourth-place Biltmores with two last-period goals.

Real Chevrefils tallied twice for the winners while Leo Labine, Jack White and Jim Morrison scored singletons. Ron Murphy, Ken Laufman and Dean Prentice counted for the losers.

The undermanned Kitchener-Waterloo entry, its roster down to 14 men instead of its quota of 18 because of injuries, picked up strength with the addition of Don Bauer, a star for the last two years, who had retired at the end of last season.

The classy winger, who captained the Dutchmen in the last campaign, will appear in the lineup as soon as he reaches playing condition.

Red Wings Kicked In Teeth As Rangers Triumph 5-3

By EDGAR SIMON,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Detroit Red Wings found out what it was like to be kicked in the teeth by a doormat Wednesday night.

The Red Wings, leaders of the National Hockey League, came to Madison Square Garden looking for easy pickings against the last-place New York Rangers — a team they had beaten five times and tied once in six previous meetings.

And the Rangers kicked their teeth in with a 5-3 victory.

Edgar Laprade, a veteran centre who had the fans whispering "has been" most of this season, scored a goal and set up two more.

Eddie Kullman, who hasn't escaped the minors for a full season since he broke into pro hockey three years ago, also had a goal and two assists. Linemate Tony Leswick, whose main claim to fame this year is league leadership in penalties, sank the clincher.

Defenceman Frank Eddolls and Allan Stanley, both of whom have never quite lived up to the "promising" tag they received in their rookie years, were the other Ranger goal getters.

Couldn't Click

Detroit's Abel-Howe-Lindsay line, the highest-scoring threesome in the league, didn't pick up a point. Second-stringers Jimmy McFadden, Jim Peters and Marty Pavelich—allegedly the Wings' defensive line—scored their club's three goals.

The victory moved the Rangers within a point of Chicago Black Hawks, Montreal Canadiens and Boston Bruins, all tied for third place and gave them a chance to vacate the cellar for the first time this season.

Meanwhile the chastened Red Wings entertain Chicago tonight in another effort to increase their one-point lead over the idle Toronto Maple Leafs. The Bruins visit Canadiens in an effort to break the third-place tie.

GM Contracts Said Answer To Living Costs

TORONTO, Jan. 4 (CP)—The two main terms in the recent General Motors five-year labor contracts—annual wage improvements and a cost-of-living escalator—are "neither inflationary nor deflationary," company president Charles E. Wilson, of Detroit, said here today.

The contracts are also sound even in a period of "substantial and even huge expeditures for military materials," Mr. Wilson said in a speech prepared for delivery before the Empire Club.

If citizens face a lower living standard because of rearmament, "they will do so more willingly if their nation's necessities in the form of taxation force them to do so than they would if they were forced to the same condition by employers holding down their wages."

Best Solution

Cost-of-living wage adjustments in the GM contracts would be no problem if basic living costs were stabilized. "If the cost of living cannot be stabilized . . . we still believe that our agreements provide the best solution for the problem."

The cost-of-living formula adjusted wages "to what inflationary pressures have forced on the national economy." The corporation had little control or influence over the factors causing inflation.

"No one should be so naive as to think that wages among organized groups will not be increased, under pressure if necessary, to make up for increases in the cost of living . . . our formula is designed to accomplish this necessary adjustment moothly."

The annual wage improvements of three cents hourly in the corporation's Canadian plants was "somewhat less" than the annual average rate of production increase in Canadian and United States factories. It permitted both employees and customers to share in technological advances.

Steel Controls May Be Widened

OTTAWA, Jan. 4 (CP)—Canada's new steel administrator said Wednesday steel controls may widen as Canada plunges deeper into defence preparedness.

Kenneth Sear Harris added, however, that he is not so concerned with the prospect of new controls as he is in obtaining maximum production and maximum supplies of this vital metal.

The Toronto native is in charge of government steel planning in the trade department's new steel division.

The United States recently granted Canada two spot allocations of steel for ship-building and freight-car construction and also assured Canadian civilian industry of increased supplies for programs not considered strictly military.

Mr. Harris believed this will at least give Canadian industry about the same amount of steel it normally obtained from the U.S.—about 1,000,000 tons a year. Additional steel may flow into Canada under defence programs.

But Canada will have to increase steel production, said Mr. Harris. Canada produced a record 3,200,000 tons in 1950. The more steel Canada could produce the less government control would be needed.

Care For Graves Of Million Dead In World Wars

OTTAWA—(CP)—Around the world from Flanders to the Middle East, from Asia to the Balkans, lie the graves of more than 1,000,000 Commonwealth war dead.

In some 16,000 cemeteries in more than 100 lands lie these men of the Commonwealth nations who fought and died in two world wars—approximately 60,000 to 65,000 of them Canadians. Another 500,000 still are listed as having no known graves.

Known or unknown, all will be commemorated and remembered for posterity. That is the aim of the Imperial War Graves Commission whose task it is to bury the dead of war, erect memorials, care for the cemeteries and monuments to the unknown and keep a faithful liaison with relatives of those who gave their lives.

Commonwealth dead of the First World War numbered 1,104,890 of whom 587,117 have known graves. Dead of the Second World War is not yet finally determined but is estimated at about 500,000 of whom 350,000 have identified graves.

Still Trace Missing

Canadian dead in the 1914-18 war was approximately 60,000 of whom about 20,000 have no known graves. In the Second World War the dead rolls total an estimated 42,000 of whom an estimated 15,000 have no known graves. The work of tracing the missing still goes on.

The commemoration of most of these men is a name on a simple headstone in a flowered cemetery in some land far from home. For the Unknown Soldier's grave, the headstone phrase "Known Unto God" appears where the name would be. For the missing, there is or will be a name in a book of remembrance in some hallowed place or a name on a bronze memorial.

Commemorated By Name

Brig. Frank Higginson, secretary and chief executive of the commission, said recently:

"I would ask you to remember —1,000,000 graves, 1,500,000 dead. They are, or will be, all commemorated by name. What could better testify to our respect for the individual human and to our belief that true civilization depends on that respect".

The commission, representing all Commonwealth countries, was set up by royal charter in 1917. Before that no nation had cared systematically for its war dead.

It began the task of building and caring for cemeteries, erecting memorials to the 500,000 missing of the First World War. More than $30,000,00 was spent. The commission's work was barely complete when a new war came in 1939.

Continue Work

Now, 11 years later, its work continues. From remote Pacific islands, from the fields and woods of Europe and from Asian forests, the dead have been gathered. The commission now has records of almost 400,000 graves and 150,000 Second World War sailors, soldiers and airmen of the Commonwealth who have no known place of burial.

One of the largest of 80 memorials to the Unknown stands at Vimy, recording 11,000 Canadians. Another is being erected at Dunkerque, recording the names of those who perished there and whose graves were never identified.

Officers and men of the Commonwealth navies whose grave was the sea are to be commemorated in extensions to existing memorials in British naval ports. Men of the Commonwealth air forces who flew off never to return will be commemorated in a memorial with 20,000 names on Runnymede Heights. There will be another at Malta, another at El Alamein and still another at Singapore.

Well-Kept Cemeteries

In the cemeteries, gardeners strive to obtain the effect of a lovely garden, with narrow flower borders along the rows of headstones and grass paths between. There are flowering shrubs and trees in the setting of level lawn.

Some 135,000 of the 392,000 headstones required after the Second World War now have been erected or are in transit. Each bears the badge, name, rank, unit, date of death and age and beneath is engraved, if desired, a religious emblem. There is equality of treatment regardless of rank, based on equality of sacrifice.

The commission has its headquarters in London and there are agencies in Ottawa, Melbourne and Cape Town. District headquarters are in Brussels, Arras, Rome, Cairo, Alexandria, Tunis, Salonika, Bagdad, Delhi and Singapore.

Government Pays Cost

Cost of its work is borne by the Commonwealth governments on the basis of the proportion of war dead. Canada contributed $400,000 this year and will contribute $600,000 in 1951.

Secretary-general of the Canadian agency is A. L. Watson, 59, of Ottawa, a native of England who rose from private to sergeant in the Canadian army during the First World War.

His main job is overseeing the care of war graves on this continent—about 17,000 graves in 2,500 different cemeteries in Canada and at 500 different places in the United States.

These are the graves of the men who died or were killed before they went to war and those who died of wounds or disabilities after they came home.

Labor Heads Draft Brief

OTTAWA, Jan. 4 (CP)—Plans for pushing labor's drive for living-cost controls were drafted Wednesday at a meeting of chiefs of Canada's four big central labor bodies.

The heads of groups representing more than 1,000,000 workers considered the outline of a brief to be submitted to cabinet and also planned continuation of ir campaign through the country.

The brief will be the first ever to be presented jointly to the government by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, the Canadian Congress of Labor, the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor and the joint legislative committee of the railway brotherhoods.

It will be delivered, it was expected, early in the new parliamentary session assembling Jan. 29. The labor chiefs will meet again Jan. 17 to work on it further.

Lack Material

THREE RIVERS, Que., Jan. 4 (CP)—Lack of building material has delayed opening of operation by two months at a new Canadian Westinghouse Company plant here. He said machinery to operate the plant also was scarce and would have to be imported from the Hamilton head office of the company and from the United States.

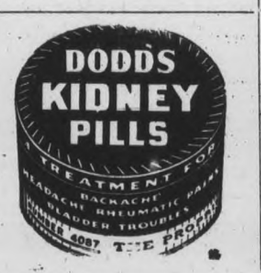
TORONTO, Jan. 4 — (CP) — Already sentenced to six years in Kingston penitentiary on a charge of armed robbery, John Gabriel Fox, 21, Wednesday was given an extra nine months for escaping Guelph reformatory. He received the penitentiary sentence here Dec. 7 after pleading guilty to robbing a theatre. His escape from the reformatory came while serving two years less a day for conspiracy.

Threaten Strike



DUESSELDORF, Germany, Jan. 4 — (AP) — Some 500,000 workers of the West German iron and steel industry served notice Wednesday night that they will start a strike Jan. 31 unless they are granted a voice in the economic management of their plants. The strike—if it materialized—would virtually stop West German steel exports sorely needed for Western defence production.

Pays Informal Visit

LONDON, Jan. 4 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent Tuesday made an informal call on Lloyds of London, the famous insurance centre, it was learned Wednesday. The Canadian Prime Minister's visit followed his recent approval of a Lloyds giving 50-1 odds against a general war starting before Sept. 1, 1951.

Coal Production Up

LONDON, Jan. 4—(Reuters)—British miners produced a provisional total of 216,301,000 tons of coal in 1950, the Fuel Ministry announced today. The figure exceeded 1949's but fell short of the government target of at least 218,000,000 tons.

See Farm Labor Drifting To Cities

OTTAWA, Jan. 4—(CP)—A drift of farm labor to the cities in the past year is noted in the quarterly labor force survey of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The trend cut sharply into available farm workers and by November had dropped their number by 84,000 from a year earlier. The farm labor force slipped below the 1,000,000 mark.

Expansion of non-agricultural production, largely influenced by rising defence outlays, was given by the bureau as the chief cause of the shift.

Meanwhile, another DBS survey issude Wednesday showed industrial wages at a new peak at the start of November. Average weekly earnings in the eight major industrial groups hit $46.39, compared with $46 a month earlier and $43.80 a year before.

The labor force survey—covering persons over 14 available for civilian jobs — showed these totalled 5,201,000 in the week of Nov. 4, just 1,000 up from a year earlier. In that time, the estimated number of those actually at work rose from 5,053,000 to 5,084,000.

Community Fund Drive Opens March 2

To meet commitments for 1951 the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund will have to raise more money than the $75,000 objective of last year. The exact figure is not yet known. And the share going to each of the social agencies has not yet been decided on as the statistical committee under its chairman, William Richardson, has not yet met.

The one-week drive to reach the new objective will begin Friday, March 2, and end Friday, March 9.

Ross Dobbin, general manager of the Peterborough Utilities Commission, will once again be chairman in charge of the drive.

The opening dinner will be at the CGE cafeteria, March 2. And the scheduled speaker is Gordon McGregor, president of Trans-Canada Airlines.

As in past years there will be four committees with the following chairmen: Gordon Matthews, special names; Ian McRae, industrial; Ben Myers, retail; and Mrs J. P. Watts, women's division.

The penny drive, it is expected, will get under way in city schools a week earlier than the regular campaign and the returns should all be in by the time the major drive begins. Clare Collins will be in charge of this part of the Community Chest campaign.

62,370 Books Circulated In Junior Dep't

There was an increase of 1,108 books circulated during 1950 as compared with 1949 in the main branch of the Boys' and Girls' Department of the Public Library according to annual tabulation figures released today by Miss Lillian Wesley, librarian. A total of 62,370 books were circulated in 1950 and 61,190 in 1949.

Class visits to the library by students of the public and separate schools totaled 276 in 1950 as compared to 302 in 1949.

An average of 66 children attended the story hours held at the library on Saturday mornings during the year and the average attendance at the film showings was 280.

The class visits in the new year will start on January 15. Grades three to seven will have two visits during the winter and spring term and the grade 8 students will make one visit. In May, Grade 2 students will also be introduced to the library by a class visit.

The story hour and art classes will be resumed as usual Saturday morning.

Torontonian Hurt In 2-Car Crash

A Toronto woman Mrs. William T. Armstrong, 28, was taken to Civic Hospital late Wednesday afternoon with injuries received in a two-car collision at Young's Point.

Mrs. Armstrong, passenger in her husband's small, English-model car, has a fractured wrist, a cut in her forehead and body bruises. She is being released from hospital today.

Mr. Armstrong received a cut on the bridge of his nose.

The accident occurred between the two Young's Point bridges when the Armstrongs, driving north, met head-on with a south-bound car driven by Norman Bueheer, Blisfield, Mich. Both cars skidded on the slippery highway and the drivers were unable to avoid a collision.

Bueheer's car received $150 damage and the other $200.

Mrs. Armstrong was given medical attention at the scene of the accident by Dr. H. E. Gastle of Lakefield and then she was taken to Civic Hospital.

Provincial Constable Russell Pollard investigated.

Complete Wreck

Though his car rolled over a 15-foot embankment and was wrecked, Stanley Mahood, 63, RR 1, Omemee, managed to crawl out unhurt through an open window.

Mahood was driving home from Peterborough Wednesday night when his car went out of control on Highway 7, two miles from Fowler's Corners. It ran off the highway, rolled over the embankment and stopped upside down. It was almost completely wrecked.

There were no passengers with Mahood.

Provincial Constable T. H. Fitzpatrick investigated.

Unemployment Increases By 263 In Month

A decline in construction work and shortage of materials increased the number of unemployed in the Peterborough district during December. William Mellis, manager of the National Employment office, said today that at the end of December in this area the number of unemployed drawing funds was 1,058.

This figure is 263 claims higher than November's 795 which was an increase on October's figure of 680. The number of claims at the end of December this year compared favorably with 1949's December 1,043, indicating that the unemployment situation is at the same stage.

Mr. Mellis said that the weather during December gradually brought the local construction work to a standstill. Some factories also are laying off their employees on the short-time week as last year. These plants say the decline in work is due to shortage of materials such as steel and aluminium. The present situation may continue for a month or more.

On the number of new claims taken Tuesday, Mr. Mellis said, "it was as large a day as we have ever had." Then 82 unemployed made application for the insurance fund while the insurance division paid out $2,684.40 to over 100 other unemployed.

Men Increase

The men on claim at the end of December was an increase on 1949 but the number of women's claims decreased. Statistics show that 862 men were drawing money against 764 last year and 196 women compared with 279 last year.

The postal claims which were included in the above figures had the same result this year, an increase in men's and a decrease in women's. In the area outside the city 233 men were on claim at December's end this year and 214 last year while only 36 women drew funds in 1950 and 48 in 1949.

The result this year was the same for the number of people listed as unemployed. The men totalled 860 unemployed registered as compared with 1949's December figure of 829. Women in December unemployed were 227, a decided decrease on last year's 366 figure.

Job opportunities this December increased to 55 from December 1949's men's vacancies of 15. The women's jobs available at the end of December were seven against last year's 19.

No Deputy Named For City Mayor

Appointment of a deputy mayor is not included in the municipal practice of the city council of Peterborough.

Sudbury Star has circulated an enquiry as to what is done in other cities in regard to a post of vice-presidency of local councils. Some of them appoint a deputy by custom. One of them, for example, is Ottawa.

"Maybe we are not a big enough city to have a deputy," Mayor Swanston said today. "One practice has been to leave to the mayor the authority of deputing one of the members of the council to take his place in the event of his absence from any meeting over which he would ordinarily preside, or to represent him elsewhere."

"In my years of experience, the mayor has rarely been absent from meetings of the council. There are other times when organizations or other groups of citizens request the presence of the mayor at some of their functions. When some of those occasions occur at the same time, and the mayor cannot attend more than one, I have asked members of the council to attend in my place. In that practice I have tried to pass the honor around."

Pontypool Driver Given Seven Days

LINDSAY, Ont., Jan. 4 (CP)—An unusual case in which drivers of both automobiles involved in a collision were charged with drunk driving ended yesterday with conviction of one and dismissal of charges against the other.

Everett Armstrong of Pontypool was sentenced to seven days. William Begley of Downeyville was discharged because of insufficient evidence against him.

Claude Hannon, who witnessed the accident, said the cars hit head-on. He said both drivers had been drinking "but I couldn't say they were drunk."

At the December 4 elections Messrs. Lang and Bonner were tied with 189 votes. But after the recount Wednesday before County Judge M. A. Miller, Cobourg, Mr. Lang was declared to have 191 votes and Mr. Bonner 188.

Mr. Lang is a newcomer to the school board while Mr. Bonner has served two years as trustee.

At the December elections there were three candidates for two vacancies, Marshall Fallis, also a newcomer, headed the poll with 246 votes. The other three members of the board, not up for election this year, are Herbert Patton, Allan Wood, and Ernest Brackenridge.

Easter Holidays 55 Days Away

Peterborough school children will be glad, no doubt, to know that Easter holidays are only 55 school days away. This thought probably lightened the load of the thousands of children who returned to school Wednesday after the Christmas holidays.

The period between the end of Christmas vacation and the start of the Easter holidays will be one of the shortest possible since Good Friday this year falls on the earliest date since 1940—March 23.

The thought of Easter holidays may be darkened for the elemenetary school children when they think of the Easter examinations they will have to meet before they breathe easier away from school studies. The school holiday this year will begin March 22 and end April 2.

The students this year experienced one of the shortest Christmas vacations. They were out from December 21 until Wednesday.

TB STAMP SALES

Sales of TB stamps conducted by the Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association up until Wednesday night totalled $5,397.93.

Boy, 3½, Lost Soaked To Skin

A three-and-a-half-year-old boy lost, blue with cold and soaked to the skin with rain Wednesday afternoon was taken into her home by Mrs. Thelma Drummond, 266 King George St. about 4.30 p.m.

She gave him a mustard bath, fed him and put him to bed. Then she called police.

The police had no report of a missing child and were unable to find out who the parents were. At 8.30 p.m. they got a call from John Bosley, 438 Rose Ave., and the boy turned out to be his son, Michael.

Mr. Bosley and his wife had left Michael and four other children in charge of a 15-year-old baby sitter.

The baby sitter had not reported the child missing to its parents until 7.10 p.m. The father did not check with police until more than an hour later.

The parents picked up the child at the home of Mrs. Drummond and took him home.

Industry Is Willing To Help

In More Effective Industrial Training

Peterborough Chapter of the Ontario Industrial Education Council held its first general meeting in the library of the Collegiate and Vocational school on Wednesday night. Organized to bring more closely together industry and the vocational department of the PCVS the meeting was attended by more than 50 of those interested in the training of the youth in our schools so that they make take a place in industry.

C. B. Neal, president of the Outboard Marine Manufacturing Co., is the head of the branch and is assisted by representatives from the major industries in Peterborough. Mr. Neal presided and the chairman of the various committees reported on the progress being made. A. M. Moon, former director of the vocational department at the PCVS and now assistant director of vocational education in the province, congratulated the chapter and declared that while in the past two years many others had been organized in Ontario, he had not yet found one more active.

Stanley R. Adamson, chairman of the vocational committee of the Board of Education and one who has played a prominent part in the organizing of the chapter outlined how the Ontario Educational Council came into being. For many years industry and educational authorities had failed to get together. Educationalists did not know what industry thought of the training being given boys and girls and industry had never been asked to make suggestions which might improve the vocational schools. The formation of the council was an effort to bring these two together.

Results of studies and surveys made of several of the Peterborough committees have already gone far in the province especially the package apprenticeship plan of the skilled occupations and apprenticeship committee headed by L. J. Sparrow. With this the Canadian Manufacturers Association has been greatly interested.

Other chairmen were: program, R. R. Reid; supervisory training, J. J. Dutton; clerical occupations, G. H. Batley; semi-skilled occupation, T. P. McMillan, guidance and industrial relations, J. H. Moebus and public relations and membership, J. M. Fraser.

J. J. Dutton in his report of supervisory training told of how it had been decided to have such a course taught at the night school. It had been hoped to have a class of from 15 to 20 but demand for the course was so great that registration had to be closed when 70 were enrolled. G. W. Craw congratulated the chapter on behalf of the Board of Education. Students of the household economics department served a delightful lunch and George Kennedy moved the vote of thanks to the students and to B. W. Switzer, director of the vocational department of the school, one of the main forces in the organization of the chapter.

Hit By Auto, May Have Fractured Skull

Knocked down by a car while he was walking across an intersection half an hour after midnight this morning, Thomas Parker, 38, 212 London St., is in Civic Hospital today with a possible fracture of the skull.

Hospital officials reported today his condition had improved during the night.

Driver of the car which struck Parker was Norris Dafoe, 547 George St. Parker had been walking north on the west side of George St. He was almost three-quarters of the way across Brock St. when hit, said police.

Thrown Against Curb

He was thrown against the north curb of Brock St. and was unconscious when police arrived and had him taken to hospital in Kaye's ambulance.

Dafoe told police he was driving north on George St. and started to make a left turn into Brock St. He said he was watching a car travelling east on Brock St. and did not see Parker until he was directly in front of his right fender. The right headlight struck the pedestrian and shattered the glass.

Emmett Maloney, driver of the east-bound car and his cousin Tim Maloney, a passenger, both said Dafoe was not driving fast when the accident occurred.

Traffic Officer Claire M. Gillen, who investigated with Constable Donald Mackay, reported the brakes on Dafoe's car were very poor.

Fire Damage $300 In Room

Fire from an overheated oil burner caused more than $300 damage early today in a furnished room of an old frame building at 622 Union St., owned by Peter Petrakos.

The low, wooden frame building, more than 50 feet long, was formerly used as a mushroom house. The fire broke out in a small room, eight feet square, that had been converted by Mr. Petrakos into living quarters.

Two suits of clothes, shoes, bedding, a carpet, and a quantity of other clothing were destroyed by fire. The flames also damaged the oil heater and the walls and ceiling at the front end of the room. The whole interior will have to be redecorated.

Fred Clancey, RR 7, Peterborough, first noticed the flames as he was returning home shortly before 1 a.m., and he turned in the alarm. Firemen had little difficulty in bringing them under control.

Mr. Petrakos used the living quarters all last winter, but is now a chef at the House of Providence and stays there rather than commute. Wednesday night he lit the oil burner to take the dampness out of the room and when he left about 9 p.m., everything was in order.

There is no insurance on the building or contents.

"We are hoping to have a good meeting," Mr. Gillespie said. "We can report all our accounts paid, and we are in a good position as indicated by the rebuilding of the Exhibition under the presidency of Hugh Stewart".

Cab Owner Claims Frame-up In Bootlegging Charge Court Reserves Judgment

Judgment was reserved in police court today in a charge of bootlegging against Frank Thompson, 531 Douglas Ave., which brought into the open a bitter feud between Thompson and Geoffrey (Gip) Feeley, both taxi operators in the city. Thompson's defence was that the whole set of circumstances on which he was charged was all a frame-up engineered by Feeley. Wednesday Feeley himself was tried in police court on a charge of bootlegging and judgment was reserved.

In police court today, Feeley, called as a crown witness, said: "It was Thompson got me into this mess I'm in."

Edward Collins, 744 Chamberlain St., key witness in the prosecution, testified he had borrowed $8 from Geoffrey (Gip) Feeley to buy a bottle of liquor. He said he had been drinking and was going to a party in the south end of the city.

Asked For Beer

He said he went to Thompson's basement office on Douglas Ave. about 11 p.m. Dec. 12. He said Floyd Michels, who works for Thompson, pointed him to the back door and he went down into the basement. He said he first asked for a case of beer and then a bottle of bonded stock, but Thompson said he didn't have either. But Thompson sold him a bottle of whisky.

Thompson said to him he would "drive me down the road apiece because the cops were watching him." When he was delivered at the Booth farm south of the city, he said he paid Thompson $7 for the bottle and put it in his pocket.

He said Michels was in the car with them. Under cross questioning by defence counsel W. J. Arthur Fair K.C. he said Gip Feeley had driven him to within a block of Thompson's home.

He said he had been convicted of acquir... liquor illegally and a $100 fine ...d been paid.

"Who paid the fine, Gip Feeley?" Mr. Fair asked Collins. He replied that Red Feeley (Leo Joseph Feeley who was sentenced Tuesday to seven days on a drunk driving charge) had paid the fine.

"He's the paymaster for Gip Feeley, is he?" Mr. Fair asked. "I wouldn't know," Collins said.

"You went down there to Thompson's with the avowed purpose to frame Thompson, didn't you," Mr. Fair charged. "No".

He said when he was being driven south by Thompson, he saw Feeley's taxi near Thompson's place. He said he was walking on Monaghan Rd., when he was picked up by police.

"It was arranged beforehand that police would pick you up was it?" Mr. Fair enquired. "I don't know nothing about it," Collins answered.

He denied that he knew the police were following him or that he gave them any signal he had a bottle. He said he went to the farm house but did not go in because he didn't want to wake anyone up. When Mr. Fair suggested he was too drunk to know what went on that night, Collins said:

"I knew what I was doing and I knew what I was saying. I guess I was all right."

He said as Thompson was driving away from the farm house he met another car. Mr. Fair suggested that it was Feeley's taxi.

"I won't say," Collins replied, then added, "I won't say because I don't know."

He said he saw Thompson driving away and the other car following it. When it was suggested his mother was living at the Booth farm, he said, "I wish not to answer that."

Didn't Know Much

Feeley took the stand next and observed "I don't know very much about it."

He said Collins borrowed $8 from him to buy a bottle of liquor. He said he hadn't known Collins very long, but he had been hanging about with his drivers. He said he drove Collins about a block away from Thompson's home and saw him walk down Douglas Ave. toward Thompson's home.

He then phoned the police and told Constable Gordon Trennum where Collins would be with a bottle. He said he stayed on Monaghan Road waiting for Collins to reappear.

"You really set out to frame the accused, didn't you?" Mr. Fair charged.

"No, I didn't," Feeley replied.

"You paid his (Collins') fine of $102.50 didn't you?" Mr. Fair asked. Feeley denied it. He said his brother had paid the fine.

Law-Abiding

"You're such a law-abiding citizen that you felt you should notify the police that Collins was buying a bottle of illegal liquor after you had loaned him the money to buy it," Mr. Fair said. "Yes."

Asked by Mr. Fair if he had ever sold a bottle of liquor, Feeley said he hadn't.

"You're just an innocent victim of slander, are you?" "Yes."

Feeley said it was through the arrest of Kenneth Thompson,

Boy Faces Charge Juvenile Court After Stabbing

A formal charge of wounding with intent to do grievous bodily harm has been made against the 15-year-old boy in connection with the stabbing of Harry Collins, 18, of 744 Chamberlain St. The boy, remanded Wednesday by Magistrate W. R. Philp until Friday when he will appear in juvenile court.

St. Joseph's Hospital authorities reported that Collins' condition is good. The three back wounds, received in a street fight near Turner park at 9 p.m. Tuesday, were not deep and took little time to clean. No word has been received when he will be allowed to return home.

Collins got into the fight with the boy after the latter, his 17-year-old companion, James Cooper, and two girls went to the Turner park rink to see what the ice was like. During the scuffle Collins was jabbed three times in the back with a pen-knife.

Shortly afterwards the younger boy was picked up at a theatre by Detective W. E. Clarke and taken to police station. Also taken into police custody for an hour was James Cooper as a material witness.

City Hall Union Not Trade Union

The Independent Civic Employees Union is not a trade union within the meaning of the Labor Relations Act, 1950. The Council was told this by the Ontario Labor Relations Board in a letter from P. M. Draper of that body. Application of the civic union for certification has been dismissed.

Council directed that a deed of the property at the northeast corner of Monaghan Road and Lansdowne St. be prepared, authorizing transfer of that property to the Peterborough Lumber Co.

By an agreement of May 1, 1946, that lot was sold to the company for $6,000 through the City Trust Commission who are now asking for the deed of transfer. A motion to that effect was sponsored by Aldermen Braund and Burrows.

Taxi Stands?

Curb space for taxi stands may possibly develop out of consideration by the board of works of a request from Clare Donnelly of Call-A-Cab taxi, 189 Hunter St., for removal of the parking meter in front of their office. It is adjacent to the American Hotel.

There is some suggestion that several central places be cleared of parking posts as a convenience to the taxi business and the public. It is believed that this designation of reserved taxi space—a common practice in many cities—would enable people requiring taxis to direct them to a specified place reserved for them. It is an idea which has at least been mentioned outside the circle of taxi owners.

LICENSES SOLD

In two days, a total of 400 passenger license plates was issued at the Chamber of Commerce as reported by James Dorris, local issuer. The totals for driving licenses by Wednesday night were operators, 310 and chauffeurs, 117.

Say Canada Produces 54% Newsprint

MONTREAL, Jan. 4 (CP) — The Newsprint Association of Canada reported today that Canada in 1950 accounted for 54 per cent of world newsprint production and 81 per cent of world exports.

In 1950 Canada had an estimated production of 5,275,000 tons, compared with 5,176,000 in 1949 and a pre-war 1935-39 average of 3,337,000 tons.

The 1951 forecast-estimate is 5,400,000 tons.

Since 1947 Canada has been producing above rated capacity. Operating ratio in 1950—production as percentage of rated capacity—was placed at 100.9. For 1951 it is estimated at 100.7.

The United States, Canada's heaviest newsprint buyer by far, took 89 per cent, or 4,710,000 tons, of Canada's total shipments. Other countries took 215,000 tons, or four per cent, and shipments within Canada were 350,000 tons, or seven per cent of her production.

Percentage Same

Estimated percentage for 1951 shipments are the same to the U.S., five per cent to other countries and six per cent within Canada.

Since the war Canada's shipments to countries other than the U.S. have been falling off—from a pre-war 22 per cent and 15 per cent in 1946 to four per cent last year. The drop is attributed to monetary restrictions and governmental regulations in those countries.

Canada's pre-war shipments to the United States were 72 per cent of total shipments. Now they are 89 per cent.

Britain's imports from Canada dropped in that time from 347,000 tons pre-war and 111,000 tons in 1946 to 18,000 tons last year, but there is an expected upswing to 60,000 tons in 1951.

Principal Producers

Of the 33 newsprint-producing countries other than Canada, the five principal producers are the United States, Britain, Finland, Norway and Sweden.

World production in 1950 was 9,739,000 tons of which Canada contributed 5,275,000 tons. World production for 1951 is estimated at 10,031,000 tons, with Canada contributing 5,400,000.

World pre-war production was 8,150,000 tons and the newsprint association said that "compared with most commodities this is a good performance and an encouraging outlook."

"The catch in it is that the performance is due almost solely to one country: Canada."

This country was the only producer to show "any appreciable 1950 increase over pre-war; the other 33 countries as a whole, show a decrease."

The association noted that the United States currently takes 60 per cent of total world supply compared with 44 per cent pre war. "If U.S. consumption continues to increase in 1951, the outlook is one of very tight world supply and of possible shortage."

A report filed in Probate Court by the motor magnate's grandsons, Henry II, Benson and Wiliam Clay Ford, listed the tax total as $41,114,529. It was the fourth and final accounting of Mrs. Clara Bryand Ford, who was executrix of her husband's estate until she died last September.

Ready For Sabotage

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 —(AP) — Newsweek magazine says the American Communist Party at its recent national convention boasted of its ability and readiness to sabotage defence mobilization. Offer Reserves Posts In Navy

OTTAWA, Jan. 4 (CP). — The navy Wednesday night announced a new plan to fill gaps in its officer complement.

Naval headquarters said the plan entails entering officers of the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve on three-year appointments in all branches of the navy.

It explained that recent increases in the navy's manpower ceiling from 9,600 to 13,440 created a number of vacancies in the officer complement. It was hoped the three-year appointment scheme would fill these as quickly as possible.

The plan removes the restrictions of age and rank which normally govern the entry of officers into the Royal Canadian Navy from reserve ranks. To be eligible officers must be of lieutenant's rank or above in the RCN reserve active or retired lists, be physically fit for the RCN and in possession of professional qualifications for appointments for which application is made. Officers so entered will retain their reserve seniority.

Appointments may extend beyond the three-year period at the discretion of the chief of the naval staff.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Jan. 4 (CP) —Premier Smallwood said Wednesday night a request by the Newfoundland government for an allocation of steel to construct a stadium here has been turned down by the Federal Department of Trade and Commerce. Officials of the stadium company said they will "tackle the steel problem from another angle," but did not elaborate.

Dog Saves Cowboy Lost For Five Days

WILLIAMS LAKE, B. C., Jan. 4 (CP).—Wesley Swelander, 32-year-old cowboy, stumbled back to his bunkhouse Wednesday on the Northern British Columbia rangelands after being lost five hungry days in the wilderness.

He said he owed his life to his dog Duke.

Swelander left on horseback to check on some range cattle and became lost.

On the third day, his horse disappeared. The next day they started to follow the horse's tracks.

"If the dog hadn't kept tugging and pulling at me I wouldn't have made it," Swelander said.

Fish Catches Increase

OTTAWA, Jan. 4, (CP).—Size and value of sea fish catches on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts increased sharply in the first 11 months of 1950, the Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday. Landings in the period totalled 1,209,484,000 pounds, valued at $62,859,000. In the corresponding period of 1949 the catch was $1,109,639,000 pounds, valued at $50,285,000.

Stalin Mentioned 101 Times On Front Page

LONDON, Jan. 4 (AP). — A Yugoslav provincial newspaper took a wry glance Wednesday at a recent issue of the Soviet Communist Party's paper, Pravda, and came up with these statistics:

In the Nov. 17 issue, Stalin's name was mentioned 101 times on the front page alone in these forms:

Josef Vissarionovich Stalin — 35 times; Comrade Stalin—33 times; Great Leader Stalin — 10 times; Dear and Beloved Stalin — seven times; Great Stalin—six times.

The Zagreb daily Naprijed also said: "Among other variations were Stalin the genius, great leader of entire mankind, great chief of all workers, protagonist of our victories, great fighter for peace, Stalin the hope of fighters for peace, faithful fighter for the cause of peace."

Addresses Mission Band

Nettie McKenzie Mission Band of Knox Church met in the Primary Room with 27 members present. Mrs. Wm. Donaldson, Mission Band secretary of Peterborough Presbyterial, installed a slate of officers for 1951 and spoke to the members on "What it Means to be a Mission Band Member." Mrs. Donaldson stressed regular attendance at every meeting; that it is important to remember the missionaries in prayer; by bringing in an offering members were learning to think of others; that Mission Band is a stepping stone that leads to other organizations in the church where members learn to serve and most important of all the members are learning to be Christian citizens of the world." June Osborne moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Donaldson. Mrs. G. James, superintendent of the Mission Band, presented the treasurer's annual report. Larry Scott, temperance secretary, read an article, "Spoil-Sport." Brenda Hutchinson and Bernice Rosborough took up the offering which was dedicated with prayer. During 1950, the Mission Band had a membership of 39 with an average attendance of 29 or 70 per cent. Charles McCracken received special mention for having achieved 100 per cent attendance and Marilyn Barry was second having missed only one meeting. A scrap book made by the junior members was sent to the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto.

Queen Mary Carpet On Display Here January 18 to 20

Plans for the exhibit in Peterborough of the carpet made by Her Majesty Queen Mary were made by the executive of Municipal Chapter, IODE, at a meeting Tuesday at the home of the regent, Mrs. W. Gordon Hall.

The carpet is to arrive Thursday noon, January 18, and be on display in the Richard Hall store from four o'clock that day until Saturday evening, January 20. Arrangements have been made to have it on view to the public until 9.30 o'clock each evening and from 9.30 a.m. on Friday and Saturday. It will be under constant police guard and will be kept in a bank vault at night.

Formal opening of the display will be performed by Mayor M. J. Swanston. It is expected that Mrs. Ryland New, OBE, past national regent of IODE, will accompany the carpet to this city.

The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire offered to the British Carpet Committee to establish a fund open to the general public to raise as much money as possible, with the minimum objective of $100,000 with which to purchase the royal carpet for Canada. So a small fee will be charged each viewer and all proceeds will go to the Queen Mary Carpet Fund. However, school children are to be admitted free during Friday morning if accompanied by their teacher.

The local committee in charge of the display is headed by Mrs. W. G. Hall, regent of Municipal Chapter, assisted by regents of all the Peterborough Chapters, and Mrs. C. M. Scott, National convener of Commonwealth and Empire work. Treasurer is Miss Mary Curry and the conveners are: publicity, Mrs. G. A. Barns; special names donations, Mrs. M. E. Clarke; literature, Mrs. C. L. Upper; hospitality, Miss Mary Greer and Mrs. Robert Ailin.

Paris Gowns Ready Quick With Pin-up

PARIS — (AP) — In Paris, when a woman discovers at the last minute that she "hasn't a thing to wear," she calls Pierre Lacheze and says "come pin a dress on me."

For about $50 Pierre will do just that in around three minutes.

Pierre goes to the house and drapes an evening gown guaranteed to make men murmur and other women mutter. When the evening is over, the wearer unpins the dress and sends the material back to Pierre.

Pierre is a 19-year-old Paris student who has made a business of draping and pinning one-time-only gowns on clients for special occasions "on the town." He specializes in travellers who arrive in Paris without evening clothes and then receive an unexpected invitation to some place where formal attire is required.

In a demonstration of his art, Pierre draped three yards of gold-colored satin around model Stella Danforay and then anchored it in place with two ordinary straight pins and a black patent leather belt. The elapsed time for the operation was three minutes. The model looked as though she had just stepped out of the best fashion salon in town.

As a finishing touch, Pierre pinned a diamond corsage on Stella's shoulder. It was a $20,000 job designed by Mellerio's of Paris. For an actual client Pierre decorates his gown with whatever baubles the lady has in the dresser drawer.

Made-To-Order

Pierre usually supplies the yard goods. He has devised a dozen or so different styles, but can improvise on the spot if the client has ideas of her own.

Pierre started out to be an artist, and attended the Academy of Modern Arts for two years. While he was there, Couturier Jacques Fath saw some of his sketches and gave him a job in his salon as a designer.

In Fath's salon Pierre discovered that he had a knack for draping bolts of cloth so that they looked like finished gowns. After two years of practising, he worked up a night club act and went into the Montmartre night life, draping evening gowns on nearly nude chorus girls.

The wife of a wealthy Argentine industrialist saw Pierre's act one night and invited the young entertainer to her table for a chat.

"Could you pin such a dress on me, so that I could wear it tomorrow night?" she asked.

Pierre assured her he could—and he did. It was such a success he promptly went into business.

Woman Keeps Home Fires Burning Doing Greatest Job

DEAR MISS DIX: I dispute strongly all that is said about women's place being in the home. I believe that the absolute tying-down of women to their own fireside has been their complete downfall and has made them morbid, irrational, narrow-minded and selfish. Woman should be a chum and companion to man.

A INTERESTED READER

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Whether a woman's place is in the home or not depends on the woman and her individual talents and inclinations and circumstances and on the home. You cannot lay down any hard and fast rule on the subject. There are women that nature never intended to be homekeepers. There are other women to whom home is the realization of every ambition and dream. Home isn't a prison to all women, as you may seem to think it is. Nor are all home - keeping women stupid and narrow and neurotic. To vast numbers of women homemaking is the most interesting and exacting and satisfying occupation on earth. They find joy in expressing their artistic taste by making their homes beautiful. They make of cookery a fine art. And they have a sense of supreme satisfaction in knowing they are making a place of peace and rest and comfort for their husbands and giving their children an environment that will develop all that is good in their characters.

Dorothy Dix

Injustice

It just happens that in the division of labor in the domestic partnership, making the home is a woman's job as supporting it is the man's, and there is no justice in that that I can see nor any belittling of the woman.

Of course, there are conditions of financial stress in which it becomes absolutely necessary for a woman to work outside of the home and help earn the bread as well as bake it. But when there are children it is a tragedy for the mother not to be able to devote all of her time to making them a comfortable home and keeping them safe within it. No school, no hired nurse or child specialist can give a child what a mother can. There is no synthetic motherhood that takes the place of a real mother in a real home.

So I think that the woman who keeps the home fires burning does the biggest job and the most important one in the world, and the one that pays the biggest percentage if she turns out good work.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: How should a woman conduct herself when ing your fingers out of the family Is there any way she can avoid interfering with the home life of the family? I have four children. Wouldn't it be best to spend a few months with each one so I will not wear out my welcome in any one place? My daughters-in-law seem to like me and try to plan for my pleasure. I know they will grow tired of that, therefore I rarely go anywhere they ask me to, but always insist that they go on without me. They usually go and seem happy about it.

MOTHER

ANSWER: You seem to have solved for yourself the problem of living in another woman's house, which is a difficult thing whether the woman is one's own daughter or one's daughter-in-law.

It consits primarily in keeping your fingers out ofthe family pie. The inallenable right of every woman who is at the head of a house is to run it in her own way without advice or interference.

As long as Grandma respects these rights, she is a welcome guest. It is only when she tries to superimpose her ideas on her daughter and her daughter-in-laws that the fight begins.

You are also very wise in not feeling that you always have to go out with your in-laws. Old people and young people do not enjoy the same things and by finding your own pleasures in your own way you keep from being a social burden upon them. And you are most wise to divide your time among all of your children instead of staying just with one. Short visits make long friends, as the old proverb puts it, in families as well as among strangers.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl engaged to be married to a very fine young man who loves me dearly. I believe myself to be in love with him. The only thing that makes me doubt it is that ever so often I become foolishly infatuated with some one else. I always get over it and go back to my fiance. Am I just kidding myself when I say I am in love with him, or are these affairs just temporary madness? ALICE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You are certainly not in love with the young man to whom you are engaged if you cannot be true to him even before marriage. My diagnosis of your symptoms is that you are a born philanderer and that no one man will ever satisfy you. Your will always want the excitement of affairs with other men.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Dinners Baked In One Dish Save Time, Money and Flavor

If my cooking friends will take heed I think I can (1) help save some of your housekeeping funds that have to stretch so far this month; (2) introduce some new dishes and flavors into your cooking repertory, and (3) give you more time to catch up on the sewing, mending and darning. (Do I hear anyone doubting that I too have these little problems?)

Besides, I received two new casseroles for Christmas. One was a 2½-quart size with a two-purpose lid. You can use it for a pie plate too. The other is yellow translucent ovenware which doubles as a refrigerator dish with a reversible lid... and naturally I have to keep right on using them to get acquainted with their possibilities.

The yellow one—which is of average size—looked attractive especially when it contained

✧ ✧ ✧

Scalloped Eggs

For six people cook 6 eggs hard in the shell. Make 3 cups medium white sauce (6 tablespoons each margarine and flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 cups milk) and to it add about 1 to 1½ cups chopped leftover meat (ham or chopped leftover picnic ham is best). Into casserole pour half of the sauce containing the meat. Slice the eggs over it—or eggs may be placed in sauce cut in half crosswise. Pour over remaining sauce. Sprinkle with 1 to 1½ cups butered cracked or stale breadcrumbs. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake until sauce bubbles and crumbs are brown.

I serve Tomato Jelly moulds containing celery and green pepper on plenty of lettuce, with this—plus Melba toast.

✧ ✧ ✧

Swedish Baked Halibut

One and one-half pound slice of halibut, salt, pepper, melted butter or margarine, 2 cups canned tomatoes, 1 teaspoon powdered sugar, 1 onion, ⅓ cup heavy cream or top milk. Remove skin from halibut, wipe clean, place in buttered baking dish, sprinkle with salt and pepper, brush over with melted butter or margarine. Add the sugar to the tomatoes and pour these over the halibut. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Then spread sliced onion over. Bake 20 minutes, pour over cream and bake 10 minutes at 400 deg. Fahr. Onion may be removed if desired before dish is served.

Baked Ragout of Beef

One or one and one-half pounds shin beef cut in 1-inch cubes, ¼ cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons cooking drippings, 2 sliced onions, 2 sliced carrots, 2 cups boiled or canned limas, 1 cup canned tomatoes, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce. Mix flour, salt and pepper and roll meat in them. Melt fat in frying pan and saute the meat in it until it is light brown. Add the sliced onions and saute until slightly browned. Put alternate layers of meat and vegetables in greased baking dish. Add tomatoes, mixed with Worcestershire sauce. Cover and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 2 or 3 hours or until meat is tender. Green beans or diced boiled potatoes may be substituted for the limas.

✧ ✧ ✧

Variations of Ragout (above)

(1) Substitute veal for the beef. (2) Cover top with buttered crumb or pastry or biscuit topping. (3) Use half beef and half kidney or liver. The latter variation is economical and healthful.

Jungle-styled Fashion Show

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON —(CP)— To the beat of a tom-tom by a Zulu warrior, a slinky black figure stepped into the limelight wreathed in the menacing coils of a mamba snake.

The scene was London's west-end, and the occasion, a jungle-styled fashion show inspired by "King Solomon's Mines," Stewart Granger's first Hollywood-starring film.

At a special showing, British designers gave fashion-concepts of various scenes in the film.

Stewart's film fight with a mamba was the background for a dress wreathed from knees to neck in the curling coils of a life-like snake. With low-cut neckline, slim leg-of-mutton sleeves, its figure-hugging lines ending in a trumpet-whirl, the black dress had the wicked look of a sinuous jungle plant.

A somewhat pantomime effect was given by stove-pipe leopard-printed velvet lounging slacks, the stocking-tight legs of which made one look for a tail. Combined with wide-sleeved mustard-yellow blouse, brown waistcoat, brown slipper-pumps and mustard ankle-socks, the outfit was finished with cheeky leopard bonnet and gloves.

Attractive Coat

Ocelot was the inspiration for a ⅞-length wool coat of black and white check. The softly-flared skirt showed ⅛th of slim black skirt which in turn matched the deep, winged coachman cuffs of the wide Dolman sleeves, and the high Elizabethan - stand collar. Long black gloves and a squarely-placed beret-hat without decoration gave effective finish.

The deadly - looking spider which, in the film, crawled on the dress of Deborah Kerr—Stewart's leading lady—served as a model for the sequin spider's web covering the front of a strapless, wide-skirted taffeta evening gown.

A natty three-piece ensemble in sand-colored barathea was the designer's answer to the long trek across burning desert in search of the mines. Combined with a picture hat of osprey, modelled on a native shield, it made a graceful picture.

A live monkey was one of the accessories carried to off-set a smartly-styled hat and coat of monkey-fur. There were also leopard, pony and springbok coats and one of the eye-catching dresses was a ballet-length "tiger" dress.

SYMBOLIC FLAGS — Two flags, one of a war-torn nation, the other of a world organization seeking to bring peace to that country, will be hung in Guelph city hall. The South Korean ensign, in the background, and the United Nations flag being examined by Jean Budd and Betty Graham, were sent to the city by Maj. Charles McGee, Roman Catholic chaplain serving with the United States forces in Korea. A native of Guelph, Maj. McGee received the flags after a dedication ceremony at a military cemetery near Inchon.

MISS MARGARET CANTWELL, Peterborough, of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada, left Montreal by B.O.A.C. stratocruiser Speedbird on weekend, en route to Kenya. Miss Cantwell is the 96th missionary to be sent from Canada by the Pentecostal Assemblies.

Former CGE Worker Leaves As Missionary to Kenya

Miss Margaret Cantwell of 148 London St. left Montreal Saturday by plane for Kenya, British East Africa where she will begin work as one of the 96 missionaries sent to that district by the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada.

The Pentecostal Assemblies of this country have established a large mission station at Kenya and Miss Cantwell will teach in the day school at the station.

Miss Cantwell was born and educated in Picton and came to Peterborough several years ago. She attended Normal School here and following her graduation taught in schools in nearby centres for a few years. Her mother, Mrs. Mildred M. Cantwell died in 1949.

In Nov. 1936, Miss Cantwell was employed by the CGE. She worked there until Nov. of this year. During her 14 years of employment with the CGE, she worked in the meter, porcelain and tool departments.

The Pentecostal Assembly church in Peterborough made a large contribution to Miss Cantwell's trip. She was given several showers and the Young People's Union of the church presented her with a gesteitner machine previous to her departure.

Miss Cantwell flew from Montreal to London and from there to Kenya.

India Receives Word Lama Reaches Yatung

NEW DELHI, Jan. 4—(AP)—India's government received word today that Tibet's Dalai Lama has reached the snow-covered mountain town of Yatung, only a day's march from the Indian-protected state of Sikkim.

But India's trade agent in Yatung, telegraphing the news to his government, said the 16-year-old boy ruler of the Communist-threatened land appears prepared to remain just within the borders of his own country indefinitely.

Indian government officials here say the Dalai Lama has no plans to enter India, which has offered him sanctuary from the Chinese Reds who have invaded his mountainous country.

It is presumed here that the Dalai Lama is designating Yatung as his provisional capital and now will resume full ruling powers there. Reports from Lhasa had said he appointed an official to administer the government there in his absence.

Crippled Man Saves Family In Fire

MANCHESTER, England, Jan. 4.—(AP). — A one-legged man saved his wife and two children from burning to death today by catching them as they dropped from a second floor window of their blazing home.

He was Joseph E. Rushton, 41, who gets around on a peg leg and crutches.

Rushton was awakened by the crackling of flames. He crept into the basement and turned off the gas.

Then he stood outside the bedroom, braced himself on his crutches, and deftly fielded his children — Christine, two, and Irene, three—as his wife dropped them out a window.

Finally he caught his wife and hobbled to turn in a fire alarm.

Night Club Dancers Die From Burns

AUGSBURG, Germany, Jan. 4 (Reuters). — Two sisters, Lucy and Cinda Ferreira, night club dancers in Augsburg's fashionable Oasis Bar, died Wednesday night of burns they suffered when their costumes caught fire New Year's Eve. One of them touched the burning cigarette of a customer with her highly-inflammable transparent costume when leaving the dance floor, and both girls immediately became "living torches."

Customers helped smother the flames by throwing clothing around the two and pouring water and drinks over them.

Plan Drastic Curbs Against Greek Papers

ATHENS, Jan. 4 — (Reuters) —The Greek government in a decree today assumed drastic powers to suppress newspapers "supporting those who hold arms against the motherland and undermine the country's integrity."

A council of magistrates will decide which newspapers should be shut down and those editing or circulating forbidden newspapers will be tried by special military courts. The penalties range up to life imprisonment.

Fire Explodes Shop Ammunition

SUDBURY, Jan. 4 (CP).—The Sudbury fire department today began an investigation into a fire late Wednesday that exploded 240 rounds of ammunition at a repair shop on Notre Dame Avenue.

One man received severe burns to his arm, but his identity was not immediately established. He was believed to be J. D. Dickerson, co-owner of the repair shop who with his partner, Thomas Patterson, escaped the one-storey building after an unsuccessful attempt to extinguish the fire.

Fire Chief W. L. Andrews said the man had been offered aid, but had refused.

The 30-30 shells ricocheted off the inside walls of the building while firemen poured water into the rear of the premises to prevent three pounds of gunpowder from exploding.

Patterson said damage would run into "several thousand dollars."

KEENE, Jan. 4 (ENS).—January meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Keene United Church took place in the club room Tuesday evening with a fair attendance.

The president opened the meeting with the theme "God—Working together with us." The secretary's report was given and adopted. Delegates were appointed to attend the Presbyterial to be held in George St. United Church, Peterborough, Jan. 30.

After a discussion on the advisability of organizing a mission band the matter was left over until the next meeting. Mrs. H. McFarlane, Mrs. H. B. Herrington and Mrs. G. Gall were appointed as a committee to arrange for the World Day of Prayer. The treasurer's report showed that the allocation of $500 was reached.

Mrs. Herrington gave "Through Partnership in Church Work," the fourth chapter of the study book, "The United Church Re-enters Japan."

Giving Competition

NEW YORK, Jan. 4—(AP)—The American Museum of Natural History said Wednesday that in its last fiscal year it outdrew Yankee Stadium. Nearly 2,500,000 persons visited the museum and its Hayden Planetarium. "The museum attendance figure for the last year," an annual report said, "far exceeds that of Yankee Stadium, and almost equals the combined attendance for the full year of 1949 at the Belmont Park, Jamaica and Aqueduct race tracts."

Windsor Gambler To Be Sentenced On January 10

WINDSOR, Jan. 4 (CP).—Gordon Keltz, 37, convicted of keeping a betting house, will be sentenced Jan. 10 by Magistrate Angus W. MacMillan.

Keltz, convicted Wednesday, was one of two men arrested Dec. 2 by provincial police anti-gambling squad officers in co-ordinated police raids in both Windsor and Detroit.

The second man, Cyril Drew, who was also charged with keeping a betting house, was remanded to Jan. 10 for trial. The 28-year-old private detective was arrested with Keltz in separate offices in a downtown office building which police allege was a relay centre for a telephone racing-news wire service between Toledo, O., and Detroit.

At the same time, Detroit police made 75 arrests in 12 Detroit premises suspected of being handbooks.

Four Give Evidence

Four provincial police officers gave evidence in the trial of Keltz. They were Deputy Commissioner E. T. Doyle, who led the raid, Inspector Frank Kelly, Cpl. Arthur Collins and Staff Inspector E. V. McNeill, acting Windsor police chief.

There were no defence witnesses, but defence counsel Bernard Cohn told the court: "It appears that in this raid, the police were looking for big game. They didn't get it, so we become involved in the danger of making Keltz scapegoat for the big game which was not caught."

Police witnesses said they broke into Keltz' office through a barred door and found a telephone box with 16 connections and a telephone headset. Two sheets of racing information were found in an alley beneath the office window.

Bank Letter Provides Ideas For Times

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The monthly letters of the Royal Bank of Canada are thoughtful and scholarly treatises on many subjects. Often they are not "news" in the ordinary sense, but generally they make interesting reading.

The current letter is entitled "Men Must Work" and a few quotes are of interest in these times. The letter says in part:

Today's working man—and we mean everyone from the persident of a large corporation to the day laborer—needs more than skill and smartness.

These are days when qualities of character are more important than ever before: stability, toleration, co-oneration, and self-restraint. They are days when a knowledge of economic affairs is needed, not only of the family budget kind, but the kind that tells the reason for the taxes deducted from one's pay envelope.

System Of Co-operation

Work has as its purpose the production of things to use and services to enjoy. Business is not a struggle for wealth that already exists, but a system of co-operation in producing and exchanging things that people want. The more things we produce, the greater choice we have of things to enjoy, and the more we will have to exchange for things we desire.

Looked at in this way, work is not a curse . . .

Ours is a civilization that never could have been built without labor, and if it is to be sustained it must be by work which adds to life as well as maintains life . . . the world is in the process of being made, and we are the makers . . .

Seaway Backers Pushing Bills

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (AP)—Congressional supporters of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project moved promptly Wednesday introducing legislation to authorize construction of the $800,000,000 development.

Three bills—virtually identical—were offered by four members of the House of Representatives. They were Representatives C. Kilburn (Rep. N.Y.), John Dingell (Dem. Mich.), John Blatnik (Dem. Minn.), and George Dondero (Rep. Mich.).

All stressed one point: that the seaway and its related power project should be built as soon as possible in the interests of national defence.

The St. Lawrence proposal, which the Senate has turned down on three different occasions since Canada and the U.S. signed a pact in 1941, would:

Permit ocean-going ships to traverse the St. Lawrence River from the Atlantic to the head of the Great Lakes, and, permit the the generation of an annual 13,200,000,000 kilowat hours of electrical energy in the International Rapids section of the river.

Fail To Count Blasts 20 Die And 28 Injured

LIMA, Peru, Jan. 4 (AP).—A dynamite blast killed 20 men and injured 28 others near the port city of Chimbote Wednesday. Failure to count accurately the number of dynamite explosions caused several victims to be buried under tons of debris and rocks.

The men were removing debris caused by an Andes mountain avalanche that claimed 15 lives last Oct. 20. The workers had planted 40 explosive charges. They returned to the scene believing all the blasts had occurred. After about 40 minutes the last charge went off, sending tons of debris into the air. There was no explanation for the delayed discharge.

Chimbote is about 250 miles north of Lima on the Peruvian coastline.

Torch Starts Blaze Damage $150,000

VAL d'OR, Que., Jan. 4 (CP).—Fire started by an acetylene torch Wednesday gutted the garage and showrooms of Gordon Motors, Ltd., causing damage estimated at $150,000.

No casualties were reported. The family of Gordon Burnley, president of Gordon Motors, escaped before the flames from their apartment above the garage.

A brewery branch adjoining the two-storey garage was slightly damaged by water and heat. The roof of the garage caved in one hour after the fire broke out at 1:30 p.m., EST. The blaze was brought under control within two hours.

Val d'Or volunteer firemen confined their attention to five nearby garages and other buildings.

Get New Address

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 — (AP) — "United Nations Stations, New York, N.Y." Wednesday became the official postal address of the United Nations. Postmaster Albert Goldman dedicated the new post office in the U.N. secretariat building at 42nd Street and Second Avenue. A rush by stamp collectors to have first-day covers cancelled followed.

COLD CUTS—Despite freezing temperature and a steady snow-fall, a guy has to keep himself neat and sharp-looking, so Pfc. Joseph Tono, of Dickson City, Pa., doesn't mind the Korean weather as he has his hair cut by Cpl. Russel Graff, of Jefferson, Wis. Both are 8th Army men, holding defense line above Seoul.

Christmas-Gift Plants Require Special Care

By HENRY PREE

If some kind friend sent colorful poinsettia to your home as a Christmas remembrance you may want to know how to keep it healthy and happy.

The care of the poinsettia and other Christmas plants poses somewhat of a problem since the temperature in most homes is much too high and utterly lacking in humidity. In the greenhouse these plants were grown in air laden with humidity and a temperature between 50 and 60.

The sudden change from this favorable environment is a distinct shock and a decided shock to the recipient when the leaves fade and drop a few days after arrival.

Just what can be done about it? First give the plants as cool a spot as possible and set the pot in a large saucer or tray of moist peatmoss to give a humid atmosphere. We must give it plenty of sunlight, never allow the roots to dry out, and above all keep it in a cool room out of a draft.

The best method of watering is regularly to place the pot in a pan of lukewarm water, never cold, and let it remain until moisture shows on top of the soil. A good soaking once in four or five days should be satisfactory.

However, much good comes from daily spraying of the foliage with water. Give the pots a quarter turn each day to make the blooms grow evenly.

Perhaps your gift plants included a little bush loaded with orange-red fruit, a Jerusalem cherry. Be sure to give it a cool spot in strong light. This plant enjoys a frequent spray-bath of clear water, and if indulged, is much more apt to keep its foliage.

The gift of a blooming azalea is quite enough to make the grayest day bright. Be sure to keep the plant in a cool place with good light and an abundance of moisture. Remove the flowers as they fade, and when the weather becomes warm, put the pot in a shady place for the summer.

Keep shapely by slight pruning and spray with clear water for cleanliness. In fall give fresh topsoil, and the azalea should bloom again in winter.

If your gift plant is a fern, take precautions from the first and keep it away from gas, strong sun and drafts.

Give it fresh air, light and plenty of water. But do not let water stand in the saucer. Clip off faded fronds, and give a small amount of fern-food every three months.

JACKPOT—This was the scene in Akron, O., after a tractor-trailer, loaded with 15 tons of steel, crashed into six cars at a downtown intersection. Two of the cars are out of the picture. Total damage: seven wrecked vehicles and one scratched leg, belonging to the truck driver.

Production Set-Up

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (AP)—President Truman yesterday set up a new defence production administration tying together the government's scattered emergency-production agencies. The DPA will be headed by William H. Harrison, now chief of the national production authority. He will have authority over industrial output, transportation, fuel, minerals and power.

Boys' Parliament Sets $14,000 As Their Objective

An objective of $14,000 has been set by the Ontario Older Boys' Parliament for this year to be raised to promote and extend all branches of boys' work in the province of Ontario. The campaign to raise funds will be carried out throughout Ontario from February 11 to 24.

The 30th session of the boys' parliament was held last week at the provincial legislative chambers in Toronto. As in the regular Ontario house the boys were divided into the government and the opposition but there was no party loyalty. The cabinet was composed of inner and outer cabinets.

The inner cabinet included the ministers of finance, conferences, boys' work, devotional affairs and the premier. The members of the outer cabinet were the undersecretaries to the various ministers, Jack King, Peterborough's representative being the undersecretary to the minister of devotional affairs.

Amend Act

An act to amend the parliament act was passed which stated that five members from the five major universities in Ontario would be able to return the year after they attended although they represent no constituency. This amendment is hoped to help raise the standard of leadership in the parliament.

A conference act was passed which is to promote conferences and rallies in each constituency to further boys' work. A rally of this type is planned now by the District Boys' Work Board of Peterborough for February.

Coe Hill Camp

The parliament's boys' work support act was debated and passed which contains the pledge of all members to organize district camps in each constituency. The local boys' work board has secured a camp-site near Coe Hill. Another clause in the act provided for a national athletic contest which presents the opportunity for any boy in an organized group to take part in an athletic meet.

Lectures were also held on Christian faith and how to abstain from alcohol. A leadership training course terminated with an examination.

"Graduates" of former parliaments held a re-union Saturday in High Park United Church. An alumni association organized by a committee which included John Hunter, who represented Peterborough for several years and was finally premier of the 11th parliament.

Passing Responsibility

WINDSOR, Jan. 4 — (CP) — Windsor's Board of Control referred the question of pensions for former Police Chief Claude Renaud and Deputy Chief W. H. Neale back to the police commission which dismissed them. The board asked Mayor Thomas R. Brophey, who becomes a member of the commission, to raise the question of pensions at the commission's next meeting and find out what the commission would like to have done.

Plan New Carrier

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (AP)—A bill was introduced in Congress to authorize President Truman to order construction of a new-type 60,000-ton aircraft carrier which can handle modern heavy planes. Hearings on it will start Jan. 9.

I Could Grow Lyrical about the sweet, young tenderness of BIRDS EYE Frosted Peas. It's no happen-so that Birds Eye Peas taste the way they do. You see, the Birds Eye folks plant specially selected seed in growing areas where peas grow best. Pick them on the very morning or afternoon when they reach flavour-fullness. Then they shell, wash and double-check the peas for tenderness, and quick-freeze them before they lose a whiff of their farm-freshness! I honestly can't see why anyone ever eats any peas but Birds Eye—especially when you figure out all the work, time and money they save you. Do you know that 1 box of Birds Eye equals 2 pounds of peas in pods? And where can you get peas in pods as farm-fresh as Birds Eye? 8 Prime Ministers Try to Plan Korean Settlement

LONDON, Jan. 5—(AP)—Eight Commonwealth leaders began a detailed survey of the Asian situation today with the idea of formulating positive plans for a Korean settlement. Prime Minister Nehru of India was due to keynote a closed door meeting by restating India's old argument—that the best way to end the Korean war would be to bring Communist China into the United Nations and so set the stage for continuing talks between the Communist and non-Communist worlds.

The meeting of seven Commonwealth prime ministers and the deputy of an eighth began with the question of Formosa high on the agenda, this includes whether the Commonwealth governments should line up behind the United States in keeping the strategic island out of the hands of Red China.

Washington Details

Prime Minister Attlee of Britain was due to tell his colleagues the details of his Washington meeting with Truman—in the hope of getting them to appreciate better American objectives in the Far East.

The Truman-Attlee talks last month disclosed a variance between American and British approaches to the situation, particularly in regard to relations with Red China. If anything, the difference between the US approach and those of India and some other Commonwealth countries is wider still.

Questions relating to Japan's future were due to come before the conferees. They were expected to accept the idea that Japan should be rearmed within limits.

The Commonwealth Ministers Thursday night pledged themselves to strive for lasting peace and to preserve a free world.

War Not Inevitable

Prime Minister Attlee of Britain set the keynote for the opening session of the 10-day conference with the declaration that "war certainly is not inevitable." A British spokesman who attended the first closed sessions said the Prime Ministers laid down three main policy objectives:

1. Maintenance of United Nations authority in such world trouble spots as Korea.
2. Unity of the free world.
3. A constructive approach to world crisis, following certain courses of action and avoiding others.

One of the parley's prime aims an informed source said, is to boost the Commonwealth's influence in international affairs by trying to work out some cure for problems facing the war-menaced world.

British leaders openly feel that Commonwealth unity on vital world problems would give the bloc something more like an equal bargaining status not only with Russia but also with the United States.

Brophey Holds 25-Vote Edge Recount Shows

WINDSOR, Jan. 5 (CP). — Mayor Thomas R. Brophey's election lead over ex-mayor Arthur J. Reaume was cut to 25 votes in this morning's recount of the disputed Dec. 6 mayoralty election.

Mayor Brophey had a 40-vote lead as the second day of the recount began. But 22 ballot boxes opened from two of the city's five wards gave Reaume a net gain of five votes in ward one and 10 votes in ward 3.

A total of 111 polls remained to be counted at noon today.

Counting of 52 of the 185 ballot boxes Thursday increased by two the 38-vote margin originally held by Mayor Brophey.

Serious doubt was thrown on seven of the 52 boxes when it was discovered that envelopes containing the ballots were unsealed. In six polls, the deputy returning officer had failed to seal the envelopes. In the seventh, three of the envelopes had been ripped open after being sealed.

The three recount judges, headed by County Judge Joseph A. Legris, indicated a final decision on validity of votes from the seven polls will be made at the end of the recount, expected early next week.

Provisional Basis

Vote totals were included on a provisional basis in the recount. If they are thrown out, Mayor Brophey's margin would be increased. All polls in doubt gave Reaume a heavy majority, totalling 503.

Legal counsel for both candidates were advised to prepare arguments on the question. In a similar case which could be a precedent, made in Ottawa in 1895, a judge invalidated all votes in the ballot box because envelopes were left unsealed. Tally at the start of today's counting stood: Brophey 16,575; Reaume 16,535. Votes of two other candidates who trailed were ignored.

The recount is being directed by Judge Legris and his deputies, Col. Charles Sale, supreme court registrar, and Charles Donaldson, Windsor lawyer. The deputies have power to make final decisions on questioned ballots.

Judge Legris left Windsor Thursday night to attend the funeral of his sister in Hull, Que., but will return Saturday.

Five In Family Badly Burned

QUEBEC, Jan. 5 —(CP)—A young mother and her four children suffered critical burns early today when a fire, apparently set by a spark from a wood stove, ravaged their home in lower town St. Malo district.

Firemen said they found Mrs. Roland Mainguy, her children Micheline, 4, Guy, 3, Ginette, 1 and Jeannine, four months, in various parts of the home in a "terribly burned" condition. All were unconscious.

Authorities at St. Sacrement Hospital said conditions of all were "most critical."

The fire broke out at about 7 a.m. after Mr. Mainguy left for his work. Firemen said the house was heated by a wood stove and apparently a spark had fallen into a wood box nearby.

There was evidence that the mother was burned in a desperate effort to save her family.

German Army Talks To Begin Tuesday

INDIO, Calif., Jan. 5 (AP)—A—Allied-German talks on West Germany's military contribution to the Western defence system will begin here next Tuesday, the Allied High Commission announced today.

The negotiations, which are expected to be lengthy, will be based on the decision of the Atlantic Pact powers at their recent Brussels conference to include German units in their projected 1,000,000-man international army under the command of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The West Germans, rejecting previous Allied plans to give them less than equal status in the proposed army, already have shown clearly they intend to drive a hard bargain before they commit any forces.

In exchange for the German troops, the Western occupation powers are prepared to return West Germany almost to the rank of full nationhood but only with restrictions on German rearming.

$40 Million Expansion Of Steel Plant

Increase Production By 50 Per Cent. Hamilton Head Says

HAMILTON, Jan. 5—(CP)—Immediate construction of steel-making plant capacity, to increase production by 50 per cent., and to cost between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000, was announced today by H. G. Hilton, president of the Steel Company of Canada, Limited. It is expected the project will take at least 1½ years to complete. The company's payroll will be swelled by several hundred more employees.

The main features of the project will include dock and storage facilities, additional coke ovens, a blast furnace of the maximum size in use at the present time and a new open hearth furnace shop, consisting of four 250-ton capacity furnaces.

When the program is completed, it is expected that the company's annual pig iron capacity will be increased by 450,000 tons and steel ingot capacity of the new open hearth shop will be approximately 650,000 tons a year.

Major Increase

While the additional steel will be rolled into the various products now being produced by the company, the major increase will be in hot and cold-rolled sheets which have been in short supply.

Mr. Hilton said that 78 coke ovens would be built at once. Plans called for construction of others later.

He emphasized that the expansion was a normally-planned one, and not caused by war conditions.

Present rated pig iron capacity is 750,000 net tons; rated steel capacity, 1,080,000 net tons. The company now operates 141 coke ovens and employees 6,200 persons at its Hamilton works, where the expansion is planned.

Charges Truman Exceeded Power

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Senator Robert A. Taft (Rep. O.) said in the Senate today that President Truman has no power to commit American troops to a European defence force without approval first from Congress.

Taft asserted, too, that the President "without authority . . . involved us in the Korean war."

In his first foreign policy speech of the 82nd Congress, Taft said he is willing to commit "some limited number of American divisions" to North Atlantic defences. But he said the Europeans must take the lead in forming such a force.

"I do not think we should force our assistance on nations which do not wish to arm themselves," Taft said. "I do not think we should insist or even urge that Europeans form a great international army unless they request us to help them with that project."

"I do not think we should assume the leadership in the formation of a great international army by the appointment of an American commander-in-chief."

Canada Gets Valuable Papers

OTTAWA, Jan. 5—(CP)—The Levis papers, regarded as the most valuable collection of original manuscripts relating to the last years of French rule in Canada, have been acquired by the Public Archives, Archivist Dr. Kaye Lamb announced today. Dr. Lamb purchased the papers from an agent in London late last year for an undisclosed price. They had been placed in the hands of the agent for sale by the Levis family of France, the descendants of Chevalier de Levis, who was Montcalm's second-in-command.

After the fall of Quebec and on the death of Montcalm in 1759 Levis gathered together both his own papers and many of those of the late commander-in-chief and took them to France. There they were sorted, bound up in 11 volumes, and placed in the private archives of the Levis family.

The papers are expected to throw new light on the last days of French rule in Canada.

Special Exhibit

Dr. Lamb said a special exhibit of the manuscripts will be put on public display in the museum of the Public Archives here for a fortnight beginning Jan. 8.

Two of the original volumes have disappeared. Dr. Lamb said these fortunately were two that contained the material "of least general interest." The other nine, still in their original 18th century bindings, arrived safely in Ottawa a few days ago.

One of the volumes contains more than 150 letters from Montcalm. All are signed by him and more than 60 are entirely in his own handwriting. Montcalm's own journals of his various campaigns in North America have been bound up together in another volume.

Letters from the Intendant Bigot, long a controversial figure in the history of New France, fill a third volume. The journals of the Chevalier de Levis himself, and correspondence to and from various officers and officials, complete the collection.

Missing General Awarded Highest Honor From US

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—(AP)—The United States Army today told the official story of the outstanding heroism in Korea of William F. Dean, missing Major-General who is being awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor. President Truman will present the highest American military award to Dean's wife, Jan. 9.

The Army's account of Dean's actions contained a tribute from the late Gen. Walton H. Walker, commander of the Eighth Army in Korea, which said:

"Never in the annals of (U.S.) military history has a general officer written a saga that can compare with this."

Dean was last seen July 21 when he became separated from his aide while they were rounding up stragglers and wounded in the withdrawal of his 24th infantry division from Taejon.

Hoped To Hang On

The account began with Dean's delaying action at Taejon, which he commanded from July 2 to 21. Knowing the division could not alone hold the North Korean army, he hoped to hang on until aid arrived.

July 19, with enemy artillery hurling a barrage which Dean said was greater than he had seen in one day in seven months of European combat, the general made numerous trips to the front lines.

Next day a heavy enemy attack began and tanks came into Taejon. Dean organized bazooka crews and went after them. During his hunt he spotted a disabled Red tank and undertook to crawl to it to drop a hand grenade into its open hatch, but he was pinned down by fire. Two other tanks rolled up. He grabbed an abandoned American jeep, and went to round up bazooka teams to get the three tanks. By this time the tanks were out of range.

Moslem-Christian Alliance Suggested

ROME, Jan. 5 —(AP)—Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha, secretary-general of the Arab League, was quoted today as saying that a spiritual alliance of the Moslem and Christian world would group more than half of the men of the earth together against a common enemy.

"The two religions," the Arab leader was quoted as saying in an interview published in Il Tempo of Rome, "are founded upon an exquisite high spirituality and are menaced by the same enemy, atheistic materialism."

Azzam Pasha, who has been visiting in Rome for several days en route from New York to Cairo, had been asked if there was any religious or political significance in his recent private audience with Pope Pius.

He explained that his visit to Rome was not to treat any particular problem but to survey the full range of co-operation, friendship and fraternity.

French Cadet Flies To Death

CALDWELL, Tex., Jan. 5 (AP) —A young French cadet—downcast because he couldn't win his wings—stole an air force plane and laughing flew it to his death.

He flew until the T-6 training plane ran out of gas and crashed.

Capt. Alair Jourdan, a French laison officer, said the cadet told him by radio: "I spend my last hours in the air and then I die."

A note indicating he intended to crash the plane was found after he took off from Randolph Air Base near San Antonio and Jourdan said the cadet apologized to "the American Air Force for destroying this plane."

Jourdan, who flew alongside the cadet in another trainer in an effort to coax him down, said the cadet seemed in command of his emotions and "laughed many times."

Name of the cadet, at Randolph with other young Frenchmen for training under the North Atlantic Pact, was withheld until next of kin could be notified.

After he took off flights of other planes chased him over the skies, but returned to the base when their gas started running low.

Family Vanishes Sure It's Murder

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 5 (AP)—Police today attempted to link a hitchhiker sought for robbery with the baffling disappearance of an Illinois family of five whom they fear died at the hands of a fiendish slayer.

The family's automobile, seats caked with blood and punctured by bullet holes, was found on a lonely country road north of Tulsa Wednesday.

There were no fingerprints, no bloody trails, no footprints, and —no bodies.

"It's murder—there's no question about it," said Osage County Deputy Warren Smith. "We're almost certain we've got a whole family dead somewhere. It's just a question of finding them."

Missing were Carl Mosser 33, his wife Thelma 29, and the couple's three small children, Ronald eDan 7, Gary Carl 5, and Pamela Sue 3.

Sought was a hitchhiker wanted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in connection with the holdup of an automobile near Oklahoma City Saturday. He fled with $100 and was seen later boarding a blue car bearing Illinois licence plates. The Mosser car is blue.

Report Red Army Preparing Biggest Blow Yet Against Allied Soldiers

U.N. Soldiers Now Staging Desperate Race To Keep Army Intact, Enemy Threatens Roads Needed For Retreat

TOKYO, Jan. 5—(AP)—Chinese Communist troops speared south today from captured Seoul toward a new Allied defence line. A tremendous enemy build-up for the next blow in the struggle for Korea was reported. Allied pilots said they saw the heaviest traffic yet observed in Korea behind the enemy lines. The Allies, in a skillful retreat yielded Seoul, its airfield at Kimpo and its port of Inchon was left in ruins. United Nations personnel blew up its docks before pulling out by sea. The main U.N. ground force moved on south of Seoul.

The menace of Communist hordes seeking to punch down central Korea and cut the escape roads south grew hourly.

U.S. Air Force pilots Thursday night sighted 1,200 vehicles clogging the roads of North Korea.

A U.S. Eighth Army officer said Red soldiers were pouring down secondary roads and through valleys toward Wonju, 55 miles southeast of Seoul.

May Cut Retreat

Once there, they could fan out along vital highways cutting across the line of U.N. retreat toward the old Pusan beachhead.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said seven Communist armies—perhaps 210,000 men—are moving from the Chunchon area toward Wonju. They could turn left or right there and possibly cut off parts of the allied forces.

It was a desperate race.

Lt.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, U.S. Eighth Army commander, returned to his headquarters late in the day after visiting two of his army corps defending the retreat.

"Everything is going fine," he said.

But the tough general said the retreat from Seoul was dwarfed by the tragedy of hundreds of thousands of Koreans unable to get out ahead of the oncoming Communists.

The last U.N. elements, port and service personnel at burning Inchon, blew up the harbor at 2 a.m. Friday and rode out on the morning tide.

U.N. planes already were bombing Seoul and Kimpo, its main airfield.

Unemployment Climbing, Better Than '49

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 — (CP) — Seasonal unemployment is moving up slowly but is less than last winter's, the Labor Department said today.

At the same time, it reported shortages of skilled and semi-skilled labor in many lines of employment.

The department's fortnightly report on the current employment situation showed 207,400 persons looking for work through national employment service at Dec. 14—21,000 more than two weeks before but 41,800 less than a year earlier.

Many workers displaced seasonally from agriculture, construction and other seasonal industries, the department said, had found work in the logging industry. That industry has reached its seasonal peak in almost all sections of the country and is approaching the level reached in the record 1947-48 season.

Surpluses Gone

Surpluses of skilled and semi-skilled labor in manufacturing have disappeared, the department said. They have been absorbed mainly in the aircraft and munitions industries.

Workers in demand include machinists, tool and die makers, welders, moulders and fitters in the metal manufacutring industries, along with semi-skilled workers in metal and machine tools.

Regionally, the number of job-seekers rose from 3,300 to 3,600 in Newfoundland between Nov. 30 and Dec. 14; from 20,500 to 22,500 in the Maritimes; from 55,200 to 62,300 in Quebec; from 46,700 to 51,200 in Ontario; from 30,500 to 34,600 on the prairies, and from 30,100 to 33,200 in British Columbia.

A Trifle Nippy

WINNIPEG, Jan. 5—(CP) —It is bitterly cold in western Canada today. Prince Albert, in norther Saskatchewan, had a 7.30 a.m. temperature of 46 degrees below zero. In other parts of Saskatchewan and Manitoba, readings of around 30 below zero were general. Saskatoon had 31 below, Regina 30 below and Winnipeg 25 below.

Unconscious 5 Months Girl Starts Catching Up

NDIO, Calif., Jan. 5 (AP)—A high school girl is trying today to catch up on events during the last five months when she was unconscious as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident.

Miss Erica Schmutz, 18, returned to consciousness two days ago. She had been blacked out since July 9, when she suffered a skull fracture.

Her parents believe she now is on the road to recovery. She already is able to leave her bed and sit up in a wheel chair.

Planning Purge Of Berlin Reds

BERLIN, Jan. 5 (AP)—Russian zone Communist leaders today disclosed creation of examining commissions to carry out the long-threatened party purge.

The politburo approved about 1,000 trusted followers as top-layer checkers for the six-month job of screening 1,200,000 card holders. They will supervise 4,000 local five-member commissions.

The purge is intended to accomplish what wheedling and promises have failed to do so far — hardening of the East German political machine into a solid pro-Russian mass.

Ottawa Teachers Get Up To $800 Boost

Sudbury Schoolteachers Name Toronto Man To Reference Board

OTTAWA, Jan. 5—(AP)—A boost of $200 in annual minimum salaries and as much as $800 in maximums for Ottawa's 470 public school teachers was announced Thursday night at the final meeting of the 1949-50 Public School Board. The increases are effective from Jan. 1.

The new schedule will generally boost by $200 annually the regular yearly increases provided for in the 1951 salary schedules.

The increases follow raises to high school teachers of $400 and $500 annually and boosts in maximums of $800.

The public school increases will cost the board approximately $94,000 a year.

Previously a male teacher with a first class certificate began at $1,900 a year and went up to a maximum of $4,000 in an 11-year progression. Female teachers with the same qualifications started at $1,600 and went up to $3,600.

Now such a male teacher can go up to $4,500 and women teachers up to $4,100.

Minimum Boosts

Minimum salaries will be boosted by $100 for each year of teaching experience up to six years.

Maximums for principals, previously ranging from $4,000 to $5,200, now will range from $5,200 to $5,800.

The new schedule also provides that the salary of any teacher, nurse or instructor who secures a bachelor's or master's degree while on the board teaching staff will get an increase of $300 to $500. Previously such a degree meant a $200 increase.

Choose Representative

Meanwhile, Herbert Orliffe, a member of the Toronto Board of Education, was named by Sudbury school teachers as their member on a three-man provincial board of reference which will hear the wages dispute between the Sudbury High School Board and 62 of this city's 69 secondary school teachers.

Judge J. M. Cooper, of Sudbury, is chairman of the reference board and the school board will be represented by Dr. W. L. Whitelock of Hamilton. No date for a hearing has been set.

Mr. Orliffe has been active in the CCF movement for many years and was once the party's provincial secretary and general secretary of Ontario CCF clubs. He now is a member of Spadina riding CCF executive.

9 Million German Refugees Resent Chilling Reception

BONN, Germany, Jan. 5 — (Reuters). — Western Germany's 9,000,000 refugees from the East feel they are being treated as "second class" citizens, and are showing their resentment.

They feel they have been discriminated against socially and politically, in jobs, homes and education. They form a large proportion of the unemployed.

Until recent elections in five states, the refugees had no parliamentary reperesentation because the occupying powers would not allow them to organize politically. The Allies decided it would be better to assimilate them within existing political parties.

But in the state elections, the refugees put up candidates — largely right-wing Nationalists —and showed their power, by polling a sizeable vote. In refugee-crowded Schleswig-Holstein, where more than one-third of the population is made up of refugees living in deepest misery, they scored a resounding success by winning almost one-quarter of the vote in competition with both main established parties and special-interest splinter groups.

The failure of the refugees to merge with the local population is ascribed to two main reasons:

1. Their reluctance to give up hope of one day returning to their homelands in the east; and
2. The chilling reception they have had in Western Germany.

So far assimilation has scarcely begun. Even the children regard themselves as persons apart.

In the cities, places where refugees can meet, have sprung up everywhere, usually in cafes. They can talk over their troubles, drinking East German schnapps and eating their own regional dishes.

30-Day Notice In US Before Raising Prices

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP). —The government was reported today to be drafting an order that all business firms give a 30-day notice before raising prices.

This would have the effect of a one-month price "freeze" although it would not apply to all farm prices, because of certain provisions of law.

Retail food prices were shown by the Bureau of Labor statistics today to have risen 1.2 per cent between November 28 and December 15—almost to the record high reached in July of 1948.

There was no immediate confirmation of the plan to issue a 30-day advance notice order. However, reports from people close to price director Michael V. Disalle and his staff said the decision has been made to issue an order soon.

UN Delegates Split On Next Move

U.S., Allies Request Condemnation, Other Lands Hesitate

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Jan. 5 —(AP)—United Nations non-Communist delegates today appeared split into two camps as the Assembly's political committee considered its next moves in the Korean crisis.

The United States and some other delegations went ahead with plans to seek a formal U.N. condemnation of Red China as an aggressor. Some of the Asian and Middle East countries, however, were understood to favor making another appeal to the Chinese to halt the fighting before discussing any strong measures.

United States sources said that while the American delegation was standing firm on the necessity of a U.N. condemnation, there was little likelihood that a denunciatory resolution would be introduced when the political committee met today.

A United States spokesman said many of the 25 delegations consulted by the Americans Thursday would need instructions from their governments before a resolution could be drafted.

To Decide Course

Twelve Asian and Middle Eastern countries scheduled a meeting for today to decide their course of action. Informants said they might propose another appeal to Red China on the basis of a truce plan to be submitted to the political committee in the afternoon by the assembly's three-man cease-fire group.

The political committee Wednesday asked the group to prepare a "set of principles" for a far eastern settlement after members noted that they had not touched on political aspects during their two weeks of unsuccessful attempts to get Red China to agree to a cease-fire.

The three—Assembly President Nasrollah Entezam of Iran, India's Sir Benegal Rau, and Canada's External Affairs Minister, L. B. Pearson—met Thursday afternoon but there was no announcement on their work.

Reinforcements Reach Canadians

TOKYO, Jan. 5 (AP).—Brigadier F. J. Fleury, commander of the Canadian military mission in Japan, said today the first reinforcements for Canada's infantry units in Korea have arrived in Japan with more to come.

Fleury said the reinforcements were sent to a replacement area until needed to fill in the ranks of the Princess Patricias' Canadian Light Infantry. This Canadian unit moved into Korea a few weeks ago.

Other reinforcements will come to Japan from Fort Lewis, Wash., as needed, Fleury said.

The dispatch of Canadian troops to the battle zone will be a "continuing commitment," Fleury said, as long as they are needed to maintain full strength of the formation in Korea.

Normal School Pupils Teach Rural Schools

Students from Peterborough's Normal School are scattered throughout the district this week teaching their first full week in rural schools. Before Christmas the teachers-to-be taught their first wek of continuous teaching in the urban schools.

Each year, aside from the weekly lesson which they have in one of Peterborough's public schools, the Normal students experience two weeks of urban teaching and two weeks of rural teaching. The next week of urban teaching will be held before the Easter holidays while the other week of rural teaching is after the holidays.

The students have been placed in rural schools nearest their homes. This covers an area for the students from Kingston and Belleville on the east, the lakeshore on the south, Apsley and Bancroft on the north and reaching into centres in Western Ontario.

The Normalites started the special week on Wednesday and will continue teaching there until Tuesday night. Next Wednesday morning they will return to their studies at the Normal school. Several of the school's masters, principal L. W. Copp, F. B. Smitheram, John Londerville and C. E. Potts, are visiting the various rural schools where the students are.

Navy Minister Joseph Francis said tonight the corvettes Ballarat and Goulburn were sold in Sydney, Australia, in 1947.

Information was received recently that the vessels had been sold outside Australia.

Earlier the Sydney Daily Mirror said that the corvettes had been sold to a "Chinese purchaser" and would leave for Hong Kong next week.

Living Costs Soar Again

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 (CP).—Living costs in Canada are climbing again. After a temporary halt in October, the official cost-of-living index advanced 0.4 points to November to an all-time high of 171.1 from 170.7, the Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday.

It was the ninth advance in 11 months for the prices barometer. The index is calculated on the basis that prices in 1935-39 equalled 100.

With the exception of rents, which were not surveyed, all subgroups climbed. Prices were higher for dairy products, fruits and vegetables, footwear, piece goods, men's and women's wear, home-furnishings, coke, health and personal care and recreation.

Only declines, not sufficient to counteract advances, were in meats and eggs.

From January to November, the index had marched up 10.1 points to 171.1 from 161.0. The Bureau estimated that since August, 1939 the index has advanced 69.7 per cent.

Lay Charges In Rail Wreck

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 5 (CP) —Attorney General Gordon S. Wismer said Thursday a criminal charge will be laid in connection with the Canoe River, B. C., train wreck.

Twenty-one soldiers and civilians were killed when a CNR passenger train and a troop special met headon in November.

Mr. Wismer said only one person was connected in the criminal charge, but he withheld the name pending the actual arrest.

He said action has been decided as a result of the investigation held at Edmonton following the wreck.

AP correspondent Don Huth flew over Seoul and said the deserted South Korean capital was still a mass of flames and smoke.

AP correspondent Tom Stone reported the evacuation of Inchon was completed early Friday.

Stone said the docks and harbor of the port for Seoul was blown up by demolition crews and the last two tank landing ships pulled out of the ruined harbor when high tide lifted them off the muddy bottom.

Rear Admiral L. A. Thackrey, commanding the fleet, was one of the last men to leave the flaming port city.

As the demolition crews worked, the big guns of the American heavy cruiser Rochester laid down a wall of steel to protect the men from Communists who had crossed the Han river and were headed for Inchon.

There were no allied losses in men in the Inchon area reported to general headquarters here.

On land, British and American units fought a brilliant rearguard action out of Seoul and onto the road to the southeast.

The British troops were particularly brilliant in a hand-to-hand bayonet battle with Chinese Reds in a village before they reached Seoul on their withdrawal.

Their Churchill tanks and field guns, plus the great courage of the men, helped them to fight their way out of one ambush after another.

The Americans covering the withdrawal stayed behind to be the last out.

Ridgway described the mass movement as "perhaps the greatest tragedy to which Asia has ever been subjected in the course of its long history."

Informants said all Commonwealth members want to avoid war—declared or undeclared—with powerful Red China.

These sources said the Commonwealth governments will probably come out against any proposal to bomb or blockade Communist Chinese territory.

At the same time it was strongly indicated that several Commonwealth countries oppose following Britain's lead in recognizing the Peiping government. Canada, represented here by Prime Minister St. Laurent, is among the members who have not recognized Red China.

There still was no word whether Pakistan's Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan intends to lift the personal boycott on the meeting he imposed because his colleagues refused to discuss formally Pakistan's quarrel with India over the future of the state of Kashmir. Pakistan is the only one of the nine commonwealth powers not represented at the talks.

Base Metals Climb To New Exchange Peak

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP)—Industrials and base metals climbed steadily to new peaks as the session progressed on the Toronto stock exchange today.

Following three days of record breaking advance the indexes of two groups again reached new highs since they were first compiled in 1934.

Industrials turned upwards from the opening bell and advanced until gains ranged to more than $2. Steels, papers, agricultures, constructions, foods, refining oils, banks, retail stores and manufacturing companies showed a majority of gains in the groupings. Utilities, liquors and textiles were mixed.

Canadian Group Happy To Leave Korea

FORT LEWIS, Wash., Jan. 5. (CP)—Members of the advance guard of the Canadian Army Special Force are returning here from Korea — and wondering what's next.

A group of 15 soldiers arrived New Year's Day. Sixty-nine more came Thursday night. They were flown here by the United States Air Force.

The returning Canadians have no idea of what is in store for them — but they're glad to get out of Korea. A party of four provost corps men summed up their impressions to a reporter with one word—"Filth."

"We were at Pusan all the time" said L.Cpl. Max Guyitt, 33, of Ridgetown, Ont. "It's a hopeless country — absolutely worthless—all rocks and hills and filth. In some of the houses there you'd see 14 and 15 people living in one room. There are half a million people living in cities only seven miles square."

Guyitt and his companions spent Christmas in Pusan. They had a turkey dinner supplied by Americans and served by their officers and senior non-commissioned officers — a Canadian Army holiday custom.

En route home, the party travelled from Korea to Japan on a Japanese sheep-hauling vessel.

The provost corps work in Pusan was uneventful for the most part.

"We were told to leave the Turkish soldiers alone," said L. Cpl. William Cornwall, 28, of London, Ont. "They carried long knives with them all the time—and we were told they would not hesitate to use them. But they didn't cause any trouble."

Cpl. George Burnett, 31, also of London, and L.Cpl. Don Barber, 20, of Port Arthur, said the provost corps men travelled in teams of four.

"We rode in American jeeps—one Canadian, one American MP, one Korean MP and one interpreter," said Barber.

"I don't know where we're going next," Burnett added, "but anything would be better than Korea."

Thaw Halts Ski Club School

Mother Nature deal the children a cruel blow this week when she swept away the snow at Kemp's Hill, the site of the annual ski school which was scheduled to open this Saturday. It is operated this year by the Peterborough recreation commission and the Peterborough Ski Club.

Alex Sinclair, recreation director, said the opening day has been postponed until next week with the hope of snow. If it starts then the school will continue for another four Saturday mornings. The Ski Club will be supplying the instruction and the commission the remainder of the arrangements such as transportation.

As in previous years the children will be asked to pay 50c for the five lessons. This will entitle them to use the tow free on those Saturday mornings, to receive a junior ski club membership and ski club crest which will allow them a special rate on the tow through the week.

Cost of the school which averaged 185 children a day last year is expected to be about $250. Most of this is expenses for the three buses which will be hired to take the children to the Kemp's hill slopes and back to the city.

Mr. Sinclair said the buses will leave the scheduled stations at 9 a.m. and have the children home by noon, leaving the hill at 11:30 a.m. The first bus will leave the King St. depot to pick up children at Murray,-Water streets and at Park Hill Road-Water streets. The second bus will carry children from the Prince of Wales school district, leaving first at the school, and then pick up the children at the Queen Mary school. Ski school children from the south end will be picked up at Confederation school by a third bus and then at King Edward school.

Report Marshal Petain Becoming Very Feeble

PARIS, Jan. 5. (AP)—Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, 95, now in his fifth year of exile on the Ile d'Yeu, is in a "very feeble" condition, Maitre Jacques Isorni, who defended the Vichy chief of state at his treason trial, reported today.

"He suffers with his legs and he is finding it more difficult to take his daily walk in the fortress yard," his lawyer said after spending a few days on the Atlantic island.

Petain's 74-year-old wife, who is living in a fisherman's cottage, visits the marshal for luncheon every day, but is crippled with rheumatism after living on the damp island to be near her husband, the lawyer said.

Prime Object In Health Is Education

The prime object of the Public Health Department of any city is education, Dr. F. A. Kelly, Peterborough's medical officer of health, said Thursday night in an address to members of the textile division of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association.

His speech came after a tour by members of the Peterborough branch through the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Co. plant. He was introduced by Robert Merritt and thanked by David Leether.

With education, healthier, happier and better ways of living will be found, the doctor declared. This education could best be done on the municipal level, where the health officers and public health nurses can deal directly with people.

Above the municipal level lie three other bodies safeguarding peoples' health— the World Health Organization of the United Nations, and the health departments of the Federal and Provincial Governments.

"I prefer to think that the municipal level is the most important," said Dr. Kelly. "That is where you meet the people."

'Sober As Judge' Witness Claims To Magistrate

Fred Martin, 748 Monaghan Road, was convicted Thursday in police court of a charge of drunk driving and was sentenced to seven days in jail.

The charge arose as a result of an accident between a car driven by him and Douglas Free, Campbellford, about 11.30 p.m. Dec. 22.

Free had been driving east at Lansdowne St. and Martin driving in the opposite direction was starting to make a left turn to go south on Park St.

Constable Sherman Keliele who investigated testified skid marks showed Free's car had slid 31 feet before coming to a stop near the south-east corner of the intersection. Martin's car had been turned part way around by the impact and was a short distance east of the Free car.

He said Martin was sitting behind the wheel of his car and nearly fell when he got out at the officer's request. He said he asked Martin for his driving licence and Martin gave him instead a small white card. Finally Martin produced his licence.

He said Martin swayed as he stood near the car and the constable could smell beer from him. He added that Martin staggered when he followed Constable Edward Niziol to the police truck. He staggered again walking into the police station.

Constable Niziol said Martin staggered and smelled strongly of beer. Defence counsel T. J. Carley, K.C., argued the constable had had little opportunity to observe Martin.

Free testified that about 200 feet from the intersection, he saw the traffic light red. But as he reached the intersection the light turned green. He said he shifted his car into second gear and started through the intersection.

He didn't see the other car until it was directly in front of him. He said the other car hit him although evidence was that the front of his car was damaged and right side of the Martin car.

He said he went to the Martin car. The first thing he asked Martin was whether he had insurance. He said Martin had his head down and was waving his hand saying, "I'll pay everything. I don't want to be in the jug for Christmas."

He said Martin was talking to himself, his hair was disordered and he smelled of beer.

Under cross questioning he denied having a garageman phone Martin Wednesday night to tell Martin if he paid the damages, "things would go easier with him."

Roy MacArthur, Free's father-in-law, who came to the accident after it had taken place, said he went to Martin and asked "What happened Mac?"

He said he got no answer from Martin. He added when Martin walked to the police truck he was "a bit unsteady on his feet."

Martin testified he had gone to a downtown hotel with a friend, Earl Carveth, 438 Edison Ave., about 9.30 p.m. Each had two pints in the hour they stayed there. From the hotel they went to a coffee shop where they met Martin's former drill sergeant, Philip Beatty of Keene. After eating he drove Carveth down Aylmer St. to Princess St. and let him off there.

When he reached Park St. he had the green light. He saw the Free car coming but thought he had plenty of time to turn. He said he too was in second gear and was not travellisg more than 10 miles an hour.

Beatty said when he saw Martin in the coffee shop he was "perfectly all right."

Carveth escribed Martin "sober as a judge" when he met him first in the evening. They had only two pints each in the hotel.

Pat Larock, 713 Chamberlain St., testified he saw Martin whom he had known some years, walk normally to the police truck.

Martin's brother, David, said he visited Martin in jail a short time after he had been put in and said he appeared quite normal.

The Crown offered no evidence on a charge of careless driving against Martin and the charge was dismissed.

Decision Reserved In Copyright Case

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 (CP)—The copyright appeal board today will resume the hearing of objections to copyright fees proposed by the Composers, Authors and Publishers' Association of Canada for 1951.

Major item remaining on the agenda is proposed charges against Canadian radio stations.

At hearings Thursday the board reserved decision on proposed charges against cabarets, cafes, clubs, cocktail bars, dining rooms, lounges, restaurants, roadhouses, taverns and similar establishments.

The fees ranging from a minimum of $25, ar based on the amount spent on entertainment in the various establishments.

Samuel Rogers of Toronto, counsel for the Elmwood Hotel in Windsor, said CAPAC was including in entertainment charges things that were not part of the entertainment.

Under the proposal all users of CAPAC works would be obliged to take out a licence and pay fees on a graduated scale or a flat amount of $3,500 a year.

Governor To Attend

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 CP)—Governor G. Mennen Williams of Michigan is being invited to attend the Jan. 30 re-opening of Canada's parliament and probably will be the first U.S. state governor to attend such a ceremony. Don F. STROUD, England, Jan. 5 — (Reuters)—A Conservative member of parliament, Peter Thorneycroft, said Thursday night that Britain needs air-raid shelters more urgently than new houses. He told an audience that the Conservative party is plumping for construction of 300,000 new houses, "but the way things look now I think it would be better if they were built underground."

The huge task force successfully covered the massive withdrawal of U.N. troops with a heavy bombardment.

Total capacity for all performances is 11,300.

Eddie DesRocher, boss of the box office, says of the financial side of things:

"I figure when I finish filling all the orders, I'll have to send back about $150,000. And we'll gross a pittance of $46,000 on the Sadler's Wells engagement.

DesRocher, a ballet lover himself, opened another envelope and said as politely as possible:

"I do become somewhat annoyed, though, when people write in asking for tickets to the Sanders ball or the Norman Sander Ballet."

U.S. Protests Sale

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—The United States has been protesting vigorously to France against a pending sale to Communist China of approximately 139,000 tons of steel rails by private manufacturers officials said Thursday night, but the French government so far has declined to interfere.

THIS ALL-STEEL SKI JUMP opened recently at Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, is believed to be the only one of its kind in the world. The 125-foot tower has a slide climbing 115 yards long. There is an elevator inside the tower for jumpers who want to shun the 310 steps. The 1936 Olympics were held at this resort.

A recent advertisement in this publication, for Wilson Ginger Ales inadvertently mentioned price on Diamond Jubilee and Golden Amber thirty-ounce size as fifteen cents. This should have been eighteen cents—two for thirty-five cents.

Arm, Arm, Ye Brave

The cry of Judas Maccabaeus to his compatriot Jews to "arm, arm, ye brave, a noble cause . . . " may not be out of place as we begin this year and waver into the second half of the twentieth century. But it is worth remarking the people who are especially being exhorted to arm. The democratic West is at it, hammer and tongs; but the cry is also going out to the Germans and the Japs.

* * *

The U.S.A., Britain and even reluctant France are trying to get Germany to re-arm. In Japan General MacArthur has given this message to the Japanese people: If international lawlessness continues to threaten peace "it will become your duty within the principles of the United Nations in concert with others who cherish freedom to mount force to repel force". This is the New Year's message delivered to the people who all but conquered Asia five years ago, and against whom the first atomic bomb was exploded belligerently less than five years ago.

* * *

They must re-arm "within the principles of the United Nations". The Japanese constitution, enacted at the behest of the United Nations, renounces war as an instrument of national policy. Also, the Far Eastern Commission of U.N. has forbidden Japan to maintain army, naval and air forces. Now Japan, like Germany, is being exhorted to re-arm by the very powers which lately exerted every effort to destroy its arms and to destroy them forever.

* * *

It is time to take stock of what we are doing and where we are going. War never solves anything. That is a truism. If an example is needed, this will suffice: Britain, France and Canada (together with other nations, the U.S.A. excepted) made war in 1939 when Poland was invaded. They made war to defend Poland against dictatorship — German dictatorship. They won that war five years ago. What has happened to Poland? It is under a dictatorship more severe and oppressive than any Germany could have enforced. It is under Russian hegemony.

* * *

Now the West is on the brink of war to save the world—specifically Korea — from Communism. Even General MacArthur must realize that if general war comes now over Korea, Korea and China will not be saved from Communism. The first act of the military in a general war would be to get out of Korea; it is the pattern now.

* * *

To re-arm Germany and Japan (let it be remembered that we have not yet made peace treaties with either nation) is to admit defeat in World War II. It is to admit that the expenditure of billions and tens of thousands of western democracy's lives in that war meant nothing, or worse than nothing. It could mean that we were fighting the wrong enemy —a doctrine which the Germans and Japs have been preaching since 1942. We in the West can admit our mistakes such as they were, but let us not be committed to the folly of perpetrating worse ones.

* * *

Undoubtedly the Germans and Japs are brave, but why now cry 'Arm, arm, ye brave' against a noble cause? Is the cause of a crusade against communism noble? More important in this world of power politics, is it feasible? Will any good come of it?

* * *

Is the West so all-fired right that it cannot admit a philosophy of live and let live? Is American materialism so superior to communist materialism that war must be waged, and our defeated enemies of five years ago re-armed to enforce that superiority?

Don't Misunderstand Silence On Hope Report

In its issue of January 4 the Toronto Globe and Mail comments on the "very quiet reception" which has been given the Hope Report on Education; the Toronto paper suggests that this silence is the result of a disinclination on the part of Protestants and Catholics keenly interested in education to discuss the recommendation in the Report that Separate Schools should receive grants only for their work as far as Grade 6. The Globe and Mail attributes this disinclination to a growth in understanding between the two religious groups and hints that nobody wants to rock the boat by reviving the old wrangle about Separate Schools.

We are not quite so confident of this as the Toronto morning paper. Silence about the Hope Report, we feel, springs chiefly from the fact that very few people have seen it. This newspaper, for instance, knows no more about the Report than we were able to glean from the Canadian Press coverage of it—necessarily written under pressure—and the Globe and Mail's own coverage, which was more extensive, but not a substitute for the full text. We have applied to Queen's Park for a copy of that text, and have received a mimeographed letter which says, in effect, that when the text is printed, we may have a copy. We do not expect to receive it in a hurry, and when we do receive it we do not expect that we shall be able to read and digest it in a hurry, either. Everything seems to have been done to sing a lullaby to the Hope Report, which contains political dynamite on the Separate School question.

The very few people we have met who have had an opportunity to see the Report and study it tell us that it is, in their opinion, a fine piece of work capable of giving education in Ontario the reform which it badly needs. It contains a great deal of material, of which the Separate School issue is but one part. But we shall be surprised if the present Government of Ontario, or its successor, does much with the Report. Governments control education, but it would be an exaggeration to say that they are really interested in education, and any attempt to discuss the rights and wrongs of the present grants to Separate Schools would create stresses which would arouse the province not only politically, but denominationally, as well.

It may be that we misunderstand and misinterpret the Government's attitude toward the Report. But the cunning fashion in which it was made public at a time when few people wanted to be bothered with it, and the difficulty which interested persons meet with in trying to get copies of the Report for study, all suggest that the Government wants the Hope Report to be forgotten as soon as possible. We shall watch proceedings at the next assembly of the Legislature with the keenest interest.

No Crown On The License Plates

When the decision was made to drop the crown from the Ontario motor licenses we expressed our regret that it should be so; now that the uncrowned plates are beginning to appear we repeat that we think that this move is a mistake. The crown was decorative, and there is every reason why a license plate should be a decorative as well as a useful object. It was, furthermore, an interesting symbol which caught the eye of American visitors, and attracted attention when we travelled in the U.S.A. It was as appropriate to Ontario as the fleur-de-lys on the Quebec plates is to Quebec; the Quebec government has too much sense of style and publicity to drop that emblem. But in Ontario, if anything appears in public which has a little style, a little flair, a little panache, there are always elements busily at work to suppress it. We have a powerful provincial affinity for whatever is dull and undistinguished. Our highway markers are honourable exceptions to this rule, but the rule is powerful.

As we are writing about license plates, let us say once again that it appears to us to be foolish and indefensible that tons of steel should be used each year to supply new ones. A permanent, well-made plate—the plates of the last few years have been of shoddy stuff—with a removeable part which could be renewed yearly would save a great deal of material. Steel is being conserved in other directions; why not save it on license plates? Has the Department of Highways ever given five minutes of serious consideration to this plan, and if they have done so, why has it been rejected?

Predictable Crime

Reports reach us of a wave of sex crimes against white women in the mining and industrial heart of South Africa; we are not in the least surprised. It is easily predictable that when one race is oppressed by another there will be sex crimes against the women of the oppressive race on the part of the oppressed race; it is a pattern which can be seen all through history. The reasons for this sort of criminality are many and they are deep-rooted. But there is one reason which is easily understood, and we are not surprised to see that it is mentioned in the reports from South Africa. It is this: wherever there are sex crimes against the women of an oppressor race on the part of an oppressed race, there are also similar crimes by the men of the oppressor race against the women of the oppressed race; and the latter are either disregarded or are lightly punished.

The rape of a white woman by an African negro may bring him the death penalty, or a long term of imprisonment with lashes. The death penalty for rape has been carried out upon many Africans during recent years. But there is not a single instance of a white man being sentenced to death for the rape of a Negro girl, although there is a large, illegitimate mulatto population.

Outrages against the women of another race is an age-old way of showing contempt for that race. In Africa it has gone on for many generations. And it is not surprising if, as the treatment of the Negroes becomes worse, the reprisals of the Negroes by this primitive symbol grow worse as well.

Chicago's pet gorilla, Bushman, has died from a heart attack. And the first Chicago gorilla, in our experience, to die a natural death.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

ALPHA: Do the members of the Peterborough City Trust Commission get a salary? If they do, how much? Who are they?

ANSWER: There are five City Trust Commissioners: Mr. Vincent Eastwood, Sr., Mr. G. H. Cutmore, Mr. James Hamilton, Mr. A. A. McIntyre, Mr. Thomas Ephgrave. Their combined ages probably total about 375 years, for they are the venerable financial custodians of the city. Mr. McIntyre is 93, for instance. The commissioners get a nominal annual allowance of $300 each.

GEORGE S. THOMPSON, the author of Up-To-Date or The Life of a Lumberman was a real person and a district character. Mr. Max G. Brandon of Fenelon Falls, noting my request for reliable first-hand information about this remarkable man, has written as follows:

"My father, M. W. Brandon, knew George S. Thompson very well. In fact, at the time George S. Thompson came to Haliburton, my father was in charge of the office of the Irwin Lumber Company which still stands in Haliburton. In fact, as I write this letter, I have on my desk a gold watch that was presented to my father by the employees of the Irwin Lumber Company upon his retirement, January, 1888. The watch still runs. However, father passed away in 1941 and for the previous ten years had a stroke and couldn't talk.

"Father had a very good friend, however, in the person of Jim Ludgate, formerly of Parry Sound and now a resident of Magnetawan to whom I sent your urgent plea for further particulars about George S. Thompson. Mr. Ludgate has sent me the enclosed letter. He has a fund of knowledge concerning not only Thompson but the entire lumber operations extending from Peterborough to Parry Sound. I think your writers should contact him for further information on many subjects. I rightly remember that father's idea of George S. Thompson's fantastic story of his birth, the trading of names, etc. was as Mr. Ludgate has termed it.

"Incidentally, the book you speak of was published by the Peterborough Times. W. H. Robertson was owner and publisher and he was my uncle and resided at 526 Water Street."

✧ ✧ ✧

THE ENCLOSED letter from Mr. Jim Ludgate reads in part as follows:

"I know George S. Thompson quite well and I think his story which I heard before re his name is a lot of B(oastful) S(wagger). (Alpha's emendation.)

"It was right enough about being bush superintendent for it was either J. M. Irwin or Irwin and Boyd. The former had a sawmill on the river at Nassau three miles north of Peterborough and the latter had their mill at Bobcaygeon.

"Thompson got into some kind of a jam with John Waldie over the sale of some limits and then he acted up crazy and they put him in a mental hospital for a while and when he got out he came up to one of our camps. I was bush superintendent for William Peter and Hank Martin was running camp No. 1 and Thompson went up to his camp for a month visiting Hank and recuperating. If you read the book through you will see where he refers to us. He spoke with quite an English accent and spent most of his time in Haliburton when he was with Irwins.

"He may have put the first cook stove in camps, but I know that I spent about a month one winter in Big Bill Irwin's camp on Little Hawk Lake in Township of Stanhope just about 73 years ago and we had a cook stove and a heater and an office with a stove in it too. Irwin was foreman for McD. and Ludgate who had a sawmill at Harwood on Rice Lake.

"Ullyot and Sadler also had a mill there and cut about 8 million feet a year I think. Barney Waite was mill boss for him J. Pinch was mill boss for McD and Ludgate. The paper does not mention the U and Sadler output at all.

"There was a railroad from Harwood to Cobourg, 12 or 14 miles, and then the lumber was loaded in boats and shipped to Oswego—Saxe Brothers used to buy the cut. They had a yard either in Albany or Troy, I forget which place just now.

"Thompson wrote that book right after he came out of Martin's camp and I don't know just where he was when he wrote it."

DEAR ALPHA: What is the origin and/or significance of the smashing of glasses upon completion of the drinking of a toast?

ANSWER: I do not know the origin of the custom; it is probably as old as the custom of toasting. The glass was broken as a compliment to the person toasted, so that the health of no lesser person could ever be drunk from the same glass.

✧ ✧ ✧

TO THE QUESTIONER ABOUT THE R.C.-M.P.: I have written to Ottawa for information and will pass it on as soon as I get it.

✧ ✧ ✧

SIR: Was branding ever used in Canada as a punishment?

ANSWER: Yes. The branding of criminals was done in open courts in Upper Canada (Ontario) in 1798, but abolished in 1802 except for manslaughter. However, the branding of deserters from the army (with the capital letter D) was prescribed by the Mutiny Act until 1842. After being branded, deserters were deported.

Branding was a familiar court penalty in Canada until about 1835. The prisoner was brought into court, then bound in irons, and a red-hot iron bearing a Crown device was used to brand the palm of the culprit's hand. The brand was applied during the time the offender took to repeat three times the phrase "God save the King". Undoubtedly he didn't waste time getting the words out.

FOR THE RECORD: I had occasion to visit resort areas in the Laurentians north of Montreal last week and could not help remarking the difference between cottages and cabins there and those we have in this Kawartha district. There, despite the thousands of them (at St. Sauveur, St. Adele, Ste. Marguerite etc.) there is much individuality in the styling of them, the paint and wood schemes are bright, attractive and varied, and they are neat, pretty and gay, both outside and in. Much attention is paid the size and pitch of the roofs and to the doorways. While many of the cabins and cottages are lavish in an expensively simple way, many are not more expensive than the kind of cottages one sees in the Kawarthas. The difference is that the Laurentian structures have generally more style and character.

ELEMENTARY, MY DEAR WATSON

The Brief Case or the Pastoral Staff

(THE CANADIAN CHURCHMAN)

WHEN I was in parish work I carried a cane. I didn't need it to help me walk, though I walked the streets of my parish practically every day. It was a sort of pastoral staff. It reminded me that I was the pastor of the flock sheltered in the parish fold.

That was not many years ago but times have changed, rapidly. Today few parish clergy carry canes: most of them have as their constant companions a zippered arrangement—a kind of brief case similar to that used by lawyers and business executives.

Does this indicate a change in the viewpoint of the parish priest? Has he become a business man? An organizing secretary of a complicated parish or is he still the cure—one who has the cure of souls? It is true that our larger parishes require considerable ability on the part of the parson to arrange a working parochial plan, to keep records accurately and consecutively, to help the various societies and clubs to work harmoniously towards one consuming objective and to adapt to the parish policy all the multitudinous influences coming from without.

Life today is very complicated, and the rector of a parish who gives his best in preaching, administering the sacraments, counselling the confused, teaching the young and ministering to the sick and shut-ins must often feel the need of relief from some of the routine or the task that others can do, but does he get it by increasing organization requiring an office and secretaries and all that goes with it? No doubt there is a happy medium between the rector thinking on the one hand that no one else can do anything as efficiently as he can do it and on the other hand when he has set up an organization it is going to work without any direction.

This is the day of organizations and committees and conferences. It is easy to multiply organizations in our parishes, our synod offices and in our general synod. Fortunately the recent set of annual meetings held in Toronto was not lulled into forming new committees or giving instructions that certain work was to be done without providing either the agents or the means. Those same meetings, however, had before them the consideration of the appointment of secretaries for new offices to give attention to certain phases of work.

Is it to be a Brief Case or a Pastoral Staff?

Shareholders' Share

(Brantford Expositor)

A striking little item in the 95th annual statement of the Bank of Toronto, released on Wednesday, shows that the net amount from profits available to shareholders is $1,207,815. This is a gratifying figure, no doubt, particularly since it is about $52,000 more than last year. But before the Leftist brethren and the anti-profit cranks commence their annual outcries, let them observe, if they have the sight and the patience, that the same bank has also paid out $937,357 for Government taxes!

In other words, the Government got within $270,500 of what the shareholders are to receive, though while the latter put up their own money originally and took or take whatever risks were or are involved (if any risks can be mentioned in connection with so stout and strong a financial institution as the Bank of Toronto!), the Government just took.

This is one interesting if not diverting fact about Capitalism which the more irrational (or more designing) of the anti-Capitalists find it convenient to overlook and politic to ignore. All the same, a lot of them doubtless draw on the same contributions thus made by the banks and other institutions, companies and establishments to the common pot—or is it trough?

This We Must Face!

(Toronto Financial Post)

Between now and New Year's Day something may happen to cheer us up a bit, but at the moment, as we contemplate the coming of 1951, we are depressed.

We have been looking at a list of Special Weeks to be celebrated in the United States, the source of which is given as the U.S. Department of Commerce.

It includes, between January and March:

Idaho Potato and Onion Week.

National Peanut Week.

Honey for Breakfast Week.

In February there will be National Smile Week, working up to National Laugh Week in April.

Also scheduled for April is National Leave Us Alone Week. But nobody seems to have much hope in this regard because after it are listed:

National Pickle Week.

National Bow Tie Week.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife, nor his manservant, nor his maidservant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is thy neighbour's. (Ex. 20: 16, 17.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And one of the scribes came, and having heard them reasoning together, and perceiving that he had answered them well, asked him, Which is the first commandment of all? And Jesus answered him, The first of all the commandments is, Hear, O Israel; The Lord our God is one Lord: and thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength: this is the first commandment.

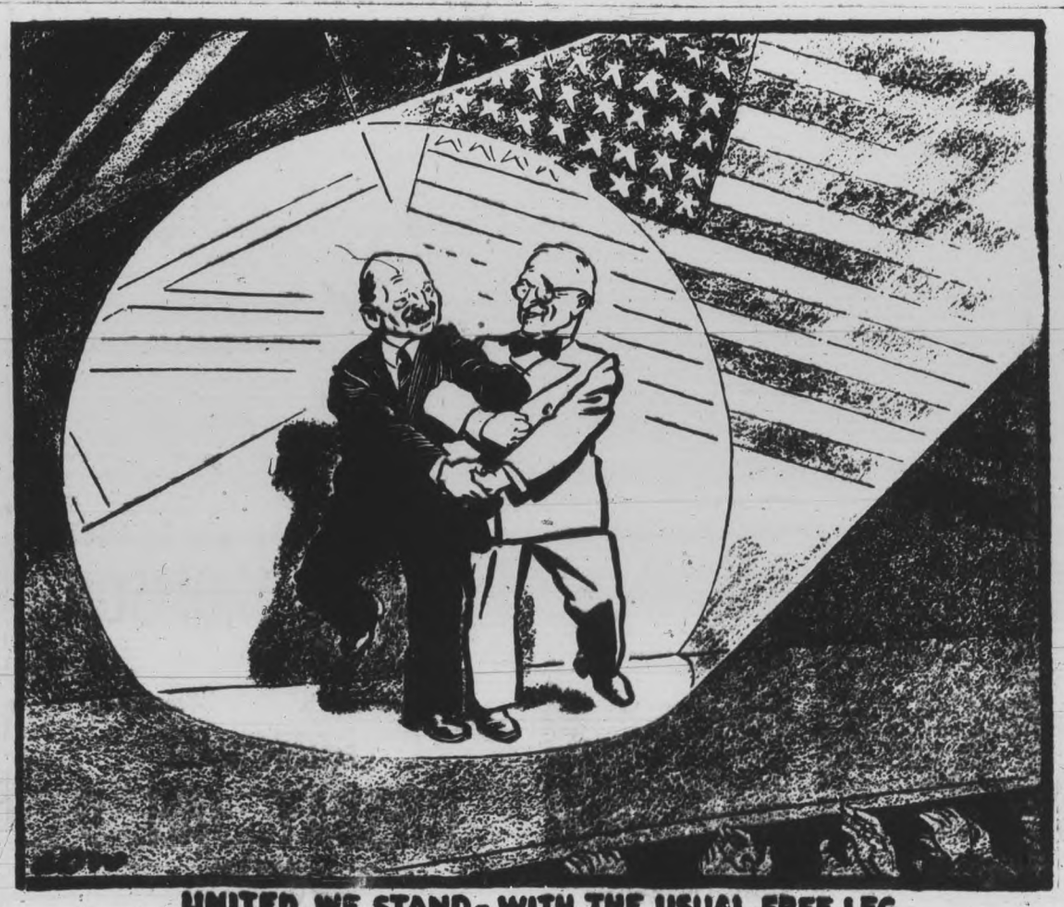
And the second is like, namely this, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. There is none other commandment greater than these. And the scribe said unto him, Well, Master, thou hast said the truth: for there is one God; and there is none other but he: and to love him with all the heart, and with all the understanding, and with all the soul, and with all the strength, and to love his neighbour as himself, is more than all whole burnt offerings and sacrifices. (Mark 12; 28-33.)

Refugees In Korea

(New York Times)

The shifting battlegrounds in Korea and the United Nations withdrawal from most of the peninsula north of the 38th parallel have again made the refugee problem one of pitifully large dimensions. Once more there is a vast stream of those who are running away both from war and from Communist control. It is believed now that not less than an additional 2,000,000 persons will have attempted to escape from Northern Korea in the course of the current operation.

This refugee stream has been from north to south from the beginning. It added a burden to the Republic of Korea long before the invasion began. That burden is now more grievous than ever. A difficult and extremely unpleasant complication is added by the fact that the Communists have used refugee movements both as a screen for troops and as a method of infiltration.



Words To Conceal Meaning

(Timmins Press)

Our own Ottawa comes out on occasion with a fair-to-muddling effort. The following, with a bit of careful parsing and a good chess player's ability to concentrate, does eventually come out all right:

"In this schedule a reference to goods to which consumer goods are affixed or of which consumer goods form part of the equipment or accessories at the time of delivery of the goods to the buyer, includes those consumer goods."

That's perfectly clear, retorts the bureaucrat. Certainly it is, but is there a law against calling a spade a spade? Or must we becloud the issue by referring to it as a flat-bladed metallic tool specifically designed to dig, delve, grub, excavate, exhume or disinter, not to be confused with round-bladed shovels trowels (short-handled) or similar tools which are also used for digging delving, grubbing, excavating, exhuming or disinterring?

British Troops Among Last To Leave Seoul, Fight Out of 6 Ambushes

By TOM BRADSHAW

TOKYO, Jan. 5—(AP)—Somewhere south of the Han River, the British 29th and 27th brigades were drawn up today to lick their battle wounds and regroup for the next Communist onslaught.

Elements of the 29th brigade were among the last to leave blazing Seoul, blowing up the pontoon bridge that provided the final link over the Han as they went.

The 27th withdrew across the Han earlier after both units had fought their way out of repeated Chinese and North Korean ambushes.

Details of the action involving the two brigades Wednesday and Thursday are still lacking. But enough has leaked through from the battle lines to make quite clear the pull-back was both reluctant and hard fought.

Side By Side

When United Nations forces established their main defence line along the 38th Parallel, the British 29th and 27th were placed side by side for the first time since they entered the combat zone.

The two units were stationed to the east of the U.S. 24th division on the U.N. eastern flank.

The 29th was hit hard by a Communist force Wednesday. The Northumberland Fusiliers and the Ulster Rifles both had forward positions overrun and were forced to give ground. Both British regiments then counter-attacked, with tanks providing firepower.

Communist machine-guns opened up on the advancing British units, and they were pinned down by the intense fire.

Look After Wounded

At one point, the Bren-gun carriers came dashing to the rear through a cloud of smoke carrying wounded men to an aid station.

Churchill tanks opened up and blasted the enemy gun positions. Over the command radio came the jubilant report: "We can see the enemy run".

Silence settled over the Korean countryside.

But in a short time the order came through from headquarters for the two British brigades to withdraw to Seoul to prevent their flanks from being overrun.

In the next few hours, the British units fought their way through half a dozen enemy ambushes.

A few miles from Seoul, the British troops pulled up outside a small village already infested with Communists. The Churchill tanks were unable to manoeuvre on the icy hillside road to bring their guns to bear.

Bayonet Battle

The order was given: "Fix bayonets".

The British infantrymen made a bayonet charge and cleared out the village in bitter hand-to-hand fighting. The withdrawal continued on to Seoul.

There the 27th brigade was instructed to move across the Han River with U.S. units. The 29th brigade—a complete tactical unit with its own artillery, tanks and transportation—was left to blow up the last Han River bridge and fight a rearguard action.

They did.

War Against Wolves

THE PAS, Man., Jan. 5 (CP)—A full-scale winter offensive, largest ever attempted in Northern Manitoba, is on against the marauding timber wolf. Under observation are 170,000 square miles of bush country and lakes, three quarters of it covered by 1,800 registered trap lines of the north. The wolf population today is considered equal to the days when the Hudson Bay Railroad was pushed up to Churchill, Man., on the coast of Hudson Bay.

★ PLAIN TALK ABOUT THE EPIDEMIC OF "SOMETHING FOR NOTHING"

the facts

Once again, it's the silly season of sales, sales, sales . . . a rat-race of panic-stricken merchants trying to beat each other over the head with free offers — free pants, free nylons, free ice-freezers and a free pound of pistachio nuts with each purchase . . . all this despite constantly rising costs on labor and materials!

WE SAY IT'S CRAZY! No sensible customer expects something for nothing. And if this keeps up, the free-for-all boys are going to end up by selling you a substitute for a substitute of the real thing!

what can we do about it?

We'd love to tell the free-for-nothing boys to go jump in the lake. We'd like to hang out a big sign telling the world we have more respect for our product than to give it away. . . . BUT we will not sit on the sidelines and let the big-talk fellows steal the show. As a famous British statesman once said:

We don't like to fight, but, by jingo, if we do
We've got the ships, we've got the men, we've got the money, too!

DUNN'S will slug it out, toe to toe, with anybody in the business. We'll give our goods away and we'll beat them at their own game . . . because, we've said it before, and we say it now:
WE WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD FOR UNION-TAILORED CRAFTSMAN QUALITY.
We're giving a pair of FREE EXTRA TROUSERS with every purchase of a DUNN'S suit.

EVERYTHING IN THE NET BUT THE BALL — Look carefully and you'll see that the ball is over, not in, the net, after this attempt to score by a Tottenham Hotspur in an English League contest in London. The net did catch the player and a teammate, though. Tottenham shut out Arsenal, 1-0.

Oma Can't Clown Way Out Of Title Match With Charles

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK —(NEA)— In the old days, a heavyweight champion as capable as Ezzard Charles would wait for a satisfactory challenger and the good old summertime.

Working at his rate of pay, however, long-offs would put Ezzard the Gizzard on relief.

For which reason, they are sending Charles after the perennial problem child, Frank Czajewski, in a scheduled 15-round match at Madison Square Garden, Jan. 12.

Czajewski — ring name, Lee Oma — has been knocked out 16 times, dropped 10 decisions.

Certainly, no other heavyweight challenger has been stopped on that many occasions.

Yet the situation is so sad today that approaching 35 years of age, Oma, the handsome Russian-American now boxing out of Buffalo, could not clown himself out of the title shot.

For a spell in the early going, Oma was billed as Levi Omanski, the Jewish Jolter, thus his present moniker.

Along about that time, between stray jobs in Detroit automobile plants, the carefree Oma admits he was interested only in the little money he collected. He allows he might have taken counts when he could have bounced back on springy legs. Anyway, that could account for his being belted out 10 times and losing a decision in his first 20 outings throughout his first three years as a professional.

Suspended for an unsatisfactory performance, he did not box in 1942.

Coming back in '43 a reformed Oma by September, '44 had fought his way into the Garden, where his rather spectacular unorthodox style made something of a hit.

Oma won one of three matches from Tami Mauriello, beat Joe Baksi, cut and stopped Gus Lesnevich and collected his biggest purse, $35,000, losing to Jersey Joe Walcott, among other things.

Oma tumbled back into his old ways in '47, losing to Phil Muscato and one Colion Chaney and being knocked out by Pat Comiskey in his only three starts.

He further obliged by being knocked out by Bruce Woodcock in four rounds in London in '48.

Oma started behaving again in '49, when he was unbeaten in 10 scraps and reversed his only defeat of last year outspearing Bob Satterfield in 10. Satterfield previously flattened him in six. He was tossed out of a Cincinnati enclosure along with Bill Weinberg for rough tactics—backhanding, etc.

Feinting with his head and shoulders, shuffling about with his hands dangling at his sides, turning away and walking around his opponent, Oma could make Charles look on the bad side for a time.

But the rougher Lee Oma is the better Ezzard Charles will like it, and the now cock-sure Cincinnati Negro should knock him out at any time after the 10th round.

It's a living.

CAREER ENDED — Black Jack Stewart, star defenceman for Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, will never play hockey again. The 34-year-old Pilot Mound, Man., native, one of the most colorful players of recent years, underwent surgery for a slipped disc in his spinal column, resulting from an injury in a game Dec. 14. The surgeon said Black Jack would have to wear a special brace indefinitely and would never play again. An NHL All-Star defenceman five times, he played with Detroit Red Wings for nine years before going to Chicago last summer in the most famous hockey trade in history.

Penrose Bowls Best

Don Penrose rolled men's high single of 276 and top three of 726 in the Mercantile Bowling League as Mary Gimblett's 669 led the lasses in triples, and Verna Hopkins was tops in singles with 281. Prudential blanked A & P as Austin's whitewashed Braund's No. 2, with 3-1 wins going to Bond's over City Hall and Utilities over Braund's No. 1. Loblaw's and Lift Locks divided points.

Other high counts for girls were: Verna Hopkins 663, Mark Parker 603, Gladys Hamilton 587, Winnie McCarrell 584 and May Willshaw 576. For the men, Don Riggs rolled 667, Frank Worsencroft 609, George Gimblett 598 and Bob Willshaw 584.

Eddie And Dit Selected First Defence

(Fred Maybee today concludes his selection of the half century all-star hockey team, with the complete list shown at the finish.)

Eddie Shore wins first defence spot without a dissenting vote. Like Babe Ruth in baseball, he really had no very close rival. With him we'll place Clapper with whom he teamed for some time and whose claim we have already established. A hundred names of great defencemen come to mind such as: Eddie Gerrard, Lionel Hitchman, Ching Johnson, King Clancy, George Boucher, Hap Day, Sprague Cleghorn, Lester Patrick, Ebbie Goodfellow, Lionel Conacher and Sylvio Mantha, to name a few.

Because of his great early days and later great career, we would give Patrick a spot but since he will coach the squad anyway, we are choosing the two we feel rate next best, namely: Frank (King) Clancy and Eddie Gerrard, two fine fellows and super hockey stars of Ottawa.

It is unnecessary to say much about either. Clancy started with Gerrard who aided St. Pats to defeat Vancouver in that 1922 Stanley Cup series for just a gold watch. That's all Eddie would take, they said. We feel this defence foursome is tops and we saw them all play, too.

Great Goalie

For goal, the choice is difficult in a way. Here's the list to choose from: The Vezina Cucumber, Georges Vezina of the old Canadiens, who died a hockey hero and whose name is immortalized in the trophy that bears his name; Chuck Gardner, master of playing the angles; (we liked him very much), Tiny Thompson, Roy Worters, John Ross Roach, Frank Brimsek, Bill Durnan, George Hainsworth, Benedict, Alex Connell, Dave Kerr and Turk Broda, to name some of the best. True, there were many others.

Our choice will surprise many perhaps but we feel that Tiny Thompson would rate tops, closely pursued by Brimsek, Durnan, Broda and Gardner. He was chosen all-star several times and in our opinion could do anything the others could do as well or better. John Ross Roach, we liked too, but all in all, Thompson gets the call for all-round ability and a fine record mostly with Boston.

Lester As Coach

Now for a coach. As we have said, Lester Patrick would handle the squad but honorable mention must go to Cecil Hart, Jack Adams, Hap Day, and Tommy Gorman.

Conny Smythe of course would have to be included on any all-star club so we'll select him as manager. And there were and are none better.

Here's the complete lineup:

Yankees Using Training Films

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 — (AP).— For years football coaches have used movies to spot faults in their club's play. Now the New York baseball Yankees are going film-happy.

Tommy Henrich, an amateur photography fan, will be photo dean at the Yankee spring training base at Phoenix. And it's no gag.

It all started last spring. A camera company tried out a new film at St. Petersburg, Fla. They trained their cameras on some of the Yanks' young players who had batting faults. When the films were processed, Coach Bill Dickey would take the boy to a projection room. They would watch the movies and then work out the problems on the field next day.

Hank Bauer, one of the Yanks' most prized young players, had a satisfactory year in 1949. But the bosses thought he had not reached his full potential.

It worked, too. Bauer hit .272 in 1949. After the movies and extra instruction he batted .320 last season. The films put the finger on Bauer's fault—a tendency to lunge at the ball.

Henrich's spring movie work won't be confined to batters. He will shoot the pitchers, too.

Lindsay Muskies Edge Cobourg In Overtime

COBOURG, Jan. 5.—Lindsay Muskies came from behind Wednesday night to whip Cobourg 5-4 in overtime and go into a first place tie with the locals for the Central Ontario Lakeshore intermediate A hockey group.

Referee "Diddy" Rowden of Port Hope had his hands full with the belligerents and both teams were bickering with him throughout. Jack Buchanan, burly Cobourg defenceman ran into a high stick that broke his nose and sent blood flying. In the overtime Bell won the same scoring from a scramble.

Maundrell, Cobourg, playing coach, led both teams with three goals and one assist. Jenkins of the winners was second with two counters.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Followers of the femmes and fellows who play basketball have a wide choice here this week-end. A couple of colleens' contests listed for tonight at the YWCA gym, starting at eight, when Nurses Srs. play CGE, followed by Neill's against the Grads. While St. Peter's two boys' teams are in Lindsay, there'll be three interscholastic boys' frays at the Collegiate this eve, Oshawa vs. PCVS in bantam, junior and senior "A" competition. And a men's lakeshore intermediate fixture is billed for the YMCA tomorrow evening, Oshawa Grads going against Gord McIntyre's "B" Marines. So, take your choice, cage fans.

* * * * * *

For those who prefer puck action, Lindsay Kin and the local Oddfellows tangle at 8.30 tonight in Civic Arena, an OHA junior "B" joust. Tied for top place, these squads will give it all they have tonight, and a hectic hockey match is assured. "Dad's Night" this e'en means kids accompanied by their fathers can get in free. Same thing applies on Jan. 26 and on Feb. 16. While the arena and the junior club both figure it's good business to bring out future fans this way, it is also excellent business for dads to take time off occasionally and go out with their sons. Or daughters. As the kids grow older they won't have time to spare on parents, alas.

The Roar Of Niagara

Jim Coleman did an interesting column the other day on Rex (The Lung) Stimers, sports announcer at St. Catharines. An excitable vocal character, Stimers covers many sports in the Niagara district, which he terms "the banana belt of Canada." Sitting in a radio booth in St. Kitts last summer, he used to broadcast St. Catharines-Petes' OLA games played in Miller Bowl. He had a runner who phoned him frequently on scores, penalties, etc., and Red did the rest complete with sound effects of roaring crowds, and so forth. You'd swear he was at the game to hear his broadcast, though his game didn't end till 10 or 15 minutes after the crowd had left Miller Bowl.

Working well in advance of the 1952 Olympic Games, the Canadian committee issues bulletin No. 4. The winter games will be in Oslo, Norway, Feb. 14-25 while the summer competitions will be in Helsinki, Finland, July 19 to Aug. 3. Provided we aren't into another world war. We recall that war foiled little Finland—then a friendly country with no Communists in power—the last time Olympics were planned there. On account of Russia moved in on her. Anyway, the Canucks are making hefty plans, having raised more than $20,000 so far and asking the Minister of Finance for $40,000 more toward expenses. 'Tis an expensive proposition.

* * * * * *

Much Mazuma Needed

For instance, the estimated cost for an individual from here to Oslo return by boat is $1,024 or by plane $1,075. That covers accommodation, transportation, hotel, taxis, tips, food, medical, insurance, equipment, luggage handling, stationery, and so on. The individual cost to Helsinki by boat is $775. The estimated cost for the 30 members of the winter team is approximately $33,000, and the 140-team for summer games $112,000. Yes, a total of $145,000, with the list of officials cut down as much as possible. Costs could be up considerably by that time, too, but the committee has plans out to raise a total of about $153,000, through sports, subscriptions and government grants across the country. Well, we might come up with a winner in hockey.

Lakefield Indians donned the war paint at home last night and scalped the Bowmanville intermediate hockeyists 17-6, cuffing in no less than 10 goals in the third chukker. A fan, Don Webster, was hit by a flying puck and hospitalized, while Goalie Atchison was injured in the middle heat but stayed in there. A standing out of Port Hope puts Cobourg and Lindsay in a top-place tie with 15 points, Port Hope having 14, Bowmanville 11 and Lakefield five, but watch those Indians the rest of the way. The Hopers are minus player McKeen for a three-game OHA suspension "presumably for his conduct toward the referee during last Saturday night's fracas at Lakefield", the writer comments in the Guide. Buchanan of Cobourg is sitting it out, too, with a broken nose suffered in the last game with Lindsay's husky Muskies.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

The Ontario Travel Department says recent rains and warmer weather have made skiing conditions impossible over most of the province.

Skiers are out of luck in Collingwood, Barrie, Dagmar, Fleshberton, Markdale, Kenora, Peterborough and Toronto, the department reported Thursday. Conditions are poor to fair in Orangeville, Huntsville, Sundridge, Haliburton and Midland.

But skiing is excellent at Fort William, Port Arthur and Haileybury. Packed snow ranges from 10 to 19 inches at the lakehead cities and powder snow is 15 inches deep on two hills at Haileybury.

Poor conditions forced postponement of the slalom-ski instructors' school at Flesherton-Markdale.

Nine Canadian and seven American rinks survived the first round of the 65th international bonspiel at the Detroit Curling Club Thursday.

A rink from McIntyre Gold Mines, Timmins, skipped by Lloyd Raney, ran up a 24-5 margin over the Chicago Exmoor Club rink—a phenomenal score for international competition.

The Toronto Granite Club, defender of the Gooderham and Worts Trophy, defeated the Jacques Cartier rink of Quebec 12-3.

Competition will be suspended Friday night for a special international match between Canada and six American rinks, chosen from first-round scores.

Rinks that survived the first round were:

Chatham No. 1, London No. 2, Toronto High Park, Hamilton Victoria, Utica, N. Y., St. Paul, No. 1, McIntyre No. 1, Chatham No. 2, Toronto Granite, Detroit No. 2, Detroit No. 3, Sault Ste. Marie, Milwaukee, Detroit No. 5, McIntyre No. 2, St. Paul No. 2.

Thirty-two rinks opened the four-day bonspiel.

Seventy-three entries were announced at London Thursday for the 1951 running of the Grand National—the world's most famous steeplechase. The 4½-mile race will be run at Aintree, near Liverpool, Saturday, April 7.

The entries include two American-owned horses—Paul Mellon's Blakeley Grove which was entered last year but did not start, and Jock Whitney's Arctic Gold.

Mrs. Lurline Brotherton's Freebooter, the half brother to an Irish plowhorse and winner last year, is among the entries as are the second and third place horses from a year ago, Wot No Sun and Acthon Major.

Johny Gilbert, 36-year-old veteran jockey who booted home his first winner in Winnipeg 19 years ago, was severely injured at Santa Anita Park Thursday.

He suffered a fractured cervical vertebra in a spectacular spill that marred the running of the sixth race at the Arcadia, Calif., track.

Just four years ago to the day, Georgie Woolf, the Alberta flash known to the turf world as the "ice man," was fatally hurt at Santa Anita when he was thrown from his mount, Please Me, on the first turn. Woolf was one of the old-time greats of North American racing.

Thursday's accident occurred when Gilbert's mount, Spinaround, fell at the three-furlong pole. Little Cindy, Calumet Farm filly which was running with the leaders, snapped a foreleg and fell. Gilbert was putting pressure on Spinaround at the time and the horse was unable to avoid bumping into Little Cindy. Spinaround also fell and Gilbert was thrown heavily on to the track.

Florence Chadwick of San Diego, Calif., holder of the women's English Channel swim record, says she plans to attempt the first crossing from England to France "in August, if conditions permit."

Miss Chadwick, 31, swam from Cap Griz Nez, France, to Dover, England, Aug. 8, 1950, in 13 hours and 20 minutes, just one hour and 11 minutes faster than the record set by Gertrude Ederle in 1926.

Robert Hampton Ripley, 42, veteran baseball executive and scout, has been appointed western supervisor of the Dodgers' minor league club, the Brooklyn team announced yesterday.

Frank Boucher, popular general manager of the New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, will be honored with a "Frank Boucher Night" at Madison Square Garden Feb. 14, it was announced Thursday. He is serving his 25th year with the Ranger organization. An automobile from the fans is expected to be one of the numerous gifts presented to Boucher.

Oakland Boxer Been Suspended

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 5 (AP) —His manager kept yelling advice but his opponent was the one who took advantage of it, Oakland Billy Smith complained here Thursday night.

That was the reason he finally decided to jump out of the ring and get away from it all, the boxer told the Portland Boxing Commission.

The commission, unimpressed by Smith's explanation for quitting in the middle of the eighth round of a Tuesday night bout with Archie Moore, ranking Negro light heavyweight boxer, voted to keep Smith under suspension indefinitely.

The suspended boxer, also a Negro, protested that his manager, Jack Andrade, and his second just wouldn't keep quiet.

"All through the fight they kept yelling, 'one, two,' 'one, two,' and what happened? Archie gave me a one-two to the head. He heard all that advice shouted to me and let me have everything my manager wanted me to give him."

Richard Now 20-Goal Man As Bruins Edge Habs 4-2

By MEL SUFRIN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Maurice Rocket) Richard, the only joy in the life of Montreal Canadiens' fans these days, has reached another milestone in his fabulous hockey career.

The most prolific scorer in the National Hockey League today, Richard has become a 20-goal man for the eighth consecutive season. He accomplished the feat before a Montreal crowd of 14,426 Thursday night and in so doing, increased his over-all NHL total to 270—a figure equalled by only two other players and surpassed by only one in modern hockey.

He scored a single goal in a losing cause as Boston Bruins beat the Canadiens 4-2. It tied him in all-time scoring records with Aurel Joliat and the late Howie Morenz, two great forwards who played for Canadiens in earlier days.

Stewart Better

Only Nels Stewart, who played through most of his long hockey career with the old Montreal Maroons, scored more goals. He had 323 before his retirement in 1940.

Hockey observers have given Richard a good chance of breaking the massive Stewart record. While Stewart took 14 seasons, all with shorter schedules than the NHL plays today, to amass his total, Richard has reached 270 in only nine years.

At the nine-year mark Stewart had 214 goals, considerably less than the number Richard will have at the end of this season. Stewart played until he was close to 40 years old, and on that basis Richard who now is 29, could go well beyond 323 even with the reduced goal output that can be expected as he gets older.

Aside from the efforts of Richard, who leads the league this season in scoring, Montreal supporters had little to cheer about. The loss left Canadiens still only a single point ahead of the last-place New York Rangers. Boston moved into third place ahead of Chicago Black Hawks, who last night dropped a 1-0 encounter to the league-leading Detroit Red Wings.

Chicago remains tied with the Canadiens.

Schmidt Comes Through

An old-timer, Milt Schmidt, provided Boston with the victory margin. He scored two goals and assisted on one by Dunc Fisher. Bill Ezinicki got the other.

Bert Olmstead set up Richard's goal, passing out in front of the net. Paul Masnick got the other Montreal goal.

The game at Detroit was the ninth in which Chicago has gone without a victory. It also extended Detroit's lead over Toronto Maple Leafs to three points.

Terry Sawchuk, brilliant rookie Detroit goaltender, got his fifth shutout of the season and now is tied in that department with Toronto's Turk Broda. He also protected his lead in the race for the Vezina Trophy which goes to the goaltender of the team with the fewest goals scored against it. He has had 72 goals scored on him in 36 games while the puck has been fired past the Toronto combination of Broda and Al Rollins 73 times in the same number of games.

A crowd of 10,139 fans saw George Gee beat Harry Lumley early in the third period on a passing play with Metro Prystai and Clare Martin. The goal snapped a two-game losing streak for the Red Wings.

Yanks Voted Team of Year In Sports Poll

NEW YORK, Jan. 5. (AP). — The New York Yankees baseball club was voted team of the year for 1950 in the annual year-end poll of American sports writers and sportscasters by The Associated Press.

Casey Stengel's Yanks, four-straight winners over Philadelphia Phils in the world series, had close competition for the honor. Oklahoma's football team, upset in the Sugar Bowl after 31 straight victories, was a close second. New York City College's basketball "grand slam" champs were much in the running.

With 215 voting, 70 picked the Yanks as the standout team in any sport, amateur or professional. Oklahoma drew 56 firsts and City 43 ballots. It was strictly a three-team race, with the Phillies a distant fourth.

Other Choices

Then came Minneapolis Lakers, National Basketball Association professional champs, in fifth place. Cleveland Browns, who followed their all-America Conference triumphs with a National Football League title, were sixth.

Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, who beat off New York Rangers in the Stanley Cup finals, were seventh. Princeton's powerful unbeaten football club was next, followed by the Harlem Globe-Trotters basketball team.

Tennessee, the Cotton Bowl winner over Texas, was 10th on the list of 1950 standouts.

—Last year's winner, Notre Dame already has been voted the most disappointing team of 1950. It seems to be a jinx. The 1948 champs, Cleveland Indians, were the 1949 flops.

Caps Down Flyers

By The Canadian Press.

It was "cellar-club night" in the American Hockey League Thursday night, Indianapolis Capitals storming out of last place in the western division with a 7-2 victory over St. Louis Flyers and Springfield Indians downing Hershey Bears 4-3 to move within three points of evacuating last place in the eastern section.

CHARLES E. WILSON: "The only reason I'm here is to see that guys like you stay home and produce . . ."

Tycoon Wilson Awes Washington, Reminds Secretary Of Her Dad

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The two secretaries were talking about their important new boss just after he moved into his office in the old State Department building.

"Everybody treats him just like he's God come to Washington," said one of the girls. "But he reminds me more of my dad."

That was the mood Charles E. Wilson set when he made the transition from business tycoon to government tycoon, a move he made with the ease of a man who has done it once before.

The new Chief of Defense Mobilization had a pleasant laugh as he signed the form required to prove that he has accepted legal custody of a black, chromium-trimmed water pitcher, a chromium tray and three glasses, the executive-class fountain pen set and leather-trimmed desk blotter.

The second most important man in the government, next to the President, laughed again and said "sure" when he was asked if it was all right to move a big fern from Stuart Symington's office to his own inner office. It seems the fern is "for inner offices of top level executives," and it was dying for lack of water.

Works Long Day

Wilson's first official pronouncement was to tell the two pretty secretaries assigned to him that they could go home at 5:30 and shouldn't bother to stay as late as he probably would every night. His working schedule is from about nine in the morning to seven or eight in the evening. He also told them to use their own judgment on whom to let in his office and whom to put on the telephone.

For the first week, exercising this judgment was the biggest chore the secretaries faced. At one stage there were 13 calls being held on the line. And more than nine persons waiting outside to see him. Most were job seekers. At one point he was overheard saying:

"Naw, Dick, you're too darn old to do it again. Go back to playing golf and be content with the knowledge that you did the greatest job ever done on machine tool production during the last war."

To another he said:

"We don't want you here. The only reason I'm here is to see that guys like you stay home and produce like you've never produced before, but like I'm sure you can."

Even for the last one out in the evening he walks to the door and gives him his big hand in a hearty shake.

No Social Engagements

The only flat order he's issued to the gals is that he will accept no speaking engagements "for a while at least," and that he won't have time to go to any social events. They're to tell that to anyone who asks—and hundreds have asked.

About half the time the famed head of General Electric Corp. eats lunch in his office. When he doesn't he lunches with one or another official and does business at the same time.

When the crop of visitors got too big to handle in the small outer office, they set up a reception room down the hall.

The girl who runs it has made herself an authority on Wilson's life, although she hasn't seen him yet. She's more than willing to answer questions about his past and volunteers information you don't ask her about.

Her favorite is reading a description of Wilson from an old magazine which says:

"He is over six feet tall, erect as a major of infantry, ruddy of countenance, and fairly bursting through well-tailored clothes with the abrupt, muscular movements of a massive frame."

With reverence in her eyes, she tells you that he's a pillar of the Baptist Church, quit school at 13 to take a $3-a-week job and in 40 years worked up to the $175,000-a-year presidency of GE, is the world's greatest production genius and that he calls his wife every night in Scarsdale, NY, and goes home every weekend.

When Wilson was vice chairman of the War Production Board during World War II his feuds with other members of the board sometimes became the talk of the town. So far he's sailing pretty smoothly in his new billet. But as one man who knows him well and is with him now says:

"They're saying that Charlie has mellowed. But just wait 'til someone tries to foul him up and you'll see what happens."

Sees No Chance Margarine Ban

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP) — James C. Weaver, president of the Whole Milk Producers' League Thursday told its annual convention that chances are slight of Ontario banning margarine without a substitute for it.

He said research into an all-dairy spread as a substitute is proceeding.

Delegates passed a motion that the coming session of the Ontario legislature ban the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine as soon as an all-dairy spread is available.

Other resolutions urged the provincial government to amend the Milk Control Act to return price-setting powers to the Milk Control Board and asked the Ontario Federation of Agriculture to investigate the price of mill feeds and concentrates.

Liberal Committee Drafts Election Plan

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP)—The campaign committee of the Ontario Liberal Party appointed at the last caucus of the Liberal members of the legislature met here Thursday to draft plans in the event of a quick provincial election this spring or summer.

Walter Thomson, recently-elected leader of the party, said that the meeting was organizational and that he had no statement to make.

Also present were William L. Houck, Liberal member for Niagara Falls, and Farquhar Oliver, house leader.

Family Dogged By Fate, Lost Their Home

Fate continues to dog the family of Jack Condon, who lives four miles southeast of Peterborough, on the old Keene road.

Fire Thursday afternoon destroyed his home, while he and his wife and two daughters were away.

The city fire department could not come to fight the blaze because a bylaw bars them from fighting fires outside the city, except in townships with which the city has an agreement for mutual aid.

Kitchen Burned

A month ago, the kitchen of their home burned.

In November, Mr. Condon was involved in a car accident.

His wife was operated on in October, and his seven-months-old baby, Barbara, was in hospital a week with pneumonia shortly after the family moved to their new home last June. They have another daughter, Judy, 3.

There is insurance on the building but not on contents. The Condons lost a new refrigerator with the rest of their clothing and household goods.

The fire was first spotted by the Rev. W. C. McCarney, the parish priest, who went with Frank Heffernan to the fire. About 2.30 p.m. the mailman, Jack Casey, came along, and broke in the door with a plank.

Little They Could Do

The three men formed a bucket brigade, but the flames, fanned by strong west winds, blocked their efforts.

Mr. Condon drove home for lunch Thursday, and took his wife and children to the city to shop. When he heard of the fire, he drove out and found the house destroyed. His wife and children were staying with his wife's sister, Mrs. Reg. Tapp, 712 St. Marys St.

The Condons say they have no plans for the future.

THIS WAS THE HOME OF NAVAL VETERAN Jack Condon, his wife and two children on the Keene Road, Otonabee Township which was destroyed by a fire on Thursday afternoon while everyone was absent. Residing in the place since mid-June, the Condons have had constant tough luck; Mrs. Condon and baby both in hospital at various times, a car accident, a fire which destroyed their woodshed before Christmas and now, this.

Charles Cummer 31 Years Bank Manager In City

Bank manager in Peterborough more than 31 years, Charles S. Cummer of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal is retiring at the end of this month, as announced today from its head office in Montreal.

Mr. Cummer will be succeeded by Ford M. Warren, assistant manager of the main office of the Bank of Montreal, who does not come to Peterborough as a stranger. He lived here about four years when he was associated with Mr. Cummer as a member of the staff of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal.

The long service of Mr. Cummer in Peterborough suggests a local record in the position and responsibility of bank manager. Perhaps there are few present managers of Canadian banks who have been retained so long in any other city.

44 Years a Banker

Mr. Cummer's banking experience extends over forty-four years. He came to Peterborough in September, 1919 to open a branch of the Merchants' Bank in premises on the north side of Simcoe St. which were acquired in the last year by Zeller's Ltd. for the enlargement of their store at the George St. corner. It was there he began his managerial career, and his immediate job was to attract business and accounts.

Mr. Cummer's early efforts resulted in transfer of location into larger quarters in the Bradburn Building on east side of George St. until the Merchant's Bank was taken over by the Bank of Montreal. He continued as manager of that branch from February 1922 until December 31, 1939, when the Peterborough business of the Bank of Montreal was concentrated in their old establishment at Simcoe and Water Streets. Mr. Cummer succeeded Mr. T. A. Mackay, and has continued as manager during the last ten years.

That is a brief sketch in time and promotion of Mr. Cummer's career in Peterborough. The young manager who scanned the city and its business for the first time in 1919 has become a personal institution in the years between.

The duties of a bank manager are largely so confidential that the public learns little of its details, which transpire in approval usually from the source of "satisfied customers". So, Mr. Cummer's work is a closed book, except in the evidence of office and staff enlargement. But, little grateful stories have cropped out from time to time appreciative of encouragement they had received from Mr. Cummer, with timely credit that founded many a man's success in business and farming and such other enterprise.

Acquired A Reputation

Actually, and they probably knew it, their background warranting extension of credit had no doubt been investigated or was previously known. The net result was that Mr. Cummer acquired a reputation of careful screening and practical perceptiveness in his recommending of bank credit.

Affable and approachable, Mr. Cummer has combined those genial qualities with shrewd judgement of character which presumably admitted few mistakes as attested by the record of his 31 years of dealing with the public of Peterborough, it may be said that in public relations he has a natural gift that created a friendly atmosphere for customers and staff.

Past President of Rotary

Also on the side of public relations has been his many community interests. He has been treasurer of the Children's Aid Society more than 30 years, and has been on the board of Trinity United Church for about the same long period. He was a charter member of Kiwanis Club, dropped out for some years and then joined the Rotary Club of which he was president in its year beginning July 1, 1948.

Mr. Cummer was director and treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce ten years, and director of the YMCA, 25 years, serving as president in 1939 and 1940. He is still a director, and plays in the volleyball league, on the advice, which also approves his continuance of striding the golf greens.

He has been interested in lacrosse, the game he played in his youth, since coming to Peterborough, and likewise since the grand old field game gave way to the box variety under the floodlights. He was president of the local lacrosse club back in 1921, and was treasurer of the Peterborough Hockey Club when it won two senior OHA titles.

Director of Peterborough Golf and Country Club 10 years, president two years, Mr. Cummer has also been a member of Kawartha Golf Club about another decade, incidentally winning its senior championship in 1943.

He has been closely associated with the municipal affairs of the city, with considerable advisory relationship as manager of the bank with which the civic corporation does its financial business. Because of that treasury connection he assisted in various affairs promoted from the city hall such as the Gracie Fields concert in 1940 which raised $2,500 for gifts for men of the Canadian Navy.

Born in Grey County

Mr. Cummer was born at Tara, 15 miles from Owen Sound, Bruce county, and joined the staff of the Merchant's Bank at Meaford. That's the place of his lacrosse experience in days when the province was studded with cracking good teams. He was eight years in Meaford, going up from junior to accountant.

When he came to Peterborough he opened the Merchant's door to a staff of two, himself and assistant; but at that time the Montreal had only ten or twelve employees. Today they have approximately fifty.

Mr. Cummer is going to be missed from the corner of Simcoe and Water Streets by a great many friends, but they will be pleased to know that after a winter holiday in Florida he intends to continue residence in Peterborough. One of his hopes is a trip to the Old Country next year, and also some leisurely travel across Canada to the Pacific. Otherwise his main concern is still the business of the Bank of Montreal until January 31.

Board of Education Reports Surplus of $30,668, Expenditure of $757,435

The Board of Education had a surplus of $30,668.37 in 1950, or $975.76 more than the year before. This was announced Thursday night by G. Wilson Craw, chairman of finance, at the inaugural meeting of the Board. Total receipts for 1950 were $788,104.02 and total disbursements $757,435.65. In the public schools disbursements were kept, for the most part, well within estimates. But there were two windfalls here: special grants from the Ontario government were $1,200 above estimates, and non-resident fees were $3,000 more than expected.

More Fuel Required

On the other side of the ledger there was an underestimate of $1,318.72 on fuel for the public schools. This Mr. Craw explained was because there was an unexpectedly large consumption of fuel in the spring and when the estimates were drawn up there was no certain information on the price of coal.

Other items slightly over estimate are light and water, taxes, fire insurance, medical and dental supplies.

Three considerable money outlays not budgeted for were: $4,200 for the Ashburnham property where a public school is to be built; $882.31 due on the Parkhill Road school extension; and an item of $609.13 for group insurance.

"In spite of these unexpected expenditures the year ends with practically the same surplus as that with which it began," said Mr. Craw.

In Collegiate academic receipts were $2,500 above estimates. There was a saving on plant maintenance and some other items. The total estimated expenditure was $145,670 while the actual expenditure was $139,432.73.

Grants Up $10,000

Provincial grants to Collegiate vocational were about $10,000 more than anticipated. This was because of a different way of making grants, and also because grants were given on equipment.

Income from non-resident fees was close to the estimate in both academic and vocation departments.

Expenditure for instructional supplies was about $1,000 below estimate. Total estimated expenditure for vocational was $133,120 while actual expenditure was $134,647.

Group insurance, not budgeted for, cost a total of $400.49.

Mr. Craw told the board members he thought the year's financing was a "remarkable feat," particularly because the committee had to estimate on the provincial grants. He also complimented the secretary-treasurer and staff for bringing out a financial summary only four days after the closing of the year.

Court Reserves Judgment In Auto Case

Judgment was reserved in the trial of Ronald Haist, Toronto, in police court today on a charge of failing to leave half the highway for an oncoming truck.

Haist, driving a small station wagon west on Highway 28, met in collision with a half-ton truck driven east by Claude Rouse, Bancroft, about a tenth of a mile south of the Peterborough-Hastings boundary road.

Constable John Hawkins who investigated said Rouse had been drinking but was not drunk. He said debris on the road indicated the impact took place eight feet seven inches north of the south side of the road which had been ploughed to a width of 28 feet.

Blinded By Light

Haist said he saw the truck approaching and turned his lights down. When the two vehicles were about 50 yards apart, he said, the driver of the truck flicked his lights up and he was blinded by the glare. He said he took his foot off the accelerator and drove by his sense of direction.

He said Rouse was in no condition to drive a car. He said he staggered quite obviously and he walked up and down the highway before he was persuaded to get in the truck and wait for the officer.

The constable did not arrive for about two hours. By that time he told the officer, Rouse's condition had improved considerably.

Rouse entered a written plea of guilty to a charge of driving without a 1950 permit and paid a fine of $10 and costs.

Took Overdose Sleeping Pills

Geoffrey (Gip) Feeley, local taxi operator, was taken unconscious to St. Joseph's Hospital on Thursday about 9.30 p.m.

He regained consciousness through the night.

Police believe, on the advice of Feeley's doctor, that Feeley took some sleeping pills to make him sleep. The first one or two had no effect on him and he took one or two more.

Feeley had testified as a crown witness earlier in the day in a bootlegging charge against Frank Thompson, another city taxi operator with whom evidence indicated he had been feuding, although he denied it.

The day before, Wednesday, Feeley was in court defending himself against a bootlegging charge.

Name 2 Women Members On Civic Boards

MRS. KATHLEEN BELL

Peterborough's Board of Education feel that what's needed in municipal affairs is the woman's touch. And they're pushing the idea both by precept and example.

Thursday night at the Board's inaugural meeting Mrs. Kathleen Bell took her seat becoming the second woman trustee. Mrs. Anne Rowell is the other.

When it came time for a few appointments the women figured prominently. Mrs. Bell will be the Board's nominee on the Recreation Commission, succeeding Murray Irwin.

But the precedent-shattering blow came when Mrs. Ross Matthews (wife of Dr. Matthews, a 1950 trustee) was unanimously chosen as one of the Board's appointees to Library Board succeeding John R. Marshall who asked to not be re-appointed. Until now the Library Board has been a masculine preserve but the Board felt that the addition of Mrs. Matthews, a trained librarian, would "brighten things up."

Smile gentlemen, please!

Dr. Ralph C. Honey Elected 1951 Chairman of Board

Dr. Ralph C. Honey Thursday night was elected chairman of the Board of Education for 1951 at the Board's inaugural meeting. He succeeds Frank Jobbitt, chairman for the last two years. At the December 4 elections Dr. Honey headed the poll for trustees with a margin of 357 votes. Thursday night he was chosen chairman by unanimous vote of his fellow-trustees.

He is now beginning his fifth year as a member of the Board. During his last term of office he was chairman of the appointments committee, and he has served four years on the accommodation committee.

After thanking the Board members for their confidence in him Dr. Honey said: "It is an honor, but with it goes many duties which to say the least are arduous. We are starting out on a year that we realize will be filled not only with the regular administrative matters but with the new work as well."

Welcomes New Members

He welcomed the new members —Mrs. Kathleen Bell, W. B. Gordon, and M. J. Collins, separate school appointee, and said: "We the continuing members welcome you and hope that our work will be carried out to the benefit of the student population of Peterborough."

Mr. Gordon, though a new member this year, was on the 1946-48 board. He was second to Dr. Honey at the Dec. 4 elections, polling 5,789 votes. And he is also vice-chairman of the board.

Mrs. Kathleen Bell is the second woman member of the board. She joins Mrs. Anne Rowell. Mrs. Bell, who came third in the recent voting, has not previously served on the board.

Mr. Collins, the separate schools' appointee, succeeds Dr. E. M. Crough who was a member for 10 years.

The Rev. A. A. Mathews of George St. United church, read a few verses from Proverbs on "Wisdom" and then led in prayer, asking Divine guidance for the board.

Standing Committees

Following are the standing committees for the year:

Property— Chairman Murray Irwin, Mr. Jobbitt, Dr. Honey, Stanley Adamson, Mrs. Rowell and Mrs. Bell.

Supervision — Chairman Mr. Gordon, Dr. Honey, Mr. Irwin, Dr. Russell Morgan, Mrs. Bell, and Fred Agnew.

Health—Chairman Dr. Morgan, Mr. Jobbitt, Dr. Honey, Mr. Irwin, Mrs. Rowell, and Mr. Gordon.

Appointment — All members with Mr. Jobbitt, chairman.

Accommodation — Chairman Mr. Craw, Mr. Jobbitt, Dr. Honey, Mr. Adamson, Dr. Morgan and Mr. Collins.

Vocational— (Chairman to be elected) Dr. Honey, Mr. Adamson, Mrs. Rowell, Mr. Gordon, Mr. Agnew, Mr. Collins, and five non-board members—I. F. McRae, N. R. Hamilton, C. Porter, P. Irwin, R. Maybee, and A. Pitchford.

Finance—Chairman Mr. Craw, and chairmen of all other committees.

Mrs. Ruth McGregor On 2-Week Remand

Mrs. Ruth McGregor, 33, 109 Hunter St. E., charged with giving false information to police in connection with the shooting of Russell Sutton, 20, who boarded with Mrs. McGregor, was remanded for two weeks on $1,000.

Police said Sutton admitted shooting himself in the left arm early in the morning of Jan. 1 after a new year's dance. They said Mrs. McGregor first told them Sutton had been shot by someone unknown as they were getting into her car after the dance outside the dance hall.

Rev. W. Turner Rector At Bowmanville

BOWMANVILLE, Jan. 5—The Rev. Warren N. Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Weber Turner, 350 Park St., will begin his duties as rector of St. John's Anglican Church, Bowmanville, Ont., on Sunday.

Born and educated in Peterborough, Mr. Turner was rector of St. John the Evangelist Church, Calgary, Alberta, before he accepted the position in Bowmanville.

He is a graduate of Trinity College, University of Toronto. On entering the church he became assistant curate at St. Cyprians, Toronto. Successively he later became an associate, House of the Good Shepherd at Milestone, Saskatchewan; vicar of Lumsden, Saskatchewan; sub warden at St. Chad's Theological College, Regina; rector of Balcarres, Saskatchewan; rector of South Saanich, Victoria Island, British Columbia, and since October 1944, rector of the Church of St. John the Evangelist at Calgary, Alberta.

Mr. Turner also served as a member of the Diocesan Board of Religious Education in the Dioceses, Qu'Appelle, British Columbia and Calgary and prior to leaving for Bowmanville, he was chairman of the Calgary DBRE and chaplain of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadets.

Ice Cutting Starts In North Of County

Ice cutting was reported started this week on three lakes in the north of the county.

Jack's Lake, Paudash and Chandos lakes all have men at work on them. The ice is reported about 18 to 20 inches thick and a solid clear blue type.

Col. J. A. Dewart Chairman Civil Defence Organization

Plans for the civil defence of Peterborough are rapidly getting under way. The executive committee of the Civil Defence Organization appointed by Mayor M. J. Swanston met Thursday. Col. J. A. Dewart was elected chairman and R. R. Faryon secretary. Other members are Ald. Hugh Waddell, R. L. Dobbin, W. G. Ovens, Ian F. McRae and Major J. P. McGrath.

At the meeting, which was attended by the Mayor, His Worship outlined the duties and responsibilities of this committee to the community, and its part in the over-all civil defence of the country.

Toronto Plan Available

A great deal of information has been obtained from the United States, provincial government, and other Canadian centres, including the 'Organization Plan' for the city of Toronto. These are being studied for information and as a guide to the Peterborough plan.

The problem as far as Peterborough is concerned roughly breaks itself into four categories.

1. A plan of action if the city was bombed without warning.
2. A plan of action if the city was in imminent danger of being bombed and warning had been received.
3. A plan for arrangements to take care of evacuees from other centres who have been bombed, or who are in danger of being bombed.
4. Protection against sabotage.

Organize Key Services

The over-all planning will include the organization of key services, such as police, fire, medical, evacuation, food, shelter and transportation. Sub-committees and organizations would be set up to handle each of these.

In some instances these various services can be supplied by the extension of present organizations. In others, these will have to be set up, and it was decided, wherever possible, to recruit the aid of the many Peterborough organizations and groups whose membership and special abilities are particularly suited for various phases of this defence work.

COL. J. A. DEWART

While the committee feels that the city should be ready for any eventuality, from the best information available, it is unlikely that Peterborough would be a primary target for atom or high explosive bombing.

Peterborough's main concern in the event of war and attacks upon Canada, in addition to sabotage, would probably be as an evacuation centre for casualties or refugees from other major target Canadian cities.

In addressing the committee, the Mayor pointed out that, while the Civil Defence Organization Committee will have the responsibility for the planning and direction of Peterborough's Civil Defence, it will be the duty and responsibility of every citizen to co-operate as he or she is requested in this important task.

CONDITION SATISFACTORY

The condition of Harry Collins, 18, of 744 Chamberlain street, is satisfactory, St. Joseph's hospital reported today. The youth was stabbed three times in the back Tuesday night in a street fight with a 15-year-old boy. It is expected that Collins will be hospitalized for several more days.

OTONABEE RESIDENT

Jack Lane referred to in the evidence in connection with a charge of bootlegging against Geofffrey (Gip) Feeley in police court Wednesday, lives at Wallace Point.

Groups Accept Wallis Sculpture

Part of Miss Katharine Wallis' sculptural collection has been accepted by the Board of Education and the Library Board. Both groups met Thursday night and agreed to take a limited number of her sculptural pieces.

Presumably this will be until the city finds a suitable place where the collection can be exhibited as a whole.

Altogether there are 13 pieces, forming a representative collection of Miss Wallis' work. The Women's Art Association was originally offered the collection but had no suitable place to display it and asked the city council to assist them.

Council, at the moment, has no suitable place either and so asked the Board of Education and the Library Board if they could keep a number of the pieces. Both agreed Thursday night that they would.

Miss Wallis has an international reputation as a sculpturess, and now lives in Santa Cruz, California. She was born in Peterborough and lived part of her adult life here, and she regards this as her native city.

Her family home was northwest of Civic Hospital on property now owned and being sub-divided by George Roper, retired secretary of the YMCA.

The Women's Art Association already owns a number of Miss Wallis' sculptural pieces.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

New Farm Forum Marketing Series Begins Monday, Jan. 9 . . . Earle Drope Elected President of Northumberland Federation . . . Warble Fly Control Meeting in Ennismore Well Attended . . . 700 Attend O.A.C. Short Courses.

This week's short courses at OAC end today for the 700 temporary students who enrolled from a wide area all the way from Thunder Bay to New York State.

A. C. Robertson, BSA, specialist in economics at the college suggested as a radical change that compulsory training in agriculture may some day be required of Canadian farmers to increase efficiency. That sounds like an indirect compliment to the industry and its practicioners. It implies professorial recognition of the successful farmer as a man requiring a wide fund of knowledge and skill.

Most of the present prosperity of Ontario farmers, said Mr. Robertson, has been due to increased prices rather than in farm production.

Ninety-four farms co-operating with the department of economics in farm business management have an average of 171 acres in operation with 120 acres in crops. They have 45 animal units per farm.

This represents a total average capital investment of about $27,000. Mr. Robertson suggested capital distribution on farms should follow the pattern: 50 per cent in land and building; 30 per cent in livestock; 12 per cent in machinery and eight per cent in feeds and supplies.

Ontario farms, just to operate, require $5,000 to $6,000 cash per year, he said. A smart operator will not spend more than 50 cents of every dollar he takes in.

Mr. Robertson listed four factors of excessive operating expenses: wasteful use of labor; careless use of farm equipment; uneconomical use of livestock feeds; too small a volume of business in relation to investment.

"Know-how" in a cropping program was basic to the whole farming enterprise.

Well-managed farms require 400 to 600 10-hour labor days a year. They employ two to three men and have 60 to 100 acres of crops per man.

Mr. Robertson concluded: Organization is necessary to obtain the best use of labor; planned production will pay dividends; farmers should be as little affected by man-made forces or controls as they can; they should try to provide interest and inspiration, and they should contribute to defence.

AFTER THE WARBLE FLY

The new agricultural year got down to grass roots early with a meeting at Ennismore Tuesday night attended by sixty farmers of the township who were unanimously in favor of adopting the warble fly control plan.

Frank Paterson, agricultural representative, said the animated discussion was evidence of the practical interest of the comparatively large attendance with Reeve James Gifford presiding.

Twelve farmers undertook a canvass of the township to circulate the petition for a control bylaw.

"From the indications, I think they will have the required number of signatures for presentation to the Ennismore council next Monday," Mr. Paterson said.

Several men were present from Emily township where control methods were put into effect last year.

Mr. Paterson said he was a little hazy on a question about the practice with ranch cattle owned by persons outside the township.

"We cleared that up Wednesday morning," he said, "if any cattle are brought into the township they must be treated for warble fly as they enter, and the cost is charged to the owners. That was done extensively throughout Victoria last year. The cost is only a minor matter, and the bylaw, backed by the provincial statute, requires all cattle to be sprayed."

The Ennismore meeting was an encouraging start, Mr. Paterson said. Meetings Friday afternoon and evening were arranged for Westwood and Norwood, carrying the message into east Peterborough, particularly Asphodel township.

"I think Harvey is likely to come in, too," Mr. Paterson said, "but I guess we have to wait for actual developments."

EARL DROPE, PRESIDENT

Earl Drope of Harwood was elected president of Northumberland Federation of Agriculture at its annual meeting Friday, Dec. 29. Wesley Down of Hilton continues as secretary-treasurer, and Edgar Buttars is vice-president.

Plans are being laid for an active year of community and agricultural values. It was gratefully noted that the attendance of women at the annual meeting was the largest in years. A woman's committee was appointed and Mrs. M. W. Woods was named as their delegate to the provincial convention in Toronto, Jan. 10-12.

AT QUEEN'S SHORT COURSE

Bill Anderson, of Smith township, attended the Christmas short course for rural young people held at Queen's University, Kingston, from Dec. 27 to 29. He was sponsored by Lily Lake Farm Forum.

The short course was sponsored by Ontario Federation of Agriculture and Queen's University Department of Extension, with assistance from the Community Programs branch, Ontario Department of Education.

Eighty-three young people from Eastern Ontario attended. The girls stayed in Queen's girls residences and the boys in men's quarters. They ate together in the student co-operative.

Co-operation was the theme of the conference and Principal R. C. Wallace of Queen's in talking to the young people said: "Cultivate co-operation. Learn to live with others who have different points of view than your own. There is nothing bigger in the world than to learn to do that. If we all co-operate in our communities, the movement toward co-operation will spread. This will help bring world co-operation and end wars."

The young people heard talks from experts in various lines of work, saw motion pictures and a playlet on practical problems of living, learned group games and square dancing, and took part in group discussions.

What are the essentials of a satisfying life? The young folk decided that some of these were a good and happy home, friendly relations with neighbors, a feeling of belonging to a group and of acceptance by a group, the opportunity to serve others through church, service club or other groups, and an acute appreciation of the democratic way of life. The course will be held again next year.

"TOO MANY FARMERS"

"Instead of the Minister of Agriculture investigating reports that boys are leaving Ontario farms, he would do well to try to stimulate it by every means."

That statement was made by Prof. Allan Bogue of the department of economics and political science, University of Western Ontario, London, at a Rural Life conference Friday.

Mechanization has increased individual output on the farm, and fewer farmers are actually essential. "Our only worry might well be that we see to it that the right ones go and the right ones stay."

Some farmers would be of more use to society if they were not in agriculture at all, Mr. Bogue said.

Between the outbreak of the war in 1939 and the beginning of 1942, some 500,000 left Canadian farms for service in the armed forces or for work in defence or other industries. That exodus did not diminish the output of food and fibre in Canada. Farmers worked longer hours, Prof. Bogue said, but for production to have been maintained so well in a time when it was difficult to obtain farm machinery indicated that not all those laborers who left agriculture were essential to it.

NEW FORUM SERIES

Farm Forum begins Monday Jan. 8, an important series of three radio broadcasts on the general subject of marketing.

The opening topic is "Wanted: New Markets," followed by "Marketing Quality Products" on Mon. Jan. 15 and "What Can Marketing Boards Accomplish."

Forums asked for this series in the round-up of opinion and interest last spring. Clare Burt, Ontario secretary, comments as the new Forum year gets under way: "The international situation has made our marketing problems very different from what we anticipated in March 1950. But, these discussions are none the less important. . . Make use of the directors of your county Federation of Agriculture in this series. Invite them to your meetings to discuss these questions with you."

One of the suggested topics for discussion is this: "Do you think it is a good idea, or not, for farm organizations to collect money from farmers for the purpose of promoting the sale of their products, as the Dairy Farmers of Canada are doing with their dairy products?"

Obviously, that is looking farther afield than the dairy industry which in its products and their selling lent itself readily to the project of financing and advertising campaign. That enterprise of the dairy farmers was significant of a new producer outlook and approach to an old problem. In its inception last year, its cost was not felt by the individual producer, but the levy upon all of them accumulated a large sum for publicity expending.

It is likely to become an established investment in the marketing of dairy products especially in view of the increasing importance of the domestic market. A paragraph in the Forum Guide is worth noting: "At the present time, the Canadian people consume more than 70 per cent of our farm produce. Population and personal income have both increased in recent years, and both these factors have led to greater food consumption. Since 1939, the population has increased 18 per cent and income per person 40 per cent."

The dairy farmers were forced into advertising by the manufacture and sale of margarine. They still resent keenly the competition of a product manufactured in part from vegetable oils imported from countries of low economy.

On the side of unestimated benefit is the rallying from within their own ranks to market with energy and intelligence their own high quality dairy products. Similarly, producer thinking may yet have to notice the competitive substitutes for wool, a staple commodity that is now short in a market of keen demand and greatly advanced prices.

In this marketing series, one of the topics suggested for discussion is the expanding of outlets for farm products through industrial uses. It is at least conceivable that Canadian producers of vegetable oils (45 million pounds in 1948) may yet cut broadly into their importation.

SHORTHORN PROJECT

Ralph Banbury, agricultural representative in Northumberland, includes the following note in his weekly letter: "The present higher price for beef tends to a greater interest in this industry. It is most unfortunate that the consuming public starved the beef business into the present high prices, but it is frequently said that no one but a Scot could make a living producing beef for the 10 years previous to the recent marked enhancement due to the great scarcity and American market. A movement is in progress by Shorthorn enthusiasts to get artificial insemination for this breed from the Quinte Cattle Breeders at Belleville. Technicians Ellis Isaac of Baltimore, Keith Gardiner of Grafton, Will Potts of Brighton and Walter Elliott of Campbellford, would look after this in the same way that the Holstein breed has been serviced. A list is being prepared by Agricultural Representative, Ralph C. Banbury and all interested are urged to contact the Agricultural Office before January 15th. A large number must say "yes" or this service can not be arranged."

MEETING OF JUNIORS

First meeting of Junior Farmers in the new year is Jan. 16 at Normal School. Two topics are listed: "Farming as a business" and Farm accounts; and for the girls "Color harmony and buying suggestions." Allan Drummond is host.

TORONTO CONVENTIONS

W. W. Dawson, president of Peterborough county branch, plans to attend the Ontario Federation of Convention at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, next week. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Dawson. Women's Day is Tuesday, Jan. 9, followed by the opening of the general convention Wednesday.

Crop Improvement Association convention the following week has been attracting an increasing number of farmers annually.

LOOKING LIKE A NEW YEAR'S EVE CELEBRANT the morning after, pop-eyed Sir Bess Ormsby Fobes Supreme, breeding bull, poked his head through roof of his barn with his horns. Sir Bess wasn't necessarily angry. Cattlemen say the huge, well-bred bulls often do such things for their own amusement.

W. M. Anderson, C.B.E., F.S.A. J. T. Bryden, B.Com.

North American Life has announced that W. M. Anderson, C.B.E., F.S.A., has been elected Vice-President and Managing Director of the Company, and J. T. Bryden, B.Com., has been appointed General Manager.

Month's Tour of Europe For Two Ontario Plowmen

The fourth team of champion Canadian plowmen in as many years sail today, Jan. 5, to take part in matches and to observe agricultural methods and conditions abroad.

The champion plowmen are 28-year-old Hugh A. Leslie, of Georgetown, Ont., and 27-year-old Herbert Jarvis, of Agincourt, Ont., gold medallists in the Esso Trans-Atlantic tractor and horse plowing classes respectively at the International Plowing Match held near Alliston last October. V. C. Porteous, former Member of Parliament and past president of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, will accompany the plowmen as team manager.

The three leave from New York aboard the Queen Mary for a months' tour of the United Kingdom as guests of Imperial Oil, sponsors of the Trans-Alantic plowing classes. Before taking part in the British matches they will spend two weeks on the Continent at their own expense.

For all members of the plowing team this will be their first overseas trip. All are anxious to see how things are done on the other side of the Atlantic and to visit the many points of historic interest there. They will fly back to Canada about February 16.

Herbert Jarvis Hugh Leslie

Uses Only Horses

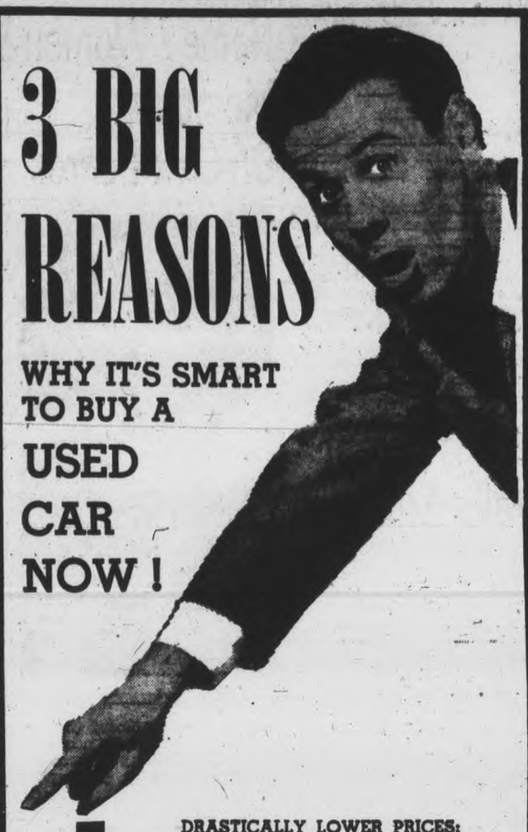
Herbert Jarvis, winner in the horse class, is an out-and-out horse plowman. He has never plowed with a tractor although he works in a farm machinery factory. In his time off Herbert helps his father, John Jarvis, work his 100-acre farm. Although twice champion in the horse-drawn plow classes at the East York matches this was his first international match. He drove a team borrowed from a neighbor.

Herbert is the second youngest of the "seven plowing Jarvis brothers" of Agincourt. Two years ago all seven brothers took part in the East York match. His brother Norman won and he came fourth. Herbert is the father of twin girls, Linda and Donna, aged three years.

Hugh Leslie, winner in the tractor class, has competed in five international matches but the Esso Trans-Atlantic championship was his first big win, although he has won trophies in many local county matches including the Peel County championship in the open sod (tractor) class.

Farms With Tractor

Just the opposite of Herbert Jarvis, Hugh states he has always used a tractor for plowing and feels that it would be next to impossible to farm his 400-acre farm without one. Hugh is the father of four-year-old daughter Lynda Ann.



Plowing matches and agricultural problems are old stuff to Vic Porteous, team manager. Past president and a director for many years of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, which sponsors the big matches, Vic operates Grey Maple Farm near Owen Sound and other farm properties. He has taken active part in many provincial and county farm organizations including the Milk Producers' Association, the Agricultural Society, the Cheese Co-operative and the Grey Farmers' Co-op of Owen Sound district. He was a member of parliament for Grey North during the Bennett administration. He is also a past president of the Owen Sound Kiwanis Club and a former member of the Derby township council and is the father of two boys and two girls.

Labor Offers Social Democracy In Answer To Red Challenge

LONDON — (CP) — Social democracy provides the only effective answer to the present-day challenge of Communism, says the British Labor party's 1951 political Handbook, just published. The book, revised and issued annually, serves as one phase of the party's long-range programs of preparedness for a general election.

In a foreword, Morgan Phillips, secretary of the party, maintains that public opinion has forced the Conservatives to take over many of the detailed points of policy originally put forward by Labor. Social security, full employment and agricultural policy are cited as examples.

As a result, he says, vital differences of principle between Labor and its political opponents, may not be as apparent on the surface as they were 50 years ago or more recently when the Conservatives were in power.

"But they are there," Mr. Phillips insists. "And they are just as stark as ever they were, once the Tory smokescreen has been blown away. Socialism is more than a political force. It is a philosophy based upon a belief in the finer, nobler instincts of mankind. Toryism is still a faith based upon a cynical exploitation of the lesser instincts of man."

The latest Handbook omits any reference to such controversial issues as the proposed nationalization of industial insurance, sugar and meat wholesaling, but gives a broad hint that water supplies will become a public service.

Stress is laid on the continued need of a policy of wage restraint and a warning is given to trade unionists agitating for further limitations on profits.

However much Labor deplores the profit motive in a mixed economy such as Britain's, the incentive of profit has to remain, the book says. Labor, it adds, has already taken firm action to reduce the incomes shareholders actually receive. What remains of company profits is used for essential economic purposes which otherwise would have to be financed some other way.

As a parting shot, the book offers the following as a bid for the voter's support: "The British Labor party, humanitarian and ethical, in its approach, representative of all classes of the community, stands out as a beacon of hope, lighting the way to a new and better future—free from the tyranny of totalitarianism on the one hand, free from the injustices of unbridled capitalism on the other".

Kiwanis Honors John McKone Veteran Member

An honorary life membership in the Peterborough Kiwanis club was presented Thursday to John McKone, a charter member of the club. The presentation was made after the officers for 1951 were installed by Lt.-Governor of Division 6, Mel Osborne of Toronto.

Mr. McKone, a past-president and a past lieutenant-governor of the district, was introduced by another past-president, Richard Raine. The 1950 lieutenant governor, William Richardson, then questioned Mr. McKone in the club's history.

The now life member informed the club's new members that its charter night, sponsored by the Kingston club was held November 2, 1921, in the Legion Hall. Several of the projects conducted since then were related such as the Kiwanis camp which used to be held each summer at Jackson Park.

Gordon Hancock, who was installed as president at the meeting, presented Mr. McKone with a certificate of honorary life membership.

Officers Installed

During the installation of Mr. Hancock, Mr. Osborne told him that when he was elected to the presidency, he undertook a great responsibility. He said that the club's activities and success would revolve around the president and that it was his duty to see that the plans for 1951 were carried out. Mr. Osborne asked the incoming president to use his years of knowledge to stabilize the club to an even greater degree.

When installing the vice-presidents, Walter Howell and Arthur Bacon, Mr. Osborne said that they as future presidents should use 1951 as a year of preparation. His words to the president were directed to the vice-presidents also.

Thomas Rodger, the treasurer, was informed by the lieutenant-governor that a sound financial foundation was necessary for any organization. He added that because of Mr. Rodger's abilities he was chosen for the position.

To Ernest Bartlett, the secretary, Mr. Osborne asked him to continue his fine work. He summed up Mr. Bartlett's work in the past with "he's the finest secretary in the Ontario, Quebec and Maritimes District."

The determination of the policy and activities of the club in 1951, said Mr. Osborne, will be made by the board of directors which includes Charles Hurst, Rufus Payne, Ben Myers, Wilson Gemmell, William Ovens, Robert Bastable and Edward Ryan. Upon this group, he added, rests the general management.

Past-president's pin was presented to A. S. Plaskett, and the president's pin to Mr. Hancock.

Cut Train Services

LONDON, Jan. 5 (Reuters) — British railways are planning cuts in train services because of the growing coal shortage, it was officially announced here Thursday night.

Canadian Car Plants Made 365,000 Vehicles

OSHAWA, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Canadian automobile plants produced 365,000 vehicles in 1950, made up of 255,000 passenger cars and 110,000 trucks, and exceeding 1949's output by 73,000 vehicles. These figures are given in a review of the automotive industry in Canada by William W. Wecker, president of General Motors of Canada, Ltd.

The Canadian market absorbed around 400,000 cars and trucks, because some 79,000 units were imported, while 31,000 Canadian cars were marked for export.

Grain Men Predict Difficult Situation

WINNIPEG, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Winnipeg grain men said Thursday they look for a difficult situation this spring in the handling of frost-damaged grain from the 1950 crop.

August frosts froze more than half the spring wheat crop of 430,000,000 bushels. Other grains were similarly hit. Much of the damaged grain still is in farm storage. Safe while frozen, this grain may start to heat and deteriorate in warm weather.

At the Lakehead, grain drying facilities are taxed to capacity: With the bulk of the damp grain yet to be moved eastward, grain men see serious congesion ahead.

Ex-Reeve Dies

WINDSOR, Jan. 5 (CP) — Emilien Rocheleau, 79, of La Salle, former reeve of Sandwich West township, died in hospital here Thursday. A life-long resident of the township, he was elected reeve in 1932 and served on the township council for 10 years. For several years he was public school trustee.

New Housing Project

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)— A new $3,000,000,000 federal housing program aimed primarily at meeting United States defence needs was announced Thursday. The four-point program provides for construction of community facilities in defence areas, government purchases of land and construction of houses where required to do the job, and new aid for the pre-fabricated housing industry.

Unofficial Record

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 5 (AP) — Carol Bayley of Springfield, soared 30,380 feet above Miami Thursday for an unofficial light plane altitude record. She beat the mark of 24,504 feet set by Ana Luisa Branger in Washington, D.C., last year.

Panama Tremors

PANAMA, Panama, Jan. 5 (AP)—Strong earth tremors were felt here last night. The town of Penonome, about 90 miles northwest of Panama City, reported a severe shock that sent residents fleeing from their homes, but no damage was reported.

Hospital Plan Headed For New Trouble

VICTORIA, B.C., Jan. 5—(CP) —British Columbia's first experiment in socialization—the hospital insurance scheme—appears headed for another squall when the legislature opens Feb. 20.

Health Minister A. D. Turnbull has indicated it may be necessary to increase the $36 ceiling imposed by the legislature last year.

"A definite decision has not been made yet on how much the increase should be," he said in an interview. Speculation is that it will be $4.

Persons with dependents now pay $33 a year for hospital care while single persons pay $21. Payments are compulsory and a number have been fined for non-payment of premiums.

Last session the legislature members gave the government authority to increase the premiums to $36 and $24, but they were not raised.

The government had asked for blanket powers to fix premiums at any amount necessary but the members insisted there should be a limit.

In mid-1950 a drive was launched to have delinquents pay arrears, and for a time the financial picture brightened. The government decided to leave the rates unchanged.

Costs Going Up

But hospital costs are still going up. This is the basic cause of the scheme's ills.

Betweeny July, 1948, when the scheme started, and Dec. 31, 1949, the government had to make good a $4,200,000 deficit. It then voted a special $2,500,000 to take care of an anticipated deficit in 1950.

Mr. Turnbull now has indicated that this amount will not cover the deficit.

It will be up to the legislature to determine how the scheme can be brought into balance.

Three courses appear to be open:

1. Continuation of the government's subsidy to underwrite the deficits.
2. Increase in the premiums.
3. Fixing of premiums for single persons and persons with dependents at the same future.

Of these three, the second appears to be the most likely, with the increases coming in the second half of 1951. The premiums are paid in two installments or monthly when payroll deductions are used.

Longfield to look after flowers in cases of bereavement; Mrs. T. J. Jackson as the parsonage board representative; Mrs. O. Thorndyke, Mrs. G. Waddell, Mrs. C. Cummiskey, Miss L. Thompson and Mrs. Herb. Fallis the committee to supply flowers for church decoration.

Mrs. Herb. Coppins and Mrs. Wm. Jordan were appointed to look after the dishes, silverware and linen in the church kitchen. The five groups were to arrange for their own leaders. Plans were made for the annual congregational meeting and supper to be held January 12. The treasurer's report showed a very successful year with a bank balance of $224.95. Mrs. Ona Thorndyke moved a vote of thanks to the retiring officers.

The program was in charge of group one with the theme, "The Kingdom of God." Mrs. George Waddell gave a very interesting talk on this subject relating the "Parable of the Sower." Mrs. Jackson read a poem, "Our Sabbath Day." Mrs. J. Hampson read "My Plea." Mrs. Harvey Fallis and Mrs. L. Kennedy sang "Waiting on Jesus." Mrs. T. Malcomson read a poem, "Good Beginnings." Miss Betty Waddell gave a piano instrumental, "The Bells of St. Mary's" and Mrs. Kennedy gave a reading, "The Party Line."

The hostess was assisted in serving lunch by Misses Marie Carr and Betty Waddell and Mrs. L. Kennedy.

Padre Advises Prayer Only Help for Democracy

Mrs. Albert Mason was Thursday evening installed for her third term as president of the Ladies' Auxiliary to Branch 82 of the Canadian Legion. She took the office with knowledge that the work this year may be greatly increased over past years through development of the present critical world situation.

The Rev. W. J. Gilling, army padre from 1939-45, who was with the fighting men in France, North Africa, Italy and Northwest Europe, told the 80 women assembled for the annual dinner meeting: "The next war will be different from the last and nowhere will it be pleasant. (He was referring to women rolling bandages, seeing the soldiers off on the trains, etc.).

"The one thing we can do at this grave moment is pray," said Mr. Gilling. "I advise you, go home tonight and pray, not simply because I am a priest of the church, but because I believe it is the only way to save us." He referred to the slogan recently publicised by the Roman Catholics, "The family that prays together stays together," and restated it in this form: "The democracy that prays together will stay together."

The ceremony of installation was conducted by visiting provincial president Mrs. Louise Long and secretary-treasurer of the Provincial Command, Mrs. M. Richardson, both of Toronto.

Mrs. J. M. Gray was first properly re-installed as standard bearer and she then presented each of the executive members for installation. Vice presidents are Mrs. G. Stevens and Mrs. B. G. Rollins; treasurer is Mrs. R. Ritchie, re-elected, and the new secretary is Mrs. C. S. Windsor. Executive committee includes Mrs. E. Graham, Mrs. E. Dormer, Mrs. C. W. Kernohan, Mrs. W. G. Downer, and Mrs. A. E. Wade. Past president Mrs. A. Parrington pledged herself to continue giving assistance to the president.

A picutre of the past year's activities was presented in the reports of retiring secretary Mrs. W. G. Downer, and treasurer Mrs. R. Ritchie. A substantial bank balance was reported with money earned from bingos, raffles, teas and bazaars, etc.

For the assistance given to the men's branch, sincere thanks was extended by president Mr. P. J. Burke, who particularly mentioned the Christmas tree party for the children, a new centure.

A toast to the Auxiliary was proposed by Mayor M. J. Swanston saying "The Legion wouldn't be the organization it is without this Auxiliary." Miss Barbara Waters, of the Ex-Servicewomen's Branch, toasted the men of the Legion. The toast to the King was proposed by Mr. Jack Rogers, secretary-treasurer.

Following the dinner served in the ballroom of the Club Aragon, the ladies enjoyed an evening of cards in the Marine Room.

Door prize winner was Mrs. M. Richardson, of Toronto.

Pin-up Queen Prefers Book To Cheesecake

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5 (AP).—The first new pin-up queen of the war would frankly prefer to curl up with a good book than pose for cheesecake.

Marilyn Monroe is the girl with the body beautiful that is threatening such pin-up stalwarts as Jane Russell and Betty Grable. This week she received word that she was named "Miss Cheesecake" by the editors of Stars and Stripes in Germany.

Miss Monroe is busty, blonde and beautiful with a creamy complexion and a slinky movement that recalls Jean Harlow. It was therefore unusual to learn that she is more concerned with philosophy books than bathing suits.

"Oh, I don't mind cheesecake," she told me. "I realize it is a necessary thing in the movie business and it comes naturally to me.

"Also, I'm happy if the boys in the service like my pictures. I have received a lot of mail from Korea and that is very gratifying.

Doesn't Fit Pattern

Aside from the physical aspects Marilyn doesn't fit the usual starlet pattern. She doesn't drink or smoke and she doesn't like night clubs. She'd rather read a book.

"I have only one charge account, and that's at Beverly Hills book store," she said.

The blonde was orphaned shortly after her birth in Los Angeles 22 years ago. Her father had been killed in an automobile accident before she was born and her mother became ill and was unable to care for Marilyn. The mother is believed to have died. Marilyn spent some of her early years in an orphanage.

"I was married at 16, left school at 17 and divorced at 18," she recalled. "Then I got in the picture business. . ."

Her ambition? "To be a really good actress," she answered.

The allocation of $100 for the year 1950 was met in full.

Old Opera House Popular Spot In Mountains

CANMORE, Alta. — (CP) — Canmore's log cabin theatre has had plenty of fun since it was erected in the lee of rugged Chinaman's Peak, protected against the slip stream of the years that has whistled through Whitman's Pass in the Canadian Rockies.

They call it the Opera House and it has been that—and also a place for dancing and a place where the band practised and the minstrels played. But like an old gentleman with gnarled features, it has retained its dignity through the years.

Believed the only amusement centre of its kind in Canada, the Opera House has been standing since 1898.

It remembers when the miners danced the polka and the square dances to scrapings of the local orchestra. It remembers minstrel shows and amateur theatricals. It remembers some travelling operas.

The miners snaked the sturdy pine logs from the forest to build what at first was a structure 40 feet long and 26 feet wide. Movies were operated in the cabin as early as 1915.

Spruced Up

It's many years since the kitchen chairs were replaced by upholstered chairs, although down front today, where the children sit except at matinees, there are 120 quaint seats that sit on individual stools.

William Ramsay, proprietor from 1918 until recently, said that in his years of operation he made "two mistakes but enjoyed both of them."

One was in 1926 when he brought the International Welsh Choir to Canmore's log cabin theatre. The second was when he booked the British National Opera Company to play "The Bohemian Girl." Neither paid.

"But the better class musicals—not Harry James tootling his trumpet—have aways been popular here."

DOROTHY DIX

Engagement a Test Run For Happiness in Marriage

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Do you think that the way a boy and girl get along before marriage is any indication of the way they would get along after marriage?

AN ENGAGED COUPLE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Of course it is. It is just the preview of what their marriage will be like. It is a prophecy or a warning, only few of them are wise enough to understand it. If a girl and boy are congenial, if they have the same tastes and like to do the same things before marriage, they can count on being good pals after marriage. If they are amiable and good-natured and unselfish and if they get along harmoniously before marriage, they will live peaceably together until their golden wedding day.

Dorothy Dix

But if one wants to do one thing and the other wants to do another; if one wants to go out and the other wants to stay at home; if one likes the movies and the other hates them; and particularly if they fight and squabble and fall out and make up, and are filled with jealousy of each other before marriage, they will live a cat and dog life as husband and wife. The chances are they will end their ill-assorted union by divorce.

Their Tastes are Fixed

For, you see, by the time people are old enough to get married their charcters are fixed. Their tastes and their habits have hardened into a permanent pattern and they not only cannot alter them, they do not want to change them. And their dispositions are set. They are irritable or amiable. Grouchy or good-natured. Bossy or adaptable, as nature made them. And no husband or wife can make them over according to his or her desires.

A lot of foolish boys and girls believe that marriage works some sort of miracle on people that changes them from what they are into what they want them to be. Of course, nothing of the kind happens. There is no hocus-pocus in the words that a preacher says over a couple that alters them one iota. If they were uncongenial before marriage, they are still more uncongenial after marriage because their tastes and habits are brought into daily and hourly conflict.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have been married for nearly fourteen years and have a son just beginning to grow up. In the past number of years I have grown away from my husband and now care very little whether he comes or goes. Our boy has kept us together, but that will not last long, for I have lost my husband's love as completely as he long ago lost mine.

My husband goes around with other women. In our early years he was gentle and lovable, but now he has grown bitter and hard and selfish and illtreats me whenever possible. He has given me plenty of grounds for divorce, yet I don't want to break up my home and let him go. I am no longer as attractive as I once was and not brave enough to start a new life alone. He adores the ground our son walks upon. What should I do? Am I wrong in wanting to leave him to find his own happiness and I mine?

BETTY

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I should judge from your letter that as your husband pays the piper he is the one who has the right to call the tune, and decide whether your shell of a home shall be broken up or not.

Apparently you are one of the women who think that in the give and take of marriage the wife should do all of the taking and none of the giving. A lot of women are like that. They think that their husbands owe them everything and that all the return that they should make is to be nominally wives.

According to your own account, you soon lost interest in your husband and made no effort to hold him. Why, then, should you feel yourself ill-used if he has gone to other women for the affection and companionship that you denied him? As for what he owes you, he has paid pretty well for the scraps you have given him by supporting you during all these years.

But if you are unhappy and dissatisfied with the uncertainty of your life and as you still want to hold on to your job, why don't you have a frank talk with your husband and find out where you stand? Perhaps he loves the boy well enough to want to keep a home for him at any cost. Perhaps you can re-establish your relationship on a friendship basis.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a young man about to be married, and my prospective mother-in-law, who has just left her husband, insists on coming and living with us although she has other places she could go. I am violently opposed to having her. What shall I do?

DISAPPOINTED BOY

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Call the wedding off, or take mother-in-law on the chin, so to speak.

50 Years Wed Pair Honored At Fowl Supper

NORWOOD, Jan. 5 —(ENS)— A fowl supper was held at Havelock Orange Hall in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Moore on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary on New Year's day.

Mr. ad Mrs. Moore were married 50 years ago in the Havelock United Church parsonage by the Rev. Bell. Mrs. Moore was the former Annie Hubble. She was attended by her sister Pheobe (Mrs. Sherwood Gerow). Fred McMillan, of Havelock, was best man. Both were present at the supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore have lived in the vicinity of Havelock all their married life except for three years spent in Regina, Sask., and for the past three years have spent the winter months in Norwood. To this union was born two sons and four daughters: Fred Moore of Cobourg and Charles Moore, who passed away 13 years ago; Mrs. Andrew Wrightly (Elsie) of Norwood; Mrs. Frank Wrightly (May) of Havelock; Mrs. Samuel McDonald (Margaret) of Campbellford; Mrs. Herbert McKay (Myrtle) of Keene; also 22 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Mr. Moore was born in Tudor township 76 years ago, the son of the late Elliott Moore and Louise Smith. Mr. Moore has three brothers living, German Moore of Norwood; Almen Moore of Foxborough; and Colborne Moore of Calgary, Alberta.

Mrs. Moore was born in Shandos township 70 years ago, the daughter of of the late Nathan Hubble and Margaret Parcels. Mrs. Moore has three brothers and five sisters: Edward Hubble of Peterborough; Gordon Hubble of Havlock; Archie Hubble of Cayuga; Mrs. Alex Emery (Gladys); Mrs. Robert Baker (Bertha); Mrs. Richard Baker (Winnie), all of Norwood; Mrs. Sherwood Gerow (Pheobe) of Havelock; Mrs. Monaghan (Mary) of Peterborough.

The color scheme of the dining room was in keeping with the occasion. The bride's table was covered with a bridal cloth centred with a three-tier wedding cake with golden candles.

A short program followed the lovely supper, consisting of a solo by Miss Beulah Chase, "Through the Years," accompanied by her mother at the piano. Miss Betty Wrightly and Master Marvin Wrightly sang a duet with Betty playing the guitar. Mrs. Fred Chase then sang a solo followed by a recitation by Mrs. Herbert McKay. The remainder of the evening was spent in round and square dancing.

Among the many beautiful gifts received was a studio couch from the family.

Relatives and friends were present from Belleville, Wallbridge, Foxborough, Cobourg, Peterborough, Keene, Baltimore, Frankford, Campbellford, Nephline Mines, Norwood and Havelock.

Romantic Angle Upsets Welsh Bus Union

CARDIFF, Wales — (CP) — Cardiff bus drivers threatened to stage a walk-out when the local transport board considered the question of hiring women conductors.

The drivers feared employment of women on their buses would lead to domestic troubles with their own wives.

The challenge was made by union spokesmen after it was announced that 30 "clippies" were to be employed to meet the current shortage of help.

Fred Tyrrell, secretary of the local busmen's union, told the transport board that anxious wives had come to his office during the war pleading that their husbands should work only with men.

Because of this experience, the drivers felt that employment of "clippies" again would bring an indignant protest from the wives.

"Are you suggesting that every conductress is an evil temptress?" asked Councillor J. H. Morgan.

Wives Not Happy

Mr. Tyrrell replied that wives were not happy with the thought of their husbands working eight hours with an attractive young woman.

Miss Polly Todd, a former conductress, described the objection as "ridiculous."

"This is a song and dance about nothing," she said. "As a wartime 'clippie' I was shown the greatest respect by the men. The majority of drivers and 'clippies' never let their relationship go beyond the needs of their work. There is no reason why men and women cannot work side by side."

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Honey Most Easily Digested Eaten in Natural State

You have come to expect me to preach healthful cooking to you most of the time and I am at it again.

While Canada cannot claim honey as an exclusive product it can claim to be a major producer of this delicious natural sweet and recipes containing it belong in this Canadian column.

Honey is the most easily digested sweet, because it is eaten in its natural state.

The honey recipes I have chosen for today are suited to winter menus. (As I write this the temperature outside is hovering around zero.)

One of my entertaining friends (yes, I mean it both ways) is serving Cranberry Conserve at a buffet party where she is having a cold roast turkey.

✧ ✧ ✧

Cranberry Conserve (uncooked and sweetened with honey)

One-half pound raw cranberries, 1¼ cups honey, ¼ cup orange juice, ½ cup each chopped nuts and raisins, rind of 1 orange grated; wash cranberries and put through coarse knife of food chopper. Add all remaining ingredients. As this improves with age it might be advisable to double the recipe. Store in refrigerator in covered quart jar, and use from it all during January.

✧ ✧ ✧

Orange Roll Special (A Sunday Tea Snack)

One tablespoon orange juice, 2 teaspoons grated orange rind, ½ cup honey, ¼ cup butter, ¾ cup milk. If desired 2 cups ready-mix biscuit may be used as the topping or make your own baking powder biscuit dough.

Make a thin syrup with the orange juice, grated rind, honey and butter. Pour equal amounts of it into 8 buttered custard cups. Blend the biscuit mix with the milk as directed on package or moisten it with milk if you make your own and drop an equal amount of the dough in each custard cup, over the syrup. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 12 to 15 minutes. Serve hot, with squares of white cream cheese.

✧ ✧ ✧

Honey and Oatmeal Brownies

One cup best quality vegetable shortening or margarine, 1¼ cups honey, 2 beaten eggs, 2 squares chocolate, 1½ cups rolled oats or oatmeal, 2½ cups flour, 1 teaspoon each baking powder and cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup broken nuts or cocoanut. Cream the shortening or margarine and honey together.

Add beaten eggs, melted chocolate and rolled oats or oatmeal. Mix well. Add sifted dry ingredients and the nut meats. Drop by small spoonsfuls on buttered and floured cookie sheet. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes. This is a slow oven for cookies. Remove from pan with spatula while still warm.

✧ ✧ ✧

Honey Bran Pudding

Fine to have on hand if your friends have a happy habit of dropping in on you unexpectedly.

One-quarter cup butter or margarine, 2-3 cup honey, 1 egg, ½ cup milk, ½ cup bran, 1 cup flour, ½ teaspoon each soda and salt, 1 cup seedless raisins. Cream butter and honey together. Add beaten egg and milk and bran. Sift dry ingredients and mix with the raisins; add to first mixture. Combine well and turn into buttered mould, cover tightly and steam 2 hours. Best with Hard Sauce. (Use 1-lb. vacuum pack coffee tins if you do not have a pudding mould.)

War in Korea Boosts Pepper Prices

By KAY REX

OTTAWA, Jan 5—(CP)—Pepper and the current Korean situation have more in common than you think — at least from the housewife's point of view.

That's because nearly every time friction breaks out on the earth's surface—and now it's in Korea—the price of pepper begins to climb.

E. B. Paget, head of the trade department's imported food divisions, says there always has been a "terrific fluctuation" in the price of pepper.

"Pepper," he says, "is sensitive to international condtiions."

Partially to Blame

That's why the Korean crisis can be partially blamed for the recent three-cent jump black pepper took in Ottawa, from 35 to 38 cents for a small bottle. Now it's 10 cents more than it was a year ago and three times its pre-war price.

Nowadays most of Canada's pepper comes from India. In pre-war years Indonesia was regarded as the greatest producer. But because of the Japanese occupation and subsequent upheavels, the vines went unattended and the country's pepper export disappeared.

Why Pepper Costs More

Here are a few figures for the housewife who wonders why black pepper now costs her more money.

In the first place its wholesale price has risen to $1.50 a pound from the pre-war figure of less than 10 cents.

In August, because of world conditions, prices soared as high as $2.50, only to fall back late to the $1.50 mark.

In 1949 the average wholesale price was around 60 cents.

The Bureau of Statistics reports that Canada's pepper imports in the first nine months of this year totalled 1,612,881 pounds valued at $2,076,205. On the other hand, imports during the corresponding 1949 period were only 52,406 pounds below this year's figure—but the shipments were valued at only $998,761.

Consumer Resistance

The housewife has her own weapon for batting high food prices—and it looks as if she's using it.

Experts say "consumer resistance" is largely responsible for the drop in coffee consumption in Canada this year—and probably for the subsequent drop in coffee prices.

There wasn't nearly as much coffee imported in 1950 as in 1949. And, coincidently, some of the well known brands now are selling for a couple of cents less.

In the first nine months of 1950 a total of 61,436,816 pounds of green coffee was imported compared with 68,856,268 pounds in 1949.

On the other hand 41,290,523 pounds of black tea were imported in the first nine months compared with 33,391,947 in 1949.

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"People don't have much willpower these days, do they? This is the third can that's contained New Year's resolutions!"

Dancer Shuns Marriage

NEW YORK — (AP) — Colette Marchand, the tired business man's dream come true of a leggy French dancer, is a mite unhappy about her art.

She's also "frightened"—that's what she said—by the male's mania for marriage on this side of the ocean.

Mlle. Marchand for some weeks made Broadway a brighter place along with the rest of Roland Petit's Ballets De Paris Company before it went off on a U.S. and Canadian tour.

Among other dancing duties, it is the Marchand achievement to step on stage from a huge egg and whirl provocatively through 15 minutes of latter-day terpsichore. The applause and whistles are good, she admits, but the dance itself—"it does nothing for me."

Her heart, like that of the comic who would play "Hamlet," is set on doing classical ballet.

Big Aspirations

"I should like very much to do a long, traditional ballet like 'Swan Lake' sometime," she says. "A serious ballet and 'Hard Boiled Egg' together, that would be very good."

To help wind up the New York run, she also danced a very leggy "Carmen," but it is the "Hard Boiled Egg" that has set her big town reputation.

To keep herself set for any classical opportunity, Colette, who at 25 has been dancing 20 years, studied daily in ballet school during her visit here. The glances, shoulder-tossing and hip-swaying strut of her current success, one gathers, need no such rehearsal.

Besieged by fan mail and phone calls, mostly masculine, she said: "It is frightening the way so many American men want to marry me. Even the taxi driver. He hears my accent and says, 'Marry me, and take me to France with you. I must marry a French girl.' I do not understand how so many want to get married. It is not that way in France. There the men seem more satisfied. Why is that?"

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

The first game of the new National Hockey Association was played at Montreal 41 years ago today. Canadiens defeated the Cobalt Silver Six by 7-5. The NHA was enlarged shortly after that by acquisition of some CHA teams, but the National Hockey League was not formed until 1917.

50,000 Fans Watch Cricket

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 5 (Reuters) — England scored 217 for the loss of five wickets here today on the first day of the third cricket test match against Australia.

England, already two down in the best-of-five series, won the toss and elected to bat first. England's total, on a pitch favoring batsmen, would only be called moderate, especially as the five top bats went out.

Honors of the day went to Keith Miller of Australia who claimed three wickets and also brought off a brilliant catch to get rid of Cyril Washbrook early in the day.

From the England viewpoint the worst disappointment was the failure of Denis Compton. He lasted only three balls and then was bowled by Miller for none — the second successive "duck" for the great Denis in the present test series.

Some 50,000 fans watched the day's play — first of the six-day match.

Rank Weslock Top Amateur

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP). — Nick Weslock, the Windsor shotsmith who excels at medal play, is ranked by the Ontario Golf Association as the province's top amateur for 1950.

The rankings, released Thursday night, placed Jerry Kesselring of Kitchener second and Jack Nash of London third.

Weslock, ranked No. 1 for the second year in succession, made his best 1950 showing in the Canadian open championship where his 287 score for the 72 holes won him low amateur honors.

The rankings:

1. Nick Weslock, Windsor.
2. Jerry Kesselring, Westmount Golf and Country Club and Rockaway Golf Club, Kitchener.
3. Jack Nash, London.
4. Phil Farley, Toronto.
5. Moe Norman, Rockway Golf Club, Kitchener.
6. Tony Matlock, Rockway Golf Club, Kitchener.
7. R. J. Ainell, Toronto.
8. Emerson Creed, London.
9. Gordon Ball, Westmount Golf and Country Club, Kitchener.
10. Bobby Fair, Toronto.

Denying Williams Traded To Athletics

BOSTON, Jan. 5. — (AP). — General Manager Joe Cronin of Boston Red Sox denied today that Ted Williams would be traded to Philadelphia Athletics.

A Miami story in the Boston Post said the slugger would go to the A's in exchange for first baseman Ferris Fain and pitchers Coleman, Brissie and Shantz.

Cronin said Williams' contract would go out in the mails Feb. 1, along with those of other Sox players.

Joseph Smith Buried In Bethany Cemetery

BETHANY, Jan. 5—(ENS)—Joseph Smith of Bethany, aged 89, died in a Peterborough hospital on Monday, following a brief illness. He was born in Port Perry, later moving to Uxbridge and for the last 47 years has resided in Bethany where he was employed with the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways until retirement. The only two surviving relatives are a nephew, George Smith of Bethany and two nieces, Mrs. Roy Russell, Cobourg and Mrs. Herman Sisson, Barrie.

The funeral service was held Wednesday from the Reynolds home, Bethany, with Rev. T. S. Gault of St. Paul's Anglican Church officiating. Burial was in Graham's cemetery.

Pallbearers were Earl Weatherill, Lloyd Capstick, Fred Fallis, Robert Reid, L. H. Staples and Harvey Fallis.

Mrs. W. Munn Funeral

The Rev. W. J. Gilling of St. Luke's Anglican church officiated at the funeral service at Comstock's funeral home Thursday for Mrs. William Munn. She died Sunday in hospital. Pallbearers were Douglas Kidd, Bud Kidd, Arthur Millard, Neil Cranfield, Douglas Cranfield and Wilbert Edgar. Burial was at the Little Lake cemetery.

French Troops Roll Back Red-Led Army

SAIGON, Indo-China, Jan. 5 (AP)—The major French counter-offensive on the northwest Indo-China frontier entered its second day today with French army headquarters announcing initial success.

Thousands of French troops are advancing against the Communist-led Vietminh army for the first time in four months.

The decisive fighting in the frontier area is for more than a thousand square miles of frontier position. French forces which the commander-in-chief declared "must fight for control of the main approaches to Haiphong."

Haiphong is not only a supply port for the entire French position in Indo-China but is also a potential point of evacuation for the garrison in event of a mass Chinese Communist invasion. Loss of the Haiphong area would force the collapse of the entire French northern position.

The French counter-offensive began early Thursday. It swept forward west from the Tienyen-Hanoi line in the coastal area 75 miles northeast of Haiphong. It was an enveloping move seeking to trap large numbers of the Nationalist troops attacking the base of the Tienyen-Mongay salient.

The Nationalists continued to bump fresh battalions into the attack.

Tienyen, a major French defence position, blocks the way for a Nationalist descent south in strength upon the rich Hongay coal fields and Haiphong.

Court Fines Three On Liquor Charges

Harry Hoy, 467 Chamberlain St., pleaded guilty in police court today to a charge of being drunk and was fined $10 and costs.

Davis Ellis, Omemee, paid $10 and costs when he pleaded guilty to a drunk charge.

John Whaley, 272 Wescott St., facing a third offence drunk charge, was remanded on $300 bail to Monday.

Young's Pt. Man Pays $34 In Traffic Fines

Laurence Young, Young's Point, paid fines of $10 and $11.50 costs on a charge of careless driving and $10 and $2.50 costs on a charge of having inadequate brakes when he was found guilty in police court.

Evidence was that Young attempted to pass two cars, one pushing the other, on Water St. north of Parkhill Rd. the evening of Dec. 6. His car met in collision with a car driven by George McClennan, 438 Mark St., travelling south on Water St.

Constable Claire McGillen testified Young had been drinking, but was not drunk. He said there was a blanket covering the left front window of Young's car. When he tested the brakes on Young's car, he found them poor.

Both McClennan and a man driving behind him, Donald Armstrong, 670 Frank St., said Young was driving without his lights on. The accident, they said took place on the west side of the street.

Young said there was a car parked on the east side of the road. He tried to drive between it and the oncoming car and the collision took place.

U.S. Air Force Reports Rapped In UK

LONDON, Jan. 5 — (AP) — London's Daily Mirror, which claims a circulation of 4,500,000 today rebels against what it calls "fantasitic" communiques by the United States Air Force in Korea.

Uuder a headline "silly headquarters handouts on the Korean War," the Mirror carries a front-page editorial asserting that figurese on Red troops killed by Allied planes are "completely valueless" and "almsot always false."

The Mirror cites a summary Thursday by Maj.-Gen. Earle E. Partridge, Commander of the U. S. Fifth Air Force, on results of operations by American pilots.

The summary, the Mirror says claimed 450 Communistst killed in Northwestern Seoul by two Shooting Star Fighter Wings, 250 more cut down by Mastang pilots and 1,000 killed or wounded in 59 Communist-held towns.

The Mirror comments:

"These estimates, coming from pilots travelling at over 400 miles an hour are completely valueless because they are almost always false.

"They are worse than false. They are dangerous. It is becoming glaringly obvious that factual, unsensational news about what is really happening in Korea is essential . . .

Since . . . correspondents must report what is said at head-quarters, it is the headquarters staff themselves who must drop sensationalism and try to be sober and careful in information they are giving to the world."

Edward G. Freeman

The funeral for Edward Gerard Freeman of RR 1, Ida, who died Saturday was held Tuesday from the Anglesey funeral home to St. Alphonsus Roman Catholic Church where requiem mass was said at 9 a.m. by the Rev. E. J. Mohan.

The pallbearers were Francis Freeman, George Freeman, Edward Vinette and Irwin Clapham. Burial was in St. Peter's cemetery where graveside prayers were said by Father Mohan.

Birth Rate Drops

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Canada's birth rate dropped in 1949 to 27.1 per 1,000 population from 27.2 in 1948 and 28.8 in 1947, the Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday.

Approve Ambassador

MADRID, Jan. 5 (AP)—Appointment of John Balfour, present British ambassador to Argentina, as ambassador to Spain has been approved by the Spanish government, an informed source said Thursday. In London, the foreign office declined to comment.

British Cars Hit As Canada Drops Privileges

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 (CP).—Canada is withdrawing special dumping concessions on imported motor cars next May, to the keen disappointment of the British motor industry.

A Revenue Department spokesman said Thursday that anti-dumping regulations, waived two years ago on imported motor cars will be reapplied May 31.

It will mean that imported cars selling at less than what the government considers is a fair price either in Canada or in the home market, will bear additional duty to bring the price up.

Informed officials said the British motor industry which was concentrated on the Canadian market to produce more dollars for Britain is keenly disappointed at the Canadian move.

May Curb Market

It could lead to a curtailment of the Canadian market for British cars, now flowing into Canada at the rate of about 4,000 or 5,000 a month.

Canada, importing about 50,000 British cars last year, was the world's largest purchaser of the smaller English car. Australia was first with an annual import of about 80,000.

The United Kingdom High Commissioner's office declined to comment on the Canadian move, other than to say this:

"Implications of this development now are being worked out with the British motor industry."

At the last session of parliament, Revenue Minister McCann disclosed that the Canadian automotive industry had protested the sale of British cars in Canada at prices below those prevailing in the home market.

GRIM CHOICE—Mrs. Frank Purcell, of Atlanta, Ga., holds her daughter, Carolyn Joan, 4, and tries to make her decision. Doctors say that only an operation to remove both the child's cancerous eyes can save her life. Mrs. Purcell says she keeps hoping for a miracle. The father says he'll abide by whatever the doctors think best.

Not Sure War To Come In '51

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 — (CP) — The New York Times said today that the United States government is not basing its "rearmament or strategic plans" on the assumption that there will be a general war in Western Europe in 1951.

A Washington dispatch by James Reston said there are some Washington officials "who believe that the Soviet Union will move into Western Europe this year."

"There are others who feel that the chances of a general war are about even, and this latter group is arguing that the current pace of industrial and manpower mobilization should be doubled."

'An assumption of all-out war, however ,calls for the implementation of a military budget of $150,000,000,000 and the mobilization of an army of 15,000,000 men, and, so far as can be determined, no high official of the governmetn feels that the situation has deteriorated to the point of adopting this war plan."

STRATEGIC SPOT

The island of Guam, United States defence outpost in the Pacific, is 30 miles long, four to eight miles wide.

Peter Chimenti

The funeral for Peter Chimenti, 297 Sherbrooke St., who died Monday was held Thursday from the family residence to St. Peter's Cathedral where requiem mass was said at 9 a.m. The celebrant was the Rt. Rev. P. P. Butler.

The pallbearers were Anthony Lagana, Samuel Lagana, J. Romano, Dominic Berardi, James Johnson, Harold Fredenburg, Frank Marino and Samuel Cancila. Burial was in St. Peter's cemetery where graveside prayers were said by the Rev. Ray Garvey.

Lift Baggage Car Put On New Wheels

GALT, Jan. 5.—Several hundred passengers on the CPR Chicago-Toronto express sat quietly in their coaches just west of here Thursday while the baggabe car was lifted inches from the track and two new wheels fitted to it. A four-hour delay was reported on the main CPR line for all trains while the repairs were made.

According to company officials, one wheel on the baggage car cracked and broke, throwing the wheel on the opposite side off its track. The train was moving slowly and the engineer stopped immediately. A heavy crane was shunted to the scene from London.

Plan To Boost Reservists' Pay

OTTAWA, Jan. 5. (CP)—Training maximums for reservists in the navy, army, and air force are going to be increased and as a result they'll be able to make more money as citizen servicemen, a defense spokesman said on Thursday.

At present, a member of the reserve may draw up to 30 days' pay for headquarters training with his unit, the training time being calculated on the basis that two nights' drill equals a full day at regular army pay rates.

In addition, the citizen soldier can draw up to 10 days' pay for attendance at summer camp.

These maximums will be boosted perhaps as much as 50 per cent. Announcement of the boost is expected to be made shortly.

7 Red Armies Snap Pincers Closer Around U.N. Troops

Nehru Asks British To Withdraw Troops from Asia

LONDON, Jan. 6—(CP)—Indian Prime Minister Nehru Friday asked British Commonwealth leaders to withdraw their military forces from Asia, but to continue to help raise living standards there. Qualified sources said Nehru dominated talks among leaders of the eight nations represented here on the topic of restoring peace to Korea and stability to Asia. The study was inconclusive. It is to be completed Monday.

Nehru's formula provides:

1. Communist China to be admitted to the United Nations.

2. A Korean ceasefire as a prelude to creating an independent, united and democratic Korean state.

3. Formosa to be turned over to the duly-recognized government of China, as provided in the Cairo declaration of 1943.

4. A peace treaty to restore independence to Japan.

Asked To Leave

5. France to consider quitting Indo-China and Britain, in time, to pull out of Malaya in the face of those countries' rising revolutionary movements.

6. The advanced nations of the west to help the under-developed Asian peoples to raise their living standards, but without strings.

Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain was said to have led off the discussion by reaffirming his view that Britain was right in recognizing Red China. Bevin's reasoning was that if peace could be preserved a policy of friendship with Red China might pay off and might weaken, if not break, the Peiping-Moscow axis

Australian Prime Minister R G. Menzies, was said to be against admitting Red China to the U.N. at a time when her troops are fighting U.N. soldiers. He argued U.S. public opinion could not be ignored on this score. New Zealand and South Africa were reported in broad agreement with the Australian view.

The informant said there seems to be a general feeling among Commonwealth leaders—so far it is not a set attitude—against supporting the U.S. proposal that the United Nations declare Red China an aggressor.

Holding Back

The Commonwealth leaders apparently argue that such a course sooner or later must involve enforcement action in terms of the UN charter. Enforcement action, they fear, could lead to war. They seem agreed that military action against Red China will achieve little and will dissipate the energies of the non-Communist world at a time when these should be conserved.

Nevertheless, they went on record Friday as affirming that UN authority, presumably in Korea, must be maintained for the sake of world peace.

Gen. Eisenhower Leaves For New Post

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower leaves for Europe today to take up his unprecedented peacetime command of international defence forces in Western Europe.

Before leaving, he was scheduled to top off a week-long round of conferences with diplomatic and military officials by a meeting with President Truman.

Following their talk, Truman was expected to see the general off at the Washington airport.

Eisenhower is expected to tell the Europeans that while the United States is prepared to do its full share toward making Western forces strong enough to repel Communist aggression, their countries also will have to do all within their power to supply men, money and materials.

American officials so far feel that the scope and speed of military preparations in Western Europe generally are far from adequate.

Exceeds Authority

Meanwhile Senator Robert Taft (Rep. O.) has opened a new phase of the bitter foreign-policy fight by challenging President Truman's contention that he has the authority to send additional troops to Europe.

Taft said in the Senate Friday that the President has no power to commit American troops to a European defence force without approval first from Congress. He asserted that Truman had involved the United States in the Korean war "without authority."

(In Dallas, Tex., Friday night, Trade Minister C. D. Howe of Canada said Canadians would disagree with the theory of defence outlined by Taft. He said in an interview that Canadians feel that "strength is the only thing which phases the Russians and that the place to defend North America is far from North America as we can go.")

Eisenhower plans to visit the capitals of all the European members of the North Atlantic Alliance ranging from Norway and Britain in the north to Italy in the south. He probably also will talk with American officials in Germany.

Four Missing On Motorboat

HALIFAX, Jan. 6—(CP) — Search and rescue officials said here today that a lighthouse keeper, his wife and two children are believed to be aboard a small motorboat burning in Minas Channel, at the eastern end of the Bay of Fundy.

The RCAF officials said late reports indicate that small vessels in the area, attempting to go to the rescue, have been hampered by floating ice. A Dakota aircraft, from the RCAF base at Greenwood, N.S., was headed for the area to survey the situation.

A Canso may take off from Greenwood in an attempt to land near the vessel, but search and rescue officials here said it all depends on water and air temperatures because there is a risk of ice forming on the aircraft if it lands.

The lighthouse keeper and his family are believed to be off the Isle of Haute, near Advocate Harbor.

30 Big Longshoremen Held Up By 3 Thugs

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP) — While an armed robber held 30 husky Brooklyn longshoremen at bay with a menacing pistol two others today took a $12,101.18 payroll from the American Stevedore Company office.

Police said the trio stood in line with the longshoremen awaiting their pay until two messengers arrived at the plant. The messengers entered the building and were sorting the pay envelopes alphabetically when two of the men left the line and flourished guns.

Nine Escape Fire

HULL, Que., Jan. 6—(CP)—Nine persons escaped uninjured early today from the Maison Alfred rooming house when a two-alarm fire gutted the three-storey building in the business section. Damage was estimated at $75,000. Destroyed by the blaze was the rooming house, a tavern, grill and barber shop. Firemen said the blaze is believed to have started in the grill.

Two Masked Men Armed With Knives Rob Grocer And Wife

SIMCOE, Jan. 6—(CP)—Two masked men, armed with knives, tricked their way into the home of Harry Barber Friday night, robbed him and his wife of $1,100 and fled after tying the elderly couple up with adhesive tape.

Two hours later Ontario Provincial Police arrested two men near Hamilton and are holding them for questioning by Simcoe police.

Police at Simcoe identified the men as Arnold Dekelyn, 29, Port Colborne and Robert Jackson, 21, no fixed address.

Mrs. Barber told police the men came to the door of their home at the side of her husband's meat and grocery store. They knocked and when she asked who it was, they replied, "Harry."

Thinking it was her grandson, Mrs. Barber opened the door and was pushed roughly aside as the men entered. They were forced to hand over the money, then were tied with adhesive tape. Mr. Barber managed to free his hands and telephone police.

Simcoe police said Mr. Barber lost two teeth when he was struck on the mouth during a scuffle with the bandits. Mrs. Barber suffered a cut finger when she attempted to take a knife from one of the men.

Police set up road blocks at Jarvis, and Caledonia. However, the men they are holding were arrested en route to Hamilton in a taxi.

20 Germans Die In Epidemic

HAMBURG, Jan. 6 (Reuters)—An influenza epidemic which has claimed 20 lives here spread near-panic among Hamburg citizens Friday night, while many other parts of Western Europe reported widespread attacks from a less virulent form of the disease.

The greatest number of cases reported was in Britain. A wave of three-day flu hit one in five persons in Belgium. Paris doctors report a mild epidemic in France.

Belgium's epidemic was described by public health officials in Brussels as not dangerous.

Brussels is the hardest-hit city in the country. "Urgent work only" was the order in most government offices where up to 40 per cent of workers were away ill. Department stores also had depleted staffs for the January sales rush.

African Woman Has Quintuplets, All Die

LAGOS, Nigeria, Jan. 6 (Reuters).—An African woman of the Toruba tribe gave birth to quintuplets here Friday night. All of them died shortly after delivery.

The mother, Falilat Balogun, 25, was today reported "doing well."

The quints were a boy and four girls. They were born in a government dispensary here.

The European senior nursing sister said the birth was four months premature.

SMOKING SEOUL—Smoke rises from the more than 200 fires burning in Seoul, as UN forces pulled out of the former South Korean capital Thursday. Troops retreated south and naval units evacuated all men at the port of Inchon. Suwon and Wonju are seriously threatened.

UN Diplomats Struggling For Peace Plan

LAKE SUCCESS, NY, Jan. 6 —(AP). — Non-Communist United Nations diplomats conferred today behind closed doors to find a formula that will keep the Far Eastern crisis from splitting their united front.

They agreed that their two immediate aims are:

1—To localize the Korean War.

2—To preserve the United Nations as a world forum.

They agreed on how to achieve this.

The United States wants to take a strong position, formally condemn the Chinese Communists for their aggression in Korea and proceed from there.

A group of Asian countries, with at least tacit support from Britain, fear that such a stand would lead to war with Communist China and play into Russian hands. But so far they have not come forward with any concrete alternative proposal.

Let Red China In

It is reported, however, that their plan is to seat Communist China in the United Nations and then try to work out with representatives of that government a peaceful solution of all Far Eastern problems.

The Asian countries, led by India, are said to feel that the Communist Peiping government would quit fighting if offered a deal like that.

The US position was set forth Friday in a speech by delegate Warren R. Austin. He said:

"The free world, if it is to maintain its solidarity and retain and fortify its determination to remain free, cannot afford to accept this situation without a demonstration of its united will to withstand aggression."

Use Rose Bowl Clear Password

TOKYO, Jan. 6 (AP) — The Rose Bowl game figured Friday in the fierce fighting in Korea. It helped clear up some password confusion.

Cmdr. R. W. Phillips was leading a flight of United States Navy Skyraiders and Corsairs into action over Korea.

When he reported to his controller, Phillips became suspicious—the code word did not match.

The controller was unable to provide the password used to identify friendly voices. Since the controller had named a new target, Phillips wanted to make sure of his identification.

Finally Phillips blurted in exasperation:

"Who won the Rose Bowl game?"

Came the irritated reply (apparently from a frustrated Californian): "Michigan, 14-6—damn it."

That cinched it. Phillips and his boys blasted the new target.

4 Die In Hotel

SEATTLE, Jan. 6—(AP)—Four men were found dead in a hotel room where they assembled to cook a dinner of chicken, ham hocks and beans after drinking a dozen bottles of wine. Coroner John P. Brill, Jr., said the men apparently had failed to light the gas burners on the stove after turning them on last night.

Clerk Returns $50,000 Loser Counts It, Gives $1

OTTAWA, Jan. 6—(CP)—One dollar for $50,000—that's what Doreen Harris of Ottawa says she got from an unidentified man otherwise extremely careless with money.

Doreen, $33-a-week clerk in a downtown Ottawa cigar store told the story Friday and she didn't seem to mind a bit.

The story:

A man carrying a briefcase came into the cigar store. He put the briefcase on the counter, bought some cigarets, and a soft drink and chatted for a while, then left—minus the briefcase.

Doreen found it on the counter and put it away.

Thirty minutes later the man dashed back into the store. Doreen said he looked pale and there were beads of sweat on his forehead. He inquired in a halting voice if anyone had seen a briefcase.

Doreen produced it.

Bills Spill Out

The man opened it and spilled out its contents on the counter—$50,000 in crisp $1,000 bills. He counted the money, dipped his hand in his pocket and gave a dollar and departed without identifying himself. Doreen said she knew him as an occasional customer but did not know his name.

Said Doreen: "I've never seen so much money before but anyone working in a store would have done the same thing."

USSR Gets Big Supply Of Rubber From UK

LONDON, Jan. 6 (AP).—Britain shipped 9,878 tons of vital raw rubber to Russia during the first 11 months of 1950, trade figures disclosed today. Total value was £2,236,429 (about $6,709,287).

The shipment of rubber, an essential war material, was more than 20 times the amount exported to Russia in the same period in 1949 and an even more tremendous jump over the total sold in 1948. Government figures showed that in the first 11 months of 1949 only 482 tons were exported and in the same period in 1948 only 379 tons.

Officially the sales were listed under "exports of imported merchandise." A Board of Trade spokesman explained this meant the rubber was originally imported by Britain, presumably from rubber producing Malaya, and exported to the Soviet Union without processing here.

Princess Dances Till 3 With Earl Of Dalkeith

NORTHAMPTON, England, Jan. 6—(AP)—Princess Margaret and her number one suitor, the young Earl of Dalkeith, danced until 3 o'clock this morning at one of the gayets hunt balls of the English social season.

The Princess and the handsome and rich Scottish nobleman were among the 400 guests of Capt. and Mrs. George Lowther at their home, Holdenby House.

Margaret wore a satin pink-and-blue floral gown and diamond necklace. She was partner to the 27-year-old Earl in several dances.

After the dance the Princess motored to nearby Guilsborough Court, home of Lowther's parents, Col. and the Hon. Mrs. J. G. Lowther, where she is a weekend guest.

Says Finances In Good Shape

HALIFAX, Jan. 6 (CP). — Finance Minister Abbott was enroute to the Caribbean for a holiday today, leaving behind assurance Canada is on solid ground financially regarding war-preparedness.

The minister, accompanied by Mrs. Abbott, sidestepped questions regarding his next budget before leaving here Friday but he declared he has no fears about the Canadian economy at this time. The situation was "entirely manageable."

His voyage aboard the Canadian cruiser will take 21 days and he will visit Nassau, Jamaica and Bermuda.

"I'm going to gather all the strength I can so I'll be able to successfully popularize my budget when I get back" for parliament's opening Jan. 29, he said smilingly.

Not Necessity

Mr. Abbott discussed with reporters:

1. General price and wage control, which he does not consider an immediate necessity.

2. West Indies trade, about which he is optimistic.

3. Old age and sales tax legislation resulting from Dominion-Provincial talks. He said he assumes these taxes will eventually be legislated and sent to the British Parliament for approval. That course would be taken on all such legislation until the fundamental Dominion - Provincial Constitutional issue has been decided.

Mr. Abbott intends to bring down the budget as soon as possible after parliament opens but he took no paper work along to the West Indies. A crop of treasury men now are working on the estimates which were "substantial" because of the war threat.

Strike At Suwon, Wonju As Allies Retreat Down Heartbreak Highway

Chinese Throw In Everything To Trap Thousands of U.N. Soldiers Situation Described As Most Serious

TOKYO, Jan. 6—(AP)—The Communist armies of China and North Korea whipped a hammer-and-sickle offensive ahead today against United Nations soldiers retreating on wheels in South Korea. Its aim was to trap and destroy tens of thousands of Allied troops by sealing them off from the old beachhead in southeast Korea. The hammer hit straight at Suwon, 20 miles south of the twice-lost capital of Seoul; the sickle swept in massive power on Wonju, 55 miles southeast of Seoul.

With Wonju, a big road and rail centre, the Reds would control the heart of South Korea.

Roads fan out in all directions. Troops can be shunted either to the left or right or straight down toward Taegu, the Allied bastion in last summer's battle for the Pusan beachhead.

But the big prize is the main body of UN troops themselves, withdrawing south of Seoul in long motorized columns.

A Communist strike southwest from the Wonju hub would be in position to block off the retreat and trap the withdrawing Eighth Army against the Yellow Sea.

Use Seven Armies

So big is the prize that the enemy has thrown seven Chinese and Red Korean armies—210,000 or more troops, into the sickle assault on Wonju.

The Eighth Army today was retreating down "heartbreak highway" along which it fought so bitter and bloody a retreat six months ago in the hot summer sun.

Despite the cold now, the weight of long motorized columns ground the frozen road into dust. An Associated Press field dispatch told of this new ordeal:

"Dust caked the face, clogged the nose, turned eyes into watery red slits and filled the mouth with so much sand you felt your teeth were wearing away."

An enemy battalion attacked Allied rearguards south of Seoul

STRIKE AT SUWON (Continued on Page 2)

French Soldiers Break Out Of Salient

SAIGON, Indo-China, Jan. 6—(AP)—French troops, breaking out of their northeast frontier salient in a major counter-offensive, have retaken the outpost of Chucphaisan, a French army communique said tonight.

Two French columns converged on the outpost, which the Vietminh captured a month ago in a broad developing movement.

Apparently to bag a number of Nationalist battalions in the area one column thrust northeast from Tienyen to meet another spearhead driving 10 miles west from Hacoi to Chucphaisan.

Today's communique reported that the Nationalist forces are withdrawing before the French advance. There appeared to be little chance that the elusive Nationalist forces would be caught in a French trap, however.

Pakistan Premier To Attend London Parley

KARACHI, Pakistan, Jan. 6—(AP).—Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan's office announced he will leave tonight for the Commonwealth conference in London.

Liaquat Ali has been boycotting the parley, because his colleagues refused to discuss formally Pakistan's quarrel with India over the future of the State of Kashmir.

He told reporters today that the prime ministers already in London are willing to take part in a joint discussion on Kashmir.

"If the effort which will be made in London to resolve the present deadlock proves successful the Commonwealth will have rendered a signal service to world peace," he added.

Vital Question

In an official statement explaining his delayed departure for London, Liaquat said:

"When about the middle of last month I learnt that the Kashmir question would not be taken up by the security council till after the London conference I asked for its consideration by the Commonwealth Prime Ministers. I did so because the Kashmir dispute affects vitally relations between India and Pakistan and peace and security in Asia.

"It would be unrealistic and futile to consider the situation in this part of the world without first seeking a solution of the Kashmir question."

"I now have received intimation from the Commonwealth Prime Ministers assembled in London that they are willing to take part in joint discussion on Kashmir. . ."

Eisenhower Bans Hero's Welcome

PARIS, Jan. 6 (AP)—Paris today prepared a hero's welcome for her favorite American hero—and then called it off because the hero said he was coming on serious business.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, due Sunday on his first visit to the Atlantic Pact powers whose armies he will command, has banned all state dinners, parades, bands and flag-waving.

The French government had organized a welcome that would combine a royal visit and the return of a conquering hero. But when Eisenhower, newly-named supreme commander of the allied forces in Western Europe, heard of it, he reduced it to a skeleton working schedule.

During his visit to Paris, Eisenhower will see top ministers and military leaders and pay a courtesy call on President Vincent Auriol. He plans to fly to Brussels Tuesday for the second stop in his tour.

Multi-Million Ford Estate Nearing Final Settlement

DETROIT, Jan. 6 —(AP)—The multi-million dollar estate of Henry Ford is nearing its final settlement.

A fourth in a series of final accountings of the $80,000,000 estate was filed this week. The fifth and last is expected in the spring.

So smoothly has gone the huge task of distributing the holdings of the world-famed motor magnate that it received the plaudits of probate court today. Judge James H. Sexton indicated it was extraordinary for an estate of such size.

Only a few brief court sessions have been needed to settle the estate's affairs.

And, due to arrangements made long before Ford's death in 1947, a breakup of the far-flung Ford holdings—to pay taxes—has been avoided.

The federal government already has received $32,758,930 in estate taxes and the State of Michigan $8,057,059.

Other expenditures have been $2,000,000, paid to the widow, the late Mrs. Clara Bryant Ford, as executrix, and $920,814 for the estate administrators.

The four Ford grandchildren—Henry II, Benson, William and Josephine—and the Ford Foundation, all chief beneficiaries, have received $7,636,086 in dividends from 381,410 shares of Ford company stock.

The shares were all that were held by Ford at the time of his death. He earlier had disposed of most of his stock-holdings, principally to the Ford Foundation.

Appraisers estimated the stock to be worth $135 a share or a total of more than $50,000,000 for the 381,410 shares. The company has 3,452,900 shares of stock outstanding.

Of these, however, only 172,645 are Class B, or voting stock, held entirely by the family. The other 3,280,255 are non-voting shares, held principally by the Ford Foundation.

The grant of shares to the Ford Foundation, a non-taxable, non-profit corporation, enabled the family to avoid breaking up the holdings to pay taxes.

Send Destroyer Huron To Relieve Cayuga

OTTAWA, Jan. 6—(CP)—The navy announced today the Canadian destroyer Huron will sail from Halifax Jan. 22 for Korean waters via Pearl Harbor.

She will relieve HMCS Cayuga, one of the three Canadian destroyers which have been fighting with the United States forces in Korea.

The Huron will sail directly from Halifax to Pearl Harbor, where she will be placed under the command of the United Nations. From there, she will sail for Korea, arriving early in March.

Locked In House, Wait End of World

Handful of B.C. Sect Shiver It Out In Cold House, Deadline Tuesday

KEREMEOS, B.C., Jan. 6—(CP) —The end of this war-torn world is near at hand, say a handful of the "children of light," locked up in a cold, drab house in this British Columbia interior town, 150 miles east of Vancouver.

The sect was formed from elements of a Pentecostal Tabernacle last year. Members call themselves "The New Faith".

They have said little. They say they are just sitting, waiting and praying for the end of the world —Tuesday

Elders of the sect, made up of 30 members of "The Church of God," won't talk.

No smoke has come from the rickety chimney since they disappeared behind the barred doors the day after Christmas. No food has been seen being taken into the building. And, it's cold—temperatures have been below freezing for weeks.

Wait For Fulfilment

Few incidents have occurred since they sold all their worldly goods at Bargain prices and started waiting for their fulfilment of a "biblical prophecy."

Late Friday night a mother pleaded with her son to leave the house. "Your father has died," she said.

Her son's reply: "No. I won't come out. I'll see him in four days, anyway."

Then there was silence. The mother departed.

Shortly afterwards a young mother rushed into the building. The entire group met her.

"They thought the Lord was coming," an unidentified woman friend said.

"Others say the "Children of Light," mostly farmers and fruit growers in the district, were sure of the coming of the end of the world when slight earth tremors were felt in the district last Tuesday.

No Fanfare

The self-imposed confinement started without fanfare.

They sold everything. Three registered cows brought $90; a new tractor $500.

Then the blinds were drawn and the doors were locked.

Later, police removed two teenage girls, at the request of their parents. The only other person that left was a widow. She told friends she left when asked to surrender her wedding ring. The reason for this was not given.

Meanwhile, police, school and health authorities are watching developments. Health officials say they fear the congestion constitutes a public health danger.

Bogus $10 Bills: Man Admits Guilt On 24 Charges

COBOURG, Jan. 6. — James Matthew Frost of Belle Ewart (on Lake Simcoe) pleaded guilty in police court yesterday to 24 charges involving the passing of counterfeit ten-dollar bills and was remanded until Monday at which time a further remand may occur. It is expected that other charges are pending.

Frost was arrested in Cobourg on December 28 by Corporal Douglas Wilson of the local provincial police who had trailed him into Cobourg after a police radio tip-off had listed the license number of a car driven by a man said to have been passing bogus money.

Corporal C. L. Dale of the RCMP, Cobourg, said that he received word on December 30 that a counterfeit ten dollar bill had turned up at Bowmanville and on the day before a number were reported at Barrie.

Frost chose a busy day to pass the bogus money, when he selected December 23 as the date on which to work Barrie. In that town on the Saturday in question he passed eight bad bills and on December 28 in Kingston the number was 11. Others were passed at Bowmanville and Brockville. In Cobourg, Frost was charged with being in possession of counterfeit money.

Following were the charges.

Dec. 28, Cobourg, possession of counterfeit ten-dollar bills; December 27, Bowmanville, uttering a forged document purporting to be a ten dollar note; December 23, Barrie, uttering forged ten dollar notes in eight instances; December 8, Kingston, uttering forged ten dollar notes in ten instances, possession in one; December 28, Brockville, uttering, in two instances.

The accused was impatient to plead guilty to all the charges and wanted to sidestep the routine of separate pleas and elections in each charge.

'I want to plead guilty on all counts,'" he said.

"We can't take a plea in gross lots," replied Crown Attorney Harry Deyman.

Sandstone Discovery Big Help To Canada

OTTAWA, Jan. 6 (CP) — A big discovery of high-grade sandstone near here may soon reduce Canada's total dependence on foreign sources for glass-making materials.

Mines Minister Prudham Friday announced that the discovery had been made at Bells Corners, Ont., a village about 10 miles southwest of Ottawa.

It is the first big discovery of its kind in Canada.

Mr. Prudham said a new plant to turn the sandstone into silica sand for the production of better grades of glass will be opened at Bells Corners next spring.

The plant, expected to cost between $500,000 and $1,000,000 will be financed by Col. George Couture of Quebec City, who cooperated with departmental experts in initial drilling at Bells Corners.

Strike At Suwon

Saturday morning. An Allied patrol estimated that 16,000 Chinese were massed five miles east of Seoul waiting for orders to cross the frozen Han River.

Overrun Posts

White-clad Chinese — camouflaged for snow fighting—attacked and overran Allied mortar and command posts only 12 miles north of Wonju.

This thrust touched off a 7½-hour fight. Allied units battled into the night to slow an assault that developed with surprising speed for the usually-slow-moving Chinese. The Reds fired captured U.S. mortars.

Other Red forces drove ahead east of Wonju, adding their weight to the sickle threat.

Censorship obscured many details, but the situation appeared to be most serious. Suwon's fine airfield was closed to Allied planes and the Wonju airfield mounted only airlifts of wounded.

Suspension of the Wonju flights indicated that the Reds were close to that road and rail hub.

Planes Active

UN planes — land-based and carrier-based — tore into enemy concentrations. Pilots devastated 13 enemy-held towns with rockets and jellied gasoline fire bombs.

F-80 jets strafed Communists in Seoul's industrial south-west suburb of Yongdongpo, inflicting 150 casualties.

Air Force officials estimated that planes alone have killed or wounded nearly 10,000 Reds in the first six days of 1951 and knocked out more than 6,000 enemy-occupied buildings.

Kim Il sung, North Korean Red leader, issued a special order of the day from Pyongyang on the "liberation" of "our capital, Seoul," on January 4.

Expresse Gratitude

The order expressed gratitude for the support of "Chinese volunteers" — an estimated 1,000,000 men of two veteran field armies. Kim called on his troops to destroy the "foreign invaders."

In a field dispatch filed from south of Seoul, AP correspondent John Randolph said the big UN pull-back was a retreat enforced by superior enemy numbers, "but there was no rout." He said a new defence line might be formed soon.

"Even as it withdrew," Randolph reported, "the army allowed itself the comfort of using oil fuel, eating 'B rations' — good plain restaurant food—each night and driving and living without the least blackout restrictions.

"Except for the hundreds of thousands of refugees and the pitiful countryside, it might be no more than a practice march."

Need Sincerity Both In Critic And In Artist

His own method of teaching art to students of all ages at the Northern Vocational School, Toronto, was outlined Friday afternoon by Mr. John Bennett to members of the Women's Art Association attending the first studio meeting of 1951.

Mr. Bennett is also achieving some fame as a young Canadian artist. He displayed only four pieces of his own work, two oils and two watercolors. His oils were recent works and illustrated the result of a technique he has developed and calls "turpentine wash." One watercolor was an experiment on "tone-paper" which he employs for classwork and poster studies in chalk.

On samples of his pupils' work he pointed out various artists' techniques to achieve desired texture and effect. Two samples of painting using one color only with black to achieve varying tones were perhaps the highlights. Included were chalk, charcoal and pen and ink studies, and rapid "gesture figure drawings."

Mr. Bennett expressed his opinions about "sincerity" both of the artist and the persons who may be appraising his work. Only the artist himself knows if he is sincere, in most cases, but he can easily tell the thought behind most comments about his paintings.

"Don't stand back with a knowing look and say 'How interesting'" he cautioned the women. "Interesting means nothing and indicates that you either do not like the work and haven't the courage to say so, or you do not understand it at all." He continued with the further cautioning remark "Don't accept the word of critics and distrust your own likes and dislikes."

This artist-teacher warns his pupils against imitating or copying someone else's conception, and while he teacher a fairly representational approach, he also urges them to use their imagination as they progress.

Art students are invariably worried about achieving "a style of their own" and Mr. Bennett's advice to them is "The best way to develop style is to forget it." This, he believes, applies also to literature and music.

President Mrs. N. D. Seaton introduced Mr. Bennett to the members and they accorded their appreciation to him at the close.

A brief explanation to the members regarding stand of the Women's Art Association in connection with Peterborough's acceptance of the Katherine Wallis' collection of sculpture was given by Mrs. Seaton. She explained that the representative collection, which the Association had advised the City Council to accept, contains only 13 pieces, seven of which are base relief and would hang on walls, and none of them are big pieces.

Two pieces of Miss Wallis' sculpture are owned by the Association, one being housed on the second floor at the YWCA, the other a bronze relief panel, 26" by 16" in size at Mrs. Seaton's home. Also some pictures, several of which are in the YWCA blue room and the others stored in the basement.

Indian's Method Avoids Pressure

LONG LAC, Ont. — (CP) — The Rev. Alphonse Hamel, 61, formerly of Laval University, believes he has found out why the Canadian Indian largely escapes the ills of modern high-pressure civilization.

The Jesuit priest who was a familiar figure around the Laval campus has been spiritual guide and friend to 100 Indians for 16 years.

"The white man has a great deal to learn from the Indian," he told an interviewer here. "For the Indian, there is no yesterday and no tomorrow. There is only today."

The former professor of mathematics and physics said he is fascinated by the Indian's complete indifference to the white man's evaluation of time and money. He has come to the conclusion that the Indian outlook on these matters is the nearest to the truly Christian in the world today.

"An Indian will work for two weeks at a lumber camp, then quit when he gets his first pay," says the white-haired priest. "He thinks he's rich, so why should he keep on working?"

Give Easy Jobs To "Over 65s"

PETERBOROUGH, Northamptonshire, England — (CP) — One British firm has solved the problem of the "over 65s."

"We have 47 old employees between 65 and and 75, doing such jobs," said Mr. R. Hill of Baker Perkins, Ltd.

How do they shape "They are quicker than the boys in the long run. There is less door-slamming, and the mail arrives with a pleasant 'Good morning.'"

Their first assignment was something to which they have become much accustomed during their 21 years: They spent most of the day having their pictures taken. As the only male quadruplets in the US they are expecting a lot of that during their military service. But they hope it won't keep them from getting some engineering training in the Air Force.

Sail For Pacific Probe Secrets Of Ocean Depths

LONDON. — (CP) — A party of distinguished Danish scientists, with a selected crew, has set sail on a two-year cruise of modern discovery. Their goal is an unknown world — the hitherto unexplored regions of the ocean depths.

Organizer of the expedition is Haakon Mielche, Danish author, who conceived the idea of the trip while his country was under German occupation during the last war. He succeeded in interesting some of Denmark's leading scientists, including Prof. Niels Bohr, the atomic specialist and Dr. Anton Bruun, of Copenhagen's Zoological Museum.

In the naval frigate "Galathea," the Danes stopped off at a British port just long enough to take on additional supplies and special equipment for their deep-sea explorations.

Then they headed in the general direction of the Pacific ocean, where they will concentrate their operations in the unprobed depths east of the Philippines. The ocean bed in parts of these regions is reported to lie as deep as 33,000 feet.

The party hopes to return with a fund of valuable scientific information and specimens of marine life never previously seen by the human eye.

To assist them in their investigations the scientists included in their cargo a large assortment of specially-devised instruments and gadgets. Among these is probably the world's longest "fishing line" a steel hauser 46,000 feet in length.

The line will be used to lower into the nether depths a non-magnetic bronze sphere, designed to measure the earth's magnetism.

The scientists are anxious to find out if the earth's magnetism is increasing or diminishing. They believe the deep-water test will provide the answer.

The sphere, specially constructed to withstand terrific pressure, is equipped to carry the delicate instruments which will record whatever scientific data exists miles below the ocean's surface. It also contains underwater cameras to film coral reefs and the weird life believed to abound in the inky depths below 13,000 feet.

Scientists Hopeful.

Dr. Bruun said there was no point in speculating on what the expedition might discover. He recalled, however, that 12 years ago a strange specimen of fish had been caught off the east coast of Africa. Its nearest relation, he said, had only been known as fossils about 80,000,000 years ago.

"It is only reasonable," he added, "to expect that we will get some strange creatures during a two-year job of specially fishing for them."

On the left is London's "Shot Tower," built in 1830 for the manufacture of round shot. A special radar reflector has been built atop the tower for bouncing signals off the moon during the Festival.

Intend To Press Case Against Witnesses

QUEBEC, Jan. 6 — (CP) — Solicitor-General Rivard said Friday night court proceedings against some 100 Witnesses of Jehovah in Quebec will be carried out despite a recent ruling of the Supreme Court of Canada acquitting a member of the sect of a charge of seditious libel, the same charge facing other members of the sect.

In making the announcement, Mr. Rivard said that the Supreme Court judgment had been studied carefully and that the decision reached was "to carry on with the cases."

Charges against the Witnesses arose cut of distribution of pamphlets entitled "Quebec's Burning Hatred."

Harold S. Belfry, 23, RR 11, Peterborough, was uninjured Friday when his car went out of control on the Wallace Point road and snapped off a telephone pole.

The right front wheel of Belfry's car caught on the right edge of the road causing the car to swing onto the right shoulder. There it struck and snapped off the telephone pole.

Damage of more than $200 was caused to the vehicle. The right side, grill and radiator were all badly smashed. Provincial Constables T. H. Armstrong and Russell Pollard investigated.

First Victoria Cross Given In Korean War

LONDON, Jan. 6 (Reuters)—The Korea campaign's first Victoria Cross, highest British award for bravery in battle, has been awarded posthumously to Maj. Kenneth Muir, of the Agyll and Sutherland Highlanders, it was announced Friday night.

It was awarded for his leadership in the battle of Hill 282, Sept. 23, during which two companies of the Argylls were mistakenly attacked by United Nations planes.

The citation said Muir, 38, rallied a small force whose ammunition was dwindling and kept thousands of North Koreans at bay while the wounded were evacuated.

Plan To Boost Cobalt Supply

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—Production of cobalt by the United States and Canada will be increased to 4,250,000 pounds—more than five times present output—by the end of 1952, the authoritative publication Mining Engineering estimated Friday.

The strategic metal is important for making television and radio magnets, high-speed cutting tools, coloring for ceramics and glassware, for binding porcelain enamel to steel in refrigerators and other durable goods, and for many other consumer uses.

The report did not break down U.S. and Canadian production into separate figures.

The chief new sources of cobalt being developed are ore bodies near Salmon, Idaho, by Calera Mining Co.; the Fredericktown, Mo., ore bodies of St. Louis Smelting and Refining Company, and Cobalt, Ont., ore bodies by various Canadian interests.

The publication said the old Canadian silver mines at Cobalt, should account for 750,000 pounds annually when a projected cobalt refinery is finished.

More Forest Cover

The Select Committee on Conservation which presented its report to the Ontario Legislature last March has shown that even fertile Southern Ontario needs forest cover of from ten per cent. to fifty per cent. of the area, quite apart from the Precambrian Shield intrusions from North Bay south to Kingston and Gananoque. These Precambrian rock areas need between 70 and 90 per cent. forest coverage, since much of it is useless for any growth except trees. The need for more forest cover in other Southern Ontario parts stems chiefly from the need for better conservation and control of water, and to prevent erosion. There is a dollar-and-cents value, too. Southern Ontario woodlots, after the primeval forests passed into farm land, were good dollar earners while they lasted.

* * *

There are three chief methods of reforestation in this province. First, there is the acquisition by the Province of great tracts of land, like Algonquin Park (of which a third now stands in need of reforestation.) Such schemes for reforesting are big and of long duration. Provincial nurseries need to be expanded to provide for them, and the financing of them should be a Dominion-Provincial joint responsibility. It is the Precambrian Shield area of Southern Ontario which must be put under such management. It is too big and costly a project for municipalities or private persons.

* * *

The second, more limited means of reforestation now in practice, is the establishment of communal or municipal forests. Thus far in Southern Ontario these are on a county or township basis. In 1911 the Ontario Legislature passed the Counties Reforestation Act which, with amendments, is the one now governing county forests. The county may buy the land and enter into an agreement with the Crown for its development and management. The first county forest area was established in Simcoe, in 1922, eleven years after the providing act was passed. This county today now has a forest area of 11,000 acres.

* * *

Most counties in southern Ontario have taken advantage of the Act and established forests, varying in area from 175 acres (Perth) to 12,000 (Bruce) and 14,500 (Prescott and Russell). Peterborough County has 5,145 acres in municipal forest, Hastings has about 500, Lennox and Addington, and Frontenac county have none.

* * *

Such municipal or county forests are not immediate paying propositions, except in the good they do as conservation and recreational areas. But, with time, patience, and good management, they can be made to pay handsomely and in perpetuity. One of the best known municipal forests is that of the city of Zurich in Switzerland. Zurich has had a forest of 5,000 acres for over 600 years, which yields net annual revenues up to $15 an acre. There are other such forests in Europe and the eastern United States, whose net revenues assist in maintaining public works and lessening municipal taxation. Towns and cities in Ontario have not yet authority to enter into agreement with the Provincial Government to have and maintain their own forests, but the demand for them is increasing, and in time Ontario cities will have their own forest areas, for revenue, recreation and conservation.

* * *

The third common method of reforestation in Ontario is through the activity of private planters. Free distribution of trees began to them in 1905, with an output of 10,000 trees. In 1949 11,000,000 trees were distributed to private planters from Provincial nurseries free of charge. Valuable as this method may be, there has been a very considerable loss of trees, due to inefficient or inexperienced handling, and lack of proper care afterwards. The Committee on Conservation has recommended that a nominal charge now be made for nursery stock and that agreements be made between the planter and the Department of Lands and Forests so that private plantings will to some extent remain under government supervision.

* * *

Whatever the means of reforestation, the need for greater tree cover is evident, and it is reassuring that the Department of Lands and Forests as well as private citizens and municipal councils are alert to it, and doing something to meet it.

"Confusion and discord won't win wars," warns the Financial Post. We don't feel a bit confused, and we are unshakeably dis- toward the warlike chords which assail our ears from countries in which we have no voice.

Mao Not A Tito

When the war in Korea began and the Chinese took no open part in it, Yugoslavia stayed diplomatically on the fence, and gave little publicity to the whole affair. Yugoslavia, a Communist nation outside the Russian fold, apparently hoped that Mao's China would play a Titoite role, and not Stalin's game. It hoped for a split between Mao and Stalin, as Tito has split with Stalin. But China intervened. The Yugoslav press and Government statements now denounce China as an aggressor. They accuse Mao's China of playing Russia's game and also of "pursuing a great power policy" on its own account.

The Chinese success in China has given Yugoslavia a nasty jolt. Appeasement of aggression in Korea would so weaken the moral authority of the United Nations that Stalin might be encouraged to risk a sally into the Balkans. The success of the Chinese arms in Korea strengthens the Cominform's position against Yugoslavia, which, though Communist, has chosen sides against the U.S.S.R. and its hegemony.

Mao's China may not be, or need not continue to be, under the domination of the U.S.S.R. Mao could yet become a powerful Tito. Meanwhile, it will strengthen Yugoslavia to have full American aid, a definite assurance of help for her to resist any Russian attack; and the West can help itself by helping Yugoslavia, since Yugoslavia has the largest standing army in Europe beyond the Iron Curtain.

Where Does The Cold West Wind Go?

Earlier this week the district has been wetly experiencing temperatures of 45 to 50 degrees above zero (of course), and the thermometer has not yet quite recovered its normal winter stance. However, out West the mercury is behaving differently. Yesterday Prince Albertans (who live in Saskatchewan) snuck outside at nine in the morning to face 46 degrees below zero. Saskatooners had it 31 below, Reginans 30 below and Winnipegers 25 below. Now, everybody knows that in this zone the prevailing winds are westerly, and what's west comes east. In fact, weather is the only export of the western provinces on which freight does not have to be paid. Where then are the sub-zero temperatures from the foothills and prairies?

Let us not be impatient. A fifty-mile-an-hour wind from the mid-west—say 1,500 miles away—takes 30 hours to arrive in Peterborough, Ont. A little calculation will put us below zero before the night is out unless the wind fizzles out, or picks up some of that hot air which now seems to be hovering over Port Arthur and Fort William where a few zealots are talking about establishing a separate kingdom of Aurora.

Where does the cold west wind go? It comes East.

There is this consolation about the situation. Ontario is bounded on the west at least by friendly territories, not by iron curtains which would keep out weather reports though not the weather. So we in Ontario can always get advance notice of the cold west winds and get our goloshes, scarves and heart-warmers out in preparation. See our page two for the daily warnings.

A Prayer For Epiphany

Today is Epiphany, the Feast of the Three Wise Men, or Twelfth Night. It is the last day of the Christmas celebrations, and marks the visit of the Magi to the Infant Jesus.

One of the most interesting books to appear during 1950 was Evelyn Waugh's novel Helena, which tells the legendary history of the Roman Empress who discovered the True Cross. There is a passage of particular interest near the end of the book, where the old Empress goes to the Church of the Nativity at Bethlehem on Twelfth Night, and prays thus to the Three Kings:

> Like me, you were late in coming. The shepherds were here long before; even the cattle. They had joined the chorus of angels before you were on your way. For you the primordial discipline of the heavens was relaxed and a new defiant light blazed amid the disconcerted stars.
>
> How laboriously you came, taking sights and calculating, where the shepherds had run barefoot! How odd you looked on the road, attended by what outlandish liveries, laden with such preposterous gifts!
>
> You came at length to the final stage of your pilgrimage and the great star stood still above you. What did you do? You stopped to call on King Herod. Deadly exchange of compliments in which began that unended war of mobs and magistrates against the innocent!
>
> You are my especial patrons, and patrons of all late-comers, of all who have a tedious journey to make to the truth, of all who through politeness make themselves partners in guilt, of all who stand in danger by reason of their talents.
>
> For His sake who did not reject your curious gifts, pray always for the learned, the oblique, the delicate. Let them not be quite forgotten at the Throne of God when the simple come into their kingdom.

In Jaspar, Melchior and Balthasar, the Three Kings from the East, we may discern something of our modern rulers and statesmen, who often seem to delight in complication for its own sake, who often stop to parley with rascals for no discernible reason, who sometimes seem to be topheavy with expert knowledge, pride and fixed opinion. But they, like the Three Kings, are also men of goodwill, and we must pray that their goodwill will outweigh all else.

Diary of New Year's Irresolutions

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: The last day of 1950, and I spend much time wondering whether I should keep a diary during 1951. At root there is something despicable about the diary habit; diarists are the junk men, the magpies, the dung beetles of the world of letters, hoarding what no one else wants. Why should I record the nonsense which absorbs all but a few hours of my time each year?.....Pondered upon The Flying Dutchman, the opera which I heard broadcast yesterday; its plot tells of a wicked man who is saved by the love of a pure woman. I scorn this plot; why doesn't somebody write something about a bad woman who is saved by the love of a pure man, for a change? The operatic notion that a piefaced female of eighteen who is too stupid to know temptation when she sees it, is therefore pure, disgusts me. In my opera, The Frying Dutchwoman, Margarene, a lustful female, will be reclaimed from vice by Billy Butter, a simple farm lad.

✧ ✧ ✧

MONDAY: So this is 1951? Well, well, I shall keep a diary after all. But as I look at the diaries on my bookshelves, my heart sinks. Pepys—the memoirs of a fussy civil servant; Macready's—a record of the quarrels and resentments of an embittered actor; Kilvert's—the daily round of a country clergyman; James Agate's—the financial embroilments and aesthetic prejudices of a journalist. All, all of them, made up of the trifling stuff of everyday. Can I make my 1951 diary the record of the development of a Great Soul? It would be easier if I were really a great soul, and not a middle-sized soul—about a seven and three-quarters. I should like to write wonderful and illuminating thoughts in my diary, something like les Pensees de Pascal. But alas, Les Pensees de Marchbanks are no great shakes, as philosophy or mysticism....I have not even any amusing indiscretions to set down, like those which make the newly-discovered Boswell Journal such sprightly reading. I am never indiscreet. I never have affairs with actresses, or chase girls up alleys, and so my diary cannot even hope for scandalous interest. In my candid moments, I see myself as a simple Canadian Taxpayer. This is my unvarnished tale.

✧ ✧ ✧

TUESDAY: Restrained my secretary today when she sought to remove the Christmas decorations from the mantel in my office. I insist on keeping the full Twelve Days of Christmas, whether anybody else does so or not. If I were not that kind of man—a cantankerous clinger-to-tradition—I would not have a mantel in my office to decorate. It leads to no chimney; the only fire it contains is a hollow mockery made of electric coils, with a few hunks of broken-glass which cynically pretend to be glowing coals when the power is on. But I cannot conceive of a work-room without a fireplace in it, and this travesty is better than nothing. I know that I am laughed at for this, but what do I care? I cling to my wretched pretence at a fireplace as a dead female monkey is said to cling to the rotting corpse of her infant. To me it symbolizes the intelligible Past, when a man knew what kept him warm, and could cope with it personally....Offered a chocolate from a fancy box this evening. I chose one wrapped in gold paper. It looked promising, but when unwrapped it proved to be the usual sticky mess, tasting of hair oil. Thus it is with life; many a gilded personage is common when unwrapped. But how I enjoy the unwrapping!

✧ ✧ ✧

WEDNESDAY: Business calls me to Toronto, the Ontario Babylon, and in the evening some worldly acquaintances take me to a nightclub, where I watch the floor-show with simple-minded wonder. One of the chief attractions was a blonde young woman, said to be Finnish, who danced in an Eastern costume which afforded her strategic but not complete protection. She was less graceful than supple, and when she had got her feet very dirty on the floor she showed us how she could waggle them over her shoulders. Then she turned herself into a wheel of irregular contour and rolled lumpily about on the floor. Her abdomen was rubbery and less taut than many I have seen, and every time she fell on it there was an audible and rather comical Splat! which amused me greatly. However, I was frowned on for laughing. In Toronto, it appears, one may leer desirously at undersressed girls, or gape at them with the coslive expression of one who considers Nudity and Art to be synonymous terms, but one must not laugh. Which is unreasonable, considering how risible many people are in the nude.

✧ ✧ ✧

THURSDAY: A man said to me today that what ailed the modern world was that it had forgotten about the Seven Deadly Sins. Not to be outdone in this line of argument I said that I considered that it was far worse that we had forgotten the Four Cardinal Virtues. He goggled, and had plainly never heard of these, so I named them—Prudence, Temperance, Justice and Fortitude. He was himself an exemplar of what ails the world, with his yelping about sin, and his neglect of virtue. I suppose the poor boob thought that mere abstention from sin was virtue enough—a common, comical and somewhat criminal error.

✧ ✧ ✧

FRIDAY: Some children I know were showing me a doll's house which they had been given at Christmas this evening. It was a spacious and pleasant dwelling which, on the human scale, could not be built for less than $20,000 at present costs. I should judge that some doll of the junior executive class lived in it. Like so many doll's houses, it lacked a staircase; dolls are used to being heaved from one floor to another. It was fully, though conventionally, furnished, and over the mantel in the drawing-room was that picture "The Boyhood of Raleigh" which suggested to me that the dolls were rather old-fashioned and romantic in their tastes, in spite of the modernity of some of their furniture. I envied the father-doll the neatness of his garage; mine, which doubles as toolshed, is a sorry thing beside it. The dolls had a remarkably nice bathroom, too, quite unlike the cornery afterthought at Marchbanks Towers. I enquired whether the dolls owned or rented, and was told that they were owners; roughly I computed their land-tax, school-tax and improvements tax, and decided that these dolls were not the sort of people I would be asked to dine with, if some sudden shrinkage should whisk me into their world.

✧ ✧ ✧

SATURDAY: Twelfth Night, Epiphany, the Feast of the Three Kings; the end of Christmas for another year. Sat by my fireside—the real one at the Towers and not the phoney at my place of work—and read an English magazine in which a lady complained that although she was allowed to take her dog on a train she had been refused permission to take him into the dining-car....The English passion for dogs is one of the unexplained wonders of the universe; I know one Englishwoman, in every other way an accountable being, who never sleeps without three large and smelly hounds on the bed with her. And I have never forgotten the hullabaloo in an English railway carriage when I slyly booted a large dog which had put its head in my lap and was drooling on my trousers. Ah, well; to the English their dogs, and to the Hindus their sacred cows. Canadians, thank Heaven, are pretty sane in their attitude toward animals, mingling mercy with justice....Ate a piece of fruitcake and drank a glass of port in honour of Twelfth Night; some slight acidity in consequence.

VOYAGE OF DISCOVERY

How High Can Taxes Go?

(FINANCIAL POST)

HOW high can taxes go? What is their effective limit? At what level does taxation simply spell economic trouble for everybody? Is there a point where taxes become insupportable except by inflation?

Colin Clark, the famous Australian economist, seeks an answer to those questions in Harper's Magazine.

Looking over the history of various countries, he says this:

"We have learned, from the experience of many countries, what happens when taxes mount too high. Many people don't find it worth their while to work hard and efficiently. Production doesn't expand as fast as it should. There is a shortage of goods, followed by an inflationary rise in prices. The Government then usually makes a countermove — attempting by price controls, wage controls, and rationing to 'suppress' the inflation that is developing, hoping that in due course production and the real national income will grow enough to carry the burden without controls. But this, experience shows, usually takes too long; and there is then quick escape into uncontrolled inflation — which benefits some people, but does great harm to the great majority, including especially those lower-paid wage-earners who generally keep their savings in the form of money rather than real property.

"All this is familiar to us as a sequence of events that has been repeated over and over again in the experience of many countries."

It is generally understood that a government making heavy expenditures which it does not cover by taxation produces inflation. What Clark thinks is not understood is that high expenditures which are covered by taxation lead inevitably to inflation if taxation is exorbitant.

By theory and by examination of the record in various countries, Clark comes up with this answer to how high is too high. He says:

"Although this evidence is far from conclusive it certainly suggests that the critical level of taxation beyond which inflationary forces come into play (and deflationary forces suffer a political check) is around 25% of the national income."

And where stands Canada today?

Just about that figure (for a figure comparable to that used by Clark, tax collections of federal, plus provincial, plus municipal authorities, are needed and the latest available is 1948. For that year for Canada, Clark's ration would be 26.7%).

How does Canada compare with other countries?

U.S. taxation got to 25% of national income in 1943 and at the worst of the war got to 29%. Inflation started and by 1948 taxes were down to the 25% level.

By 1948, France after a price level 20 times that of prewar was reached, was at a 25% tax to national income ratio.

Italy's price level went over 50 times that of prewar. Its ratio is around 22% plus 7% for social insurance.

Japan's price level went up a hundred times. Its ratio is now 30% with some price control and rationing still necessary.

Britain entered the war at 26% and last year was up to 43.7% and the country is still locked in a mass of controls. "It seems inevitable," says Clark, "that Britain's suppressed inflation, after a longer or shorter interval, will break out into open inflation, probably on a catastrophic scale."

For everybody who has or tries to save a dollar, the Clark theory is at least interesting and the prospect for government expenditures horrifying.

AFIELD

with NICK NICKELS

It is an odd time of year to start reminiscing about old steamboating days in the Kawarthas but to anyone who gets around the district a bit these days and can recall at least three decades, the nostalgic subject strikes home with a bang.

The tug "Wauketa" is ice-gripped at the ore-loading dock near Jack's Creek on Stony Lake. The "Islinda" and "Manita" are snow-covered and rotting on their ways in the sawmill bay at Young's Point. And news of the retirement of the "Bessie Butler," now beached at Cornwall, surely rings down the curtain of a past era. Steamboating is finished, washed up, a thing of the past. They had a glorious record on the Kawarthas.

As soon as Spring ice moved out of the lakes, the steamers made their way to meet lumbermen's log drives at the mouths of creeks and small rivers to do ponderous towing to the mills. In early summer they started regular trips with cottagers, campers and freight.

What natives of these parts can ever forget the clean white ships steaming down blue summer lakes, their whistles hooting as they approached floating cottage wharves and government docks? The soul of any Peterborough boy who has not thrilled to the memory of slipping the heavy tying hawsers onto nigger heads, is indeed very dead. And who can forget the friendly banter of their crews as the boats tied up? The lordly captain with his head stuck out of the wheelhouse door; the engineer with a greasy rag in his hands; the bustling purser—he was the only one who wore an official cap—; and the husky deckmen.

You can meet most of these men on the streets of Peterborough, Lakefield, Young's Point, any day. But they have changed. They have lost their glamour, and show it because they are disheartened men.

Some people say "Why wouldn't it be a good thing to start steamboating again?" Because it was a commercial venture killed by modern trucking and car travel. It just wouldn't pay. And so, we shall shelve the memories of steamboating together with those of the horse and buggy. We can at least boast that such craft as the "Stony Lake," "Islinda," "Manita," "Empress," "Thurstonia" and "Bessie Butler" carried through a tradition to the first half of the Atomic age.

Something Fishy In Stamps

Each provincial government has been having its say in the press lately about the new one-dollar stamp — it hasn't been issued in Peterborough yet. It shows a Maritime fisherman hauling in his net with a decorative border of 16 varieties of fish around him. The big beef is that the species represented are all of the Atlantic seaboard types and if it was supposed to designate Canadian commercial fishing, salmon of British Columbia, whitefish of Alberta, Saskatchewan and the North West Territories, and goldeye of Manitoba should have been given their share of publicity. Ontario might have cast a plug for showing a musky for, though not a commercial fish, it indirectly lures millions of American dollars each year into the Canadian economic picture.

• • • •

Holiday Hangovers

It looked as if a number of summer cottagers were just about all set to take a winter jaunt to Bide-A-Wee to see the ravages of squirrels, porkies and frost. Ice was making nicely all over the lake country until our January the Second thaw . . . The condition is bad for local trappers around Stony. The Whetung brothers of Crowe's Landing have been unable to visit their traps on the Burleigh shore for weeks . . . A contemporary outdoor writer in Cobourg noted that conservationists were "shocked" at heavy fines levied recently at Orangeville — $100 for taking trout out of season, $30 for shooting partridge for the same reason. I would have said that conservationists threw their hats in the air for a magistrate who had guts enough to impose such stiff fines . . . Owners of woodlots and lumbermen who are fortunate to have the occasional mature yellow birch in their stands can earn themselves $100 per tree. It is the stuff that export veneer is manufactured from, and valuable . . . A south shore resident of Rice Lake reports "eagles" still flying about the Foley Islands. They are not eagles, of course, but ospreys, and they are making a long stay of it this season, according to this report . . . If you want to take your wife or best gal to a theatre for free, a Cobourg paper is giving ticket prizes to the hunter bringing the largest red fox into their office each week. Unofficial record, so far, goes to Roy Scriver, who shot a 20-pound dog fox in that district . . . PFGPA are coming across with a few news releases these days. Among a few of their plans is a wolf hunt in mid-January. They are also trying to obtain permission from the Department to drive stakes for carp pound nets in the Otonabee River, now, to be ready for a spring haul . . . Down Sharbot Lake way, the Department are supplying district sportsmen with hoop nets for the removal of ling from those waters. Ling usually spawn early in January when zero temperatures are fairly constant . . . Late in November a male mountain goat, a Himalayan Tahr, was released at Blue Mountain for the purpose of propogating his breed. Last week he disappeared. A conservation officer was called in on the search and found it asleep on a summer cottage verandah in Kosh. Doin' what comes naturally on a cottage verandah . . . Two recent attempts by the Renfrew Fish and Game Association to hold a successful wolf hunt were flops. No wolves . . . A group of young lads skating on the edge of the Otonabee River at Lakefield Park watched a otter cavorting between the shore and First Island lately. One or two of these animals hunt up and down the open water in those parts each winter, right in front of my doorstep, too . . . A fellow newspaperman at the next desk covered a meeting at Bobcaygeon the other night where Premier Frost was guest speaker. Mr. Frost told the gathering that he kept his eye on the pulse of the Kawarthas and occasionally read things written by Nick Nickels of The Telegram. Tsk, tsk. I DO get around, but. . . .

Ladle In A Pot Of Gold

To Althea, From Prison

When Love with unconfined wings
Hovers within my gates,
And my divine Althea brings
To whisper at the grates;
When I lie tangled in her hair
And fettered to her eye,
The birds that wanton in the air
Know no such liberty.

When flowing cups run swiftly round
With no allaying Thames,
Our careless heads with roses bound,
Our hearts with loyal flames;
When thirsty grief in wine we steep,
When healths and draughts go free—
Fishes that tipple in the deep
Know no such liberty.

Stone walls do not a prison make,
Nor iron bars a cage;
Minds innocent and quiet take
That for an hermitage;
If I have freedom in my love
And in my soul am free,
Angels alone, that soar above,
Enjoy such liberty.

GEORGE STREET WAS DECKED UP for Queen Victoria's Jubilee in 1887. In the foreground is the arch put up by the Lansdowne Lodge, Sons of England (SOE) near the corner of George and Charlotte Streets. The footpath across the dirt road was half way along the block. The store at the left is John Hackett's; next farther north is Fortye & Phelan's. Note the hitching-post in front of it and other hitching-posts along the street. The old photograph, property of the Sons of England lodge, was brought in to The Examiner by a member, C. Wood, Simcoe St.

Progress of Peterborough: LII

In The 60's When Dentists Sold Insurance and Melodeons

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A

Two other indications of Peterborough's industrial growth should be noted. In addition to the Bank of Montreal, the Commercial Bank, and the Bank of Toronto, 1866 witnessed two newcomers, the Royal Canadian Bank (Wm. Ogilvie, agent) on George St., and the Ontario Bank (D. S. Eastwood, agent) on Water St. In 1870 the Bank of Commerce also opened an office (J. A. Hall, agent) on George St. The trade of the town doubled in the sixties, with exports far ahead of imports.

The 1865-66 Directory stated: "Within the last few years a large number of handsome stores have been erected on George and other principal business streets, and the rapidity with which these have found tenants is a sure indication of the healthy state of the commercial affairs of the town . . . . Peterborough undoubtedly possesses all the requisite qualifications required for the making of an important manufacturing town . . . facilities certainly equal to those possessed by any other community in the province." The 1870 Directory echoed these views. A few of the interesting businesses might be mentioned: H. Strickland and H. Rogers, tailors, drygoods, millinery, etc., No. 4 Burnham Block, George St.; Montreal Cheap Cash Store, J. Camobell, prop.; Dickson Bldg., George St.; Pat Haffey's Readymade Clothing Store, Simcoe St.; Buffalo Clothing Store, branch of a Buffalo, N.Y., concern, George St.; Professor J. Holmes' "Fashionable Shaving and Hairdressing Saloon, Monday afternoons reserved for ladies, 50c charge." Scott Bldg., Simcoe St.; W. H. Baskerville, "Headquarters of Fashion: Firstclass Haircutting, Shaving and Shamooing Emporium . . . Best Hair Dyes Constantly on Hand and Applied at Shortest Notice." George St.; Hugh Evans Marble Works, foot of Smithtown Hill; E. Poole, cabinetmaker, upholsterer and undertaker, George St.; Robt. Hamilton Hardware Store "At the Sign of the Crosscut Saw," George St.; R. Green "Soap and Candle Manufactory," Water St.; Geo. Burk, "Wholesale Dealer in Yankee Notions," drygoods, groceries, etc., George St.; W. Eastland General Store, No 1 Burnham Block, George St.; Geo. Allen, gunsmith, Hunter St.

Other Businesses

Geo. Cox and John Davidson ran the "Telegraph Bookstore," Hopkins Block, next door to Hopkins and Donnelly's Harness Store, opposite Nicholls and Hall on Simcoe; they had agencies for the Montreal Telegraph Company several insurance companies, and the British and American Express Company. One of the few serious crimes of the decade occurred Aug. 30, 1864, when the B&A Express safe was taken to the riverbank and blown open by robbers who escaped with some money and insurance papers, plus $400 in worthless Confederate bills. Joseph Walton at his "Melodeon and Cottage Organ Emporium" on George St. was also agent for four insurance companies. Dr. D. Pentland, a dentist with office on George St., was also agent for Victoria Organs and Melodeons, and for two insurance companies, which seems a very happy combination.

Such dual businesses were common: Wm. Cluxton was general merchant, commission dealer, bank agent, and agent for four insurance companies; James Kennedy, corner George and Brock Sts., was a painter of houses, signs and ornaments, also a baker and confectioner; George Mitchell at St. George's Saloon, corner of George and Hunter Sts., also sold groceries and other goods; Robert Walton, saddler and harnessmaker, at George corner of Simcoe St., also manufactured and sold stoves and tinware; Patrick Ryan at George and Simcoe Sts. was a tanner and general merchant; John Carnegie was a millowner, also a commission merchant dealing in flour, corn, oatmeal, pork, butter, cheese, etc., and a general insurance agent; Joseph Stalker was a boot and shoe maker who also sold sewing machines at his shop on Bethune north of London St.

The Examiner, "a weekly, political, agricultural and family newspaper," Graham and Stratton Postoffice Block, Water St., $1.50 a year in advance, competed lustily with the Review, R. Romaine, No. 4 Market Block, George St., same price, each claiming to be "the oldest newspaper . . . the best advertising medium . . . having by far the largest circulation." Instead of the daguerrotypists of early decades, there were now three photographers advertising: Jacob Brumwell, "Photographic Artist," Burnham Block opposite "Review"; R. Thompson, photographer, opposite Nicholls and Hall on Simcoe St.; and R. Ewing's Portrait Gallery, Sheriff Hall's Block, Hunter St., "Grouns of Cattle photographed by a new Instantaneous Process."

Commerce, Doctors

By 1870 Peterborough had 15 or more industries, 29 grocers, 12 general stores, five flour and feed stores, five druggists, four hardware stores, four jewellers, eight drygoods stores, 10 dressmakers and milliners, four confectioners, six lumber merchants, five liveries, two stove and tin stores, two bookstores, four commission dealers, one fur store, one restaurant, and others unspecified. There were by 1870 ten doctors, two veterinarians, two dentists, 22 lawyers, four surveyors, 10 teachers, 10 clergy, four auctioneers, four insurance agents, and 22 gentlemen of leisure. Among the doctors were: Dr. T. W. Poole, coroner, succeeding Dr. A. Harvey in this post; Dr. J. R. McCulough on Hunter St. "Visits in the corporation $1, in the county moderate; Advice to All Free"; Dr. George Burnham, Brock St. (who was first to use chloroform in the town, soon after 1860); Dr. Hollywell, Simcoe St.; Dr. G. Pringle, Brock St.; Drs. Callender and Pentland, dentists, Scott Bldg., corner George and Simcoe Sts., a partnership dissolved by the mid-sixties; Dr. J. O'Donnell, dentist, George St.; Dr. T. Bloomfield, veterinarian, George north of Brock St.

The dentists were advertising the painless extraction of teeth by the use of the new nitrous oxide gas.

People were using more and more patent medicines. Some of these advertised in the sixties may be familiar to older readers: Mountain Herb Pills, Cherry Pectoral, Clarke's Female Pills, Cathartic Pills, Mountain Herb Worm Tea, Chocolate Worm Drops, Extract of Sarsaparilla, Holloway's Pills, Watson's Neuralgia King, etc.

Among about 630 other workers listed in the 1870 Directory were:

ON GOLF

It is unjust to claim the privileges of age, and retain the playthings of childhood.

SAMUEL JOHNSON:
The Rambler, 1750

113 labourers, 109 clerks, 62 carpenters and cabinetmakers, 47 boot and shoe makers, 34 blacksmiths, 20 tailors, 19 wagon and carriagemakers, 17 teamsters, 15 machinists, 15 printers, 14 saddle and harnessmakers, 13 farmers and gardeners, 12 tinsmiths, 12 hotel workers, 11 masons, 10 painters, 10 butchers, 10 millers, 10 barbers and hairdressers, nine accountants and bookkeepers, eight lumbermen, seven tanners, seven weavers, six railway and telegraph workers, six photographers, five moulders, four boardinghouse keepers, four cigar makers, four trimmers, three sawyers, three coopers, three bakers, two engineers, two peddlers, one plasterer, one porter, one potter.

Ashburnham

Ashburnham village's business life also prospered amid fires. S. Dickson bought out the Rogers and other interests along the Otonabee east bank from Smith to Hunter St., also sold his steam sawmill on Little Lake to Ludgate and McDougall. In March, 1861, Wm. Taylor took over Maniece's Hotel, "Best Liquors, Fine Table, Excellent Stabling," and in Sept., 1862, Sedgewick's Hotel was opened. W. Dobbin was manufacturing sash, doors and blinds on the raceway near the bridge, but soon sold out to Wm. Robertson. Lewis Stone in 1862 opened a tailor shop opposite Rogers' Store, Elizabeth St., but gave it up by 1865.

In 1863 the council built a brick school on Mark St. north of Elizabeth. Calcutt's Brewery on Little Lake burned down in 1863, and the same year he built a larger stone brewery, employing six men, on Lake St. near the raceway, capacity 100 barrels a day (this building was torn down only a few years ago, where the Lion's Pool now is). Nearby in 1865 he built a flax mill, spreading the flax to dry where the ball park now is. Austin's sawmill farther south burned down in June, 1865. Craigie and Stephenson were leasing the Rogers sawmill. D. Sutherland, former C&P Railway agent, was advertising for 20,000 bus. of oats at the station. When Sedgewick's Hotel burned in 1865, it was soon rebuilt as the Star Hotel, Ed. Whyte proprietor, with "A First-class Bowling Alley Attached to the Premises." John Simpson also kept a hoted on Elizabeth St., and Henry Morgan had the Market Inn, and Widow Fisher had a tavern in the same street.

Peter Clark's small woollen mill (three looms) was purchased in 1866 by D. Brooks. George Storey and P. J. Ayres were making axes and other edge tools. The Mowry Agricultural Foundry was expanding to make threshing-machines. Blacksmith's were Simon Clancey, Nicholas Loevenbruck, and George Rickey, all on Elizabeth St. Walter Ainslie was the only shoe maker and Henry Bennett the only cooper. In addition to James Rogers' large general store, there were the Swanston Bakery and Confectionery, Widow Armstrong's grocery, R. Sheehy's grocery and Jas. Kemot's butcher shop, all on Elizabeth St. John Clark had a small tannery on Lake St. by the water. The village lost a major industry in July, 1868, when the Ludgate and McDougall sawmill burned to the ground with loss $38,000; this firm built a larger mill soon afterward at Harwood on Rice Lake.

The reeves of Ashburnham were: 1860, F. Armstrong; 1861, R. D. Rogers; 1862, F. Armstrong; 1863-5, R. D. Rogers (also warden of the county); 1866, A. C. Dunlop; 1867 on, H. Calcutt. In 1870 Ashburnham had two hotels, two taverns, three groceries, one general store, one foundry, one fourmill, one sawmill, one sash and door mill, one turning mill, one axe factory, one woollen mill, one flax mill, one tannery, one brewery. There were two Orange Lodges, No. 49 and No. 457, also No. 4 Company of the 57th Battalion under Capt. James Rogers. As yet the village had no churches.

CAPITAL LUNCHEON CAKE, THAT WILL KEEP SIX MONTHS AND SAVE THE TROUBLE OF FREQUENT MAKING.

Take two pounds of flour, one and a half pound of treacle, half an ounce of ground ginger, quarter of a pound of sugar, quarter of an ounce of ground caraway seed, and candied lemon peel, cut very small. Mix all well with the flour; warm the butter, and mix with the rest; then warm the treacle; dissolve in a little boiling water a large teaspoonful of carbonate of soda, and stir it well into the treacle; add to the other ingredients; work all well together and bake in a buttered tin two hours in a rather slow oven. Wives whose husbands are professional men, having frequently only time to take a snack and a glass of shery in the middle of the day, will win admiration by making these cakes, and sending them to their husbands' offices.

Mother: "Now, George, you must divide the cake honorably with brother Charlie." George: "What is 'honorably,' mother?" Mother: "It means that you must give him the larger piece." George: "Then, mother, I'd rather Charlie should be honorable."

Gutta Percha is useful for filling decayed teeth, stopping crevices in windows and floors, preventing windows from rattling, etc.

Potatoes may be prevented from sprouting in the spring season by momentarily dipping them into HOT water.

To loosen a glass stopper, pour round it a little sweet oil, close to the stopper, and let it stand in a warm place.

Raspberries, green, impart an acidity to spirit more grateful than that of a lemon. A decoction in spirit may be kept for flavor.

Acorns roasted, form a substitute for coffee, and produce a beverage scarcely less agreeable, especially if with an addition of chicory.

Language Mirrors History

By RICHARD F. CHOATE

FIRKIN — A small barrel used as a container for butter, a yellowish lacteal product eaten by the Ancients of Upper Canada and used in their Intelligence Tests, the highest IQ going to those who knew "which side their bread was buttered on."

✦ ✦ ✦

FRIED CAKE, (Also Doughnut, Cruller) — A delectable, digestible pastry confection produced by Aunt Sarsaparilla from batter and a kettle of deep fat, without benefit of cook-books. A nail-keg full of fried cakes would provide provender for a family through the winter, remaining in a state of perfect friability. The morphology of the doughnut was Aunt Sarsaparilla's own business. They might be severely straight, or twisters, or circlets. Fried cakes antedated the degenerate plastic neo-doughnuts (or, horrors, "donuts") of commerce, consumers of which are of two warring classes—the Optimists who see the doughnut and the Pessimists who see the hole. "A plague on both your houses," said Aunt Sarsaparilla, who made short work of aesthetic questions rooted in scrambled optical illusions. Aunt S. was a gastronomist who knew at a glance, without conscious analysis, that a whole may be greater than the sum of its parts —or so to say, greater than a hole and a non-hole. Fried cakes were made to be eaten, not merely looked at—and furthermore, for land's sakes, who ever thought of sprinkling Ambrosia with white talcum powder to make it palatable?

✦ ✦ ✦

GOLDEN EYE — Flagship of the Calcutt Line which plied on the "Down the River" excursion route to Yankee Bonnet, Jubilee Point, Idyl Wild and points south, carrying miscellaneous cargoes including Sunday School picnics, shepherded by Uncle and Aunt Lugubriam, and the implacably jovial Curate, who was constantly extracting sunbeams from cucumbers by a pre-atomic fission process known only to himself.

✦ ✦ ✦

GRACE BEFORE MEAT — An invocation which often proceeded simultaneously with a make-ready shuffling of knives, forks and napkin rings and low hum as of the whetting of appetites. Grace in Victorian days was sometimes in rhyme (as in the Bobby Burns manner); sometimes impromptu and discursive, providing to Providence much general information of a statistical nature. When the parson was present Grace was commonly said standing. Though the practice of "Asking the Blessing" is maintained in a large proportion, perhaps the majority, of the homes of today, its form has been modified, in the main, on the side of brevity, possibly because of the impact of our frenzied commercial life upon the stability of the family dining circle. All hands now being engaged at all hours in "bringing home the bacon" without respond to dinner gongs, the old order seems to be going into reverse: Meat before Grace.

✦ ✦ ✦

GREGORY'S MIXTURE — A medicinal compound which was brutally administered to children below the age of consent, relieving any supposed malaise by overpowering their senses of taste and smell.

✦ ✦ ✦

HIRED GIRL — Later, a maid. A she-solipsist who emptied slop-pails single handed and contrived to maintain a fair embonpoint while eating by herself at a corner of the kitchen table. At Christmas she was rewarded with a handsomely lithographed copy of Grey's Elegy, with map of the "Paths of Glory."

✦ ✦ ✦

MAGIC LANTERN — Black tin device purchased by paterfamilias rather indiscreetly from an unscrupulous vendor while on a visit to the Chicago World's Fair. The lantern, which emitted an oily smoke, was used to project colored slides of Samantha at Saratoga upon a freshly-laundered bedsheet snitched shamelessly from the linen closet while mother was in the cellar.

✦ ✦ ✦

OYSTER SUPPERS — Winter repasts in church basements or public halls in the days when "luscious bivalves" arrived in large tubs, not in the half-pints of today. They were served with "oyster crackers" and for no-bivalvists there were always salmon sandwiches.

✦ ✦ ✦

PALACE SCOW—A large flat-bottomed watercraft towed by steamers on the Trent. On ordinary occasions it was merely a "scow", being used to carry cordwood or slabs. On excursion days when it was used for dancing it rose to its full dignity of "palace scow."

✦ ✦ ✦

PARLOR—A room in a pioneer Canadian home which was maintained in a state of frigidity (like that of the spare bedroom). Decked out with a lithograph of Queen Victoria handing a Bible to the Zulu chief, a crayon portrait of Uncle Penurian, antimacassars, framed coffin-plates and what-nots, the room was set aside for purposes of frivolity and the holding of family prayer and funeral services. In some homes, like those of the late lamented Maggie Murphy, there was "an organ in the parlor to give the house a tone."

✦ ✦ ✦

McCALLUM'S — Earlier or earliest Peterborough "night-spot." Situated at the Market Arcade, McCallum's was a simon-pure restaurant in the era when restaurant was a word of doubtful Frenchy connotation. "Eating out" (away from home) was then a seemly and decorous business between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. Delightful repasts were obtainable at several spic and span lunchrooms, such as Long Brothers', Potvin's, John Craig's or Hooper's where the major volume of trade was in ice cream, confectionery and pastries. But McCallum's was open all night when night life proper in Peterborough ceased with the return home of the last strayed reveller from choir practice at 11 p.m. At McCallum's there was always a rewarding "bill of fare" for nocturnal prowlers who had just "come in on the midnight." Fried chicken was constantly available at 25 cents.

✦ ✦ ✦

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE — Public Library on Water Street, between Hunter and Simcoe (west side). It flourished Circa 50 B.C. (Before Carnegie) when Nice Nellie was carefully insulated against the obscenities of Quo Vadis and Thomas Hardy.

✦ ✦ ✦

MOUSTACHE CUP—A man's-size china teacup, used in the days of "Life With Father" a flat strip across the top made it impossible to imbibe ad lib., without immersing even the largest walrus moustache.

Upset Pulled By Gans Over Eagles

GANANOQUE, Jan. 6—The Gananoque intermediate "A" entry pulled the upset of the season here last night by downing the high-flying Peterborough Eagles 9 to 7 in an OHA Senior "B" fixture. Close to 1,000 fans witnessed the red-hot contest on Gan's new artificial ice surface.

The game was a scorcher from start to finish. Play was hard, fast and clean, with only three penalties called by officials Stan Scrutton and Oliver Wing. The youthful Gans, well-tutored by Coach Bill Hastie, held an edge throughout, nullifying the visitors vaunted speed and passing attack with a tremendous display of fore and back-checking. The Gans jumped into an early lead at the two-minute mark of the first period and were never headed. Godwin had no difficulty sinking the rubber on a perfect set-up by Tindal, who was easily the start of the night. Less than three minutes later, Anderson combined with Fair and Harper to pot one and make it 2-0 for Gan.

Made It 2-1

Steele of Gan drew a charging penalty at 7.40 and in less than 60 seconds after a series of power plays, Stewart pulled the Eagles up to 2-1 on a pass from Montgomery. With Gan still a man short, McIntosh shook loose from behind his own blue line, stick-handled to the Eagles' blue and let drive a sizzler which blazed under Nichols outflung arm and gave Gan a two-goal margin again. Steele popped on the ice from the sin bin seconds later, grabbed a loose puck, split the defence and went roaring in to beat Nichols all the way, making it 4-1 for the home team. The Gan boys showed signs of tiring with about five minutes left, and the visitors rapped in a pair of fast goals. Vitarelli got one at 14.50 on a pass from Rochetta, and Crowley netted the other with the help of Vitarelli and Rochetta. With but 30 seconds left however, Tindall and Steele dazzled the Eagles with a neat passing play which wound up with Tindal outguessing Nichols and giving Gan a 5-3 lead at the end of the first.

The second and third periods were repetitions of the blistering end-to-end play of the first frame. The Eagles' Bert Hill drew a 10-minute misconduct with 25 seconds left to go in the second period. He got in Referee Scrutton's bad graces by arguing too long and too strenuously over an Eagles' goal which was called back. The whistle had blown before the score as even Peterboro bench-sitters admitted. The rhubarb lasted close to five minutes.

Both squads were really flying and the body-checking became more than somewhat solid. At 19.00, with the fans in an uproar, Godwin scorer the clincher on the prettiest play of the night, engineered by Tindall and Jackson. The Eagles yanked their goalie but the strategy backfired. With all visitors inside the Gan blue line, Steele stole the puck and outraced two Petes to zip in and flip one into the empty net.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Tex Rickard, who lifted the fight game from the "ham and eggs" class into the ranks of big business, died at Miami Beach 22 years ago today. Rickard started his sports promoting career in 1903 at Goldfields, Nev., and among other champions he managed Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney.

PCVS Cagers Take All Over Oshawa

PCVS' Garnet and Greys wiped the slate clean Friday night in a basketball triple-header with the Oshawa CVI in the opening of the Lakeshore A grouping.

Paced by lanky Al Northcott, Coach Bev Goulding's seniors made a runaway out of the senior game as they trounced their arch-rivals 68-28. Even at the half the PCVS boys indicated they were supreme with a rocking 30-13 score. Northcott rattled in the highest number of points for an individual effort in the past two years with 25 points. Al McIlraith had 14 and Ted Evans 10 to push the score well up. Wilson and Hart, nine points each, were tops for Oshawa's quintet.

Finish Strong

Oshawa's juniors managed to hold the PCVS A team down in the first half 14-6, but the PCI'ers gradually pulled away in the last portion. Lionel Hempstead, a half-pint, led the way for the taller teammates as he counted 13 points to lead the scoring. Creighton Johnston, at centre, turned in a neat effort snaring his share of the rebounds. Sutherland with eight points and McMullen with five were all that Oshawa had to offer.

The closest and most hectic game of the night was the bantam A game. The teams battled to an eight-all score in the first half. The Garnet and Grey cagers slipped ahead early in the second, and stayed ahead from there in, if by only a few points, to win 22-17.

Carleton with 15 points was the PCI'ers big gun with six points by Ash and a single by Foote for the total 22. McEachran with six, and Nichol with four, went best for Oshawa.

The lineups:

Senior game—

PCVS (68) — Frise 5, McIlraith 14, Thompson 6, Northcott 25, Ash 4, Young 4, Evans 10, Cranfield.

OCVI (28) — Wilson 9, Fleming, Dewhurst, Carnwith 2, Harrs, Hart 9, Hartley, Lambert, Meredith 6, Culley 2.

Junior game—

PCVS (39) — Langhorne 5, Hemptead 13, Cunningham 4, Grafstein 3, Hendry 2, Stewart 4, Fowler 4, Johnston 4.

OCVI (15) — McMullen 5, Hyman 1, Sutherland 8, Gummow Graham, Zilinsky, Mallet, McIntyre, Beaton 1, McTavish.

Bantam game—

PCVS (22) — Boorman, Carleton 15, Ash 6, Roberts, Foote 1, Baptie, Davis, Stewart, Gallogher, Starr.

Some Rugged Hockey Served Up In PMHA

Trojans downed Otonabee Wolves 3-1 as Empress bantams beat St. Peter's 4-0 Thursday in PMHA tilts at Civic Arena. Midget games saw Marines take Trojans 4-1 and SPS trim Martin-Hewitt 7-2. The Clapper juveniles won 5-0 over Trojans, while Oddfellows turned back Lakefield Lions 7-4.

Godfrey, Rusaw and Keating scored for the bantam Trojans, Heffernan and Orr each having an assist. Buchanan tallied for the Wolves on a pass from Havelock in a rough tussle, each side drawing five penalties, mostly for roughing. Goldier, Brown, Naish and Armstrong from Davis were the scorers for Empress bantams in a clean contest.

Roughing Penalties

In midget play, Bryne, Kearns, Bethune and McGillen scored for Marines, Kearns and Strickland each having an assist. Sidey slipped one in for Trojans. There were several roughing penalties each and Pollard and Byrne got it for fighting, with Pollard also drawing a misconduct. The other joust wasn't quite as rugged. Foley, McDougall and Hockaday each scored twice for St. Peter's, Stewart getting the other, as McDougall and Pearson aided on two, and Jewett one. Hunt got the first for Martin-Hewitt and Gardner the other from Mongraw.

Ferguson dented the twine twice for Clapper's juves, with Cupoli, Harrison and Pammett getting the other markers, Batley having two assists and Sullivan one, the losers drawing seven penalties to three. For the IOOF, Hope counted a pair, with singles garnered by Caravaggie, Daniels, Buchan, Floyd and Gooley. Buckton helped on two, single assists going to Daniels, Caravaggie and Floyd. For Lions, Coyle was good for two, and McArthur and Heffernan got one each, the latter and Coyle also having an assist apiece. It was a clean tussle.

Petes Triumph By 7 to 1 In Fine Showing

KINGSTON, Jan. 6—The flashy Petes left the largest crowd of the local season, 1,354 fans, in dismay last night when they crushed Nylons by 7 to 1 in the Harty Arena despite the fact that they served 14 of the 20 penalties meted out by Referee Bill Holway of Belleville. The start of the game was delayed for almost half an hour awaiting the arrival of Holway and thereof Manager "Dutch" Dougall did no cheering.

Near the close of the opening period Gus Leonard was handed a crushing body slam by Doug Patterson and collapsed immediately. No penalty was inflicted but Leonard was taken to the hospital with a painfuly injured back.

Jack Stone was nominated for goalkeeping duty when Glynn Udall allegedly was tardy in reporting but Stone was away below form and his lack of brilliance in the clutch enabled the Petes to erect a goal advantage that was not in accordance with the general run of play. The visitors notched two counters in the opening period that were of the soft variety and in a space of slightly over three minutes. Late in the session they racked up four counters on as many shots after coasting through a strungout and somewhat porous defence.

Got But One

Nylons made their best showing of a dismal night in the middle session but scored only one goal although the visitors, who were handed eight of the 11 penalties were seldom at full strength and occasionally were reduced to four players. It was a rather remarkable period with Nylons furnishing a painful surprise by their futility when on the attack.

Nylons made desperate efforts to cut the two-goal advantage in the final period but the Petes avoided penalties, showed resourcefulness defensively and then turned the game into a rout when Garvey scored at 15:34, Dugan at 16:18 and Tompkins at 17:38 and 18:49. These successful attacks were launched on breakaways from Nylons' ganging assaults and they made the climax a sour one for local fans.

A Fist Fight

Near the close of game Patterson and Horton engaged in a fistic battle which was quickly squelched and the offenders given major penalties. The bout occurred behind the Peterborough net. A few minutes later a small iron bar came tumbling down from the roof near the penalty bench and caused a bit of consternation as well as excitement. Fortunately it landed in the aisle and not among the fans.

"Honey" Tompkins, who was out of action when the Petes made their previous appearance here, sparked the visitors' attack with two goals and an assist. The wily veteran played well along the rail during the first two periods and scintillated on the defence as a replacement for Leonard when Nylons tried to hit the "comeback" trail in the final 20 minutes. Then after the locals had been held at bay Tompkins spearheaded the dynamic drive that produced those last four goals in fast time.

Harding who has his good and bad nights in the Harty Arena, has never surpassed his effort of last night. His wizardy and Nylons erratic marksmanship were prominent factors in the one-sided result.

Stirling Victors

NORWOOD, Jan. 6—(ENS)—Stirling edged Norwood 5-4 here last night to open their TVL schedule in a tidy tussle. Each tallied once in the first frame on goals by Treen and Moynes. Norwood had a 3-2 edge in the second, Payne scoring from Stark, Ferguson counting from Wilson, and Treen pulling a solo. Stirling's markers were by Robson and Hardin, Staply aiding on one. The latter counted one in the third from O'Brien, and McCrory then sank the winner from Wanamaker late in the heat. Teams:

Stirling: Goal, Bates; defence, Wright, Tanner; centre, Robson; wings, McCrory, Wanamaker; alternates, R. Donnan, D. Donnan, Hunter, Moynes, O'Brien, Phillips, Hardin, Grabin, Staply.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Gananoque puckists make their Civic Arena debut Monday eve at 8.30 when they tackle the local senior "B" Eagles. While the Gans are rated intermediate "A", they have an interlocking schedule in this grouping and all wins or losses count in the standing. This is a four-point game and will be the only time the Gans play Eagles here this season, though they will show back once more later for a four-pointer with the Petes. Not having seen this entry in action yet, we don't know what they have, but they beat Belleville a few weeks back and Eagles last night, so they must be pretty fair. Anyway, it should be an interesting puck tilt and will likely draw well.

* * * * * *

Fast-stepping Bill Crowley is away out in front of the Eagles in scoring so far. Figures up to last evening showed the wingman (as a Navy man he may not like that term) with 40 points in 16 games, rolling up his count recently with six goals in one fray. He's also checking back fast and staying out of the penance pew this season. Joe Rochetta is next highest with 29 points, two more than another effective sniper, Andy Milne. Bert Hill follows with 25, and then Dopich Vitarelli with 22, one more than Bob Parnall. Freddy Mortimer is pretty well up there, also, with 19 to date. The Eagles have dumped a lot of biscuits into enemy ovens.

* * * * * *

Hard Player To Upset

Arn Dugan continues to show the scoring pace for the Petes with 36 points in 18 games, or two a tussle. A hard player to upset, he works in suddenly on hawk-like swoops to park the puck back of a surprised custodian. Gus Leonard and Jake Wade are other able workmen, tied with 23 points each, who stay on the ice and toil hard up and down. Chum Fryia has come through so far with 22 scoring points, just one more than Honey Tompkins—who has been playing defence lately—and Junior West. Next is Freddy Garvey with 18 and the others trail off somewhat. The Petes are now tied with Eagles and look safe for a time.

* * * * * *

In urging fans to take in these OHA junior and senior games, we are not unaware of the fact that it costs plenty of money to operate puck squads in provincial competition. We note an item in the Kitchener paper where operation of the Waterloo junior "A" team in the OHA has cost $24,000 to date (counting $3,600 for a hockey school) and may cost the city another $10,000 before the season ends. That's the opinion of the arena commission chairman. Weekly cost has been about $1,000. Neither the city council here nor the arena commission give a cent to local OHA clubs—on the contrary, they make money through rental of the arena for games. So, the Petes, Eagles and Oddfellows have to depend on private backing and gate receipts.

Oddfellows Take It

More than 1,400 fans (including many dads and their kids) saw a swell open junior "B" hockey joust at Civic Arena last night. The Oddfellows shook off the Lindsay jinx to win 9-5 and take over undisputed possession of first place. The Scugog boys are full of fight but this time Bun Kingdon's boys were plenty chippy, too, and came up with a real fighting display as a PCVS cheering squad lent encouragement. Lindsay used two goalies without success, though not of course at the same time. Buckton and Douglas paced the Peterborough attack, but the whole bunch clicked like castanets, especially in the last half. The Links now have 17 points, Belleville 16, Lindsay 15, Oshawa 12 and Port Hope four.

* * * * * *

Two surprises came up in the senior "B" schedule last night on foreign ice. The Petes weren't expected to trounce the Nylons by a 7-1 score right in Kingston, but they did just that in most convincing manner before a big and hostile crowd. Tompkins and Harding, among others, shone in this one, while Gus Leonard retired near the end of the first frame with a nasty back injury—no penalty being handed out by Bill Holway of Belleville. He gave the Petes 15 of the 20, yet they still romped to victory. No one expected the Gans to beat the Eagles, either, but they did it 9-7 in Gananoque to further complicate the race. If that was a four-pointer (and we understand it was) then the Petes are now tied for first again with the Eagles.

Nurses-Neill's Take Wins In Girls' Loop

Civic Nurses seniors smothered the CGE entry in the ladies' city league basketball Friday night 51-6. In a much closer game Neills' squeezed past the Lindsay Grads 28-21.

Nurses Joan Plunkett, Gloria Wiechoreck, Anita Davis and Pat Martyn tallied 12 points in the first quarter as the CGE'ers were held scoreless. Martyn, Wiechoreck, Plunkett and Barbara Deyell sent the score to 23 at the half as Pat Nixon, Grace Ingram and Mary Hodson tallied four for CGE.

Nurses ran in 16 points in the third quarter without reply from CGE. Anita Davis led the offensive with eight points backed by a number of baskets by most of her teammates. Joan Plunkett, Anita Davis and Pat Martyn counted for the Nurses in the last quarter to Fern Carveth's double pointer.

Scoring Leaders

Anita Davis and Joan Plunkett shared the scoring honors with 14 points each while Pat Martyn came through with a 12-point effort.

Neills just managed to keep one step ahead of the Lindsay Grads throughout the second half of the doubleheader. Polly Stewart, Dot Callan and Joan Dunk sent home points totalling nine for Neills in the first frame against the four for Grads by Shirley Alger and Marj. Owen. Dot Callan counted four more in the close-checking second while Grads' Isobel Green notched three for a half score of 13-7.

Fought Back

Grads travelled back in the third with seven points by Shirley Meath, Shirley Alger, Marj. Owen and Donna Copp to make the score 17-14 for Neills. The latter picked up four points in the quarter, all on foul shots. Honors were about even in the final session as Neills stayed out in front by only a few points. Polly Stewart, Dot Callan and Joan Dunk counted the 11 points for the Neills total of 28 while Shirley Alger, Donna Copp and Isobel Green sent home points in the Grads' losing cause.

Shirley Alger was tops for the Grads with eight points. Dotty Callan slipped in 12 points for the Neills assisted by Polly Stewart's nine and Joan Dunk's six.

OHA Suspends Two Players

TORONTO, Jan. 6 (CP).—Two hockey players were suspended Friday night by the Ontario Hockey Association executive committee.

Jim Liles, defenceman with Tillsonburg Legionnaires of the OHA Junior C Series was suspended for the rest of the season as a result of a mixup in registration certificates.

Doug Smith, right winger with St. Catharines Masons of the senior series, was suspended for four games as an outgrowth of a Tuesday night fracas in which he felled referee Dinty Moore with a hard right to the chest.

During the game against Niagara Falls Rainbows, Smith collected a minor penalty, two majors, a 10-minute misconduct and a match misconduct.

The executive committee, meeting six hours, found that Liles had signed his own and another player's certificate, the first for Simcoe. When he failed to make the team he tried with the other certificate and made the Tillsonburg team.

Appended to the suspension was the ruling that all games in which he played for Tillsonburg would be considered losses. He played in three, one victory, one loss and one tie.

Tony White Rolls 827 For Tops In City Loop

Tony White of Sunocos of the City Bowling League led in triples this week with a neat 827 as Claude Cornwell of Dunn's banged out a top 324 single. Cavanagh's started off the new year with best pinnage of 3465 and Campbell & Best led in team singles with 1314. Shockey's again lead as they blanked Fashion-Craft, Moore's shutting out Swartz, and Esquire's doing the same to Clapper's. Two-game wins were marked by Cavanagh's, McGillis and Bond's over Sunocos, Campbell & Best and Dunn's respectively.

Dick Martyn with 305, Bill Harris with 303 and Jack Playford with 299 were other good single counts. Team captains are reminded by Secretary Mel Akers of an executive ruling whereby all player changes become effective by Jan. 11 when 17 bowling nights will have been completed to end the first half of the schedule. After that, player changes must be settled by the executive.

England Has Poor Luck In Test Match

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 6—(Reuters)—Fortunes swayed today on the second day of the third Australian-England cricket test here, but further ill-luck weighed against England, who finished the day with a lead of 180 runs though Australia still have nine of their first-innings wickets in hand.

England were all out for 290 and Australia, in a display of slow batting which brought catcalls from the crowd, scored 110 for the loss of one wicket.

Two key England bowlers, Trecor Bailey and Douglas Wright, were injured leaving Australia to face a much-reduced attacking force.

Earlier in the day England appeared to have regained the initiative lost by a moderate display Friday.

An inspired captain's innings by Brown of 79—highest individual score on either side in the series so far—and a dogged defence by Bailey improving England's position. The pair added 71 for the sixth wicket.

After Brown's dismissal the rest of the side did not offer much resistance and the innings closed just after lunch..

Australia suffered an early shock when opening batter Arthur Morris was clean bowled for zero in Bedser's first over, but Ken Archer (not out 42) and his captain, Lindsay Hassett, (not out 54) remained together until the close though they never collared the attack.

Hastings Winners

HASTINGS, Jan. 6 (ENS). — Hastings juveniles proved too much for Norwood's entry in their OMHA loop, as they outscored them to a 9-1 verdict. Warrington made his debut in the nets for Hastings, and for 42 minutes made like a Mr. Zero, only to have Ernie Spencer spoil it on a play started by Davis.

The line of A. McMillan, Stevenson and Gummer seemed to show the most experience, but everyone worked hard, while Isaac and Condon stood out on defence. The Norwood boys appeared nervous at the start of the game and never settled away till the last period when they held Hastings to an even go.

Norwood — Goal, Stackhouse; defence, Wrightley, Horne; centre B. Spencer; wings, Scott, Fredericks; alternates, Morrison, Davis, Aldred, Peoples, LaBrash, E. Spencer.

Hastings — Goal, Warrington; defence, Wilson, Isaac; centre, Stevenson; wings, McMillan, Gummer; alternates, J. McMillan Cabilick, D. Condon, Herrington, B. McMillan, Dodd.

OVER-EATING, TOO

Over-fatigue is said to be one of the main causes of indigestion.

Win Over Lindsay Puts IOOF In Top Position

Civic Arena was the scene of a rousing junior "B" hockey battle last night as Bun Kingdon's flying Oddfellows handed Lindsay Kinsmen a stinging 9-5 defeat before the largest crowd of the season—to take over undisputed possession of first place in the league standing with 17 points. Kinsmen have 15.

Over 1,400 fans responded to Oddfellows' "Dad's Night" appeal and, led by a special collegiate cheering squad, raised the roof as Links staged a sustained drive late in the second and throughout the third, to rattle home six sparkling goals past goalies McGuire and O'Shay to win going away.

Led The Way

Ray Douglas, Dean West, Ab Buckton and Jim Morrow led the way in their finest display of a good season to date, after Kinsmen had taken a 4-3 lead midway in the second frame, Kinsmen then made their strongest bid and Buckton scored twice after O'Shay replaced McGuire in the Kinsmen net early in the third, to complete the hat trick.

Oddfellows took an early two-goal lead in the first, a sizzling period, as both teams opened up with Links having a good edge in the fast going both ways. Bob Wyatt and Lefty Doris each found the range from close in with West, Shearer and Douglas drawing assists.

Fought Hard

Lindsay fought back hard in the second as the withering pace continued and play roughened up considerably with 14 penalties being handed out by Referee Shannon, including majors to Doris and Powell for fighting. Karrys' Lucas, Schinkel and Green potted for the visitors against three for Links as Buckton, Douglas and Morrow clicked on three sparklers to hold a slim lead going into the vital third place.

Great team play and sustained drive paid off in the finale for the Kingdon squad as every man dug in hard and played his best with orders from their coach to stay on the ice. They did and condition and class were rewarded fittingly. In the dying moments however, a lively fight broke out between defenceman Dean Wasson and Kinsmen's scrappy Herb Baker which was continued in the penalty box before police broke it up. The boys received majors, with scrapping honors about even. It was a thrilling game all the way through from a spectator's standpoint.

Ab Buckton and Ray Douglas each collected four points, the former with three goals and one assist, the latter two and two. Bob Wyatt, Dean West and Jim Morrow each scored two points with one and one while Lefty Doris, hard-working winger scored one and assisted on two with Armstrong and Shearer each assisting on one. But every man played his part in this game. They were all good last night. For Lindsay, Karrys, Lucas, Green, Schinkel, Powell, Walling and Shewington were best.

Lindsay: Goal, McGuire; defence, Walling, Green; centre, Powell; wings, Hall, Schinkel; alts., Corley, Baker, Karrys, Dysart, Sinclair, G. Vasey, Shervington, Lucas, O'Shay.

IOOF Goal: R. Wasson; defence, Armstrong, Shearer; centre, West; wings, Morrow, Wyatt; alts., Douglas, Floyd, Buckton, B. Robinson, G. Robinson, Doris, D. Wasson, Bigford.

Referee, Bill Shannon, Marmora; linesman, Art Heal, Peterborough.

Rangers Become Bad Boys Of Hockey Loop

By The Canadian Press.

Once upon a time New York Rangers, whether they liked it or not, would have rated as the little Lord Fauntleroys of the National Hockey League.

They were a docile lot who used brains instead of brawn and marched to victory on picture passing plays that left their opponents befuddled and dizzy.

But the 1951 edition of the Rangers get billing in Toronto for games with the second-place Maple Leafs as bashing rowdies bent on mayhem in their drive to leave the NHL cellar.

That the Rangers merit such name-calling the Leafs can well attest. They remember only too well the bumpings and thumpings they suffered at New York Dec. 27 in absorbing a 3-1 defeat which helped dislodge them from the league lead.

Out For Vengeance

The Leafs, who came out of the engagement with several casualties, will be out to avenge that drubbing.

The Rangers, who recently gained publicity by such zaney doings as hypnosis and psychoanalysis, invade Toronto shot with a mysterious potion. The word is that the potion, concocted by Gene Leone, a New York chef instils new life in hardening arteries and makes you travel like the wind—or something.

There is nothing concrete on record to show that this mysterious elixir of something or other works. But league statistics show that Rangers definitely aren't as docile as they once were.

In their last 11 games they gained enough penalties to take over third place behind Montreal and Toronto as NHL bad men.

The bashing style of play paid off, however, for coach Neil Colville's crew during that stretch won five games, tied four and lost two.

County Boys' Schedule

Following are some revisions in the schedules of the county boys' hockey circuits:

Jan. 23 — Warsaw bantams at Keene, 7:30.
Jan. 29 — Westwood midgets at Assumption, 7:30.
Feb. 13 — Assumption midgets at Keene, 7:30.
Feb. 14 — Havelock bantams at Norwood, 7:15.

OFFER DIMAGGIO SAME DEAL

Joe DiMaggio will be offered the same salary he earned last year, general manager George Weiss of the New York Yankees said yesterday. Weiss declined to disclose the star outfielder's paycheque last year, but it is believed the Yankee Clipper was paid $100,000.

Each Of Four Gospels Makes Its Historical Contribution

Four Gospels in the New Testament; Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, tell the story of the earthly life, ministry, death, resurrection, and redemptive mission of Jesus of Nazareth.

Agreeing and duplicating in many details, each Gospel has its distinctive character and makes its particular contribution to the record of the divine life; and all four are necessary to the full Gospel story.

At that, the full story has never been told. The author of the Gospel of John says (John 20:30) that Jesus did "many other signs in the presence of the disciples, which are not written in this book". He further says that if all the "many other things" should "be written every one," he supposes that even the world itself could not contain the books that would be written.

There is another sense in which the Gospel story will never be fully told. The story of Jesus is continued in every soul that He blesses and inspires, and in every word and act of grace and goodness of which His spiritual Presence is the source and motive power. So, the greatest of all stories, the story of the Gospel, goes on and on.

If one wishes to realize the distinctive contribution of each of the four Gospels, it is only necessary to consider what would be lacking if any one were left out. How incomplete the Bethlehem story in Matthew's Gospel would be, if we did not have the incidents and backgrounds as they are given in the vivid pages of Luke.

And think of what distinctive things we would lack, if we had no Gospel of John—the vivid story of the calling of the early disciples, the story of the Woman of Samaria, and the words of Jesus concerning true worship, the discourses to the disciples in the last days, and the bold words concerning freedom through the truth.

If we could dispense with one Gospel, it would seem to be the Gospel by Mark, yet that Gospel has a distinction and quality all its own. Its omission of the Christmas story, as in Matthew and Luke, has no particular significance. Papias, one of the earliest of Christian writers, says that Mark had not personally known or heard Jesus; that he was an "interpreter' 'of Peter.

Mark, through Peter, records such incidents as that of the naming of James and John "Boanerges," by Jesus (Mark 3:17). But what is essential is the simplicity and directness with which Mark makes vivid the Master's ministry from day to day. It is a Gospel of action. Characteristic is its frequent use of the word "straightway".

If Papias is right, we may assume that Peter used the gifted writer Mark, to make as real for later disciples the reality of the ministry of Jesus as Peter himself had known it. That is what Mark's Gospel may do for us.

I suggest that this Gospel of 16 chapters, the shortest of the four, should be read right through to get its full effect.

We may turn then to the Sermon on the Mount (Matthew 5-7), and to the discourse and philosophy of the Christian religion in John to obtain a vivid consciousness of the Teacher as the One, "Who went about doing good".

Korean Parson Asks Arms To Help Fight Red Koreans

By JACK MACBETH

WITH THE UNITED NATIONS FORCES, Korea (AP)—A young Korean minister clenched his fists, said something in his native tongue and then added firmly in English:

"If the United Nations only would give us the arms we will fight and keep on fighting to the end—even me."

David Chung, who received his Bachelor of Divinity degree from Victoria College, University of Toronto in 1949, is pastor of the Chodong Presbyterian Church in Seoul. The church building was destroyed during the fighting at Seoul last summer.

Interviewed last month during a visit to Canadian troops in South Korea, Chung said 24 of 80 Presbyterian clergymen in Seoul had been murdered by the Communists. He added he was one of some 300 Christian leaders who have fled southward from the Seoul area as well as from North Korea.

Not Enough Arms

Chung, whose congregation consisted mostly of refugees from the Canadian mission area of Northeast Korea, blamed early South Korean military reversals on insufficient arms.

"When the Communists came, we had no tanks, no bazookas—just poor equipment," he said.

Discussing South Korean armament, the clergyman repeated several times and with obvious feeling: "If we only had the arm.s?"

Hid With Friend

In the early days of the Red occupation of Seoul, Chung said, Christians were allowed to conduct services and move about freely. "But on Aug. 23 they began to arrest us," he related. "They got one of my neighbors and that is when I decided to hide at a friend's house. I stayed there until the Americans came."

Two weeks before the North Koreans launched their invasion, Chung said, all but a few of the Christian leaders in North Korea were arrested by the government police for "security reasons" and many were never seen again.

Asked if any Christians were known to hold responsible positions in the North Korean government, Chung replied: "Oh, yes. Premier Kim Il Sung's secretary is a Presbyterian clergyman. He had a nice church in Pyongyang."

Referring to Korea before the Second World War as "a hermit nation," Chung said the country's aloofness and isolationism retarded its acquisition of western skills and culture as well as the progress of Christianity.

"Although only three per cent of the Korean population is Christian," he said, "the Christian influence is widely felt. Before this war started we were gaining strength rapidly. Our churches were overcrowded."

Expressing confidence in the ultimate victory, the Korean minister declared solemnly:

"I had expected the Korean Communists were Korean and human. I have found they were neither Korean nor human."

Cree Script Developed By Missionary

MOOSE FACTORY, Ont. (CP) A system of writing the Cree language, developed 100 years ago by a Methodist missionary, is used by practically everyone who speaks Cree along the more than 3,000 miles of barren shoreline of Hudson Bay.

Its use also has spread to some of the Indians of the western plains and British Columbia.

It consists of 14 phonetic signs, with four variations for each sign, one for each vowel. There are four other variations for each sign to accommodate unusual vowel sounds.

The script is picturesque, with reversible triangles, squares and half squares. Anyone who knows Cree can learn to write it in half an hour.

Wanted Short-Cut

Missionary James Evans invented it as a short-cut in teaching the Christian faith. It was adopted and improved by the Rev. John Horden, first Anglican missionary at James Bay and later Bishop of Moosonee, when he arrived in 1851 and he used it in translating Anglican hymns, the Book of Common Paryer and the New Testament into Cree.

Roman Catholic missionaries who arrived later took up the writing system for translations of more than a dozen Catholic works.

The 3,400 Crees in the region of Hudson Bay and James Bay depend on the script for announcements in front of mission churches, for fur price signs at trading posts and for inscriptions on the wooden markers in wind-swept coastline cemeteries.

Civil Defence Meet

TORONTO, Jan. 6 (CP) — A meeting of mayors and reeves of Toronto-area municipalities to discuss civil defence has been called for Jan. 23, Provincial Secretary Welsh announced Friday.

Race Grows Warmer

OTTAWA, Jan. 6 (CP) — The race for one of the richest jackpots in Alberta's oil-gas boom grew warmer Friday. A third contender—Alberta Natural Gas Company filed for permission to run a natural gas pipeline from the Alberta fields to the Canadian west coast, tapping the gas-hungry market south of the border. Already in the running are Westcoast Transmission Company and Prairie Transmission Lines, Ltd. They applied late last year.

Cost-of-Living Bonus Of $600 Asked Of Board

A special committee of the Board of Education has been set up to review the present salaries of PCVS and public school teachers.

The men and women public school teachers asked for salary increases late in 1950 and the whole question was held over for the 1951 Board to consider. At the inaugural meeting similar requests for adjustment were made by the men and women teachers of PCVS.

PCVS men teachers want a $600 cost-of-living bonus retroactive to January 1. PCVS women teachers have requested: re-establishing of the principle of equal pay for equal work; an ultimate salary of $4,500 with an annual increment of $200; and, because of the present high cost-of-living, a doubled increment of $400.

The women teachers pointed out that the principle of equal pay for equal work was abandoned in 1948, and they have requested that it be re-established at least three times.

Dr. Ralph C. Honey, chairman of the Board, appointed a committee of five to review the present salary schedules. On it are Stanley Adamson, chairman, and Mrs. Anne Rowell, W. B. Gordon, Frank Jobbitt, and Murray Irwin.

The report will have to be brought back and submitted to the Board before the estimates are struck.

Epiphany

Final Curtain To Christmas

Today is Epiphany Day—the 12th and last day of Christmas. A day which is being commemorated in the Roman Catholic, Anglican and Greek Orthodox churches by religious celebrations.

At one time celebrations of the Feast of Epiphany included feasting, dancing, masques—all in all, a time of rejoicing. Also included in the day's rites was the eating of a huge cake, considered to be the true Christmas cake.

Research into early church history reveals that before the 5th century there was no general agreement as to when the birth of Christ should be celebrated. The controversy centered around three dates; December 25, January 6 and March 15. However, December 25 gradually became generally adopted for the celebration of the birth of the flesh and January 6 as the birth of the spirit or baptismal day.

Medieval religious tradition is that the Feast of the Epiphany marks the day that the Three Wise Men visited the Christ-child.

Several legends have been wound around this date. The best known of these perhaps is the one that claims that any individuals who dare to remove Christmas trees and decorations on any other than Epiphany Day will suffer some dire fate. If the removal is done before this date merely general bad luck will ensue. If an individual is a procrastinator and leaves the job until a later time the fairies will get him. How, when, why or where is not explained.

Shakespeare's famous comedy, "Twelfth Night" was written for this occasion which incidently will be presented in Peterborough by the Little Theatre in February.

Rumours have it that the Grove School in Lakefield will be celebrating this day in a fitting manner with a dance.

However, in this case, Epiphany Day may be more a good excuse than the main reason for the school ball.

And so, as people sing the last verse of the age old carol "The Twelve Days of Christmas" and celebrate how they may, 12 p.m. tonight will not only bring an end to Epiphany Day but also will ring down the final curtain of Christmas 1950.

Volunteers Build New Home For Burleigh Falls Family

Rehabilitation of the Joshua Johnstons — burned out of their Burleigh Falls home three weeks ago today — is almost completed.

This week they took up residence in their new house, built through volunteer help and donations of their Burleigh Falls neighbors.

"We're simply thrilled," said Mrs. Johnston who was at a loss for further words to express her appreciation of the community response.

The house is not yet completed but the family were able to move in Monday. It is a 20 ft. by 16 ft. building divided into three rooms —a kitchen and general purpose room, and two bedrooms.

It has insul-brick covering and wallboard inside. And it is almost completely furnished with beds, chairs, stove and household accessories.

The family of seven—Joshua, his wife and five children, Ruth, 12; Shirley, 10; Joe, 8; Johnny, 4; and Dorothy, 3—were made homeless when an overheated stove destroyed their frame house and all their possessions. All they had left was the clothes they were wearing.

The community around Burleigh Falls, Red Cross branches in Lakefield and Peterborough, Branch 52 of the Canadian Legion and a large number of county residents gave assistance.

Jack Wigley, of Armour Rd., took up at least two truckloads of furniture, clothing, building materials and other household effects that had been gathered in the city and district.

"They now have ample clothing and the same goes for furniture," said the Rev. Willard B. Day who has been looking after the rehabilitation of the family. "However, the house must be finished off and there are about 600 square feet of insul-brick to be paid for."

3rd Company Joins Search For Ore In Hastings, Drilling In Old Iron Mine

Further interest in search for iron ore in the Marmora area brings a third mining company into the field, this one, the Consolidated Howey Gold Mines. Bethlehem Steel Corporation have been drilling on promising looking ground to the south of the village on the Rogers Farm since mid-summer and very recently started near Bonarlaw. Lake Surprise Mines were the second entrants into the field but there has been no news of an exploration program, only the staking of claims.

Howey has taken a working option on the Belmont magnetite deposit eight miles northeast of Marmora. The property, a former producer of iron ore, is presently owned by G. M. Edwards of Toronto. The company will spend about $12,000 on preliminary drilling under the supervision of Drs. James and Buffam, consulting geologists.

Worked for Eight Years

Originally worked for eight years from 1906 till 1914, the Edwards ground had considerable quarrying work done on it and a three-compartment shaft sunk to 230 feet. Levels were established at 100, 170, and 230-foot horizons and 600 feet of lateral tunnelling was completed. Past reports on the ore conditions suggest that the ore body widens and the grade improves at depth. From the surface pit in former days, 20,000 tons of magnetite ore were removed.

Assay samples from the two present ore dumps showed contents of 34 per cent iron, from one and 51 per cent from the other. Additional ores in each case were silica, sulpher, phosphorous and magenese.

The Howey was the initial producer of gold at a property in Red Lake, Northwestern Ontario and the 1400-ton mill was said to be one of the miracle low-grade profit making on the continent. The company has been active in the exploration field since the closing of the Red Lake mines and enjoys a very strong financial position.

DAYS GROW LONGER

The new year has started down the lane that leads to summer evenings in May and mornings in June when the grass is jewell-tipped.

When the sun rose at 7.43 o'clock Wednesday it was a full minute earlier than its Tuesday appearance over the Otonabee hills.

Since Dec. 10 sunset has been later every evening, and now with the morning gain there is a two-way advantage on the side of light and the longer day. In another week or ten days, people generally will be noticing the first definite signs of pushing back the early dark, and of lengthening the twilight at the end of the day.

Use Dog To Teach Children To Obey Rules Of Safety

Knee-Hi, the wire-haired terrier, who has visited a total of 9,993 schools in United States and Canada and brought her message of safety to more than 10,000,000 children made her initial appearance in Peterborough at St. Anne's School Auditorium Friday morning.

With the co-operation of the local police force the Separate School Board and the Board of Education Dr. George Brunson and Knee-Hi will present a safety program for the children of all the public and separate schools next week.

Dr. Brunson of Washington, DC, has become famous through his programs for the promotion of safety for children. During his career he has been a school teacher, a school principal, superintendent of schools and a child psychologist.

Dr. Brunson is accompanied by Mrs. Brunson and Constable Harold Mesley during his stay in Peterborough.

The star of Friday program was Knee-Hi who with Dr. Brunson taught the students of St. Anne's and Queen Elizabeth schools the safe way to ride a bicycle and the dangers of playing with matches and guns.

Dr. and Mrs. Brunson were introduced by E. J. Boland, principal of St. Anne's School.

Monday afternoon, Knee-Hi will make her star performance in Queen Mary School which will be attended by Mayor M. J. Swanston, Chief of Police John Thompson and K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools.

Tuesday morning the safety program will be presented in Prince of Wales School and in the afternoon in St. John's School. Wednesday morning, the students of St. Peter's, St. Mary's and Sacred Heart schools will attend the program which will be presented in the Capitol theatre.

Wednesday afternoon the program will be presented in King Edward School. Central School students will also see the program in the Capitol theatre. The remainder of the programs will be announced later.

Sprinkler Puts Out Flash Fire In Factory

A flash fire that broke out in some shavings in the furnace room of Canadian Ventilating Shades Friday night was extinguished almost as quickly as it began.

The janitor had piled some shavings and other refuse near the furnace door. He threw some of the refuse on the fire and a blowback ignited the remainder of the pile. Almost immediately a sprinkler head came on and the fire was doused.

There was no material damage.

Shortly before 2 a.m. firemen were called to the Royal Bank building. It was filled with smoke and coal gas fumes, caused by a furnace back draught.

Should Mayor Attend Committee Meetings?

Courses Followed By Municipal Heads Vary

By HARRY THEOBALD

Duties of the head of a municipal council, mayor, warden and reeve of a village or township, are generally defined in the Ontario Municipal Act.

He is required to be diligent and active in causing the laws for the government of his municipality to be duly executed and obeyed. He must oversee the conduct of all subordinate officers of that government, and "as far as practicable to cause all negligence, carelessness and violation of duty to be prosecuted and punished."

"It is the duty of the head of a council (mayor, warden or reeve) to communicate to the council from time to time such information and recommendations, and such other measures as may tend to the improvement of the finances, health, security, cleanliness, comfort and ornament of the municipality."

The head of the council is empowered to call out a 'posse commitatus' (body of citizens) to enforce the law by legal process similar to the authority that rests upon the sheriff of the county. He also becomes ex-officio, by virtue of his office, a justice of the peace.

Can Name Substitute

A municipal council may, by bylaw and with the consent of the mayor, warden or reeve, appoint a member of the council to act in his place on any board, commission or other body of which the head of the council is a member.

It may be remembered that Mayor Swanston several years ago recommended the appointment of Ald. Dick Raine to the Board of Governors of Civic Hospital in his own place. That proposal was put into effect until Mr. Raine retired from the council.

Exception to the assignment of deputies is the Police Commission on which the mayor is required to serve.

A recent item in the Ottawa Journal commented that the Mayor of Ottawa seldom attended civic committee meetings, but he is ex-officio a member of all of them. Some of those committees that were mentioned in the Ottawa procedure were: traffic, playgrounds, parks and trees, industrial, publicity, city hall site, smoke abatement.

The head of the council is its presiding officer and also the chief executive of the corporation.

He may initiate projects or other affairs, but that is customarily done in committee of which the mayor is an ex-officio member. At meetings of committees, the presiding officers are their chairmen. The mayor is just another member.

On Numerous Boards

Mayor Swanston said today that he is an ex-officio member of the Library Board, Board of Health, Board of Governors of Civic Hospital, the management committee of the Civic Arena, and the Industrial Commission.

"It has been the custom in Peterborough for the mayor to attend all the meetings of committees of the council. For instance, Thursday afternoon there was a meeting of the civil defense committee, and at night I attended by invitation the meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, and went on to the Public Library Board meeting.

"That is an indication of the round of work I inherited from our mayors, W. G. Ovens, James Hamilton, G. A. Macdonald, and it goes farther than their terms. Any one can see that as a result of that custom the public generally has come to place more responsibility on the mayor. The council as a whole is not overlooked in that regard but the tendency is to look to the mayor in the effects of city business. If it goes well he probably gets credit, but if things go badly he would perhaps come in for more of blame than should be directed to him.

"As my predecessors have said, the public has little idea of all the demands that are made on the mayor's time.

"In the matter of attending committee meetings, I am inclined to the view that it works out as a benefit in the civic administration. It is all very well to set up an ideal that business may be initiated and advanced in committee and then reported to council, of which the mayor is presiding officer.

"Then, it is the will and decision of the council that is carried out, and the mayor remains as a president.

"However, in our practice the mayor becomes fully acquainted with the developing business of the council, and is thoroughly informed about such matters when they are reported to the council from committees."

Differs in Counties

As to the other policy, it may be mentioned that the Warden of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham, at least some years ago, and probably today, rarely attended a committee meeting. He was free to look in if he wished, but it was his practice to arrive at the council chamber only in time for the opening of the council sessions.

However, he did attend committee meetings especially those entrusted with the more important business of the counties. Wardens of Peterborough county have not felt bound to take part in committee work, although for the most part they have done so.

Peterborough's mayor attends meetings whether they are morning, afternoon or evening, often two or three of them a day, and has always taken the full part of a member in the discussions.

The other method would presumably switch more responsibility to chairmen of committees in dealing with their business and reporting it to council.

But the day comes when a member may call for a recorded vote of the council, and that includes the mayor, and it may be that the more information he obtained by committee attendance, the better qualified is he to vote, especially as sometimes happens when the council division is even, and the casting vote is up to the mayor.

There has been no suggestion of any change in the local procedure or need of it. On the final result of efficiency in getting things done the Peterborough way may be preferable.

For Bad Winter Cough, Mix This Syrup Yourself

If you want a splendid cough medicine, mix it at home. It costs very little, yet the way it takes hold of distressing coughs, giving quick relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with a 2½ ounce bottle of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 ounce bottle and fill up with granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. To make syrup, use 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. (Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.) It's no trouble at all and gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money—a family supply. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps to clear the air passages.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a very reliable soothing agent for winter coughs. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

FOR EXTRA CONVENIENCE GET NEW, READY-TO-USE, PREPARED PINEX.

Follow the Arrow

NEW YORK — About as subtle as a Labrador gale is the latest quirk of jewelry fashion here in Gotham. It's a pair of arrow pins with aquamarine points, worn on the lower edge of the left sleeve. The subtlety? Why, the arrow heads are pointed toward the third finger, left hand.

The trend this season is to a bold display of jewelry accessories, designers report. Pins are being worn also on the uptilted side of velvet berets and on the cuff of elbow-length gloves. Dark velvet is considered the ideal background for precious white jewelry.

Dudley-McCubbin

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Warkworth, was the scene of a New Year's wedding when Eleanor Jean, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart McCubbin and Clarence Arnold, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O Dudley, were united in marriage by the Rev J. M. Ritchie.

The bride wore a street-length dress of pale blue taffeta designed with a full skirt and fitted bodice with rhinestone buttons. She wore black accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Bernice Nelson, who chose a dress of American Beauty taffeta and grey accessories and wore a corsage of Sweetheart roses.

Mr. Norman Dudley was his brother's groomsman.

Following a reception at the bride's home the couple left on a trip to points in Western Ontario and the United States.

Ancient Love Lore New Ring Theme

NEW YORK — Inspired by ancient legends, leading wedding ring designers have introduced a new "classic". The lotus leaf is now taking its place with the traditional orange blossom and hearts.

Typical of the trend is a new ring, a third of an inch wide. It consists of a series of baguettes in a lattice-like construction and delicate tracework accentuates the lotus pattern on an etched background of a satiny finish.

The lotus blossom, for centuries connotative of Chinese feminine pulchritude, was often represented also in Egyptian and Indian art. Greek legend had the lotus tree's fruit inducing a state of "dreamy contentment."

Whether or not the new wedding ring design can achieve the same effect on matrimony, of course, remains to be seen.

Career Women Have More Husband Appeal

MONTREAL, Jan. 6. (CP) — The first woman alderman of the suburban town of Mount Royal believes "women with outside interests are more appealing to their husbands and children than women whose interests are bounded by the walls of home."

Mrs. Joan Storey, 29-year-old Charlottetown - born housewife and mother of a two-year-old daughter, Friday won the council seat by defeating the town's crown prosecutor Aime Lacroix. It was the first time a woman had sought election in Mount Royal.

A total of 1,357 of the 2,648 eligible voters cast their ballots, with Mrs. Storey getting 956 against 401 for the lawyer. Her opposition failed to win any of the 11 polls.

It was Mrs. Storey's first attempt to gain public office. But she said she is not at present interested in carrying her success any further than "expressing the voice of women to the council."

She maintains women are better acquainted than men with community problems. "After all, husbands are at the office all day."

She feels qualified for the aldermanic post "not only because I will bring the feminine point of view to the council, but because of my years of experience in economics, business and finance."

Became Interested

It was in December that Mrs. Storey took definite interest in the town council. She was one of a group of women who attended a council meeting to protest the violation of building regulations in her area. In jest, the mayor had suggested that "one of these charming ladies" contest the post left vacant by the recent death of Cecil Russell.

Both she and her husband were graduated from McGill University in 1942. She worked with the foreign exchange board and later was appointed economist to Commodity Prices Stabilization Corporation in Ottawa. Before her marriage she was business and finance research worker for a New York magazine.

Besides keeping the house in tip-top shape, Mrs. Storey takes night courses at McGill in economics and Spanish.

Blind Couple Enjoy Dream Come True

WINNIPEG — (CP)—Since their marriage six years ago, 37-year-old Isaac Fehr and his wife Alice, 30, have dreamed of a home of their own. Soon they will have it —but they'll never see it.

Both are blind.

In the early 1920s Mr. Fehr was blinded by explosion of a dynamite cap. Mrs. Fehr has been blind since childhood.

They were married in Winnipeg in 1945 and now have two children —Violet, 5, and Walter, 2. From 1935 to 1948, Mr. Fehr was a basket-maker and broom-maker in the Winnipeg Blind Institute. He quit on orders from his doctor.

Now their dream of a home "where our children will have the room they deserve" has become a reality. They expect to move out of their three-room suite by spring.

Drives Nails

The foundation and frame is completed and Mr. Fehr helped in the work. When a reporter visited the scene, he was working 20 feet up, driving nails with unerring accuracy. He uses a braille rule to measure.

Mr. Fehr said he works eight hours a day except Sunday. He said he doesn't think it unusual that he should help build his own home.

"I've been interested in the hammer and saw ever since I lost my sight."

The lot was donated by East Kildonan municipality. A cash fund. started by the Mennonite Brethren Church, brought in about $2,000.

For Parents Only

By NANCY CLEAVER

"Paul, don't be a coward! See how well Tom can ski! What if you do have a tumble? You won't hurt yourself!"

No parent wants his child to be a coward. How often a father is annoyed at his son's hesitation to risk physical harm in outdoor activity! He wants his boy to excel in sports and not be a "sissy."

How can Paul's father help his boy? Shaming him by his chum's prowess likely won't work. Urging him against his will to take a jump or go down the big slide will only meet with resistance. Paul's father will have to give him encouragement and build up the boy's confidence gradually. A little praise is a help, so long as Paul is making a real effort and showing some improvement.

Long before a child reaches school age, parents are puzzled as to how to help them to be courageous. There are only two fears which seem to come into the world with an infant — the rest are acquired. Babies are startled by the sensation of falling and by loud noises. Small children show fear of various things — the dark, animals, thunder and lightning. Sometimes they have bad dreams about wild animals or burglars.

One of the best ways parents can give a child practical help is by listening to him while he talks about the thing which scares him. At bedtime, when he is feeling secure and has Mummy all to himself, often a youngster will confide in her his fears. The opportunity to bring his troubles out into the open, often makes them seem not nearly so terrifying.

Parents should not use fear to make a child behave with threats such as these: "If you do that again, the Big Policeman will catch you!" or "The Bogey Man will get you if you are bad!" Too severe physical punishment is another basis for lack of courage.

It is true that a certain amount of fear is necessary for safety. A child should be taught the danger of being run down on a busy street or of being burned if he plays with matches. He should be trained to "Stop, Look and Listen," before he steps on the road and he should be shown proper fire precautions.

But there are many unnecessary fears which some people are burdened with all through life, such as fear of water. The "strong arm" method of taking a child out in a boat into the deep and throwing him in to "make him learn to swim" may seem to work with a few youngsters, but with a great many others it creates a real and lasting terror of the water.

A child must not be shamed or criticized for being afraid. Rather let him feel that fear is a natural thing which many children experience but it can be mastered. Be reassuring but casual. If he fears a natural phenomena such as thunder and lightning, perhaps he has "caught" this from your own attitude! Together you might find out in the Book of Knowlege or a Child's Science Reference Book what happens during a storm. As understanding grows, fear lessens. J. M. Barrie has called courage — the lovely virtue" — and parents can help their children to face their fears and overcome them.

34 Students Receive Caps At Civic Capping Ceremony

Miss Marian Seymour of RR 4, Campbellford top student of her class gave the valedictory address at the Capping ceremony of the class of 1953 that took place at the Nurses' residence of the Civic Hospital Friday night.

Speaking on behalf of her 33 classmates, Miss Seymour expressed her appreciation to Miss A. L. Thomson, principal and instructors of the school of nursing for the splendid curriculum presented to the students during their first three months of training.

Address Nurses

The address to the students to be capped was given by Miss Jenny Weir, director, School of Nursing, Queen's University, Kingston. Miss Weir warned the students that a great many parents rejected nursing as a profession for their daughters, because they were afraid that it would make them become hard or what psychologists call emotionally flat.

"Don't be afraid to be happy, sweet and show warmth," Miss Weir emphasized throughout her address. She explained that the best avoidance of this pitfall was for the students to keep themselves emotionally healthy.

Requires Help

Turning to the audience, Miss Weir stated that for a student nurse to achieve and maintain this state of emotional well-being, she would need help from her parents, friends and instructors.

The speaker also stressed the importance of a graduate nursing staff for a successful school of nursing.

Chairman for the capping ceremony was John Hornal, superintendent of the hospital. The dedicatory prayer was given by Major C. Everitt of the Salvation Army, Dr. G. S. Cameron greeted the guests. Omemee WMS Dedicate Officers

OMEMEE, Jan. 6 (ENS)—At the January meeting of Trinity United Church WMS the officers for 1951 were dedicated in an impressive installation service conducted by Mrs. Burt Pogue.

The meeting included reports from the different departments on the work of the past year. The treasurer, Mrs. R. E. Brooks, reported that the auxiliary's allocation of $370 was $16 short of being met. However, at the close of the meeting the deficit was wiped out by special gifts from the members present. Systematic giving was increased to the highest since the system was adopted.

Reports Given

Mrs. G. Overholt reported that the reserve fund had been just sufficient to meet necessary expenses for supply materials and literature. As corresponding secretary, Mrs. R. Williamson had sent 18 local letters of sympathy and two letters to active WMS missionaries who are the auxiliary's special subjects for prayer.

Reports from the temperance and supply departments were given by Mrs. S. Moyer. The Friendship committee, as reported by Mrs. G. Overholt, had made 57 calls on newcomers, shut-ins, and the sick in homes and hospitals. Mr. J. T. Pogue reported that the mission band had raised $25.69 in spite of their small membership. The superintendent of the baby band being absent, no report was available.

The program was in charge of Mrs. T. J. Pogue and her group. Mrs. Pogue was assisted in the worship service by Mrs. M. J. Sandy and Mrs. Burt Pogue, and the study on Japan was presented by Mrs. E. Bradburn and Mrs. S. D. Vaughan. Mrs. Bradburn spoke on "Rural Work" and "Women's Work" while Mrs. Vaughan dealt with "Religious Education" and "Youth Work."

Lunch was served by the group in charge.

Fashion Flashes

Shades of yesteryear! And what do you think is making a comeback? None other than the dressy garter. Shops report that these sell on sight, and to all types and ages! Ermine tails add a pretty touch to a black lace and velvet garter, while another goes for rhinestone-decorated white velvet with lace ruffles.

A treat to anticipate is the new net bathing suit. One piece models of power net, shirred across the front panel so that there is the effect of a lacy, subtle print, was the hit of a recent showing.

✧ ✧ ✧

Nice decoration for a simple dress is a chiffon hankie besprinkled with rhinestones. Tied about the neck or fluttering from a pocket, it's a fine attention-getter!

✧ ✧ ✧

Exquisite evening bags testify to the importance of this accessory, as distinct from the afternoon bag, which so many of us are prone to make-do with evening clothes. Tinted plastic feathers in rainbow hues are used to cover a satin pouch mode on a jewelled gold metal frame.

✧ ✧ ✧

The original touch is emphasized in many of the very newest clothes designed for evening wear. Gold brocade of very supple texture is used for a full-length, very slim skirt with two jutting pockets at the hips. The top is of black wool jersey made with a very deep neckline. One side has a short sleeve, the other side has a slanting, off-shoulder cut that extends into a long, continuous scarf.

✧ ✧ ✧

"Praying for rain" is what one girl calls her new umbrella. And no wonder, for it has a long handle and ferrule both of intricately carved ivory. The cover is silk. Just shows you what a smart accessory an umbrella has become.

CANADIAN SOPRANO in Italy, 26-year-old Jeannine Morand, flew home to Windsor for the Christmas season. She is shown in the costume in which she made her debut last summer in "Cavallerja Rusticana". Miss Morand, known in Italy as Gianni Rendi, studied in New York and Italy for six years and has been offered a contract by Rome Radio.

DOROTHY DIX

Parents Must Set Down Set of Uniform Rules

The phrase that strikes terror to the hearts of parents, that makes their backbones turn to jelly and their knees give way under them, is the one hurled at them daily and hourly by their offspring when they seek to control them and steer them into the paths of righteousness. This dread phrase is:

All the kids are doing it.

That is the unanswerable reply to every protest, to every argument, to every prayer and entreaty, and before it mothers and fathers are helpless. All the kids are doing it, and no matter how wrong, how dangerous, how foolish, how inexpedient it is, their children are going to do it, too, and nothing that the parents can do is going to prevent their doing it.

Dorothy Dix

It makes fathers physically sick to see their young daughters go about dressed with a lack of decency, but all of his lectures on modesty fall on deaf ears. Father knows what tobacco and liquor do to immature children, but all the other boys and girls are drinking and smoking and he is powerless to keep his own from cocktails and cigarettes.

Needless Worries

Mother gets nervous prostration from lying awake at night wondering why Mamie, who went to the movies, doesn't get home until dawn. But all the other girls stay out late, and nothing that Mother can say about the danger and the impropriety of it will keep Mamie from going, too.

All the kids are doing it, and your children and mine must do what the neighbor's children are doing, and we can't keep them from doing it without making them think that we are grinding tyrants who are trying to crush all the joy out of like for them, and that they are persecuted martyrs. For youth's ideal is the rubber stamp. It wants to be exactly like its fellows. It must wear the same clothes, eat the same food, dance the same steps, say the same things, hold the same opinions, belong to the same organizations. Originality is the unforgivable crime to it. To be different from the others makes one a pariah.

Such being the case, parents are helpless before their children's cry that they must do what the other kids are doing, because it is true that if they do not run with the pack they are left behind. Cut out of everything. If Mary's parents make her come home from a party at 11 o'clock, she is soon dropped from everybody's invitation list. If Sally's parents park themselves in the room when boys call, the boys never come back a second time.

If Maggie and Jenny and Sadie are not permitted to go riding with boys, or to dances they sit at home with Mama and Papa. If Geraldine's parents think that a girl should never go out with a boy until she is 20, the chances are that she will never go out with one at all. Many an old maid is the result of having been sidetracked by her parents because they wouldn't let her do what the other girls did.

They Should Organize

So that phase of the matter must be considered, and the solution of the problem is for fathers and mothers to get together and organize the Amalgamated Parents Association with ironclad rules and regulations that will establish the canons of taste and conducts for the young in their communities. For in union there is strength, and what no one father and mother can do, the combined parenthood of the country can accomplish.

If no adolescent boy and girl were given a car with which to commit suicide and murder, no boy and girl would think that father was a grouch and a tightwad if he did not provide them with an automobile. If all parties began early and ended early, the youngsters would have just as good a time and wouldn't ruin their health with late hours. For all that the young want is just to do what the other kids are doing.

And it is up to the parents to unite in a mass movement and see that they do the right thing instead of the wrong thing.

What's Right

You have no trouble remembering names but your husband does.

WRONG: Tell everyone that Jim just can't remember names.

RIGHT: Try to help him out by saying something like, "Jim, you remember the Weatherfords" when you run into persons you know he has met, but are afraid he won't recognize.

Parisienne Women Favor Changes In General Facial Make-up

By DOROTHY WADDINGTON

PARIS—(Reuters)—A girl may stroll down Fifth Avenue or The Strand with only a discreet lipstick and feel like a million dollars, but in Paris it's different.

The Parisienne is a firm believer in make-up and any woman, even with the fairest of complexions, feels drab if she does not use it.

This habit of dressing one's face has the advantage of allowing a woman to change her personality at least once a year. What could be better for the morale than to pop into a beauty salon, spend an hour relaxing, and come out with a new face. Rouge just a dot higher, a new curve to the mouth, a new slant to the eyes and a new harmony of colors do the trick.

Dr. Janine Mercier, a French skin specialist, affirms that creams and powders are not harmful to the skin.

Use The Best

She advises the use of first-class creams with a lanolin base or milk—unless you have rainwater at your disposal. The chemicals used for disinfecting water supplies in most cities and towns are not good for the skin.

With every new season, a new type and shade of make-up is created to match the silhouette of the moment. The new face often signs the season's styles more distinctly than the color or cut of the garments worn.

This season, little rouge is used here on the cheeks, attention being focussed on the lips and eyes. The latter are given an Asiatic slant by the use of a fine line traced with the pencil "eye-stopper" at the roots of the eyelashes and continuing upwards for an eighth of an inch at the end of the eyes.

For the lips, cupids bows are out. The centre of the lips are filled in and the top sides drawn in as straight a line as possible, while the under lip remains natural.

Centreville WMS Meet

Centreville Women's Missionary Society met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Willis Hall with the new officers, Mrs. Howard Brackenridge, president, and Mrs. Ralph Greer, secretary, in charge. Prayers were offered by Mrs. E. Eagleson and Mrs. John Gaynor. Scripture reading was given by Mrs. James Gaynor and the study book chapter outlined by Mrs. Jack Whitfield and Mrs. H. Tate. The 26 ladies present all renewed their membership for the coming year with treasurer Miss A. Barry. A dainty lunch was served by the the hostess, assisted by Miss E. Donaldson, Mrs. R. Bonner and Mrs. E. Brackenridge.

A short meeting of the Ladies' Aid was then held wth president Mrs. Karl Huggins in the chair. The treasurer reported a balance of $297 on hand. Next meeting is to be at the home of Mrs. Harry Campbell, Bailieboro.

Readers' Saturday Column Conducted by Mary Moore

Grateful Acknowledgment

It is heartening to open letters from folks who, up until that moment, have been labelled in my mind simply "readers."

Suddenly I find they are friends and friends with names. Some of them friends of long standing.

Such tributes as "Hubby says see what Mary Moore has to say about vegetables for Christmas dinner" or "Is this that Emem Pudding you were reading to me?" or "Your stuff always has a ring of authority because you put running comments all through it to tell us how to avoid accidents—as if those very accidents had happened to you" or "My daughter-in-law shared her batch of your Delicate Plum Pudding with me and my lady companion—and we loved it for we had decided that for just the two of us it was not worthwhile making a plum pudding—so this way we tasted your this year's offering."

✧ ✧ ✧

Those remarks and notes from dozens of others are as welcome and as appreciated as the warmth and peace of one's own friendly fireplace.

Christmas does open our voices and hearts, and makes us more human and able to express our kind and happy thoughts.

Thanks Friends, with all my heart.

QUESTION: (Cont'd. from a few weeks ago from "Queen") Please print recipe for "Grape Pie." Queen.

✧ ✧ ✧

Grape Pie

Seven cups Concord grapes, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, 1 to 1½ cups sugar, ¾ teaspoon salt, grated rind of 1 orange, plain pastry. Wash grapes well and stem them. Slip the skins from the pulp and heat pulp slowly to boiling point and simmer gently 5 minutes. Rub through sieve to remove seeds. Mix together the cornstarch, sugar, salt, orange rind with the strained grape pulp. Cook, stirring until thickened. Add the raw grape skins and cool. Line pie plate with pastry. Pour in the grape filling. Top with ⅜-inch wide strips of pastry lattice-fashion. Moisten the ends of the strips with water to make them stick to the edge of the bottom crust. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 325 deg. Fahr. and bake 20 minutes longer.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: Will you print your recipe for Yorkshire Pudding? I know how to make it but wondered if your recipe had something special about it that my husband and his brother might find interesting. I will watch for it.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I'm a cook-the-Yorkshire-around-the-roast addict.

✧ ✧ ✧

Yorkshire Pudding

In deep bowl or big kitchen pitcher put 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 eggs and ½ cup milk and beat under electric beater or with rotary beater until mixed, then add 1½ cups milk or some cream and milk and beat until batter is very smooth. Chill for 2 hours. Now comes a hard decision to make. Can you increase heat without overdoing the roast? Roast should be underdone definitely. Increase heat and pour pudding around. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. until pudding is risen and golden brown. This way you have a medium done roast and a delicious pudding. Previous to adding pour off some pan liquor for gravy which is a must with Yorkshire pudding.

Kitchener Strategy Pays Dutchmen Edge Marlies

By The Canadian Press

The hockey strategy of manager Bobby Bauer paid off Friday night for Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen. His team is still in last place in the Ontario Hockey Association major series but things are looking up after a 5-4 victory over the second place Toronto Marlboros at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Bauer has decided to follow the lead of the league-leading Toronto St. Michael's and Hamilton Tigers in cutting the number of players to be used for each game.

The league permits a maximum of 14 to be dressed but Bauer used only 13 Friday night and intends to go with 12 in future games. And only those who play will be paid. Another apparently successful move by Bauer was in giving defenceman Bingo Kampman his release and moving Harvey Jacklin back on defence.

Key Man

Billy Flick was the key man in the Kitchener-Waterloo attack, scoring three goals and assisting on two others. The Dutchmen had a 2-1 lead at the end of the first period, the teams were tied 3-3 at the end of the second. Dick Mitchell and Jim Pernfuss got goals in the third period for the winners. Scotty Mair put Marlboros back in the running but they couldn't tie it up. Other scorers for the Marlboros were Bus Wycherley, Bob Hassard and Al Buchanan.

There was plenty of action in the OHA junior "A" series but it was marred by an injury at Windsor to goalie Ed Chadwick of Toronto St. Michael's.

He was struck in the throat by a flying puck in the first period and was carried from the ice unconscious. His injury was not believed to be serious. Substitute netminder Gerry Young replaced him.

A crowd of 3,000 saw Windsor Spitfires defeat St. Mike's 6-2 for their ninth straight victory. Spits are tied for second place with Barrie Flyers, a single point behind the idle Toronto Marlboros.

Centre Erwin Grosse got two goals for Windsor, assisting on others by Jim Anderson and Eldor Thomas. Earl Jonson and John Offidani scored the others for Windsor. Bob Sabourin and Murray Costello were the St. Mike's scorers.

Keeps Pace

Barrie kept pace with the Spits by defeating the fourth place Biltmores 7-3 in Guelph. The game was marked by a wild third period in which Louis Fontinato and Paul Emms got match misconducts for fighting in the penalty box and a fan was whisked away by a policeman for walking out onto the ice to seek a personal explanation from the officials.

Rick Hogg and Jim Morrison got a pair of goals each for Barrie. Doug Towers, Jack White and Gerry Toppazzini getting the others. Andy Bathgate, Chuck Henderson and Ron Murphy scored for Guelph in the third.

At St. Catharines the Teepees earned a fifth-place tie with Galt by defeating the Black Hawks 5-4. A pair of goals by Skin Teal and singletons by Pierre Pilote, Bud Moore and Wayne Brown gave St. Catharines a 5-0 lead at the end of the second. They just managed to hold on as Don Hogan, Ken Wharram, George Gosselin and Pete Conacher put Galt back in the game in the final period.

At Stratford the Kroehlers saw to it that Waterloo Hurricanes remained winless by beating the cellar-dwellers 5-3. The Hurricanes went down fighting in suffering their 28th defeat of the season. They had a 3-1 lead at one point in the second period but faded as they have done so often this season.

Bob Bailey scored twice for Stratford, Guy Henri, Gord Nyles and Ken Uniac getting the other goals. Charlie MacDonald got a pair for Waterloo with Oliver getting the other.

Gatica Lasts 2 Mins. In Fight

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 — (AP).— How much has Ike Williams slipped? How much of a fighter is Jose Gatica? The answer both times is "not much."

It took only 2:06 of the first round to solve both riddles Friday night at Madison Square Garden. Williams, sharp and trim chopped down the swarming little Argentine with ease, knocking him to the canvas three times in a non-title bout.

Gatica's dreams of becoming the first South American to win a world title exploded before he ever got a shot at the crown. Four left hooks and a jarring right did the trick. Now he is ready to return to Argentina.

Jose, five-foot-four of swarming mauler, tried to rush the world lightweight champ off his feet. Angular Ike coolly picked his opening and pulled the trigger. Referee Ray Miller called a halt after the third knockdown.

"I would have stopped it even if he hadn't gone down the last time," said Miller, "if Ike hit him a couple more good shots."

If Gatica had won or come close he might have had a shot at Williams' title. Ike has not defended since December 5, 1949, and commissions are asking why.

Canadian Sailors Expected Train With Aussies Soon

OTTAWA, Jan. 6 (CP).—Canada's 8,000-ton cruiser Ontario—newly earmarked as a floating schoolhouse for officers—will sail from Esquimalt, B. C., Feb. 19 on a 15-week training cruise to Australia, the navy announced Friday.

She will become the first Canadian warship to exercise with the Australian fleet and is doing so on the invitation of Prime Minister Robert Menzies of the sister Dominion. However, Canadian destroyers have been serving with Australian ships off Korea.

At the same time, it was reported authoritatively the government is considering bringing the navy's other cruiser, the Uganda, out of mothballs and turning her into a second big training ship—for ordinary seamen.

No approval has been given by cabinet, but the navy is believed to be backing the move strongly.

Officers Ship

The Ontario, in the navy's 1951 plans, has been tabbed as an officers' training ship and about 100 of the roughly 800 men aboard her for the first Canadian naval cruise to Australia will be officers some of them members of the crew, the others in training. There also will be some new hands in the lower decks too, for a cruise ending June 7 with return to Esquimalt.

The Ontario has been in dockyard at Esquimalt for a refit. The Uganda is in reserve there.

Announcement of Ontario's cruise came shortly after Defence Minister Claxton's statement that the navy aims to double its operational activities this year.

The cruise will help the navy to prepare for a Pacific role in any new war. But the navy said there is no particular significance to it. The Ontario was slated to go somewhere on a training trip and the Australian invitation fitted perfectly into that plan.

The Ontario's cruise marks an extension of the system of training Canadian warships with British and American fleets. This is the first time this system has been extended to include Australian units.

Naval officials said the cruise will not denude the Canadian Pacific coast of naval strength. Three destroyers from Esquimalt now are in Korean waters—where they have served with Australian warships—but they will start coming back, one by one, next month and be replaced by others.

Find Baseball Has Most Fatal Accidents

By JACK HAND.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 — (AP)— Baseball has had more fatal accidents in New York City since 1918 than boxing or football, Dr. Charles Muzzicato, acting chairman of the Medical Advisory Board to the New York State Athletic Commission, said today.

A review of autopsies in the city for the period from 1918 to 1946 showed 44 baseball deaths, 25 boxing and 24 football... added to this the three city boxing fatalities since 1946, and the overall ring total is 28.

Figures since 1946 for baseball and football were not available. Sandlot, amateur, semi-pro, and pro sports are included.

Seven city deaths resulted from basketball, three from wrestling, and two from handball. One each died as the result of soccer, polo, relay racing, and being hit by a golf ball.

Dr. Muzzicato said he and Dr. Thomas Gonzales, chief medical examiner of the city, did the research. A check of all autopsies is being made to try to determine the causes of the deaths, with emphasis on developing new safety measures.

Make More Tests

The Boxing Commission supervised a testing of a new Belgian foam-rubber ring mat Friday afternoon at Madison Square Garden. Two young fighters sparred for 30 minutes on the new padding. They said the pad did not hinder their speed, but cramped their legs. Further tests will be made.

Dr. Muzzicato is of the opinion that ring deaths often can be blamed on the direct blow to the head from the punch rather than the shock when the head hits the ring floor. But there was no way of proving positively whether Sonny Boy West, who died after a recent bout at St. Nicholas Arena, was injured fatally by a punch or by hitting his head on the floor.

The new ring padding was not used at the Garden Friday night, but will be tested in the gymnasium. It now is used in Boston for wrestling matches and by colleges for gymnastics.

Brintons Win On Milltown Ice

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 6 — (ENS)—The Campbellford TVL team lost the opening game of the season on home ice on Friday night, 9-2 to Brinton Carpet of Peterborough. The old workhorse of the locals, Wib. Blake scored both goals unassisted, and helped his team mates out of many a tough spot. The kid line of Dooher, Dunk and Jeffs put in a good showing, and although they didn't bag any goals, they gave Jack Byers in the Peterborough nets many anxious moments.

Huard, McIndoo and Lawson stood out for the Peterborough team, and carried the play most of the time.

Bill Anderson got the first goal for the victors at 1:30 in the first period to start his team toward their victory.

Lindsay Teams Win Against St. Peter's

More and more cage drills are in store for St. Peter's High senior junior and bantam basketball teams. Lindsay Collegiate's three teams swept the opening triple-header with the Peterborough teams in the Lakeshore "B" league Friday night at the Lindsay gym.

Fred Allore's seniors lacked speed and height as they were swept away 41-18. For a time they held the Lindsay crew but gave way in the second half. MacDuffe and Maidens with nine points each paced the Scugog entry with help from Logan and Smith who came through with six points each. Harry O'Neill flipped in eight and Cavanagh six for the SPS squad.

St. Peter's juniors weren't in the same class as the Lindsay boys as they fell behind early to lose 39-13. K. Simmons for SPS left the game early with five fouls to leave a gap in their offensive play. Acheson, Lightbody, Peel, Graham, and Shenk were in the scoring throughout for Lindsay. Simmons, F. Legros, D. Galvin, and A. Ryan counted St. Peter's baskets.

Lindsay opened to go up 5-3. St. Peter's hung on to tie the score first nine-all, 12-all and then 13-all. And that was all for St. Peter's.

In a low-scoring and fairly close-checking game St. Peter's bantams made the best showing of the Peterborough teams. Even then they went under the wire behind by 21-14.

The teams were tied two-all and four-all before Lindsay started to slowly creep up. SPS stayed within one or two points until late when they went up 18-14 and held St. Peter's scoreless.

A. Truax topped all scoring efforts for the night with 10 points. J. Sinclair had two baskets and a foul shot for five and Ron Teel four points. D. Quinlan whipped home seven points for SPS as D. Board, R. O'Rourke and D. Finn added the remainder of the points.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press.

The largest entry list in history will match speed and stamina at Ottawa Feb. 8, 9 and 10 to compete in the annual international dog derby over a lengthened course.

George Boivin, chairman of the Ottawa Junior Board of Trade, which sponsors the event, announced Friday that the course this year will run 100 miles instead of the previous 90 miles, and will be run in three daily laps of 33⅓ miles each.

The race is for the Ballard Challenge Trophy and a $2,125 purse. The winning driver will get the money and $1,000, with the remainder of the cash award being divided among second, third and fourth place finishers.

Heading the year's entry list is Wilf Lepine of Quebec, a husky bushman who came home an easy winner in the 1950 race with a combined time of eight hours, 41 minutes and 30 seconds.

Cooler weather has brought little good news for Ontario's skiers.

The Travel and Publicity Department reported Friday conditions still unsuitable for skiing in most areas. Notable exceptions were Fort William, Port Arthur and Haileybury where skiing was reported excellent.

There was no skiing at Barrie, Dagmar, Flesherton, Markdale, Collingwood, Kenora, Peterborough and Toronto. Conditions were poor at Haliburton, Huntsville, Cobourg and Orangeville and fair at Midland and Sundridge.

Clark Griffith collapsed Friday in an Orlando, Fla., hotel from what doctors described as "being over-tired" and attempting to do too much in "warmer weather than he is accustomed to." The 80-year-old president of the Washington Senators baseball team had spent the morning touring Tinker Field where his club will do spring training.

At Los Angeles Sam Snead scorched Riviera's hilly golf course in familiar fashion Friday to post a four-under-par 67 and take the first round lead in the $15,000 Los Angeles open. One stroke back with a 33-35—68 came Marty Furgol, veteran campaigner from North Hollywood, Calif.

The Canadian Badminton Association, through its selector, Doug Grant, Friday announced 1950 national badminton rankings, placing Allan Williams of Calgary and Daryl Thomoson of Vancouver jointly in first place among the men and Lois Reid of Vancouver first among the ladies.

Marmora Victorious Over St. Peter's, 9-4

MARMORA, Jan. 6 (ENS). — St. Peter's CYO in their home fixture with Marmora Millionaires on the latter's rink, sustained defeat by the score of 9-4 after leading in the early part of the first period by 3-1.

The TVL game which was played on good ice was witnessed by over 450 spectators and except for the last period when a small fight ensued, was cleanly played. The Millionaires are a revamped team from last year. The Leonard brothers, Cousins and E. Trumble are not on the line-up and this necessitates a new kid line which functioned fine. The first goal was obtained by Jones on an assist from Brown after eight minutes of play, each being of the new line, while Brooks and Mantle also newcomers, got a goal apiece. Kerr and Stewart each got a pair of goals as did Griffin for St. Peter's. Another scorer for St. Peter's was Forrestell their centre, an old Marmora boy. In the third period, Menzies had to retire from the game through having a number of teeth knocked out. Russelle relieved Cavanagh in the nets for this period. It was the first game that Marmora was able to play in the season just commenced and with more practice, another good team to vie for championship honors seems to be in the making. Teams:

St. Peter's CYO—Goal, Cavanagh; defence, Giardino, Marshall; centre, Forestell; wings, Griffin, O'Heron; alternates, Menzies, Vyse, Conally, Basciano, Williams Mongraw, Gilbert, Dundas; spare goalie, Russell.

Marmora—Goal, Borland; defence, Kerr, Nayler; centre, Stewart; wings, Lavender, Trumble; alternates, McInroy, Maynes, Mantle, Brooks, Brown, Jones, Doyle, Gray.

Referees—T. Cousins, Deloro; G. Brown, Stirling.

Charge American Girl Lured To Monastery

ATHENS, Greece, Jan. 6 (AP) —Authorities hunted Friday night for a young, raven-haired American beauty whose father charges she was lured from her Toledo, O., home to imprisonment in a Greek monastery by a nun of the Julian Calendar sect. Similar cases are under investigation here.

The search followed an appeal to court officials in Athens from Christo Spyrides, of Toledo, for the return of his missing 22-year-old daughter, Simela.

Her charged that, against his will, Simela was enticed from her home to a Greek monastery in 1949 by a nun identified as Maria Zaphriopoulos.

Limit Ski Jumps

OSLO —(CP)— Thirty-nine out of 58 leading Norwegian ski jumpers have voted in favor of limiting ski jumps to a maximum capacity of 270 feet. Super jumps, they maintained, would threaten ski jumping as a popular sport by discouraging newcomers.

Loses Posthumously To Censor Of Plays

NEWCASTLE, England, Jan. 6 — (AP). — George Bernard Shaw, who fought a running battle all his professional life against the right of the Lord Chamberlain to censor plays, lost again Friday, posthumously, to that high functionary.

The Lord Chamberlain, guardian of British morals, decided that one line in the last play the crusty old playwright completed before his death more than a month ago will have to go out before it can be presented publicly next month.

The play, called "Far Fetched Fables," consists of six dialogues. In the fifth, projected far into the future, the identities of characters well known now in history appear to have become confused. One character refers to the death of a man obviously meant to be Socrates. He then refers to "a young man" whom "the Jews or Israelites" tortured to death for telling them that "the divinity they worshipped was in themselves" and for driving the money-changers out of the temple. Then comes the offending line: "His name was Hitler, poor chap."

The Lord Chamberlain ruled it might be construed as blasphemous.

"Would you be interested to learn that a world shortage is likely to produce boom conditions shortly on the marble market?"

"You know, it's one of these days a Cabinet Minister should make a statement that's neither wilfully misunderstood by representatives of the Press nor promptly repudiated by one of his colleagues. I shall begin to think this Government's losing its grip."

Sea Delivers Fish

WALVIS BAY —(CP)— The sea delivers fish on the doorstep in this South-West Africa port but it is no paradise for fishermen now. Annual submarine eruptions cause havoc and recently millions of dead fish have been washed up on the beaches.

Dolan Would Like Canada On All Auto Licence Plates

OTTAWA, Jan. 6 (CP) — Leo Dolan thinks Canada should make herself known by putting her name on every Canadian motor car licence plate.

The outspoken head of the Canadian Travel Bureau said Friday in an interview that if he had his way the name Canada would appear on all plates of the 10 provincial provinces. Advertising on licence plates now was widely accepted, particularly in the United States.

As it is, with each provincial plate carrying only the name of the province, things get pretty confusing when a Canadian car ventures far into the United States.

Ontario, for instance, was the name of a California county and also name of a good-sized California town. In New Jersey there is a city called New Brunswick. British Columbia had been confused by unknowing Mexicans with the South American Republic of Columbia. Prince Edward Island, abbreviated to PEI, often got mixed up with the Philippines.

Then, said Mr. Dolan, there was the New York cop who, seeing a Quebec licence abbreviated "Que," remarked:

"Them Cubans!"

Stock Markets Forge Ahead During Week

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Stock markets this week reflected the fact that this year will be one of great business activity, and brushed aside considerations of taxes and controls.

The continued flow of money showed that huge sums are seeking investment and that the interest yields of corporations are a big attraction.

Markets, too, may be acting as a forerunner of a new scale of values. People are afraid of inflation, and so, in a sense, there is something of a flight from money and into ownership of something which has a continuing value.

The market has worked itself into a position where, by ordinary standards it is vulnerable and liable to a set-back, but still it goes ahead. Its present action, if it continues, will be something to write about years from now when its meaning can be better understood.

More Impressive

Canadian exchanges were perhaps even more impressive than American, reflecting the tremendous demand that will undoubtedly be made on Canadian productive power.

On the Toronto Stock Exchange, Friday to Friday, industrials advanced 10.02 points to 300.11, the first time the index has ever passed the 300 mark. Nearly five points of the gain was made in yesterday's booming session. Base metals gained 7.43 to 169.83 over the week and western oils 2.17 to 81.64. Golds stood virtually still, as could be expected, losing .02 to 74.84.

Montreal averages showed the following changes:

Banks up 0.02 at 32.35; utilities off 0.5 at 84.6; industrials up 10.5 at 202.6; combined up 6.9 at 163.3; papers up 0.09 at 650.46; golds off 0.17 at 55.77.

In New York the Associated Press' average of 60 stocks advanced 80 cents to $90, a 20-year high.

Remove Restrictions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—The United States government Friday removed all restrictions on production of wheat and corn this year in an effort to maintain safe reserves of vital trains under the national emergency.

Circulation Increases 11,542 At Library

There was a total increase of 11,542 of books in circulation in the adult and boys' and girls' departments in the main and branch sections of the Public Library in 1950 over 1949. The total circulation for 1950 was 209,456 as compared to 197,914 in 1949.

The increase in the adult department totalled 8,502—121,435 in 1950 and 112,933 in 1949.

This information was released by Bill Graff, librarian, at the meeting of the Public Library Board Thursday night.

The balance on hand at the end of the year for the library is $476.49 as given in the the financial statement. Receipts for the year totalled $45,947.36 and expenditures, $45,470.87. The estimated expenditure for the year was $45,450.00.

Profitable Plan

EDMONTON, Jan. 6 (CP). — The fabulous tar sands of northern Alberta, one of the world's largest oil reservoirs, can be economically tapped, the Alberta government was told Friday by a Toronto petroleum engineer. The engineer, Sidney M. Blair, outlined a $50,000,000 project for extracting oil from the sands and piping it to the Great Lakes at a profit of at least 40 cents a barrel.

Roof Sails Off

WELLAND, Jan. 6 (CP).—The roof of a melting furnace room at Atlas Steel plant here was lifted off last night by a series of explosions but no one was injured. Plant officials said the first explosion probably severed a water line and caused a series of lesser blasts. The roof was 30 feet in diameter.

Plan Price Increases

TORONTO, Jan. 6 (CP).—The General Tire and Rubber Company of Canada, Limited, announced Friday night immediate price increases of 2½ to 10 per cent on passenger automobile tires and of five to 12 per cent on truck tires. Cost of passenger car tires now range from $15 to $50 and for trucks from $40 to $400.

Explosion At Hydro

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 6 (CP).—Douglas Ryan, a 35-year-old hydro worker was badly burned and well over 25,000 consumers as well as some hospitals in London and a wide rural area to the north east and west were without power for three hours during the supper period Friday night following an electrical explosion at the Highbury Avenue substation. Ryan suffered burns to his face, hands and body.

452-Year-Old Boys' Choir To Sing In City

The renowned Vienna Choir Boys will appear in a concert at Peterborough a week from Tuesday, on January 16, in the course of their ninth American tour arranged by Impresario S. Hurok.

The group of more than twenty youngsters, aged seven to twelve, from Vienna's historic Konvikt School, founded by Imperial decree 452 years ago, recently arrived in the United States after concertizing in Europe. High point of their activities was their appearance at the International Bach Festival in Vienna.

The school has three choirs on tour. This is the third unit to appear here since the war. The rotation system allows each lad in the school an opportunity to visit each country on the choir's far-flung itinerary at least once.

Less than 100 boys or ten per cent of the number of applicants, are admitted to the institution. Before admission to one of the choirs, students receive two years of training. There is always a unit in Vienna to perform services at the famous St. Stephen's Chapel.

Scorned Nazis

Introduced to the United States in 1932, the choir suspended activities after six consecutive tours when the Nazis imprisoned Father Josef Schnitt, Rector of the group, who refused to allow the organization to become an instrument of Nazi propaganda.

With the end of hostilities, the choir was reorganized and they returned to the United States in 1948. Their program will include a costume operetta, as well as sacred and secular music.

To Reject Charges

Secretary Arrested

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP) — Tallulah Bankhead's former secretary and travelling companion was arrested Friday for the alleged theft of $4,284.61 from the actress. The secretary, Mrs. Evyleen Ramsay Cronin, 38, pleaded innocent.

HOUSE No. 295 — If you have pictured in your mind's eye a "little white house at the end of the lane," here's something to make you sit up and take notice. By virtue of appearance and plan it is worthy of special notice. You don't forget a beauty like this! Each room is small but adequate in size for furniture and livability. The location of the two bedrooms and bath as a private section of the house is good. Twin closets in each bedroom will appeal to most prospective homebuilders. Central position of the bathroom makes it easily accessible from every room in the house. Expert planning went into the kitchen, as is shown. Prize room of all, however, is the living room with its big fireplace and bay window. Unfortunately its location makes it a traffic artery. For further information regarding plans, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

300 Searchers Find Child's Body

MONTREAL, Jan. 6 —(CP)— More than 300 volunteer searchers soberly returned to their homes early Friday after an eight hour search resulted in finding the frozen body of three-year-old Pierre Taschereau.

The blue-eyed child wandered away from his home in suburban Notre Dame de Grace shortly before supper last night and was not seen again until his stiff little body was found lying beside a small creek only a few blocks from his home.

During the eight-hour search, local radio stations broadcast half-hour appeals for volunteers to help in the search.

The searchers, who included Boy Scouts, firemen, off-duty policemen and citizens, came upon the body after following a trail of tiny footprints in the snow to the St. Pierre Creek. They said the child had crashed through the thin ice of the creek but made his way to shore where he collapsed.

More Wheat Flour

OTTAWA, Jan. 6 (CP)—Canadian production of wheat flour was higher in November and the first four months of the current crop year than in the corresponding periods of 1949, the Bureau of Statistics said Friday. The month's output rose to 2,104,476 barrels from 1,945,697, and in the four months of the crop year totalled 7,785,710 barrels against 7,377,664.

Suspend Certificate

LONDON, Jan. 6 (Reuters). — A British ship's master had his certificate suspended for two years Friday for "thoroughly-bad navigation and seamanship" in the St. Lawrence river last year. Thomas Linton was skipper of the 6,006-ton steamer Chiswick, which grounded in the St. Lawrence June 23, 1950, on a voyage to Canada.

Court Clerks To Ask Increase

TORONTO, Jan. 6 (CP).—Possibility of asking the provincial government for salary increases was discussed today by the Ontario County Court Clerks' Association, but final decision was left to the association executive.

Clerks now receive from $3,500 to $6,500 a year, depending on the size of their district, plus a cost-of-living bonus. They were last given an increase two years ago.

Delegates also asked for uniformity in fees collected under statute for filing documents and giving certificates.

They named Gordon Tennent, London, president for 1951. Other officers: honorary president, Dr. H. Bascomb, Whitby; vice-president, G. H. Gillies, Kitchener, secretary-treasurer, Col. G. T. Inch, Hamilton.

Diamond Bracelet Vanishes From Store

OTTAWA, Jan. 6 (CP). — A diamond-studded platinum bracelet valued at $8,000 has disappeared from a downtown jewelry store, police said Friday night. Two Ottawa detectives have been placed on the case.

Store officials would make no comment on the missing bracelet but police said it is believed to have disappeared sometime between Friday and Saturday of last week.

Will Stand Trial

TRAIL, B. C., Jan. 6 (CP). — Leo Meiorin, 17-year-old schoolboy, Friday was committed for trial for the Nov. 29 ax-slaying of 15-year-old June Bradshaw. The trial is slated for the spring assizes at Nelson, B. C.

Definite Ideas Needed On Furnishing, Decorating

Just as your architect or contractor must know before he plans or builds your house how much you are going to spend, what kind of a house you want, and a hundred other details, so should you have definite ideas about how you are going to furnish and decorate it before you even buy an ash-tray.

An attractive interior does not just happen. It is the result of careful study to get maximum comfort and liveableness out of available space: careful study of the rooms themselves, the effect you are trying to create and the amount of money you have to accomplish it.

Good taste is born of simplicity, which means you need not spend a lot of money to get results—it means wise buying.

Here are some suggestions which will help in your study:

1. Buy on a Budget: Decide how much you can spend and be sure that everything you want can be had within your budget. Experience indicates that a reasonable budget for furnishing and decorating a new house should be from 20% to 25% of the cost of the house itself. If you cannot afford such an outlay all at once, make a three or a five-year plan and buy the essential pieces first, gradually adding to them. Don't think that you have to buy all new furnishings when you move into your new home. The joy and thrill of "new" continues so long as you know that you can afford to add lovely things year after year. There are always touches here and there that will make it more attractive.

2. Buy Quality: Do not sacrifice quality in the essential pieces that you expect to give years of service. Quality in material and craftsmanship never disappoints. And, in design, quality means lasting beauty.

3. Buy Appropriately: Remember that the character of the small house is informality, friendliness, simplicity, honesty. You do not need elaborate pieces.

4. Furnish to a Plan Based on the Family's Needs and Habits: It is not difficult to find good pieces that wil fit the family and, also harmonize with the general decorative scheme. Each room should be restful but with cheery atmosphere. There must be places to read, to study, to entertain.

5. Work Out a Definite Scheme for Each Room: Determine the personality and appearance of each room—whether it is to be formal or informal modern or traditional.

6. Be Yourself: You can use the principles of good design, color harmony, etc., which, after all, are nothing more than evidences of good taste to express your individuality. Remember it is your home—in which you will spend many happy years.

Regular Ore Shipments

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 6 (AP) — The United States Steel Company Friday disclosed it is starting regular winter rail shipments of frozen iron ore from the Mesabi range in Minnesota to eastern mills. Regular shipments were decided upon following an experimental shipment which arrived earlier this week.

Enlarge Freight Yards

LONDON, Ont., Jas. CP) — Canadian National Railways is planning to enlarge the sprawling freight yards in East London to handle an aditional 225 cars and keep pace with the booming shipping picture. John A. Murphy, London divisional superintendent said Friday three new tracks will be laid within the existing yard area to handle more freight trains and loaded cars.

Film Tackles Old-Age Retirement Plan

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 6 (AP)—Looking at the week's news—

Hollywood is tackling all kinds of social problems these days. Latest to get the cinematic treatment is the question of old-age retirement.

In "Will You Love Me In December?" Monty Woolley plays a worker who is retired against his will at the age of 65. He then poses as the president of a huge automobile concern and makes a speech denouncing the system of forced retirements. This creates such a favorable reaction that the company is compelled to abandon its retirement-at-65 policy.

I'm not sure how much the picture will add to social thinking, but it will no doubt be controversial. . .

Lost Example

The Pollyannas who like to point to the placidity of Hollywood married life suffered a severe setback at year's end. That was the announcement of the split between Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Taylor. For 10 years their marriage was cited as an example of how two stars can stay happy together. Now another example will have to be found. . .

Best show in town is still "The Drunkard." Yes, the old sot is still staggering along every night at the theatre mart, just as he has since 1933. Not content with having shattered every long-run record in theatrical history, the show still puts out a high degree of entertainment. One of the original villains, Nextor Paiva, is back with the show after several years as a character actor in the movies.

Highway To Link Two Provinces

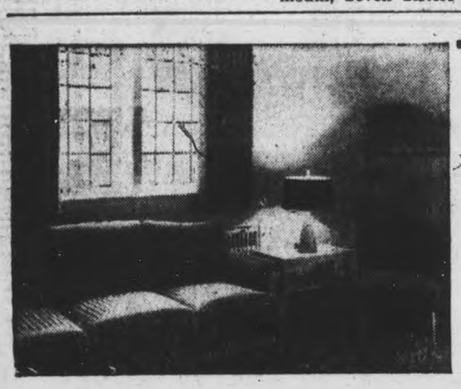
WINNIPEG—(CP)— Northeastern Manitoba sees its economic prosperity linked with good highways.

The area is roughly that lying north of the main railway lines between Winnipeg and the Ontario border.

Representatives of the area are pressing the Manitoba government to get started on a six-highway system for the region. Highways Minister William Morton has promised to take the project under consideration.

The minister said the fact that so large an area is in agreement on its goal is in itself noteworthy.

The program proposed includes extending the present No. 1 highway from Ontario through Rennie and Lockport to meet No. 4 at or near Marquette after the new Trans-Canada Highway is opened, giving a new east-west route through the province.



Another project is the building of two north-south routes from the United States border to Bissett, one road to pass through Steinbach, Ste. Anne, Beausejour, Pine Falls and Manigotagan and the other through Elma, Whitemouth, Seven Sisters Falls, Lac Du Bonnet and Bird River.

Sponsors of the plan say it would:

1. Link the majority of the principal population centres in eastern Manitoba;
2. Lower the cost of supplying producing mines;
3. Encourage development of new mining;
4. Reduce labor turnover in the mines by ending the present isolation of mining communities;
5. Lower prospecting costs;
6. Open new and profitable markets for farmers and creameries doing their own trucking;
7. Open new farm land inland from Lake Winnipeg;
8. Make district hospitals in Pine Falls and Beausejour more accessible;
9. Open a new area for tourist and vacation trade.

Armour Mackay of Bird River said the opening of northern routes would make for proper and more efficient forest management.

"The future of northeastern Manitoba beyond the Winnipeg River lies in forest farming." Development of a sustained yield of forest products as an annual crop is needed, he said.

Commonwealth Theatre Plan Winning Favor With Canadians

By JOHN PATERSON.

TORONTO, Jan. 6 — (CP). — Some Canadians think Canada must have more theatres before it can have more theatre. Others are firmly of the opinion that too much waiting around will produce neither.

The question—one that causes concern in Canada's growing ranks of professional actors — came up following a recent address in London, England, by Ngaio Marsh, New Zealand-born novelist and theatrical producer.

She proposed to the Royal Arts Society formation of a theatre company with actors drawn from and playing to Commonwealth countries which now rarely get first-rate professional theatre.

Robert Christie, distinguished Canadian actor, formerly of the Old Vic in London and with Fridolin's "Ti Coq" in Canada, likes the idea.

Need Impetus

"Only under such an impetus can we get anything started here," he remarked.

E. J. Rawley, manager of the Royal Alexandra Theatre here, said he thinks the lack of theatre buildings would be a big obstacle.

"There are only about six or eight legitimate theatres in Canada, and the public won't attend performances of professional shows played in school buildings and civic audtorums," he declared.

A noted playwright, Robertson Davies of Peterborough, disagreed:

"We shall never have theatre in Canada if we are going to wait until suitable theatres of the 19th century type are built in every city in Canada.

"A British Commonwealth theatre company would have to come to this country prepared to play under all sorts of circumstances and it would have to adapt itself to all sorts of conditions."

Only Way to Start

Brian Doherty of Toronto, producer of two road shows in Canada within the last year, calls the Commonwealth plan "the only way to start."

He said most young actors and actresses who feel they are ready for professional careers head for theatrical capitals, London and New York.

One suggestion he advanced was that the company must have "name actors" in order to draw crowds in Canada.

Mr. Christie said there are hundreds of actors in Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa and other Canadian cities who would welcome the plan.

"The lack of buildings is a serious one," he admitted, "but not enough to destroy the success of the company. . . .

"The Commonwealth theatre plan might well be the answer to Canada's lack of theatre."

X-ray Flowers, Beasts In Scientific Studies

By PERCY GHENT

Scientists got plenty of "inside information" in Montreal recently —but it wasn't the sort that brings cash returns.

When the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Montreal, with the cooperation of Canadian Industries Ltd., conducted a free X-ray clinic, the walls of the clinic hall were adorned with studies in natural history. The studies were radiographic explorations into the realm of nature—flowers, birds, and beasts as seen by the X-ray. More than 17,000 visitors found them fascinating.

An interior view of a snowy owl from the Canadian Arctic was shown, and the "Pellet" which contains the tiny bones of rodents the bird devours but cannot digest could be seen ready for ejection from the mouth. A bull frog with a crayfish dinner in its middle was on another film. A huge hornets' nest had been radiographed to show the cells and larvae within, as well as the layer on layer of wood-pulp paper of the wasps' manufacture, of which the nest was made. An almost ethereal beauty came to light on a flim revealing the graceful "chambers" within the shell of the chambered nautilus, subject of a famous poem.

X-Ray Dinosaur

Bone disease in the leg of a dinosaur that sank into the mud of what is now Alberta, 60,000,000 years ago, was revealed by X-ray. So was the delicate beauty of coral structures. There was the study of the skeletal development of a chicken during the 21-day incubation period. Havoc wrought by shipworms on undersea timbers made a fantastic showing of tunnels on one film. Others were of turtles, birds and plants. The radiographs were made by the writer.

Origin of Poinsettia

Joel Poinsett, a member of the United States diplomatic service, was responsible for the introduction of the plant named for him in his native land and Canada as emblem of Christmas happiness. More than a century ago he found a valley of Mexico ablaze with the radiant red bracts, on small leaves, of a plant he had never seen before, and sent specimens to botanist friends in Philadelphia. Now, in scores of nurseries across North America in its chillier zones, poinsettias are grown in their tens of thousands for Yuletide decorations.

How did the poinsettia develop those gloriously-colored bracts to compensate for inconspicuous flowers? Mexico has a lovely legend to explain them.

One Christmas Eve outside a cathedral, a ragged little girl watched rich folk entering and placing lavish gifts beside the altar. She had no gift to offer, but timidly, gathered some plain green weeds. At the altar, as she placed the weeds there, a miracle happened. Suddenly, they were adorned with their scarlet bracts, and all sang jubilantly to celebrate the miracle.

In Mexico, they call the poinsettia, "flower of the blessed night."

Reds Open Barrage Against Eisenhower

PARIS, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Communists have opened up a savage hate campaign against Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, due here Sunday to take command of Atlantic Pact defence forces.

Communist papers in Paris, in Eastern Europe and in Moscow are assailing him in the bitterest terms. French Communists are circulating petitions against him and trying to work out up protest strikes.

The first blasts at Eisenhower were printed just before Christmas, when the Soviet youth newspapers in Moscow and the Literary Gazette there assailed him as "a true serf of Wall Street" and "a sergeant-major of Wall Street."

Now, papers in Prague and Paris have taken up the cudgels. The trade union paper Prace in Prague called him a "mercenary of war-mongers" today. The French Communist organ l'Humanite early this week began its campaign by saying workers at the Hotchkiss factory in suburban St. Denis have decided on a "patriotic strike against the installing of Eisenhower in Paris."

Resume Negotiations

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Russia has agreed to resume negotiations Jan. 15 for settlement of the $11,000,000,000 Soviet account for lend-lease the United States supplied her during the Second World War. The State Department told of the new meeting Friday. It said the conference was arranged after the U.S. began pressing last June 15 for a resumption of talks. Previous negotiations were broken off more than two years ago.

A Last Farewell

VIENNA, Jan. 6 (AP)— Austrians paid a last weeping farewell Friday to Austria's late president, Dr. Karl Renner. An estimated 300,000 mourners lined the funeral procession route. The crowd was the largest to assemble in Vienna since the death of Emperor Franz Josef I in 1916. Renner died Dec. 31, aged 80. He was father and founder of both the first and second Austrian republics.

Sets Burglary Record

LONDON, Jan. 6—(AP)—Police ruefully marked up some kind of record for Jack T. Payne—155 burglaries in 47 nights. They said the one-man crime wave broke in London Oct. 21. It ended with the arrest of the 33-year-old laborer Dec. 7. The loot from homes, shops and schools, was valued at $5,581. A judge today sentenced the non-stop burglar to seven years.

Montreal Play Smashes Records

TORONTO, Jan. 6 (CP)—The record-breaking Canadian play "Ti-Coq" (Little Rooster) opens here next Monday for a week's run prior to its showing in Chicago Jan. 15 and on Broadway, probably in February.

It will be the first Canadian play and the first all-Canadian and completely by-lingual company to play in New York.

The huge advance sale for the Toronto showing—the show is a sell-out ebfore it opens—has been eclipsed only twice, by "Oklahoma!" and the Sadler's Wells ballet, in the history of the Royal Alexandra Theatre.

With every Canadian performance "Ti-Coq" smashes another record in Canada. Its more than 300 performances in Montreal has left far behind the eight-week run there of "Able's Irish Rose" and the 185 performances in Vancouver by an English company of "Elizabeth Steps Out."

Tractor Not Vehicle

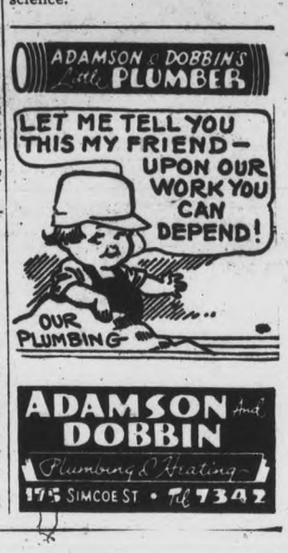
PCVS Library Sets Record For Circulation

PCVS library set a circulation record when the students borrowed 8,199 books in the first four months of school term. Last year's 7,188 for the same period was the high since the library was opened in 1943 for the students' use.

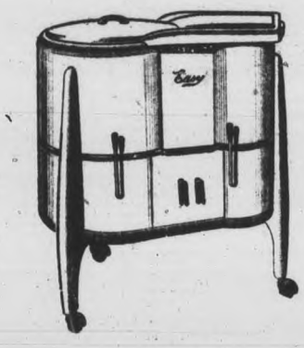


Miss Genevieve Fowler, the librarian, said that fiction is the most popular type of reading desired. During the past term 3,133 fictional books were circulated as compared with 2,760 in the first four months in 1949-50.

Miss Fowler noted that the increase this year was proportional throughout the various classes of books available. Some types showed a slight decline but most indicated an increase in popularity.

Travel books have increased in the students' choice by over 400 books, their circulation jumping from 842 to 1,265. Biography books which were second last year dropped down to fourth place from 986 to 880. Literature and philosophy remained in the same position but showed a decided increase in demand.

Of the remaining eight classes of books offered the students, five showed increases while three decreased.



Books, classed as sociology, declined in popularity. History slipped slightly and also natural science.

UN Troops Abandon Wonju After Fierce Holding Action

Truman Warns U.S. Prepared to Fight To Keep Freedom

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8—(AP)—President Truman said today Russia's leaders are out "to take over the world, step by step" and warned: "we will fight, if fight we must, to keep our freedom and to prevent justice from being destroyed." In a personally delivered "state-of-the-union" message to Congress, Truman said, too, the United States is "willing, as we have always been, to negotiate honorable settlements with the Soviet Union." "But we will not engage in appeasement."

Truman's 3,500-word message was first of all a defence of his foreign policy which is geared to the idea of building American and Western European strength to the point where Russia will respect it.

It was second a general outline of what has been done so far in the way of military mobilization and a broad sketching of what is to come.

"We are preparing for full wartime mobilization, if that should become necessary," Truman said.

"We are going to produce all the weapons and equipment that such an armed force will need," he added. "Furthermore, we will make weapons for our Allies, and weapons for our own reserve supplies. On top of this, we will build the capacity to turn out on short notice arms and supplies that may be needed for a full scale war."

Outlines Changes

As part of that preparation, Truman said he wants changes in the draft law, higher taxes, greater wage-price controls powers, "improvement" of labor and farm laws, aid to education, and Federal aid for training medical men and women.

He gave no details on any of these. Precisely what he proposes will come out piece-meal later in special messages and through submission of specific legislative proposals to the Congress.

Truman pledged that the US will not abandon its leadership of "the community of free nations."

Replying, in effect, to recent demands by former President Herbert Hoover and Republican Senator Robert A. Taft that the US limit its military aid to Western Europe, Truman declared American's national security is too deeply involved to allow any withdrawal of help.

Nehru Facing Challenge At Conference

LONDON, Jan. 8—(CP)—The Commonwealth Prime Ministers, reunited at last, started talking today about two major Asian trouble spots—Korean and Kashmir. Their action posed a conciliation challenge for India's Prime Minister Nehru, would-be peacemaker who seeks to pour oil on the troubled waters of Korea.

Britain's top military chiefs attended the conference for the first time this afternoon and it is understood they gave the prime minister an assessment of the military position in Korea as a background to the political problems of the Far East now dominating the talks.

As the conference of Commonwealth leaders entered the second week, a full membership was in attendance for the first time. Pakistan's head man, Liaquat Ali Khan, ended his boycott and arrived in London last night after his colleagues agreed to discuss informally his country's dispute with neighboring India over Kashmir.

That put Nehru on the spot. He had tried to keep the Kashmir issue out of the conference.

The Indian Prime Minister meanwhile continued his so-far-unrewarded efforts to convince the conferees that a new effort must be made to reach an understanding with China's Communists.

With Kashmir set for informal discussions, attempts to weld a unified commonwealth policy on both the Communists and Korea remained the major item on the agenda for the conference's plenary sessions.

Gains Urgency

Such a policy gained new urgency from the circulation of proposals by the United States, sent to 30 countries, that the Peiping regime be branded in the United Nations as aggressors.

Britain was expected to back Nehru's reported opposition to such a move and his desire for new approaches to the Communists. But Australia and New Zealand were pictured as doubtful of the value of another appeal in that direction.

The Kashmir question will be discussed at an informal meeting of the ministers after Liaquat Ali confers with Britain's Prime Minister Attlee.

Observers here said that as long as the question of the princely state, with both India and Pakistan want to control, remains at issue between the two Asian powers the critical world balance might be upset.

Angry Sow Burns Barn At Sault

SAULT STE. MARIE, Jan. 8—(CP)—A pig burned down a barn near here Saturday after her litter was taken from her.

Farmer Joseph Mancuso transferred the litter to an electric brooder when the temperature dropped below zero. Enraged, the sow trampled the brooder, short-circuited a wire and started a fire that destroyed the large frame barn. The loss was eetimated at almost $10,000.

While firemen fought the blaze the sow kept dashing into the flames. Every time the intense heat singed her hide, she scrambled into the nearest snowbank, cooled off, then renewed her attack.

Floods Latest ...urge For British People

LONDON, Jan. 8 (Reuters)—Many British roads were impassable today through floods, and swollen rivers brought new threats as more rain began to fall.

The Thames, after steadily rising throughout the week-end, burst its banks in several places and flooded low-lying areas. Families along miles of the riverside prepared to quit their homes.

Northeast Yorkshire suffered extensive flooding and the river Derwent was 10 feet above its summer level.

In west England, serious flooding was reported, especially in Dorset.

Meanwhile, snow drifts more than six feet deep covered parts of Denmark today after 30 hours' continuous snow.

Pearson Unable To Go To London

OTTAWA, Jan. 8—(CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson virtually wrote off his proposed flight to London today as China's march through Korea threw new crises at the western world.

The official word here was that his duties as a member of the United Nations cease-fire committee on Korea are keeping Mr. Pearson in New York.

These, officials said, have made it "highly unlikely" that he will be able to join Prime Minister St. Laurent at the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' conference.

Mr. Pearson was also believed to be heavily involved in New York in the behind-the-scenes negotiations arising from the American request that the U.N. label Red China an aggressor and take punitive economic and political measures against her.

The External Affairs department confirmed that Canada has received a communication from the U.S. about the proposed sanctions move against China but a spokesman said no statement can be made at this time on Canada's position.

Search Spreads To Mexico Fear Killer Slays Ninth

BLYTHE, Calif. Jan. 8 (AP)—The frantic, bloody trail of bad man Bill Cook wound today through the barren reaches of North-Western Mexico.

Mexican police joined the far-flung search for the boastful killer after the automobile of one of his victims was found abandoned Sunday 40 miles south of the border.

Officers were on the alert for the short, stocky desperado in case he might try to cross the Colorado River and head for Southern Mexico. It was apparent from the marks near the abandoned car that Cook had commandeered another vehicle—at the expense of another and perhaps his ninth victim.

The 24--year-old former convict from Joplin, O., the object of one of the west's greatest manhunts may be forced to turn back toward the U.S. border by the nature of the barren desert country to which he has fled.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation and scores of other officers waiting at the border were gambling that two nights on the desert might force Cook to try to run the risk of re-entry into the U.S. He is heavily armed.

The sedan of Robert H. Dewey, 32, of Seattle, was discovered by Police Chief Guy Woodward of El Centro, Calif., who on a hunch drove south from the border town Sunday afternoon.

Woodward reported there were bloodstains on the front seat and the licence plates were missing from the car.

Dewey's body was found near Ogilby Calif., Saturday in a sheriff's car after Cook had kidnapped, tied and thrown out Deputy Homer Waldrip, 27, of Blythe. Earlier, Cook was sought throughout Orkansas, Texas and Oklahoma for questioning about the missing family of Carl Mosser, his wife and three children from Atwood, Ill.

"I've murdered seven other people and I would just as soon murder you," Waldrip quoted the desperado.

Cook was paroled from the Jefferson City, Mo. penitentiary last June after serving parts of two five-year sentences for robbery.

Britain Asks Cease-Fire Tried Again

Warns Red China May Force Break With World

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Jan. 8—(AP)—Britain called on the United Nations today to make another effort for a Korean cease-fire, but warned Communist China that it might force a break with the free world if it insisted on acceptance of its own terms.

In a major policy declaration, Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb at the same time pledged British support as long as U.N. troops continued to fight in Korea. He spoke before the General Assembly's 60-nation political committee.

Jebb backed the United States demand that a cease-fire must come before negotiations can begin on other problems.

Jebb warned the committee that any decision it takes may result in a "complete cleavage between China and the free world" and said such a break would have a 'dreadful effect". For this reason, he said, the UN should weigh its actions carefully.

"Look well before you leap is a wise maxim in foreign affairs," Jebb said. "If we do leap we should all leap together".

The British delegate said there can be no peaceful solution of the Korean problem if the Peiping regime ignores the purpose of the UN action in Korea. He expressed doubt that any results would be achieved by a new cease-fire effort, but said every effort should be made to find a peaceful solution.

"If a final break with China occurs," he said, "it must be clearly shown that it came about through no fault of the United Nations. A collective break with China will not help United Nations troops fighting in Korea, at least for the present".

Jebb said he favored a seven-point proposal put forward by Israel last week, calling for a solution of the Korean problem by stages. The first step would be a cease-fire. Others would include a progressive withdrawal of all non-Korean troops and elections under UN supervision.

He said the UN should go on record again as accepting the idea of a cease-fire even if Peiping does not.

Meanwhile, the United States still lacked sufficient UN support to ensure adoption of the anticipated resolution to condemn Communist China as an aggressor.

St. Laurent Entertains Delegates At Lunch

LONDON, Jan. 8 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent of Canada gave a private luncheon today for delegates attending the Commonwealth conference. Prime Minister Nehru of India was one of the guests.

Tonight, the Canadian Prime Minister will be guest of honor at a Canada Club dinner.

Accompanied by his son, Renault, St. Laurent Sunday visited London University and spoke to Commonwealth students.

A KOREAN WOMAN (centre), with outstretched hands, begs to be taken to safety across the Han river as other refugees and United Nations' soldiers wait for a lift across the South Korean river during the mass withdrawal southward.

Reaume Ahead In Recount

WINDSOR, Jan. 8—(CP)—Arthur J. Reaume came from behind this morning in recounting of Windsor's disputed Dec. 6 Mayoralty election and at noon today held an eight-vote lead over Thomas R. Brophey, who had been declared the city's new mayor following the election. In the counting of 39 ballot boxes, Reaume took a net advantage of 15 votes which wiped out Brophey's seven-vote lead of Saturday and put Reaume ahead for the first time during the recount. With 11 polls left, the recount was expected to end this afternoon and open the way to legal argument on the status of the recount itself. Possibility of a move to obtain a new election hinged on the outcome of the argument.

Three days of recounting last week, covering 135 of the city's 185 polls, whittled Mayor Thomas R. Brophey's margin from 38 to 7 votes over ex-mayor Arthur J. Reaume.

Lawyers for the two candidates have been told by recount judges to prepare arguments on the question of several ballot boxes which were found with unsealed ballot envelopes.

Blast Rocks Los Angeles Jet Pulling Out of Dive

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8—(AP)—A tremendous pressure blast that rocked the Los Angeles area Saturday was caused by a jet plane pulling out of a supersonic dive, military intelligence officials explained.

The explanation came after the mysterious "explosion" brought hundreds of calls to police and newspaper switchboards.

No serious damage was reported anywhere, but a few windows were broken in Culver City. The shock was felt all the way from Santa Monica to the San Fernando Valley, 20 miles inland.

"Two or three high-powered jet planes were being tested," a military intelligence spokesman said. "They were at altitudes of nearly 40,000 feet."

One of the new ships went into a 600-to-900-mile-an-hour power dive, he added, and roared through the sonic barrier. When it levelled off it created a vacuum and caused a terrific blast, like a thunderclap.

Jet Shocks Common

Brig-Gen. Albert Boyd, commander of the Edwards air force base, a testing ground for jets at Muroc, said the jet shocks are an everyday occurrence at Muroc, but that his fliers have orders to stay away from populated areas.

Western Ontario Floods Easing

CHATHAM, Jan. 8 (CP)—Reports from the low-lying lands of Dover and Raleigh townships today indicated that flood waters of the Thames are receding and farmers whose homes have been threatened were breathing easier.

At one point the river had dropped two feet.

Dynamite blasting operations were conducted Sunday in an effort to break up the solid mass of ice which extends considerable distance up stream from the river mouth, but it failed to make any impression. Those familiar with the Thames believe that a change in the direction of the wind, which would shift ice in Lake St. Clair, would bring about a swift drop in the high water mark.

The hamlet of Prairie Siding, 10 miles from here, was worst hit by the flood. At that point the river has sharp curves where ice usually jams. Roads leading to the village were under water.

At various points during the week-end farmers labored to strengthen dikes against the rising waters and in several spots water flowed over roads.

In Chatham a slight drop in the river, which had reached 14 feet above normal, was noted.

Huron Suddenly Becomes Popular

HALIFAX, Jan. 8—(CP)—The destroyer Huron suddenly became the most popular navy ship in harbor here when it was announced Saturday she will sail to Korean waters.

Navy officers said that several hours after the announcement they had received 50 applications from the carrier Magnificent, the destroyer Micmac and other vessels for transfer to Huron.

This, they said, "is indicative of a high state of morale in the fleet." Huron will sail Jan. 22 to replace the destroyer Cayuga in Korean waters. The Navy didn't say whether any of the applications will be accepted.

Huron's skipper, Cmdr. Edward T. G. Madgwick of Ottawa, was awarded the United States Legion of Merit for his part in rescuing crew members of a downed U.S. B-29 in the Atlantic in 1949, while commanding the destroyer Haida.

Huron has been docked at Halifax since Nov. 27 when she returned from a three-month training cruise to European waters.

The 33-year-old Commander, a specialist in gunnery, has held important appointments in the gunnery branch of both the Royal Navy and the Canadian Navy.

Nepal's Parliament To Let King Return

NEW DELHI, Jan. 8—(AP)—The Nepalese Embassy announced here today that both houses of Nepal's Parliament agreed Sunday to the return of King Tribhuvana to his throne and to constitutional reforms. The King was deposed Nov. 7 by his all-powerful prime minister and fled into exile in India.

The Embassy's announcement said parliament resolved that pending his return the King should appoint a regent in consultation with the Nepalese government. Tribhuvana's three-year-old grandson, Gyanendra, is the nominal Monarch now.

In addition, the Embassy Adi, parliament agreed to reconstitution of Nepal's cabinet with equal representation for the present government and rebel elements. Tribhuvana's supporters, foes of the Prime Minister, rose in rebellion after he was deposed. They were quickly put down as a fighting force but Sunday they seized Tansen, in West Nepal, 100 miles west of Katmandu, the capital, in a coup.

Bus Drivers Vote On Strike

WINDSOR, Jan. 8 (CP)—Bus drivers, garagemen and office employees of the Sandwich, Windsor and Amherstburg railway vote today on whether to strike or accept a company contract offer rejected three weeks ago.

The voting, by secret ballot, was scheduled to begin at 4 p.m. and will end about 2 a.m. Tuesday morning, when today's last shift finishes work.

The contract offer was made Saturday, after two days of negotiations between the company and Division 616, Street Railwaymen's Union (AFL).

The bargaining talks, called following receipt of a conciliation board report brought forth an offer more favorable to the union than the board's majority report which was signed by Judge R. S. Clark of Guelph, chairman and the company nominee on the three-man board.

Planes Set Town And Airstrip Ablaze After Allied Withdrawal, Main Forces Pull Back South Of Osan

TOKYO, Jan. 8—(AP)—Allied rearguard forces today yielded the ruins of Wonju to an overwhelming horde of Chinese and North Korean Communist troops after a bitter holding action that bought precious time. Red troops entered the burning road and rail centre as United Nations forces withdrew to new positions. The Allies had fought fiercely for the city, 55 miles southeast of Seoul, to buy time for the main body of U.N. forces to retreat south westward from Seoul on the road leading to the southeast port of Pusan.

The Eighth Army said the Communist troops occupied Wonju at mid-day and were later reported to have entered Osan.

They emphasized that the withdrawal was not due to enemy pressure but was made in order to occupy better defensive positions.

U.N. patrols went back into town after the withdrawal and remained there until mid-morning.

A half an hour after the Communists occupied the town a U.N. battalion roving two miles south of Wonju found an enemy regiment asleep by the roadside. Allied troops poured a stream of fire into the enemy troops and slaughtered about 200.

Outflank Battalion

Fierce fighting raged for about half an hour. Then the Communists with their greater number gradually began to outflank the allied battalion.

Jets and artillery struck back and allowed the U.N. troops to break off the engagement.

Associated Press correspondent Tom Lambert reported in a delayed dispatch that the main forces Sunday had pulled back south of Osan, 28 air miles south of Seoul.

That's 50 miles southwest of Wonju and on the main route from the burned and abandoned South Korean capital to Taejon and Pusan. It was at Osan that the first American soldier to fight in the Korean war was killed last July.

Fierce Battle

Wonju's defenders battled Saturday, Sunday and Sunday night to keep the Red hordes from sweeping into the gateway city to the heart of South Korea. A web of roads lead from Wonju into the interior.

Held at bay by the defenders were seven Chinese armies, possibly 210,000 men, and the Korean Red comrades.

UN Officially Moves To New Quarters

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 (AP)—The United Nations today moved officially into its $65,000,000 Manhattan headquarters, but the organization's crowd-drawing activities still take place at Lake Success.

Meeting rooms for the Security Council, the economic and social council and the six main committees are not yet finished. These groups will continue to function at Lake Success, on Long Island 15 miles from the new building.

Press and document sections will also remain at the old building.

Although a majority of the UN's 3,300 employees have moved to half-furnished offices in the 39-storey Manhattan building, the structure still is largely unfinished. Moving costs have already passed $300,000.

Diplomats, secretariat and visitors enter over a 1,000-foot swaying wood catwalk. Underneath is a 250-car garage being built under the 17-acre site which John D. Rockefeller, Jr., purchased for $8,500,000 and deeded to the UN in 1946.

The United States lent the UN the money to meet construction costs.

8 People Flee Burning House

NAPANEE, Jan. 8 (CP)—Eight persons dressed only in night attire, one of them a 91-year-old blind man and another nine-month-old child, huddled in an underground stable two miles east of here early Sunday while their home burned to the ground.

The fire department in this Eastern Ontario town did not answer a call to fight the blaze which broke out in sub-zero weather. A resolution passed by the 1950 council prohibits use of the department for fighting fires more than half a mile from Napanee.

The fire broke out in the kitchen of the five-room frame house built six years ago by George McTaggart. In the house at the time were his wife and father and two married daughters and their familes visiting for the weekend. They were Mr. and Mrs. Randal Wilson and their baby, from Kingston, and Mr. and Mrs. John Beattie of Montreal.

Nephew Of King Selling More Land

LEEDS, England, Jan. 8 (Reuters)—Lord Harewood, nephew of the King, is planning to sell another chunk of his family estate in Yorkshire to pay taxes, it was learned Sunday.

Last November he announced that 6,000 acres would be sold to raise the outstanding balance of death duties. The previous June, he sold 8,600 acres by auction for £257,000.

Now it is stated that another 1,000 acres, which includes Goldsborough Hall, his boyhood home, near Harrogate, is to be sold. No date for the sale has yet been fixed.

Canada, Australia Vie For Immigrants

Aussies Plan Big Drive In 1951 for Settlers, Target 200,000

LONDON, Jan. 8 (CP).—Australia, Canada's chief competitor for more population, is planning a vigorous drive in 1951 for new settlers.

The target set by her immigration directors for the next 12 months is 200,000. This represents an increase of about 10,000 over the record number admitted last year, but more will be accepted if the right type is available.

Since the war, Australia has attracted nearly 500,000 newcomers outstripping by far any other member of the British Commonwealth. Of this intake about 225,000 have been recruited in the British Isles. But almost every country in Europe has contributed its quota to the steady trek which shows one in every 17 a post-war arrival.

In their 1951 campaign, immigration authorities from ""down under" expect to entice more than 80,000 settlers from the United Kingdom alone. Of this number nearly 50,000 will be offered the trip through an assisted-passage scheme.

Keen Competition

Keen competition, however, is expected from Canada which also has an assisted-passage plan, permitting prospective immigrants to travel by air at reduced fares if they choose.

To meet this counter-drive, Australian representatives have been concentrating on continental countries. A large number is expected to be accepted from West Germany, where the excess population is estimated at more than 7,000,000. They comprise people mainly from East Germany, the Sudetenland and families of German stock from other iron curtain countries.

As enemy aliens, these prospective emigrants have up to now been barred entry into Australia. Harold E. Holt, Minister for Labor and Immigration, however, has announced that consideration will have to be given to revision of this policy. Negotiations have already been initiated with representatives from West Germany.

Delegations from the Netherlands and Italy have also visited Australia within recent months. The Dutch government is reported to have agreed to the sending of 25,000 farmers, tradesmen and factory workers annually, while about 10,000 Italians have undertaken to pay their own passage to Australia each year.

France Gives Eisenhower First Troops

Serves Warning It's Dangerous To Take On Allies

PARIS, Jan. 8 — (AP) — France today formally gave Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower the first contingent of European troops that will serve under his flag as Supreme Atlantic Arm, Commander.

The famed leader of the Second World War arrived in Paris Sunday to head an international force to defend the west against Communism. At once he served warning that any country tempted to test the power of the west had better think long and carefully about starting anything.

Eisenhower's arrival here marks his formal visit to one of the European powers that will give him men and machines for the army the 12-power Atlantic community had asked him to create to fend off aggression from the east.

After a quick tour of the North Atlantic treaty countries, Eisenhower is scheduled to return to Washington late this month. He comes back to Europe around mid-February to begin the task of putting into full operation his Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe.

Full of Confidence

In tones as confident as though he had 100 divisions at his command—instead of the dozen or so ready for him to lead—Eisenhower declared Sunday:

"Aroused and united, there is nothing which the nations of the Atlantic community cannot achieve. Let those who might be tempted to put this power to the test, ponder well the lessons of history. The cause of freedom can never be defeated."

After courtesy calls on Premier Rene Pleven and Franch Foreign Minister Robert Schuman, Eisenhower settled down for a conference with France's top military men.

During this meeting Defence Minister Jules Moch told the supreme commander three French divisions, now in Germany are at his disposal.

These three divisions will help form the nucleus of a European international army that is expected to grow to more than 1,000,000 soldiers, sailors, and airmen by 1953.

British Defence Costs Going Up

LONDON, Jan. 8—(Reuters)—The full impact of Britain's new rearmament program is expected to be disclosed in parliament later this month.

By the time parliament meets again Jan. 23, members hope all the technicalities will have been worked out in preparation for a top-level preview of defence preparations by Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell.

The exact total of Britain's new defence burden still is a close secret. Last July, plans were drafted estimating expenditure of £3,400,000,000 (about $10,030,000,000) spread over a three-year period. Since then, the government has announced that another £200,000,000 will have to be added to the total.

Informed sources say the more-recent decisions may force the bill over £4,000,000,000.

Blast Rocks

He added that three air force jets were tested Saturday morning and that he himself piloted one faster-than-sound plane. He insisted none of these planes flew over Los Angeles, however. The navy also tests jet aircraft over Southern California.

Gen. Boyd said similar reports were turned in at Dayton, O., when he was flight test officer at Wright Field there. Since then, he added, jet pilots have orders to stay away from cities.

The explanation for the blast appears to be that the noise and shock phenomenon occur only when a plane is diving toward the earth at the speed of sound or faster. The shock apparently continues straight on to the ground when the pilot pulls out of the dive and begins to regain altitude.

Sonic Barrier

The shock is the result of what has long been known as the sonic barrier and which is better described as compressibility. A plane flying faster than sound pushes the air ahead of it faster than the sound waves can travel. A sound wave is a pressure wave and full of energy. This energy then is piled up ahead of the plane and does not have a chance to disperse until the plane changes direction.

Then the accumulated energy is expended on a shock wave, much as ripples in the water carry off the energy caused by stones striking the smooth surface of a pond.

Storm Sweeps Across Canada

By The Canadian Press.

A sleet and snow storm moved into the Maritimes Sunday night from the New England States and brought some snow to Southern Ontario and Quebec.

The Dominion weather office at Halifax predicted the storm, moving northeastward from Philadelphia and New York, would bring a snowfall of from six to 10 inches in Prince Edward Island Nova Scotia and southeastern New Brunswick.

Low temperature readings were general from Ontario to the Atlantic coast but were moderating across the prairies and along the Pacific coast.

The storm, born north of the Gulf of Mexico Saturday night, was intensifying as it moved northeastward. Weather officials said strong, gusty winds in the wake of the storm would cause considerable drifting, especially in PEI.

The northern edge of the storm extended into Lake Erie and the Niagara regions of Ontario Sunday night bringing up to an inch of snow in some southern Ontario points and light snowflurries over most of the province.

The forecast for eastern Canada and the Maritimes was for continued cold weather with some moderation expected in northern Ontario today. It was nine degrees below zero at Ottawa, four below at Quebec, 21 above at Yarmouth, N. S., and 17 above at St. John's, Nfld.

Gain 24 Hours

Then the defenders abandoned the town and its airstrip. Allied planes strafed and fire-bombed Wonju after the withdrawal. An ammunition train was blown up.

U.S. Eighth Army headquarters said allied casualties were light during the holding action. Headquarters said fighting continued in the Wonju area, east and west of the city.

One battalion counter-attacked Monday morning, but pulled back after a brief fight. Planes attacked Reds on ridges on Wonju's flanks.

The allied rearguard still was fighting desperately to block the Reds from a southward sweep that would menace the main body of U.N. troops.

Gen. MacArthur's summary, timed at 2:40 p.m. (12:40 a.m., EST), had reported U.N. troops north of Wonju had withdrawn, but gave no indication they had given up the city. About noon, a U.S. Eighth Army spokesman had said: "as of the early hours today (Monday) we still controlled Wonju."

Claim Heavy Casualities

MacArthur's summary said heavy casualties were inflicted on the Reds.

The Communists had penetrated the devastated city's outskirts Sunday only to be hurled out by the counter-attack.

So fierce was Allied resistance that air observers saw Red troops digging in two miles east of the town. In one fight, Wonju's defenders killed 470 North Koreans and took 74 prisoners.

Associated Press Correspondent Don Huth, at U.S. Eighth Army headquarters, reported the siege of Wonju Sunday was fierce. East of the town, the Reds blew up 37 railroad cars in the hopes of thus depriving the defenders of needed supplies.

After failing in Sunday morning's brief penetration, the Reds poured intense small arms and automatic weapons fire into Wonju between 7 and 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

In West Korea, Red troops were fanning out from Suwon, 20 miles south of Seoul. UN rearguard patrols spotted Red forces 17 miles southeast of Suwon.

No Contacts

There were no contacts reported by noon Monday either with Chinese advancing down the west coast or with North Koreans moving south down the mountainous east coast.

Along both coasts, warships and carrier-based planes hammered at supply points and communications lines. They sought to slow the twin southward drive on each side of the peninsula.

British Fireflies and Sea Furies from the Carier Theseus teamed with U.S. Marine pilots from the carriers Bataan and Sicily in pounding the Seoul-Pyongyang-Chinnampo triangle in West Korea. The planes attacked warehouses and supply dumps.

Clearing skies Monday brought Allied fighters and bombers in strength after bad weather hampered air activity Sunday.

B-29 Superfortresses dropped 136 tons of bombs on Kimpo airfield in the first big strategic raid on Korea's best air base since Allied forces abandoned it last week. Kimpo is 12 miles northwest of Seoul.

Judge Deciding On Execution Stay For Guay

QUEBEC, Jan. 8 (CP).—Mr. Justice Albert Sevigny today took under advisement a petition seeking a stay of execution for J. Albert Guay, 33-year-old jeweler due to be hanged Friday for his part in Quebec's time-bomb case that cost 23 lives.

Mr. Justice Sevigny said after the hearing of the petition in chambers that he would give his decision Tuesday at the latest.

The petition was presented by Gerard Levesque who defended Guay at his trial early last year and was opposed by Solicitor-General Antoine Rivard.

The petition was argued in the office of Mr. Justice Sevigny, Chief Judge of the Quebec Superior Court who presided at the Guay trial.

The hearing lasted 1¼ hours and was attended by Levesque and Bertrand Marcotte, also representing Guay, Crown Prosecutor Noel Dorion assisting Mr. Rivard and a half-dozen newspaper men.

New Evidence

Levesque said the petition was based on the fact new evidence in the airplane time-bombing, Sept. 9, 1949, had come to light at the trial of Genereux Ruest, 52-year-old crippled watchmaker, convicted of murder and sentenced to be hanged March 16.

He said new evidence could also be expected to emerge from the trial of Ruest's sister, Mrs. Arthur Pitre, who goes on trial Feb. 20 on the third murder charge laid in the case.

When Levesque drew attention to the fact a stay of Guay's execution, originally fixed for June 23, last year, was granted after Ruest's arrest, Mr. Justice Savigny commented:

"The reason for the stay of execution granted June 7 was that the testimony of the condemned might have been needed."

The site extends from East 42nd to 48th Streets between First Avenue and the East River Drive. New York City has so far spent more than $26,000,000 to roof over the north-south arteries and make other traffic and utility improvements for the world organization.

It intends to widen 47th Street west of Lexington Avenue, providing a monumental approach to the headquarters which city officials expect to become the No. 1 tourist attraction in this city.

Designed by an international group of architects headed by Wallace K. Harrison, the structure represents a radical departure from conventional construction.

Its north and south walls are narrow, solid, windowless slabs made of 2,000 tons of grey and white Vermont marble.

The wide east and west walls are sheer glass—5,400 greenish, glare-proof, weatherized, aluminum-framed windows.

Inside are 889,000 square feet—about 20 acres—of office space. Interior finishes are mostly green and grey marble, blue-grey slate, limestone and granite.

Reaume Ahead

One of the judges, Supreme Court Registrar Col. Charles Sale, said that the judges' certification of the recount revolved on the question. The judges, under Judge Joseph A. Legris, can refuse to certify their recount if they find sufficient doubt of the election.

Only Correction

"If the recount is not certified, the only way of correcting the situation would be to apply for a new election," said Bruce J. S. Macdonald, one of Mayor Brophey's three lawyers.

Leon Z. McPherson, one of the three lawyers representing Reaume, said they would wait until the end of the recount before deciding on further legal moves.

There is also the possibility of a move by either party to have the election thrown out, even if the recount is certified.

Seven ballot boxes containing unsealed envelopes were found Thursday, and more turned up Friday and Saturday. In one, envelopes were apparently torn open after being sealed. Another box, with improper outside seals had been closed with the key inside. It was forced open and envelopes inside were found unsealed. Col. Sale said they appeared to have been sealed earlier.

A precedent to the present situation was seen in a recount case in Ottawa in 1895, where a judge refused to proceed with the recount when he found unsealed envelopes.

Truman Warns

In his report on mobilization efforts, Truman said American industry must be made capable of producing 50,000 planes and 35,000 tanks a year. But he said he hoped there would never be any necessity to produce that many.

Ask Big Tax Boost

Truman told the legislators that in order to strengthen the U.S. he will shortly ask "a major increase in taxes to meet the cost of the defence effort."

He did not say how much new revenue he wanted or from what kind of taxes, leaving those details to later special messages.

Much of his address was concerned with the grave international situation and he appealed to the legislators:

"I ask the Congress for unty in these crucial days."

Truman said the threat "of world conquest" by Russia is "a total threat and the danger is a common danger."

Then he went on to say:

"We are preparing for a full wartime mobilization, if that should be necessary. And we are continuing to build a strong and growing economy, able to maintain whatever effort may be required for as long as necessary."

10-Point Program

Truman submitted a 10-point legislative program calling for:

"First, appropriations for our military build-up.

"Second, extension and revision of the selective service act.

"Third, military and economic aid to help build up the strength of the free world.

"Four, revision and extension of the authority to expand production and to stabilize prices, wages, and rents.

"Fifth, improvement of our agricultural laws, to help obtain the kinds of farm products we need for the defence effort.

"Sixth, improvement of our labor laws to help provide stable labor-management relations and to make sure that we have steady production in this emergency.

"Seventh, housing and training of defence workers, and the full use of all our manpower resources.

"Eighth, means for increasing the supply of doctors, nurses, and other trained medical personnel critically needed for the defence effort.

"Ninth, aid to the states to meet the most urgent needs of our elementary and secondary schools.

"Tenth, a major increase in taxes to meet the cost of the defence effort."

No Dictatorship

In his appeal for "unity" to a Congress, many of whose members have been sharply critical of administration foreign policy, Truman asserted:

"Make no mistake about my meaning. I do not ask, or expect, unanimity. I do not ask for an end to debate. Only by debate can we arrive at decisions which are wise, and which reflect the desires of the American people. We do not have dictatorship in this country, and we will never have it.

He asked everyone to put "our country ahead of our party, and ahead of our own personal interests."

The 50,000-planes-a-year figure used by Truman was the same goal the late President Roosevelt set in May, 1940, when the United States began going full scale into defensive preparations for a war that hit 1½ years later.

The aviation industry association estimated that when the Korean war started the United States was producing only 215 military aircraft a month.

Wide Differences

At the peak of plane production—in March, 1944, the U.S. turned out 9,113 military planes.

When Roosevelt set the 50,000 goal, the monthly production rate was about 450.

The present tank production program calls for about 4,000 tanks, the majority of them medium, 47-ton vehicles.

Truman said the 82nd Congress "faces as grave a task as any Congress in the history of our republic."

Truman said its actions will measure the ability of a free people "to meet a deadly challenge to their way of life."

Truman said UU.S. troops are fighting in Korea with United Nations allies because the aggression in that country "is part of the attempt of the Russian Communistic leadership to take over the world, step by step."

He said the rulers of the Soviet Union have shown willingness to use their great military power "to destroy free nations and win domination over the whole world."

He said the free world has resources "far greater than those of the Soviet dictatorship."

And he declared:

"Peace is precious to us. It is the way of life we strive for with all the strength and wisdom we possess. But more precious than peace are freedom and justice.

Fight If Necessary

"We will fight if fight we must, to keep our freedom and to prevent justice from being destroyed."

Truman, in what might have been a reply to defence policy arguments of former Republican President Herbert Hoover and to Senator Robert Taft (Rep. O.), declared:

"Strategically, economically and morally, the defence of Europe is our own defence.

"That is why we have joined with the countries of Europe in the North Atlantic Treaty, pledging ourselves to work with them.

"There has been much discussion recently over uwhether the European countries are willing to defend themselves. Their actions are answering this question."

Truman said the North Atlantic Treaty nations have "strict systems of universal military training" and several have increased the term ofs ervice, while all have moved to improve the quality of training.

"Forces are being trained and expanded as rapidly as the necessary arms and equipment can be supplied from their factories and ours. Our North Atlantic Treaty partners, together, are building armies bigger than our own."

Sarnia Refinery To Handle Alberta Oil

TORONTO, Jan. 8 (CP). — Imperial Oil, Ltd., today announced an expansion and modernization program for its Sarnia, Ont., refinery which will increase capacity from the present 55,000 barrels a day to 71,000 barrels.

No estimate of the cost is given but it will be a multi-million-dollar proposition, designed to process Alberta oil. The announcement was made by Dr. J. L. Huggett, general superintendent of the refinery.

Tenders are being called for construction of a 46,500-barrel-a-day atmospheric and vacuum distillation unit, a 23,250-barrel-a-day fluid catalytic cracking unit and a light ends recovery plant. The new units, along with increased boiler and water-pumping capacity, will replace and augment existing facilities. The announcement adds:

"The atmospheric and vacuum unit in which the first step is taken in processing crude oil, will be the largest single refining unit in Canada. The cracking unit is a new simplified design and will be the largest 'cat' in this country. Catalytic cracking units produce high-quality gasoline suited to the needs of higher-compression automobile engines."

Preparation of the site for the new units will start soon. Construction is expected to begin in the late summer or early fall and to employ 700 to 800 men at its peak.

Joint Committee Seeks Industries For Lakehead

PORT ARTHUR — (CP). — Port Arthur's Civic Finance Committee has decided it should bury the hatchet and try to work with next-door Fort William in enticing new industries to the Lakehead.

The committee has agreed to the principle of a joint industrial committee which would advertise the benefits to industry of establishing Lakehead plants — whether in Port Arthur or Fort William.

"A new industry established in either city is of benefit to both cities," said Alderman Earl Riddell.

The joint-committee plan came to the finance body from Port Arthur Chamber of Commerce. It tied in with a suggestion by Alderman Mrs. Eunice Wishart that a special effort be made to bring new war industries to Port Arthur.

No Cut-throat Stuff

Mrs. Wishart's Civic Tourist Committee worked with a similar Port William committee until Fort William withdrew from the arrangement..

"We must be above cut-throat business," she said.

Letters will be sent to the Ontario Department of Development at Toronto and to the Resources Department at Ottawa, describing advantages for war industries here.

Mrs. Wishart said that when she was in Duluth, Minn., recently she found plants being geared for a possibility of 15 years of war. Port Arthur's population was growing and more job opportunity was needed for its people.

The government had helped many industries to establish in Ontario, but none had come to Port Arthur.

CGE Receives Two Big Orders

Within two hours one day, CGE's head office in Toronto received orders for transformers valued at $1,250,000.

The BC order is for a new generating station 80 miles east of Vancouver and it accompanied an order for a generator also 75,000 kva.

The transformers ordered from Quebec will be placed in a new substation in downtown Montreal and will be added to two similar transformers which were ordered before.

Their leader has told them the world will end tomorrow.

Because they believed it was their last Sunday, the 30 members of the strange religious sect prayed long and loud yesterday.

From dawn to well into the night their chants echoed from the six-room cottage where they started their vigil 14 days ago.

The leader of the white-garbed fanatics—men, women and children—is Mrs. Grace Agnes Carlson, a grey-hared, middle-aged woman who came to this interior British Columbia town about four years ago from Birch Hills, Sask.

In was on her prediction that "January 9 will be the doomsday" that extremists moved into the dilapidated cottage.

Only one man outside the religious sect crossed the threshold of the cottage since the group closed themselves from the world. He is Don Carlson of Penticton, B.C., son of the leader.

Follow Dream

He described the group inside as 'very sincere and humble." He said they are not fasting, but are living on sugar and molasses, a diet which was decided on following a dream by Mrs. Carlson.

The woman became leader of the sect more than a year ago, when she broke with members of the Pentecostal church here.

She first predicted the end would come Dec. 23 and her devout followers treked to the top of the mountain near the town, which bears a mysterious "K" on its face.

They spent a night there, then returned, a new date being fixed for the destruction of the planet earth.

The giant letter "K," formed by two massive rock slides, is taken by sect members as a sign for "kingdom," and they quote: "For lo, the Kingdom of God: is at hand."

French Guns Blasting Rebels

TIENYEN, Indo-China, Jan. 8 (Reuters)—French howitzers today blasted Vietminh rebels seven miles east of this heavily-reinforced Tonkin Gulf stronghold.

Other French forces were consolidating new advanced positions along parts of the coast threatened by the rebels.

After their big three-day push into Vietminh-held territory in northeast Indo-China, the French hold a line along the narrow jungle trail from China through the newly-recaptured ports of Tanmai and Chucphaisan.

The trail, which extends nearly 40 miles to the northwest and north of this strategic base, had been used by the rebels to bring about 8,000 reinforcements from China, French authorities said.

Reports reaching here today indicated the main forces of rebels had made a hasty withdrawal to the west and deployed in the mountains about 20 miles behind the Tienyen river. But small units which escaped the French weekend thrust were farther forward.

Youth Labor Lack Alarms Australians

By LOUIS L. LECK.

SYDNEY, Australia (CP). — There is no lack of jobs in Australia for boys leaving school, but when it comes to filling them business men are at their wits' end.

In the state of New South Wales about 21,000 boys observed their 15th birthday during 1950. As the legal school-leaving age is 15, the 21,000 represent the maximum potential addition to the labor force.

About 60 per cent—or about 12,500 — are expected to leave school at the end of the year. It is expected approximately 25,000 jobs will be available at that time.

Two reasons are advanced for the problem facing industry. The effect of the slump in the birth-rate during the depression years of the 1930s is now being felt and the rapid industrial expansion of the last decade has brought about a big demand for labor.

Messenger boys and unskilled junior workers are paid about £4 ($9.60) a week. Average earnings of adult males are little more than twice that sum. Shrewd employers offer baits to catch the youthful imagination, such as a gift bicycle or a radio set after six months' work..

Many Leave School

The government is concerned about the number of youths leaving school as soon as they can legally do so. Many drift into dead-end jobs where the pay is good, but the future hopeless. Others drift from job to job and lose all stability.

Few will indenture themselves as apprentices and craft union leaders and industrialists alike are alarmed at the future of the skilled trades.

In Sydney alone there are 7,500 vacant apprenticeships and no one expects more than 4,000 of them to be filled.

Worst feature of all is that there are almost no apprentices offering for the heavy trades—moulding, blacksmithing, boiler-making. The lighter trades such electrical, toolmaking, cabinet-making, are not so badly off.

Dollar Board Gets New Name

LONDON, Jan. 8—(CP) —Two organizations which have worked since 1949 to promote Anglo-Canadian trade are being merged into an enlarged new office, it was announced today.

It will be called the Dollar-Sterling Trade Advisory Council and will absorb the functions of Canada's Dollar-Sterling Trade Board, created in October, 1949, and its older British equivalent, the Dollar Exports Board.

James S. Duncan of Toronto will be chairman and G. H. Ward, secretary of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Great Britain, will be secretary. The council will also take under its umbrella Toronto office of the Federation of British Industries, which will be expanded into a trade-promotional centre similar to that established in New York last September.

An announcement from the Dollar Exports Board on the new council said an increasing scope for trade promotion is expected to result from progressive liberalization of import controls made possible by improvement of the sterling area's dollar position.

Charges Leader Hypnotizes 29 Followers

VANCOUVER, Jan. 8—(CP)—A man with a personal interest in the Keremeos "Children of Light" —his two children are members of the sect—said Sunday night that he believes their leader uses "some form of hypnotism" on her 29 followers.

Because he does not want to embarrass his children or his former wife, another "follower" of Mrs. Grace Carlson, the man asked that his name be withheld.

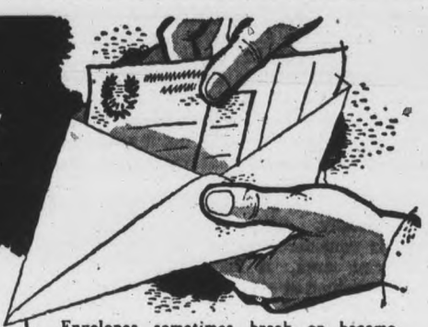
The 30 members of the sect are cooped up in a cottage at Keremeos, B.C., awaiting the end of the world. Mrs. Carlson says the end will come tomorrow.

"Mrs. Carlson has some fantastic hold on all of them," he man said. "Two months ago I went to Keremeos to see it for myself. It was evident at services and at the dinner table.

"They all do what she says. If she declares a fast day—nobody eats. It's been going on ever since she led the breakaway from the Keremeos Pentecostal church 14 months ago."

The father, who has corresponded with his wife since their divorce in 1945, said recent letters were all about her new faith. She referred to it as the "new light."

The children, he said, were deeply sincere, too.



"My pretty little girl told me they didn't want to exchange Christmas gifts this last time. She said that wasn't what God intended Christmas for."

ATTENTION, SCOTLAND YARD—The elusive Stone of scone has been found and positively identified. Like an abandoned new-born babe it showed up recently on the balcony of the Montreal home of one William Ferguson, a 78-year-old sheet metal pattern maker from Glasgow. It has lost weight in its mysterious travels, however, and now tips the scales at a mere 75 pounds. Across its upper surface are scratched the words, "Stone of Scone." In any event, the oversized paperweight was discovered by Mrs. Ferguson. It was encased in brown cardboard and she thought at first it was a package left by a department store, for the delivery truck of just such an establishment was making its way off up the street. She hauled the package into the house, still ignorant of its contents. The unveiling was performed on the arrival of Mr. Ferguson at suppertime. His first reaction: "I laughed like blazes." His second reaction: "I stopped laughing when I tried to carry it out of the house again."

The Rich South Ward

The richest section of Peterborough, taking into account the value of houses, industries and commercial properties, is the South Ward, that is, the area between Sherbrooke Street and Lansdowne, from the Lake west to the city boundaries. That is what the assessor's rolls say, which have been prepared for this year's taxation. The South Ward has $10,289,435 worth of taxable property (including business), a million dollar's worth more than the supposedly rich Centre Ward with its valuable commercial premises. In comparison with the South Ward, the West Ward has a mere $6,313,065 of assessed values in buildings, property and the like. Next comes the North Ward ($5,652,785), then Claraday ($4,044,860), trailed by the East Ward ($3,767,445).

* * *

Some people may say that the South Ward is rich only because of the industrial property in it. Not at all. Industrial property there is very valuable —assessed for taxation purposes at $3,824,535 or 46.64 per cent. of the total taxable value of all properties in the Ward—but there is nearly as much value in the residential property, which is assessed for $3,810,415, or 46.47 per cent. of the total. West Ward residential properties are valued by the assessor at $5,776,695, so there is really not a great spread between South and West Ward residences.

* * *

Incidentally, although the West Ward is considered to be primarily a residential area, it has commercial premises valued at $313,000 and business tax assessment of $114,865, and is actually, apart from the Centre Ward (the business section) the second largest commercial district in the city, being topped only by the South Ward (and of course the downtown centre area).

* * *

Peterborough's rich South Ward is the largest in area and in population, but curious things are happening to the latter. The population is decreasing: there were 191 fewer people in it last year than the year before. This is not as strange as it seems at first. In fact, despite the increased population of Peterborough generally, all the Wards except the East Ward and Claraday Ward suffered decreases in population.

* * *

While we are on this subject we may as well remark for the benefit of some old timers who may tend to write off the new Claraday Ward as a thing of no consequence, that 5,382 people lived in it last year and that its total assessment for this year's taxation purposes amounts to $4,044,860. These figures are neither peanuts nor small potatoes. They reinforce our estimate that the south part of the city is a pretty rich place. Claraday Ward is all that part of the city south of Lansdowne, right down into the deep south at the bend of the Otonabee.

Only 85 Years Ago

In The Examiner of eighty years ago Peterborough photographers were advertising "Groups of Cattle photographed by a new Instantaneous Process." Before the "instantaneous process"—the prototype of camera and film of today, local picture-takers produced daguerreotypes—"tintypes", for customers. It was after 1860 that Dr. George Burnham introduced chloroform into Peterborough. In the same decade dentists were offering to pull teeth 'painlessly'—by using nitrous oxide gas. In 1864 there occurred a bank robbery in the town, far more remarkable than murders or stabbings. The express company's safe was taken to the river bank, blown open by robbers who escaped with money and insurance papers and $400 in Confederate bonds —which were worthless, the Confederates having lost the American Civil War.

These matters of note, as related by Howard Pammett in the most recent instalment of his history of Peterborough, occurred only 85 years ago. The dim, but not so distant past.

U.S. Government Creating Inflation

The Canadian economy is so closely related to the American that the inflationary waves which are sweeping that country are of concern to Canada. Higher prices in the States inevitably mean higher prices in Canada. Shortages there mean shortages in many commodities here. Canadians are therefore acutely interested in the methods which the U.S. government is taking or may take to control inflation and regulated distribution of scarce goods across the border. The setting up of various boards with Mr. Charles E. Wilson as economic Czar seems to us to be neither the best nor the basic way to go about it. A general system of direct controls is putting the cart before the horse.

A prime cause of inflation is that too much money is in circulation in relation to the available supply of goods. And it is governments which print the money. Instead of trying to control the circulation of ever-increasing amounts of money, governments should reduce excess purchasing power. There are several basic methods of reducing the supply of money when the available supply of civilian goods is dropping. The most important is economy—reducing non-military expenditures. Every dollar saved thus is a dollar set free to buy war supplies. What is the United States government doing? It is steadily increasing its government expenditures even on non-military goods and services. It continues its financing in these boom, inflationary years since the war with heavy deficits. It is increasing the government debt enormously and thereby indirectly increasing supply of money.

Another way of reducing the supply of money available is by a credit policy which discourages borrowing. The U.S. government has reduced consumer credit by government order, for instance, in the instalment buying of cars and houses. A third way to reduce excess purchasing power is through taxation to balance the budget and provide a suitable surplus, as Canada is doing. The U.S. government is doing neither. Whatever deflationary moves it is making to reduce consumer credit are insignificant compared with the inflationary effects of its own departmental spending and deficit budgeting.

The Winnipeg Free Press commenting on this matter, observes that: "Instead of removing the cause of inflation, which is the excess supply of money, the (U.S.) government by direct controls, would try to mask the existence of inflation. And in the end, if the government is generating inflation with one hand by fiscal methods it will be unable to cloak the results with the other hand by direct control measures". Canada used direct control measures during the war, and with considerable success. But the system was cracking in the sixth year. It could not have been maintained indefinitely. After the war the bottled-up inflation of the war years hit Canada, despite the gradual way the controls were removed and the government's methods of budgeting for surpluses. Direct controls may postpone inflation but they do not cure it.

Faced now by the necessity to divert more Canadian productivity to military goods and less to civilian goods, and with American inflation hitting Canada, the Canadian government may be tempted to "evade the unpleasant but effective medicine of anti-inflationary fiscal policies and to resort to the sticking plaster method of direct controls", as the Winnipeg Free Press phrases it. Union leaders are already hammering at the door. But the fact is that, although some controls may be necessary when the country is mobilized, Canada is not mobilized and this is not a sudden national emergency of short duration. The need to restrict consumer buying and pour millions of dollars into defence may be the normal condition for a decade or a generation.

Stop-gap methods such as direct controls will not meet the situation. An extension of the present methods of the Canadian fiscal policy and a decrease in non-military government spending, not an adoption of American control systems will, in the long run, be better for Canada, as it would have been for the United States.

Theft Of The Pope's Stone

Almost a century ago, a theft occurred in Washington which was in some ways similar to the theft of the historic Stone of Scone. No ancient tradition was involved, but a stone was stolen. It was known as the "Pope's Stone"—a very logical name, since Pope Pius IX had contributed it to be used in the building of the Washington Monument. The contribution from Rome—a fine piece of marble from the Temple of Concord—was one of many made in response to an appeal made by a public committee, after the U.S. Congress had dilly-dallied for fifty years over building a monument to George Washington.

About that time in U.S. history there was a political group known as the American Party. Its nickname was the "Know Nothings", and we are told by contemporary U.S. writers that this was also a very logical name. The Know Nothings were zealots; they were strongly in favour of being Protestant and American, opposed to practically everything else. They were against foreigners, against Roman Catholics—and very much against the Pope's Stone. And history names them the hotheads who stole the stone on the night of March 5, 1854.

An intensive search followed. There was great indignation in the press over this "act of barbarism . Police formed the theory that the Pope's Stone had been dumped in the Potomac River, and it was dragged, just as the Serpentine was dragged for the Stone of Scone—with no more success. A number of rewards were offered, and the search was carried on for ten years, but the Pope's Stone was never found. The Washington Monument was eventually dedicated without it, on February 21, 1885.

The similarities are interesting, despite the fact that the Washington theft lacked the deep national significance of the theft of the Stone of Scone. We hope another difference will develop between the two cases—that unsuccessful search in one will contrast with success in the other.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

I HAVE just been reading Professor Dent's admirable little book on Opera in the Penguin series, and it has stimulated me to express a few ideas on that subject. I find that the Professor's preferences and views coincide very nearly with my own, and he has the gift of expressing his views with great neatness. Moreover he is only dogmatic in things that he admits are a matter of opinion! Before one can discuss opera intelligently it is necessary to dispel the prejudice that still exists against opera as a form of art. There are many who think that it is a "lower" type of art than, say, instrumental music. The expression "bastard art" is flung at opera, with all its implications of something not quite above-board and legitimate. These critics conveniently ignore the fact that from the very earliest days of Greek drama down to the time of Shakespeare and Moliere music and dancing were integral parts of any stage production. I would say, therefore, that the case of illegitimacy falls to the ground: the marriage of music and drama is of long standing. Even a singer singing a song in a concert "acts" the song, though admittedly without costume or scenery.

✧ ✧ ✧

BEHIND these prejudices lurks the feeling in many people that Opera is the pastime of the idle rich: diamond tiaras and champagne suppers. The average middle-class music-lover feels more at home in an atmosphere of oratorio and symphonies of an uplifting type. Strange it is that many of the best composers of oratorio and symphony should display a serious interest in opera, even to the extent of writing them. This idea that opera is a luxury article is confined almost exclusively to the English-speaking world. The International seasons at the Met. and pre-war Covent Garden have had the unfortunate result of contributing to this belief. The operas are nearly always performed in their original languages, but in any case not in English, the result being to make them almost unintelligible to all but a small circle of connoisseurs. I remember hearing, some years ago, a performance of "Prince Igor", at Covent Garden, in which the principals sang in German, while the chorus sang in Russian. This kind of thing would never happen in Paris or Milan or anywhere except in the English-speaking world. Fortunately for opera in England Covent Garden now produces operas in English, and according to the latest reports opera is experiencing a boom in that country. Even more encouraging is the fact that many of the leading British composers of today have turned their attention to opera, and one of these, "Peter Grimes", by Benjamin Britten, has already been performed at Basle, Zurich, Antwerp, Hamburg, Berlin, Milan, Stockholm, Copenhagen and Brussels—in translation, of course. It has also been performed at the Met., though in accordance with the policy of that institution it was given in the original English, not an American translation!

✧ ✧ ✧

THIS idea that an opera must at all costs be sung in a foreign language is a relic of former days, when opera catered to a small cosmopolitan clientele of noblemen and diplomatists, and is quite out of place in these times. The other day I heard a promising young Canadian singer on the radio sing an aria from a French opera—in Italian. When we come to oratorio nobody suggests that Bach's Christmas Oratorio or Brahms' Requiem should be sung in their original German. If such a policy were generally adopted one can imagine that oratorio would lose most of its appeal to the broad masses.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT is argued by some that many of the finer points are lost in translation. This is true, but in order to make opera a living thing it is a sacrifice that must be made. If the objection is to be upheld it would be logical to frown on all translations, from the Bible to Baudelaire. Another objection is the poor quality of so many operatic translations, but this is being overcome nowadays by new and better versions. The task of translating an opera is particularly arduous. It is enough to tax the ingenuity of W. S. Gilbert himself to reproduce all the rhymed "feminine endings" that come so naturally in Italian. The alliterative verse of Wagnerian opera does not lend itself particularly well to modern English.

✧ ✧ ✧

OPERA of course has its conventions, the chief one being that everything is sung, except in certain operas in which there is a certain amount of spoken dialogue. The only thing to do is to get used to this convention as soon as possible, and then it will cease to worry. Other art forms have conventions; there is nothing inherently wrong in this. Nobody nowadays worries much about the flash-backs and other distortions of time that have become such a commonplace of the modern film. In a play the fact that rooms have apparently only three walls and an enormous number of things seems to happen in a very short space of time is not disturbing to the playgoer, because he is used to it. Even plays in verse, like those of Shakespeare, are not universally considered to be unconvincing: in fact the poetic play is at last showing some signs of a return to favour. It must be remembered that the extreme naturalistic style of acting which is such a feature of the modern stage is of comparatively recent origin, and it seems that the peak of its vogue has already passed. Naturalistic stage scenery is already a thing of the past, except for the simplest indoor settings. So we should not expect opera to be anything like a literal rendering of a slice of everyday life; it is drama, heightened by music. There are some conventions to be found which are not inherent in the nature of opera, but rather are a hang-over from a certain period. Gilbert and Sullivan had some fun ridiculing these in their light operas. A good example of this is to be found in the chorus from "The Pirates of Penzance": the pirates are going to commit burglary and sing at the tops of their voices that they are being quiet as mice. Sullivan's single essay in Grand Opera, Ivanhoe, though it ran for 160 nights, has dropped into oblivion.

✧ ✧ ✧

RADIO opera is very unsatisfactory: it is either given in its entirety (usually of course in a foreign language) and is impossible to follow or else is so doctored up for the radio that it is no longer an opera. I have not seen an opera televised, but I could imagine that it might be quite a good substitute for the real thing.

THE THING

American Slang And Its Origins

THE most striking thing about American slang is its age. O.K. for example: we think of it as a new word, whereas most of the possible origins of the expression—H. L. Mencken, the famous authority on the American language, lists ten—make it more than a hundred years old. Obediah Kelly, for instance, was a railway freight agent long before the Civil War broke out and it must be at least a hundred years since he last wrote "O.K." in a quivering hand upon the lading bill. Was it he who gave to the American language—and indeed to the English tongue —its briefest method of expressing approval?

It might have been, after all, the old Indian chief who, respected and unwar-like dwelt near the town of Keokuk in Iowa. "Old Keokuk", said people reflectively, "He's all right". Then there was that old port in Haiti, Aux Cayes. Haiti's best rum was shipped from here. Connoisseurs would sniff at it and smack their lips. "Aux Cayes!" they would say, the real McCoy "O.K."

Some people demand a political origin for O.K. Andrew Jackson, President of the United States 1829-37, used to write "O.R." on documents which he had passed — O.R. meaning "Order Recorded". Some people misread this as "O.K." Again, in 1840 in Ohio, it is said, the Democratic Party staged a parade in which there was a streamer bearing the words "The People is Oll Korrect". The Democrats were much satirised for their spelling, but they refused to alter it. "The people is O.K." became their battle cry. Or, so the story goes. At all events, "OK" seemed to become something of a Democratic Party shibboleth. Woodrow Wilson, President during the First World War, wrote it on documents. Being scholarly and somewhat exclusive, he spelled it Okeh and said it was a Choctaw Indian word which meant "It is so".

In any case O.K. belongs to the great period of 1815-1860 when the American people was growing and trying its strength. And since America's rising strength and widening horizons were all felt in the central political scene at Washington, perhaps the greatest share of new words went into politics.

"Filibuster"—which comes from the same root as freebooter, and meant a long speech calculated to hold up Congressional business —was used in 1836. "Roorback" was used about the same time. It means any defamatory falsehood circulated usually at election time to discredit a candidate. It comes from the days when James K. Polk was standing for the Presidency; his opponents slung at him quotations from a book called "Roorback's Tour Through the Southern and Western States 1836".

✧ ✧ ✧

AMERICA probably has a richer political slang and more political figures of speech than any other country. With more and more Europeans looking in through the window on to the domestic political scene—for what happens to the President's or the Secretary of State's plans for foreign aid if the Senate doesn't like them?—the technical terms of American politics are beginning to become significant in European lobbies (Lobby itself is an Americanism, which, first recorded in 1829 in "lobby-agent", went over to Europe). Americans had been "running" instead of "standing" for political office since 1789, but they did not "bolt" their parties—i.e. refuse to support the party nominee or its declared party—until 1812. Lately we have heard a lot about "lame duck" sessions. This is when Congress containing the old and not the new members meets after the election and keeps things going until the end of the year when the newly elected House takes its place. "Anxious-seat" which speaks for itself had a different meaning before 1842; it meant the mourners seat or bench in church, or the seat near the pulpit at revival meetings where the especially penitent would sit.

Pork-barrel is a word which comes from these times. The barrel was opened up for the retainers and servants on gala days. Then it came to mean the funds from the Federal Treasury which Congressmen secured for the local or state governments to spend on roads, bridges and the like, local patronage, or "jobs for the boys".

Another political term suggesting a meal is "to eat crow". This means accepting or swallowing what one has been fighting against. The phrase probably got its greatest writing-up two years ago when, contrary to everybody's expectations, Mr. Dewey failed to dislodge Mr. Truman from the Presidency. The day after the polls Mr. Dewey ate crow.

Somebody always has to eat crow after a contest. What made 1948 so crow-bound was the fact that nearly every journalist, pollster and radio pundit, had to eat crow too.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Hear me when I call, O God of my righteousness: thou hast enlarged me when I was in distress; have mercy upon me, and hear my prayer. O ye sons of men, how long will ye turn my glory into shame? how long will ye love vanity, and seek after leasing? Selah.

But know that the Lord hath set apart him that is godly for himself: the Lord will hear when I call unto him. Stand in awe, and sin not: commune with your own heart upon your bed, and be still. Selah.

Offer the sacrifices of righteousness, and put your trust in the Lord. (Ps. 4: 1-5.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Thou are my portion, O Lord: I have said that I would keep thy words....I thought on my ways, and turned my feet unto thy testimonies. (Ps. 119: 57, 59.)

✧ ✧ ✧

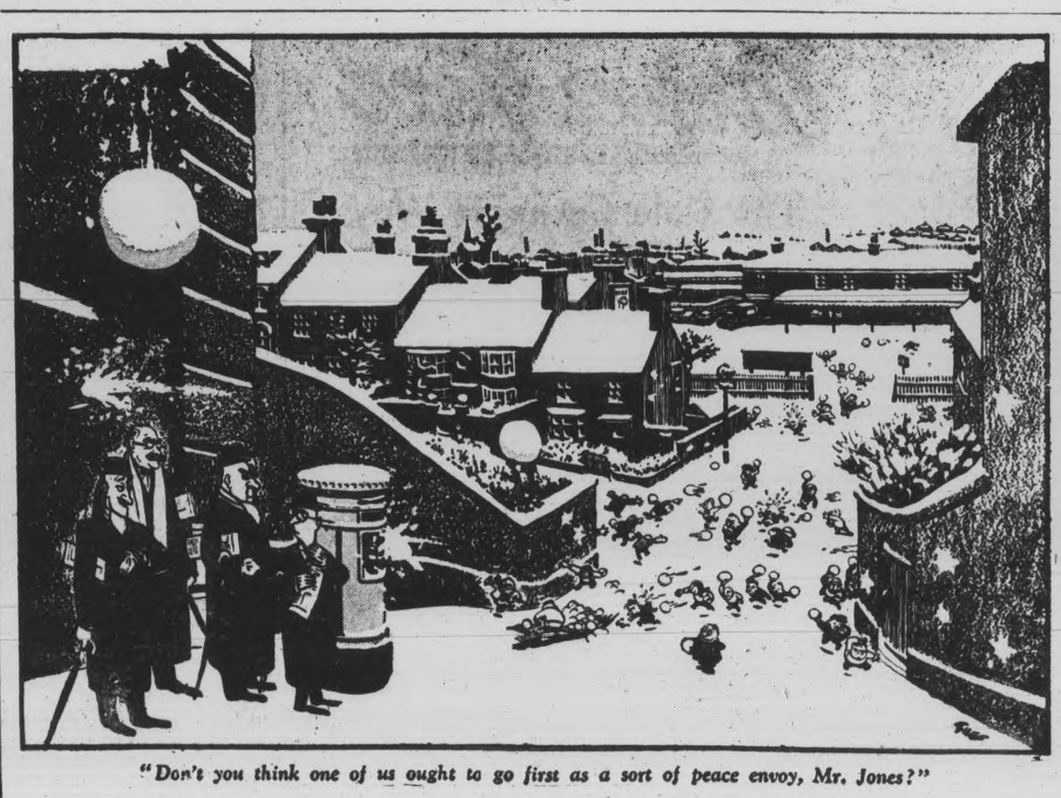
When thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly.

But when ye pray, use not vain repetitions, as the heathen do: for they think that they shall be heard for their much speaking. Be not ye therefore like unto them: for your Father knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask him. (Matt. 6: 6-8.)

Letter To The Editor

RECALLS EARLY LIFE IN COUNTY

Sir: I noticed drawings from a wall in barroom at Mount Julian hotel. I saw those paintings a few years ago. My uncle Bellon Bertram asked Mrs. Thompson to see them as he was born there and I am sure those paintings were put on wall while my grandfather Augustes Bertram kept the hotel. It was 78 years ago at least when my uncle was born there and I don't know how old he was when they moved to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. He could tell you of lots of other relations and friends living on shore of Stony Lake.



There was great work in lumbering and river-driving in those days. The stage which called then took two days to go from Apsley to Peterborough with mail and odd passengers, drove from Apsley in carriage in summer and sleigh in winter using two teams, leaving Apsley in morning and going to halfway place, I believe McCauley's. Change to a fresh team, stay all night in Peterborough, then to stopping place, put in rested team, hence to Apsley, day in and day out, for years.

My husband could tell lots of interesting things of all around that country, about the grand dances they used to have with folks from miles around, lots of fire-water, fights etc. The folks were poor, but happy and enjoyed life immensely those times.

At Mount Julian is where my father and mother first met, and no doubt I've spent some time as a child there at grandfather's, but too young to remember, as we too went to U.S.A. If Howard Pammett could get in touch with my uncle he could get many interesting true stories of life in that vicinity. Also of the river drive taken out to go down the long water route to ocean, via St. Lawrence. He could tell of the broad axes used in hewing timbers, later made in building ships and of the Frenchmen and Indians manning the many-oared bateaus. My grandfather was French too. The name Bertram is English but the French pronounce it Batrou. You may publish this short script if you care to.

Although I understand it was a Frenchman that painted the pictures, my uncle would know better.

MRS. LESLIE CARROL,
(nee Alice Maude Bertram).
RR 4, Havelock.

Maritimes Have Improvement In Employment

HALIFAX, Jan. 8 — (CP) — Most parts of the Maritimes are showing a definite improvement over last year in employment conditions, a Canadian Press survey showed today.

World tensions have stepped up port traffic. A prolonged construction boom gained momentum as materials became available and lumbering operations, held back by unseasonable weather, now seem to be hitting their stride. Construction officials report a growing shortage of skilled men.

The ports of Halifax and Saint John probably are benefitting most from a burst of activity that caused one official to compare it to the booming war days.

At Saint John six ships arrived during the weekend. There now are 25 ocean-going craft in port with 11 more expected before Tuesday night. The Christmas period was considered one of the busiest in years.

Dennis Moriarity, Halifax harbor master, said this port is hopping as it hasn't since the war. More than 1,200 dock workers were required to handle the traffic from 18 ships and "there's no sign of a let-up. Every berth is full and we've got the biggest labor force in years working".

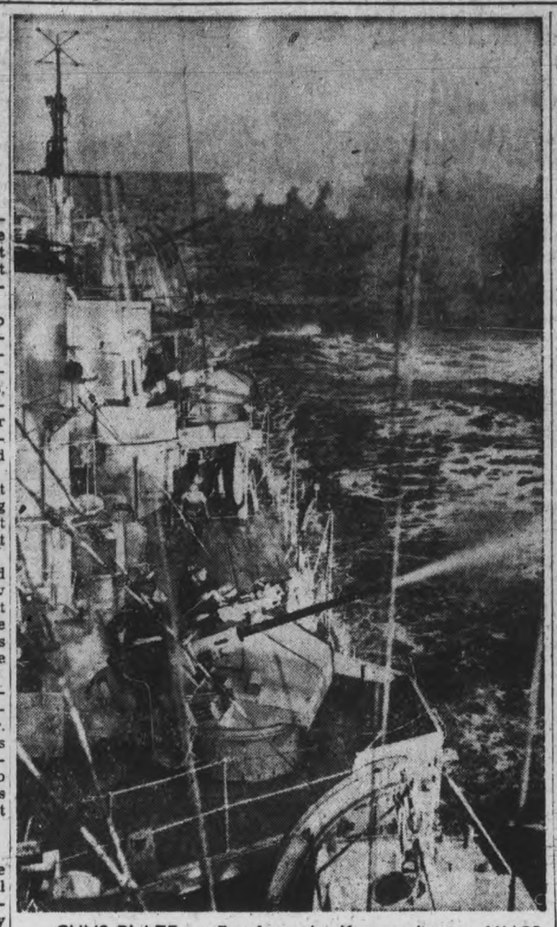
Situation Fair

Richard Shiels, president of the Saint John local International Longshoremen's Association, described the situation as "pretty fair". The export traffic, more profitable to longshoremen than import, "could be better".

R. P. Hartley, region superintendent of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, said only 23,000 are on the rolls seeking work at present, compared to 34,000 a year ago.

Multi-million-dollar construction jobs in industrial Cape Breton, Halifax, Saint John and Moncton are schedule to keep going throughout the winter. The projects vary from hospitals to a fish plant.

About the only place reporting a mass layoff is New Glasgow, where Eastern Car expects it will have to throw about 300 men out of work because of a steel shortage.



Although hampered by mild weather, woods operations have shown a big increase over last year. Employment in the pulp industry is expected to double that of last year. The pit prop industry, especially important in New Brunswick and Newfoundland, received a shot in the arm the placing of British orders—not forthcoming last year because of devaluation.

Ask Film Boycott

NEW YORK, Jan. 8—(AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman today called on the country's 26,000,000 Roman Catholics to boycott Roberto Rossellini's latest film, "The Miracle'. Distributors of "The Miracle," showing at the Paris theatre here, last week won an injunction restraining city licence commissioner Edward T. McCaffrey from banning it as "blasphemous".

Condemn Stravinsky

MOSCOW, Jan. 8—(AP)—An article in Izvestia today condemned composer Igo Stravinsky as a "frantic preacher of bourgeois modernists". It said "really the work of this homeless cosmopolite manifest his complete spiritual emptiness". (Russian-born Stravinsky has lived abroad for the last 30 years. He became a United States citizen in 1945 and now makes his home in Hollywood).

China Sent Top General Cunning Lin Piao To Korea

NEW YORK, Jn. 8— (AP). — The leader of the Chinese Communists fighting in Korea is a sallow-faced bushy-browed soldier who seldom looks at you when he speaks and rarely smiles Almost all Chinese say he is a cinch to be the field commander of Red China's armies in the event of a third world war.

He is Lin Piao (pronounced Be Yow), 42-year-old native of Hupeh. The Chinese Reds rate him as their number one strategist.

Lin commands the Fourth Field Army in Korea, which Peiping continues to call "volunteer" [illegible]. Actually, military observers consider the fourth the most professional Chinese Red army in the field. Lin runs it with a firm and cunning hand, and it does not do any volunteering unless he tells it to.

It was Lin Piao and the fourth that handed Chiang Kai-shek the knockout blow in November, 1948. Lin captured Mukden and most of Chiang's Manchurian forces began to crumble. Then the Reds swept through China, overrunning practically the whole country in 12 months.

This spectacular campaign overshadowed those of such seasoned chieftains as Chen-yi and one-eyed Liu-po-chen, and seemed to make Lin heir-apparent to the aging commander-in-chief of the Chinese Red armies, Chu-teh.

When the huge Central-South China military and administrative district was created, Lin got both military and political control jobs there. This happened at a time when most of his military brothers were having to divide up with the commissars.

There is no question that the Reds put their best men in Korea when they sent Lin's Fourth there. It is the biggest—somewhere between 500,000 and 600,000 men—and best Red Chinese Army in almost all phases of fighting.

Lin went Communist early in life, despite the fact that he comes from a well-to-do family. His father owned a factory in Hankow which produced camel felt and household articles. He once held a post with a steamship company.

Lin looks more like an introverted scholar than a famous general. A small mole on his right cheek mars his lean face. Otherwise the features are regular. His nose is prominent [illegible], and is rather longer than that of most Chinese.

In Long March

Lin graduated from famed Whampoa Military Academy in Canton, which was founded by Chiang Kai-shek. He took part in Chiang's northern expedition in 1926 which led to the overthrow of the warlords. He escaped when Chiang turned on the Communists. In 1927 Lin participated in the famous "long march" of the Communists to the north.

Like most Chinese generals, Lin has some, but not much, experience in mechanized warfare.

It is not certain whether Lin now is in Manchuria or Korea. He was reported to have been wounded in the stomach last September when a would-be assassin took a shot at him as he was alighting from a plane at Hankow airfield. It was said that his wound was not serious.

He was in hospital at Hankow. Since then there has been nothing definite on his whereabouts.

Many Chinese feel certain he is in Manchuria—some even think he may be with his troops in Korea.

OVERSHOT RUNWAY — This North Star, the "Rockcliffe Ice Wagon," overshot a runway when landing at North Bay, and slid 200 feet through a bog before nosing over. None of the 15 RCAF and National Research Council personnel aboard were injured. Damage to the plane was not extensive. The plane was conducting experiments on wing de-icing when it crashed.

Allow Chinese Bring Children Up To 21 Years

OTTAWA, Jan. 8 — (CP) — Canada is opening her doors a little wider to Asiatics who want to come and settle here, but she still has them barred against Japanese.

Immigration Minister Harris announced Saturday that under a new order-in-council Canada will now allow entry to husbands and unmarried children under 21 of Canadian citizens of Asiatic origin. Up to now only wives and unmarried children under 18 of Canadian Asiatic citizens could come to Canada .

The minister said that the relaxation of the regulations would greatly ease "hardships caused to Canadian citizens of Asiatic origin by family separation."

His announcement emphasized, however, that the new regulation does not apply to Japanese. As enemy aliens they are still not admissible to Canada and the barring of them will remain in force at least until the signing of a peace treaty with Japan.

The relaxation of the regulations is applicable to all other Asiatic races. However, it is not expected that it will mean a great number of new admissions to Canada since there are very few female Canadian citizens of Asiatic origin who have husbands or children still in the homeland.

Relatives Curbed

The amendment does nothing to remove the bars against entry of relatives of Asiatic residents of Canada who are not Canadian citizens.

Chinese are the main Asiatic group covered by the order-in-council being amended. However, many Chinese in Canada have not obtained their citizenship papers and thus still have no power to invite their relatives to join them here.

The committee for the repeal of the Chinese Immigration Act have long sought to have the government relax the regulations to allow entry of wives and children of Chinese residents who have not yet become citizens of Canada.

TORONTO, Jan. 8 (CP)—The influx of European refugees and displaced persons is providing the Roman Catholic church in Canada with "greater problems than ever before in our history," James Cardinal McGuigan Sunday told the archdiocesan union of Holy Name Societies.

He said establishment of 10 new parishes have been approved for the Toronto diocese to care for the newcomers. Four parishes already in operation had been fully established.

"We need many priests to staff the new work. This will mean a new challenge to the Holy Name Society. You are laymen but we need behind our priests the whole manhood of this archdiocese."

They said they had probed all portions of the 80-foot diesel tug except the forward compartment.

Australia Gains 1st Inning Lead In Test Matches

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 8—(Reuters).—Australia today gained a first-innings lead of 72 runs, with four wickets in hand, over England in the third of five cricket test matches.

Australia won the first two tests.

England's bowling staff had toiled effectively until tea today, then Australia's seven-wicket partnership flogged the tiring attack to raise the score to 362 for six when stumps were drawn.

Keith Miller, who batted for all but 20 minutes of the day, and Ian Johnson came together after tea with the total of 252 for six and though England's three-man attack of Freddie Brown, Alec Bedser and John Warr was augmented by sore-kneed Denis Compton for the last half hour, the batsmen put on 110 runs without being separated.

Miller was 96 not out when stumps were drawn, thus becoming top scorer of the current series of tests, beating Brown's 79.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

A proposal to give the Toronto Argonauts football team $100 wrist watches in recognition of their Grey Cup victory last fall has stirred a tempest in the civic teapot.

Civic fathers and some sportsmen are divided on whether the glory brought to the city by the Argo triumph warrants confronting the 1951 taxpayer with a bill which controllers and aldermen say may go as high as $3,500.

The issue may be settled next Wednesday when city clerk George Weale gives city council a list of watch prices.

Controller David Balfour is on recording as favoring the watches.

"Nothing is too good for these fellows," he asserted. "We get the advertising from the Argos. We should say thanks and not in a cheap way."

Controller Leslie Saunders argued that the Argos are professionals. He said he wouldn't give them even [illegible]

But Mayor Hiram McCallum recalled that the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League also are a professional outfit. The Leafs received wrist watches from the city two years ago when they brought home the Stanley Cup.

The mayor said the Argo watches, although worth $100 each, would not actually cost the city that much. Other council members plugged for less expensive gifts—medals at $5 or $10 each, perhaps, or $15 pen sets.

Ernie McCullough, Canadian ski ace from Three Rivers, Que., fell just before the finish line, but slid and crawled to a spectacular victory in the United States national giant slalom on Saturday at Alta, Utah.

McCullough's spill came near the end of the treacherous course down Wildcat Run, but he bounced and clawed the few remaining yards to the finish, posting an impressive time of 1:41.4 for the 1½ mile run.

Babe Didrikson Zaharias, the greatest female athlete of the first half of the 20th century, has been named female athlete-of-the-year for 1950 in The Associated Press poll.

Gussie Moran, the tennis star with the lace panties, finished second to the Babe although Marlene and Alice Bauer, the golfing sisters, received more first-place ballots than Georgeous Gussie.

Britain has challenged the United States for the Wightman Cup, symbol of the world's women tennis team championships and it is likely that the bid will be accepted.

The decision will be announced at the annual meeting of the USLTA Jan. 20. If the matches are held, they likely will be decided Aug. 24-25 on the courts of the Longwood Cricket Club, Chestnut Hill, Mass. Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, donor of the cup, is a member there.

Welterweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson withdrew Sunday from a scheduled title defence against Bobby Dykes in Miami Jan. 15.

George Gainford, Robinson's manager, said he had conferred here with Maj. W. H. Peeples, the Miami promoter, and promised the champion's appearance in the Florida city in March.

"I thought it would leave too short a time for Robinson to get his weight back for his middleweight title fight with Jake Lamotta Feb. 14," Gainford said. The Robinson-Lamotta fight is set for Chicago.

Peeples said the request to call off the fight was "reasonable" and he had agreed to it.

Frankford Blanks Belleville Team 3-0

FRANKFORD, Jan. 8—Sparked by the clever goaltending of Davis, Frankford came up with an auspicious home debut in the Trent Valley Hockey League, downing Belleville Merchants, 3-0.

The homesters took a 1-0 lead in the first period with Roy Cooke netting Bud Courtney's pass in the final minute. They added the remaining two goals in the middle stanza with Foster and Courtney the marksmen.

Courtney was the individual star with a goal and two assists. Earl Cousins turned in a standout performance for the visitors.

Lakefield Gets OHA Tilt Over Lindsay

They looked better all the way in a fairly rugged tussle. The Indians broke early to lead 3-1 in the first frame, building it to a 6-2 lead to end the second and throwing in three more without a return in the third. Acheson was good in goal, and the Fawcetts, Wasson, Hunter, Birch and Blewett were all prominent on the attack. Teams:

Lakefield Ties Hastings, 4-4

HASTINGS, Jan. 8 (ENS).—In their first game in the E. P. league, Lakefield and Hastings played to a four-all draw Saturday night in Hastings before a good-sized crowd.

It was a crowd pleaser all the way, as play swept from end to end, in a hard hitting game. McMaster and Scriver were kept busy as they called 15 penalties, amongst them a misconduct to Birch.

The first period was scoreless but at the three-minute mark of the second period, Hastings opened the scoring, Stevenson from Oliver. Six minutes later, Laver made it 2-0 on a pass from Stevenson. [illegible] ended the [illegible]

It wasn't till 17:15 in the third period that Lakefield got on the score sheet, when after continued ganging attacks, Morrison found the mark, assisted by Chittuck. Thirty seconds later Chittuck and Morrison combined again to tie it up. Hastings took a quick lead in overtime, Edwards from Scriver and Oliver, and Oliver from Scriver. With but one minute and 30 seconds to go, Chittuck scored unassisted, and 20 seconds later Morrison on a pass from Calberry tied it up, and the game ended 4-4.

The Hastings team, in their first time out, promised some good hockey for the fans. McKenty was his old self, in goal, while the line of Scriver, Edwards and Oliver looked best up front.

G. Blake in the net for Lakefield stopped a lot of shots and Morrison and Chittuck stood out up front.

Referee, McMaster; linesman, Scriver.

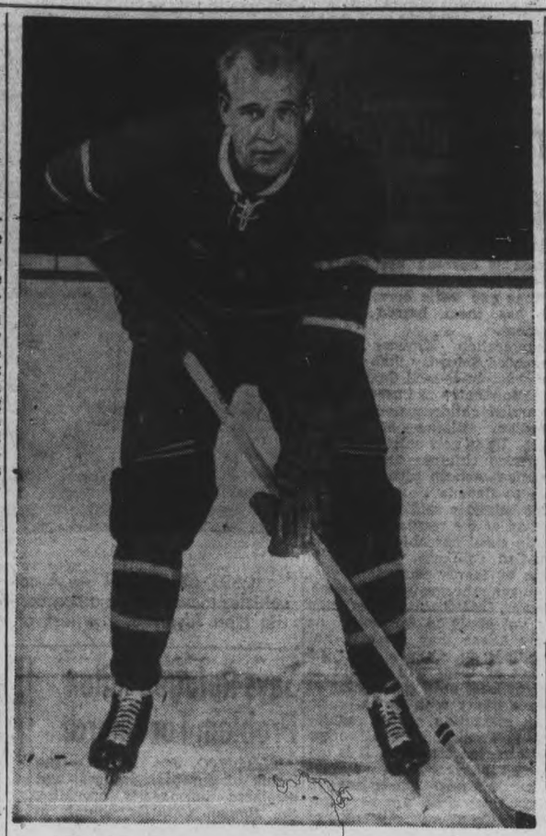
Hastings—Goal, McKenty; defence, Petticrew, Brown; centre, Les Scriver; wings, Edwards, K. Oliver; alternates, West, Lockhart, Stevens, Crowley, Laver, P. Stevenson, Cobledick, McMillan, Thomas.

Lakefield—Goal, G. Blake; defence, D. Hamblin, B. Geraldi; centre, J. Sloan; wings, H. Knox, D. Dunford; alternates, D. Lambert, G. Birch, Montgomery, J. Chittuck, J. Hockaday, A. Morrison, R. Calberry.

Lindsay Kinsmen Tied With Peterborough

LINDSAY, Jan. 8 (CP).—Lindsay Kinsmen went into a first-place tie with Peterborough Triple Links by defeating Oshawa Bees 8-5 in a Central Ontario OHA Junior B League game before 1,000 fans Saturday night.

The locals built up a four-goal lead in the first but Oshawa came back strong with four in the second and led briefly in the third before Lindsay returned to their scoring ways. Vic Corley figured in five goals to lead the Kinsmen to their eighth win. Fred Etcher paced the losers with two goals.



Hawks Victorious

Olmstead's Hawks defeated Oven's Rangers 7-1 in a peewee puck tussle at Civic Arena prior to the last junior "B" game. Chesney and Haig scored for the winners in the first, Druery helpon one. Murphy and Beggs got the second-period tallies, Stewart aiding once. Beggs Murphy and Stewart counted in the third, an assist apiece going to Brown and Chesney. Rangers' lone goal was by Dafoe in the third. The winners drew six of the seven penalties. Teams:

Hawks: Smillie, Druery Baker, Haig, Olmstead, Mountney, Hotston, Kimball, Murphy Stewart, Scharf, Beggs, Brown, Coombs, Chesney.

Rangers: Ballantyne, Pollard, Clarke, Parnell, Reid Ferguson, Conway, Hamilton, Dobbin, English Jobbitt, Dafoe.

Referee, Ed. Woodcock.

VERN KAISER, the rugged forward with the Canadiens, who failed to live up to expectations in early games, seems to be hitting the stride that stamped him as a comer last season. The blond bruiser from Preston has connected for only six goals in 37 games, but half of these came within the past two weeks.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Those amazing Gans from Gananoque are here tonight to tackle the Eagles at 8.30 in Civic Arena. The intermediate "A" Gananoque puckists have decisions to date over the senior "B" Belleville Redmen and the Eagles—who are tied with Petes atop the group. So, they must have improved plenty since last season. This will be one of just two appearance here this winter for the Gans, as they play four-point games with both local teams. Bill Hastie, it seems, has bolstered his squad a lot and they now have artificial ice, so anything can happen in the keen race. This one tonight should be a hot one, as Eagles seek revenge, before a hefty crowd.

* * * * * *

Elsewhere tonight appears the TVL hockey schedule, that is the remainder of it. It opened last week and will go till the middle of next month, with playoffs then taking up a few weeks. As long as there's ice in the villages of the district [illegible] hockey is assured and many players of [illegible] calibre like the Leonards of last year struck their stuff in Trent Valley League competition. Two Peterborough teams, Brintons and St. Peter's, have been admitted, playing "home" games on other rinks. Tonight, it's Norwood at Campbellford, Marmora at Stirling and St. Peter's vs. the Brintons, in Hastings we believe. A little info to us at times might help their gates.

The Good Old Days?

Some sigh for the good old days in hockey, field lacrosse, etc. Here's an item in the Toronto Star of Saturday: "Tommy Gorman, who's anything but a Johnny-come-lately, will give you the good old days. He did give them, in fact, to an Ottawa audience the other night. Tommy told this corner about it yesterday. 'We played half a hockey game under the old rules,' Tommy reported, 'just to see how the thing would look. We had seven-man teams, onside passing, no kicking the puck. It was awful; the seventh man—the rover—bumped into everyone else on the ice.'"

* * * * * *

One can just picture it. No, we don't care too much for the streamlined shinny (pitching horseshoes) they use today, but we wouldn't want to go back too far in hockey. That 60-minute-men stuff must have been mighty slow. Nor do we care again to see field lacrosse with teammates an acre away trying to take a pass. Everything is gradually improving (apart from threats of war and cost of living) and this applies to athletics. Some new rules don't strike you as being too hot, but as a whole the games are much faster and more exciting today than they were in grandpop's time. And we remember the onside hockey passing and field lacrosse. Naturally, grandpop will never agree with us, though.

That Magic Elixir

Though not a firm believer in witches' brews, love potions, and so forth, nonetheless we're intrigued with a magic elixir Gene Leone, a 48th St. Gotham restaurateur, makes with great secrecy for New York Rangers of the NHL. Since starting to take this, ah, medicine 12 games ago, the previously pallid Rangers have become the hottest club in the big time, winning 10 of those dozen frays. They knocked off Leafs 4-2 Saturday night right in Toronto, pushing the scrappy Leafs around like a high October gale. Leone ladles out one shot glass full of the stuff hot to each player just before the game—and "swoosh", they're away! There's many a morning when we could certainly enjoy a shot of that stuff ourselves.

Basketball is bursting out at the seams locally these days and nights. City League re-organizes at a "Y" meeting tomorrow eve. On Saturday here, the intermediate "B" male cagers of this borough knocked the bejabers out of Oshawa Grads 64-19 in a lakeshore tilt, Jim Thorburn tossing in 16 points. Night before saw PCVS teams trim three Oshawa outfits to make it a sad week-end for the Motor Citizens. Al Northcott was hotter than a tunnel through a volcano. Saturday in Kingston saw the local "A" hoopsters (Clapper's Bruins) yank out a 43-37 victory o'er the strong Monarchs of that town, Bill Edger hitting the ring for 12 points. Girls' and boys' games coming up again galore this week-end, but more on 'em again.

Cage Squads Take Two Over Weekend

"We play Oshawa for practice." That's what Peterborough basketball teams are yelling these days. Friday night the PCVS teams riddled the Oshawa CVI teams and Saturday night in the YMCA gym the Peterborough intermediate B team walloped the Oshawa Grads 64-19 in their lakeshore league debut.

In Kingston the Clapper Bruins, last year the Ontario Intermediate "A" finalists, Outboard Marines, indicated a good year is in store for them when they edged the Kingston Monarchs 43-37 at the Queen's University gym. This exhibition game was the first against intermediate "A" calibre teams for the Bruins this year. They previously had taken exhibition games with inferior opposition in Cobourg and Oshawa.

The Monarchs have an impressive record this year which includes only three losses in 23 games and in the past week two games in which they sent in over 200 points against their opposition. They play in an Eastern Ontario intermediate basketball league.

Both the Bruins and the Monarchs found the large Queen's gym to their liking. They provided a fast-breaking game with both teams employing a zone defensive system.

See-Saw Play

Monarchs started off with an early six-point lead which vanished quickly and developed into a deficit of two as the Clapper's cagers went up 8-6. The Monarchs height paid off on the rebounds. Al Stewart with set shots and Bill Edger with fast breaks kept the Bruins in the game. The half score was 23-20 for the Bruins.

In a close-checking second half the Bruins' foul shooting paid off success in eight out of 10. Monarchs rallied in the last ten minutes to pull up from a 10-point deficit to within four points. For the last two minutes the Bruins ragged the ball to protect their lead, only losing possession when Joe Stewart was in the open under the basket for a two-pointer to make the lead six points.

Playing coach Joe Stewart was extra pleased with the Bruins' foul shooting record which was 11 good out of 15. The Monarchs came through successfully on seven out of 12.

For the Monarchs Soutter and Allan went well and Ab Stewart, Bill Edger and Hugh Dibben for [illegible] and A. Stewart 11.

The Petes' intermediate "B's" debut was postponed twice before Saturday night and after that the Grads probably wished that game had been postponed too. Gord McIntyre's team have games with Whitby and Cobourg to fill in later in the schedule.

The Petes had little trouble in polishing off the Grads. In the first half they felt their way easily through the first half piling up a 24-8 score. In the last frame they went wild on the Grads who were in the game for only 11 points while the Petes zipped in no less than 40

Jimmy Thorburn, one of Peterborough's most colorful basketball players, constantly threw in his favorite one hand hook shots for 16 points. Fred Plato, playing his first game under local color worked in well with the fast-breaking offence. Bill Trimm and Ted Payne worked in well also. Doug MacPherson and Rocky Kidd were strong on the defence.

Hornets In 2nd Spot Lag Behind Cleveland

By The Associated Press

The team with the strongest defence and weakest offence in the American Hockey League — Pittsburgh Hornets—today held second place in the western division. But they were 15 points behind pacemaking, power-packed Cleveland.

Including Sunday night's 4-4 overtime tie with Providence, the Hornets have permitted the opposition only 76 goals in 36 games while scoring 113 themselves. Cleveland's Barons, by comparison, have collected 161 goals and allowed 117.

Apsley Aces Lose

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 8 (ENS)—A juvenile puck tussle here Friday saw Lakefield wallop Apsley 17-5. Twist, Henry, Coyle, Heffernan and McCracken were the main snipers for the winners, while Houle, Brown, Batten and Howden went best for the Apsley lads. There were 10 penalties in the fray. Teams:

Apsley Aces: Goal, Outram; defence, Brown, Batten; centre, Watson; wings, Howden, Houle; alternates, Earnshaw, Wilson, Jacobs, Wagner.

Lakefield: Goal, Wingett; defence, Pue, Sabatino; centre, Twist; wings, Coyle, Henry; alternates, McIlmoyl, Wilson, Hunter, Pratt, Heffernan, McCracken.

Bill Strachan led the attack for the winners with two goals and as many assists, while Pete Green was credited with two goals and one assist. Ernie Trumble and Ross Mason each cleaimed a goal and an assist, while Jerry Desjardines and Jack Murphy got the others. Bud Downey was the visitors' lone marksman.

Hurricanes Hit Their Stride, Edge Barrie 5-4

By The Canadian Press.

The law of probability finally caught up with the luckless Waterloo Hurricanes Saturday night.

When the Hurricanes took to their home ice for an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game against Barrie, they had a record of 29 starts without a win. When they skated off after 70 minutes of fast and furious hockey they had downed the mighty Barrie Flyers 5-4 for their first win of the year.

That one victory overshadowed the battle for first place, which saw Toronto Marlboros extend their league lead to three points over the Flyers and the idle Windsor Spitfires. Marlies walloped fellow - Torontonians St. Mike's College 4-1 Sunday.

Galt Black Hawks took over sole possession of fourth place when Ken Wharram paced them to a 6-2 win over Stratford Kroehlers Saturday. Oshawa Generals moved into a fifth-place tie with St. Catharines and Guelph by walloping St. Catharines Teepees 8-4 in Oshawa.

No Walkaway.

Waterloo's long-awaited win was no walkaway. The two teams battled to a 3-3 draw in regular time before the Hurricanes rattled Lorne Howes' cage for two quick markers in overtime. Reg. Campbell and Murray Dunnette did the honors.

Barrie coach Hap Emms pulled out all the stops in an attempt to avert defeat, pulling Howes in favor of six forwards. But the best the players could do was a single tally by Jim Morrison and Hurricanes hung on grimly until the final bell.

Paul Oliver scored two of the winners' goals, with Gord Waner, Campbell and Dunnette getting the others. Barrie's scoring was split between Morrison, Rick Hogg, Dan Connor and Doug Towers.

Wharram kicked in with two goals and two assists as his teammates were downing Stratford in a clean, fast game. The teams traded goals until Wharram sparked Hawks to a last-period drive. Pete Conacher, Don Hogan, Tony Poeta and Bob Carruthers were the other Hawk marksmen. George Aitken and Gord Myles scored for Stratford.

Rugged Affair

The Oshawa-St. Catharines tilt was a rugged affair featuring a second-period fight and a wild set-to after the final bell in which three pairs of combatants squared off despite the efforts of the officials.

In the game itself, Gens built up a commanding early lead, held their own in the second period and polished off the scoring with two unanswered goals in the third period. Stan Mills, Ted O'Connor and Bobbie Attersley netted two apiece for the winners, with high-scoring Alex Delvecchio and Lou Jankowski finishing the scoring. Captain Wayne Brown had a pair for Teepees, with Skip Teal and Marshall adding single goals.

In Sunday's game, Marlies were never headed after taking the lead on Don Peart's first-period goal. Ron Stewart later added a pair and Earl Balfour one. Fred Sandford was the only Collegian who successfully penetrated Don Lockhart's armor.

Hot Rangers In 3rd Place Take Two Weekend Games

By The Canadian Press.

Here's a tip for New York Rangers, currently the hottest team in the National Hockey League: lay off that stuff about mysterious elixirs and secret potions. The other teams in the loop may soon be demanding a saliva test.

The Rangers, who failed to react with any success to hypnosis as a cure for their losing ills earlier this season, have clicked with the pep-producing potion being fed to the players before recent games.

The New Yorkers blasted Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2 in Toronto Saturday night, then came back Sunday to edge Chicago Black Hawks 3-2. Result is they now are in third place—a strange contrast to the cellar position they have held much of the season.

Other weekend games saw Montreal Canadiens dump the league-leading Detroit Red Wings 5-2 Saturday night and Detroit came back Sunday to blank Boston Bruins 3-0.

Beginning To Wonder

To a lot of hockey fans the secret potion still looks like a gag designed to get publicity in New York newspapers which normally give little space to hockey. But some folks are beginning to wonder particularly those who saw the Rangers get three quick first period goals in Maple Leaf Gardens immediately after downing the fluid from the black flagon.

It may all be psychological in its effect, but if Rangers keep up their spirited performance some of the fans may begin to wonder if the contents of the elixir shouldn't be investigated. After all, it's illegal with the horses; why not hockey players?

Buddy O'Connor, Ed Slowinski and Don Raleigh scored the Rangers' opening goals Saturday and Tony Leswick added another in the third period sandwiched between Leaf goals by Bill Barilko and Max Bentley.

The elixir fortified Rangers took a little longer to get started on their home ice Sunday, but it was the same story after that. Slowinski opened the scoring midway through the second period and centre Edgar Laprade added the second two minutes later. Pete Babando was credited with a freak goal for Chicago that Ranger defenceman Pat Egan flipped into the net while attempting to clear the rubber and Babando scored the final Chicago counter after O'Connor sent Rangers two up in the third period.

Just Too Much

Boston Bruins found goalie Terry Sawchuk and the Detroit ice jinx too much for them in the other Sunday game.

While the sensational Detroit rookie netminder was racking up his sixth shutout of the season—best in the league—team-mates Metro Prystai, Gordie Howe and Jimmy Peters tallied to give Wings their 3-0 victory margin, Sawchuk now has one more shutout than Toronto's Turk Broda.

Howe's goal, his third of the weekend, boosted his point-total to 40—two more than Toronto's Max Bentley, his closest rival in the league's scoring race.

Surprise Package

Rookie Paul Masnick was the surprise package at Montreal on Saturday night as he rapped in two quick second-period goals to lead Canadiens to a 5-2 win over Detroit. The husky little crew-cut blond from Regina also played a strong checking game and was a continual worry to the pace-setting Wings.

Calum MacKay also clicked for a pair of goals and Maurice Richard scored his 21st goal of the season. Richard's goal boosted his NHL total to 271—second highest in the league. It is one more than the totals amassed by Aurel Joliat and the late Howie Morenz but still far short of the 323 compiled by Nels Stewart.

Prystai and Howe scored Detroit's goals, both while Canadiens were short-handed.

Rangers' double victory caused the biggest shuffle in the standings, zooming them from the league cellar into third place with 33 points. Detroit leads with 52 and Toronto is in second place with 47. The remaining three clubs are grouped close behind the red-hot Rangers. Montreal and Boston are tied for fourth place with 32 points and Chicago trails the pack with 30.

Double Victory

TORONTO, Jan. 8 (CP)—Tom C. Grattan, owned by A. Balcombe, of Ancaster, and driven by Pete Miller, scored a double victory in the fifth and featured race, a classified pace, on Saturday's racing card at Dufferin Park. He outclassed a good field in winning both heats handily.

Marshal Recalls Churchill's Ire At Moscow Talks

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON

LONDON —(CP)— Field Marshal Viscount Alanbrooke, former chief of the imperial general staff, has never forgotten the day in 1942 when Britain's rugged wartime leader, Winston Churchill, put "a sneering, insulting" Josef Stalin in his place.

Unveiling a portrait of Mr. Churchill in London's Junior Carlton Club, Lord Alanbrooke recalled the incident which occurred in Moscow before the western allies were able to establish a Second Front.

The first meeting had started at 10 p.m. and lasted until 3 a.m.

"Stalin," said Lord Alanbrooke, "began to put the heat on and started handing out some sneers and insults to Winston, saying: 'We have been fighting and you have been looking on.' "

After Stalin's remarks had been translated, the Russian interpreter sneered at Churchill and said: "You are never going to start fighting."

Fires Broadside

This criticism caused Churchill to bring his fist down on the table with a resounding crash which shook the whole room and fired a verbal broadside of his own.

After a time, Stalin got up and a broad grin came over his face. He stopped Mr. Churchill's interpreter and shot back: "I don't understand what you are saying but by God I like your sentiments."

It was Stalin's way, Lord Alanbrooke said, of recognizing a frank, resolute opponent. From that time on there was a mutual understanding of one another's toughness.

In another intimate glimpse of the war-leader, Lord Alanbrooke recounted an amusing incident at one of the meetings of the chiefs of staff around Mr. Churchill's bed. Looking at the clock Churchill suddenly remembered an important luncheon engagement.

He bounded out of bed to reveal that there was no bottom to his pyjamas—"and a perfect pair of legs for hunting-boots down below."

The former chief of staff said the greatest of Mr. Churchill's achievements was the instilling of his fighting spirit throughout the country during the critical days of 1940.

"His words went like magic throughout the army and through the civil population, which was being severely tried. To my mind defeatism could never survive in the face of his determination never to surrender."

RAF Recruits 1,000 Pilots

LONDON — (CP). — Under Britain's expanded defence program more than 1,000 former service pilots will be re-engaged for flying duties with the Royal Air Force.

To make this possible, Arthur Henderson, Secretary of State for Air, said the age limit for re-entry would be raised from 31 to 35 years.

All qualified ex-pilots, provided they had not reached their 36th birthday, were eligible for selection, he said. Those accepted would be employed in flying fighter or heavy aircraft, with a small percentage assigned to instructional duties.

Applicants will be required to enlist for eight years' regular and four years' reserve service, and will receive the new rates of pay. At the end of their service those who have been granted commissions will receive a gratuity of £1,500 ($4,500) and non-commissioned officers £600.

Set Minimum Prices For Seed In Ontario

TORONTO, Jan. 8 — (CP). — Recommended minimum prices for seed in Ontario were decided upon at a meeting of the Seed Marketing Committee of the Ontario Crop Improvement Association, the Provincial Agriculture Department announced Sunday.

Oats prices for No. 1 grades ranged from $1.50 to $1.75 a bushel and barley for top grades from $2.35 to $2.75 a bushel.

The meeting was told there has been severe damage to open-pollinated varieties of seed corn by an early freeze-up. It was expected, however, that sufficient quantities of hybrid seed corn would be available.

Henry Fonda's Son Accidentally Shot

OSSINING, NY, Jan. 8 (AP)— Peter Fonda, 10-year-old son of actor Henry Fonda, was wounded seriously Saturday by the accidental discharge of a gun, but hospital authorities described his condition as "very favorable" after an operation.

A bullet from a .22-calibre pistol, accidentally discharged while Peter was loading it, entered young Fonda's stomach and lodged in his back.

Peter is the son of Fonda and the late Frances Seymour Brokaw Fonda, who committed suicide nine months ago in a Beacon, NY, sanatorium.

15 Accidents In City Over Weekend

Icy roads over the week-end took a toll of 15 accidents in the city involving cars, trucks and a train in which four people were slightly injured.

A number of charges have been laid by police as a result of the accidents. In police court today Leo Keenan, Lindsay, pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving after colliding with a car and then careening into a verandah of a house on the southwest corner of George and Antrim Sts. Sunday night. He paid a fine of $15 and costs. He said he did not see a stop sign at the corner as he drove east on Antrim St. Driver of the other car was David E. Hanbidge, 210 Wolfe St. St.

Truck Rider Injured

A passenger in a truck, Armand Berardi, 480 Parnell St., gashed his temple when his head broke the windshield. He was driving with Francis Anthony, 738 Parnell St., when Anthony crashed head-on with a car driven north on George St. Saturday evening by Gerald Schweir, Downer's Corners.

About $450 damage was done to the truck and about $200 damage to the Schweir car. Schweir, who had been attempting to pass a car and a horse-drawn wagon when the collision occurred, was arrested by Constable Andre Dalton.

Brother and Sister Hurt

A brother and sister, Wilbert Thackeray and Helen Thackeray, 465 Stewart St., were slightly hurt Sunday at noon on Otonabee St. when the car Thackeray was driving collided with a car ahead of it, driven by Frank Brown, 297 Murray St. Thackeray was attempting to pass the Brown car, hit its rear bumper skidded sideways 50 feet, hit a hydro pole, skidded around and ended up 17 feet away in the ditch. Thackeray who had been drinking, received a bump on his head and a cut behind his ear. Helen Thackeray received a cut on her right hand. Traffic Officer Claire McGillen investigated.

A car and a truck collided Sunday night at Hunter and Sheridan Sts. when the truck driven by Grenville Grant, 262 Wolfe St., west on Hunter St. turned left into Sheridan St. Driver of the car, Norman H. Davis, 324 Euclid Ave., driving east on Hunter St., said the truck cut in front of him. Grant said Davis' lights were very dim and could hardly be seen. Constable John Morrow investigated.

Mrs. Harold Charlton, Sherbrooke St. W., skidded as she turned from Sherbroke St. into Park St. and hit a hydro pole on the east side of Park St., Sunday evening. Mrs. Charlton had a cut on her knee and her upper lip was cut. Constable Harold Andrew investigated.

Icy Surface

J. R. Cook, Cobourg, reported to police he had met in collision with another car driven by M. Finnie, 584 Charlotte St., when he could not stop on the icy surface of Reid St. at Charlotte. He pulled up over the boulevard and into Charlotte St. where he collided with Finnie driving west. Constable Sherman Keliele investigated.

Two cars, travelling in the same direction, crashed as one was turning into a service station on Monaghan Rd. at Chamberlain St. Saturday night. Driver of the first car was John C. Smith, 292 Lake St. The car following was driven by Samuel Bertrand, 2 Wallace St. Constable Andre Dalton investigated.

Waiting for a traffic light to change at Aylmer and McDonnel Sts. Saturday night, a car driven by J. E. Thompson, 176 Charlotte St., was struck in the rear by a car driven by R. Chollette, 254 Euclid Ave. Chollette's car skidded sideways on the icy surface and the right side of his car was damaged. Constable Eldon McDonald investigated.

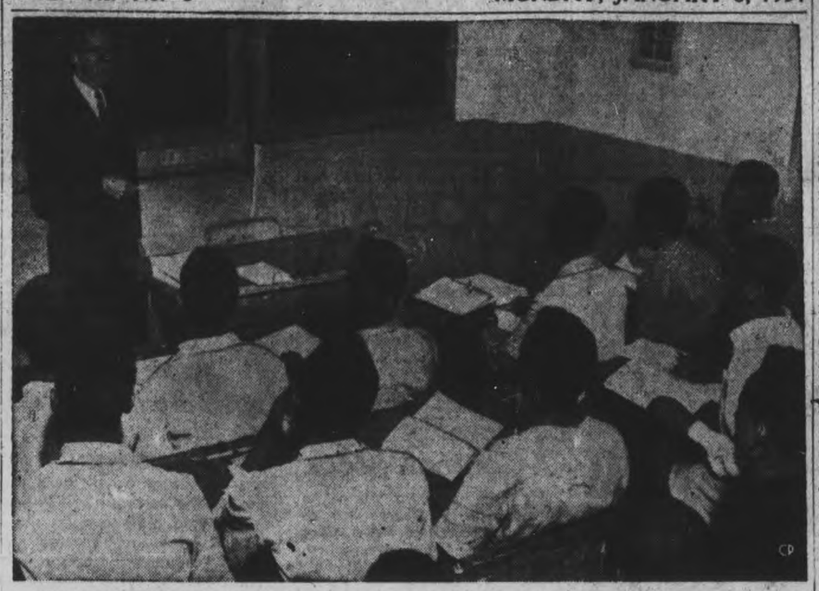
A man and his wife reported to police that a car had bumped into a parked car on Charlotte St. west of George St. and had driven away without stopping. Through a licence number, police traced the car to Peter Yzereef, 78 Sophia St. The car hit, owned by E. J. Hotston, 446 Cameron St., suffered only about $10 damage.

Constable Andre Dalton investigated.

Truck Went On

A truck, which was later traced to Stewart Jackson of Owen Sound, collided with a car driven by Nelson Ballantyne, 302 Aylmer St., west on Charlotte St. at Reid St. The truck continued on north on Reid St. About $45 damage was done to the front of the Ballantyne car. Constable Harold Andrew investigated.

N. H. Bradley, 302 Aylmer St., thought he had plenty of time to get across Hunter St. when driving north on Mark St. But his car met in collision with a car driven west on Hunter St. by N. P. Stewart, 666 Park St. Constable Sherman Keliele investigated.



A car driven by O. W. Shunk, 350 Stewart St., was struck from behind by a car operated by J. C. McGrath, 107 Hazlitt St., at Hunter and Aylmer Sts. as Shunk waited for traffic. He said while he was phoning police, McGrath drove away. Constable Grant Gillespie later located McGrath at his home.

Sliding and Skidding

Two cars slid into each other at George and Dublin Sts. while one driven by Richard Hune, RR 5, Peterborough, was trying to get across George St. Driver of the other car was Richard Holden, 720 Park St. S. Constable Robert Menzies investigated.

Driving east on Romaine St., Byers H. Smith, 228 Perry St., skidded out into Aylmer St., and collided with a car driven south by William May, 191 Antrim St. Constable Grant Gillespie investigated.

Joe Bonter, Toronto, reported to police Saturday afternoon that a car whose licence number he gave had collided with a CNR train at Lake St. at noon. The number was traced to Paul Simmons, 273 Dalhousie St. Constable Harold Andrew investigated. Little damage was done.

WILLIAM PETERS of Steinbach, Man., conducts a mathematics class at Emperor Haile Selassie's Tteachers' Training College in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia. About 120 students attend the school, the only normal school in the country, with tuition and board free. A large proportion of books used are from Canada, many supplied by the Canadian Council for Reconstruction.

School Children Taken Daily By Bus To Rink For Skating Hours

Harking back to the days when they used to skate on ponds or Little Lake, parents around town probably envy the scheme of things today that provides school boys and girls with a physical exercise period at Civic Arena, plus free transporation.

This morning, for instance, there were 225 youngsters from Central school, travelling in three buses from their school to the Arena, for one hour and a half of "PT". All they pay is ten cents for round trip by bus. Every morning one of the school packs off its youngsters to the skating rink for exercise and also play, a little investment in health and well being and social aspect of playing together.

There is no charge by Civic Arena for this special accommodation for the school youth. Walter Smillie, manager of the Arena also emphasized that every afternoon from 3.30 to 5 o'clock, the same schools are given hockey periods. They have every afternoon except Saturday.

WINS $110

Miss Pearl Robertson, 376½ Water St., was the winner Friday night of $110 in the Capitol Theatre's Photo-Nite contest.

Lad, 5, Drowns In Three Feet Of Icy Otonabee

Saturday's snowfall covering thin river ice and slush spelt death by drowning to five-year-old Alfred Whawell. Saturday evening the boy went through the slush along the east shore of the Otonabee river 100 feet from his home at Martinville, south of the city across from the old Rye's pavilion, and drowned in three feet of freezing water. When the lad's body was discovered and brought to his father William Whawell, the distraught man said: "Three years ago I pulled one out myself, and now it's my own son".

The boy's absence was noted at supper-time, 5:30 p.m. The boy's father called him to come in for the meal but the lad failed to turn up. Neighbors were phoned to see if he were playing with other children. He was not. About a dozen neighbors organized a search for the child in the semi-darkness. They scoured all the usual playing spots. Then they turned to the river.

Finally near 6:30 p.m. William Phillips, 175 Hunter St. west, and neighbor William MacSwain of RR 11, Peterborough, found the boy not more than 100 feet south of the Whawell house, out about 10 feet from the shoreline. The boy had been in the water for more than an hour. The searchers called the Peterborough Fire Department and Dr. Robert Young. The city police and provincial police also responded to calls.

Fireman William Trick waded into the water which was about three feet deep and with the help of Ernest Bell, a service station operator at Martinsville, firemen A. Vinette and Joseph Astles brought the body into the shore. He was then taken into the Whawell cottage.

It is thought that the boy had been sliding down the slight incline along the shore and had gone into the slush. During the recent soft spell the water had risen over the ice and had frozen, leaving a thin layer of ice. The snowfall covered the upper layer which wasn't firm enough to hold the boy. The lower layer of ice under the water was sloped sharply from the shore, and slippery.

Had To Break Ice

By the time the firemen took the boy from the water, it had already begun to freeze. The ice had to be broken before the lad could be taken out.

Mr. Phillips and Mr. MacSwain said that they had searched for some time along the shore before they noticed the ice broken nearly in front of the Whawell cottage.

ALFRED WHAWELL

The men immediately told Mr. Whawell the boy had been found in the river but he wouldn't believe them until he saw the lad's green jacket.

"We thought he was going in too", said Mr. MacSwain. "I grabbed him before he could".

Whether the boy went on the sleigh or walked out he apparently had tried to reach the shore. The ice was broken for a space about five feet long and a foot wide, but slush and the slippery bottom ice had made him flounder.

Second Fatality

This is the second fatality in the family in the past month. Mrs. Whawell's mother died December 10 after several months in hospital following an accident in September when Mrs. Edward Edwards was knocked down by a taxi.

Besides his parents surviving is a sister, Laura, eight. The funeral will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. from the Kaye funeral home, Major C. G. Everitt of the Salvation Army officiating. Burial will be at the Little Lake cemetery.

Injured In Falls

Two women are in Civic Hospital today after falls on the ice during the weekend.

Mrs. Robert Morton, 66, RR 1, Fraserville, fractured her left hip in a fall Saturday.

Mrs. Robert Cole, 233 McGill St., slipped on ice and fractured her left ankle.

Free Cottager Operating Boat Recklessly

Thomas Bennet of Toronto, a summer cottager on Balsam Lake, has been found not guilty of operating his motor boat recklessly last July 16. The charge—laid under the Canada Shipping Act, and the first of its kind to be heard in Lindsay police court—came after Heather Stokes, 16, of Toronto, was struck and injured by the propellor blades of Bennet's boat.

Magistrate E. A. Gee ruled that Miss Stokes was out beyond her depth in Balsam Lake; the day was cloudy and the water rough, and a man in a boat "could not be expected to be looking for swimmers on such a day and so far out." He dismissed the charge.

Witnesses testified that Miss Stokes was about 200 feet out in the lake when struck by the boat. She attempted to swim out of the way of the oncoming craft but when she saw that was impossible she dived to avoid it. The propellor struck her in the back, seriously injuring her.

Fifteen-year-old Colin Mackey, who was riding behind Bennet's boat on a surf board, jumped off the board and held the injured girl's head above water till help arrived.

Failed To Give Half Of Road

Ronald Haist, Toronto, today in police court was fined $7 and $9 costs when found guilty of failing to turn over to the right to allow one half the road for another car on Highway 28, one-tenth of a mile south of Peterborough county line.

Evidence was heard in the charge Thursday and Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, reserved judgment until today.

Haist said he was blinded by the lights of a truck driven by Claude Rouse of Bancroft which were turned on high beam when the vehicles were about 50 yards apart.

Provincial Constable John Hawkins reported debris on the road indicated the accident had taken place on the truck's side of the highway.

Five Men Fired UE Asks For Referee

Local 527, United Electrical Workers, are applying to the Ontario Labor Relations Board for a commissioner to referee the dispute between the union and Moldaver Bros. Lumber Co. over the firing of five employees.

The union charges they were fired because of union activities. Moldavers, however, say it was because the men failed to work properly.

A UE spokesman contended that dismissal of employees for union activities was contrary to the province's labor code.

The UE applied for certification as the bargaining unit for eight production workers at the end of December, and they were certified on December 20. Between these two dates the chief organizer of the union, Harry Berridge, a planer operator, was fired because of his organizing activities, the UE claim.

Judge C. C. Anderson of Belleville was appointed commissioner on this dispute. He arranged a settlement that included the re-employing of Berridge but the union gave up claims for back pay.

Saturday morning the five employees (the other three in the unit had been laid off for lack of work or other reasons) were fired. These were Harry Berridge, Hilliard eBrridge, Gerald Patton, Roy Kempt and John Doherty.

They turned up at work today as usual but were again informed they were through. The union immediately filed an application with the OLRB claiming illegal firings.

Hire Skeleton Staff

In the meantime Moldavers have hired a skeleton staff to carry on.

Samuel Moldaver, president of the company, was out of town today and could not be reached for comment. But a company spokesman denied that union activity had anything to do with the firings.

"We found three of them sitting in a shed smoking rather than getting on with the job," said the spokesman. "And two others spent a cold morning sitting in the cab of a truck."

Blast Upsets Furnace Pipes

A small explosion in an oil furnace early Sunday morning blew down the furnace pipes at Jardine's Dependable Cleaners, Hunter St. E., and showered the interior of the store with soot. There was no fire and only minor damage.

Most of the clothes brought into the store Saturday had been removed but those left there will have to be re-cleaned.

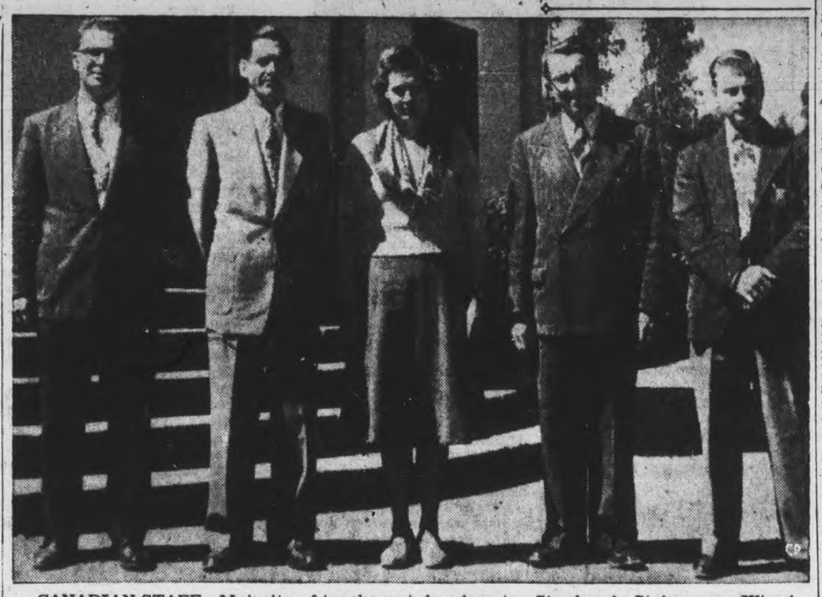
Business is going on as usual today but the eight-hour cleaning service—a major feature of Dependable Cleaners—is discontinued for a couple of days at least. All clothes accepted today or Tuesday for dry-cleaning will be returned Wednesday.

Regular service should begin Wednesday morning including eight-hour cleaning.

Residents living over the shop heard the explosion Sunday morning and called the Fire Department. The firemen found the furnace pipes down and soot spattered throughout the interior of the shop, but no fire.

Father And Son United After Ten Years

The first meeting of a Peterborough man and his son in 10 years took place at Union Station, Toronto, Saturday morning. The father, Gan You Kan and his seventeen year old Chinese son, Gan Den Hoy, arrived in Peterborough Saturday night.



Mr. Gan, who has been proprietor of the Star Laundry, 229 Hunter St., for the past three years has lived in Canada for 30 years. Before coming to Peterborough he operated laundries in Noranda and Val d'Or, Quebec. Mr. Gan last saw his son in 1941 when he visited his home in China.

The son, Den Hoy, left Hong Kong by air on December 28 and arrived in Vancouver the next day. The final lap of his trip was by train and he arrived in Toronto on January 3.

Den Hoy is the first person to come to Peterborough by the system of a prepaid ticket. The ticket was prepaid through the Peterborough CPR office. The agent at Hong Kong was wired to issue the ticket on December 18 on the Canadian Pacific Airline Flight on December 28.

Unable to speak English, the boy will attend school in the city and then work with his father in the laundry.

Mr. Gan's wife and remaining two children, two boys, age thirteen and eight, live in Hoy Shone near Chong Tong See, China, approximately 100 miles from Hong Kong.

Keep Pets In At Rush Hours

Owners of dogs and cats are being asked by the Peterborough Humane Society to keep their pets indoors at noon and around 5 p.m. This request followed a discussion at a recent meeting when the matter of owners allowing their pets to run during the rush hours was discussed.

The Society members said that it is "very difficult for drivers to avoid them especially at intersections." The proposed action would protect their pets.

During December 13 dogs and four cats were killed on the city streets. Owners had 109 dogs humanely destroyed and 47 cats. Of the seven dogs picked up on the streets, six were returned to the owners. Seven cats were returned to their homes.

The animal shelter was discussed and improvements were suggested, such as putting up new sacking over the doors of the runways.

Attempt To Crack Inman Safe Fails

Thieves failed to crack open the safe of Inman Grain and Feeds, 136 Ware St. Saturday night.

They broke through a rear window into the building. With an axe they knocked off the dial and handle of the safe and had started to knock off one of the safe's door hinges when for some reason they stopped and left.

The breakin was discovered Sunday morning. Nothing was taken. Detective-Sergeant W. A. (Bud) Clarke is investigating.

Peterborough Boy On Staff Addis Ababa Normal School

By HOMER SMITH

ADDIS ABABA, Jan. 8—(CP)—Canadians are staffing what is perhaps the world's loftiest normal school. It is Emperor Haile Selassie's Teachers' Training College in the northern outskirts of Addis Ababa. Its elevation is 9,000 feet above sea level.

A 41-year-old Winnipeg man, Stanley A. Steinmann, is the headmaster of Ethiopia's only normal school. Native of Oxford County, Ont., he was educated at the University of Manitoba and Winnipeg Teachers Training College.

He served in the R.C.A.F. in the Second World War and before coming to Ethiopia in 1949 was teaching science and mathematics at the Winnipeg Junior High School. He was invited here by the Ethiopian Ministry of Education.

The first of those educated under the Department of Veterans Affairs at Manitoba University, he holds a Bachelor of Education degree.

Fellow-Canadians make up most of the staff. They are Earle N. Armstrong of Peterborough, Ont., Walter Schmidt of Kitchener, Ont., William Peters of Steinbach, Man., and Mrs. Steinmann. Also on the staff are an Armenian, Samuel Arukian, and an Ethiopian, Terefe Negaro.

Big Project

The six buildings in the seven-acre compound of the school include two dormitories, a dining hall, a large classroom building, a building housing the library and assembly hall, and a combined kitchen, laundry and storehouse building. The whole compound is in a grove of lofty eucalyptus trees.

Most of the boarding students came from Ethiopia's 12 provinces, while day students are from Addis Ababa. Their ages range from 16 to 21. Unlike most normal schools elsewhere, there are no girls in this school.

Tuition is free and includes room, board and clothes. All the main Ethiopian tribal categories are represented among the students, with 69 per cent of them Amharas. Next are Galas, Tigreans, Guragis, Somalis and Wollamos.

On a religious basis 90 per cent of the students are Copts, as Coptic is the state religion here. Eight per cent are Protestants, the remainder Catholics and Moslems.

"I find Ethiopian students eager to learn and mostly apt in their studies," says Mr. Steinmann. "There is, I find, a great hunger for education, and every day young men hang around our compound gate seeking to be enrolled."

A noticeable feature of the library is the large number of books and supplies from Canada. Almost every desk has a notebook with the printed inscription "from the Children of Canada."

Shipments of books and supplies sent by the Canadian Council for Reconstruction are put to good use in the cause of Ethiopian education under the supervision of the Canadian teachers.

High Standards

Entrance requirements are completion of two years in High School. The school issues two kinds of certificates to students on completion of the two-year course. For those who have finished High School a first-class certificate is issued. Those entering with only two years in High School are given a second class certificate on completion of the normal school course.

Mr. Steinmann has added to the regular course some "refresher" courses for practicing provincial teachers during the summer vacation period. Another innovation is the establishment of a model class for practical work. This is comprised of children from the immediate neighborhood.

During the regular two-year course students are taught teaching methods, regular elementary school subjects, history of education, educational psychology, professional ethics, advanced work in English and Amharic (the Ethiopian language), library science, physical training and art and music appreciation.

London Coiffeur To Show Styles To U.S. Experts

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP)—For the first time, a London hairdresser will be guest of honor at the 1951 American Convention of Hairdressers.

The favor falls on London Coiffeur, Raymond, the man who favors the shorter styles.

From the very first short-cut, Raymond has said: "keep it short." This led to heated controversy between him and his closest rival —Steiner—who says: "short hair is not feminine."

Over a long period, British newspaper columnists have followed with interest the fierce arguments between these two, on the latest and most feminine length.

Raymond, however, takes to New York styles that measure only two inches at the nape — "from where the last hair grows" —and from three to six inches from a central parting.

For Teen-agers

One style, suitable to teen-agers is parted in the midle and swept smoothly back with soft ringlets added high on the crown, well back from the face. These are tied by narrow "baby" bows of black velvet.

A smooth cap-shape with soft curl at the nape, has attached halo-roll twined by narrow black velvet ribbon studed with jet .The roll is finished by earphone curls on either side.

"For women with long faces, the London line will be flat on top with a polished look," said Raymond. "It will be built up in front with jutting side-pieces for women with round, plump faces." Another variation is a fringed "Anna May Wong" look.

Raymond believes his theme suitable to every woman—young, old, tall, short, fat or thin. The adaptability lies in the number of pieces that may be added, false curls emphasizing good points and softening bad ones.

Back in London, however, Steiner will be showing his "longer short," a style with brow quiff giving height, sides drawn smoothly back to a double curl-cluster low on the nape. For evening wear, a spindly wreath of tiny ivy leaves adds softness and charm.

To give less height on the brow, Steiner uses soft curl-quiffs swept smoothly back and the sides are brushed back in a deep wave that tucks under a figure-eight chignon of false hair on the nape.

Emphasize Bosom, Raise Hems

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8 (AP)—The bosom will be emphasized in gowns designed by the California apparel creators for 1951.

The creators, 360 manufacturers whose production volume is second only to New York's, say the bust line will be the focal point of interest of most garments.

Opening their new spring market week yesterday, the creators hastened to add that the trend is not toward barer chest. As Franklyn Phillip, sportswear designer, puts it:

The idea is "to suggest rather than reveal."

Another revelation will be shorter skirts, raising the hem an inch or so to the upper calf.

On a sadder note: prices also will be raised.

Her husband, who has been minding two-year-old daughter, Stephanie, during the election campaign, was amazed and delighted to have an alderman for a wife. The photo above shows the family get-together following the election returns. Mrs. Storey is a graduate of McGill University.

Bitten-Ferguson Wedding In Norwood United Church

A wedding of much interest took place in Norwood United Church Saturday afternoon of Reta Beatrice, daughter of Reeve Rork Ferguson and Mrs. Ferguson to Arthur Walter Bitten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bitten, all of Norwood. The Rev. E. E. Pugsley performed the ceremony.

Stocks, snapdragons and ferns decorated the church for the occasion.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. H. J. Caskey. Soloist, Mrs. Russel Gardner sang "O Perfect Love," before the service, and during signing of the register she sang "I'll Walk Beside You."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white satin with yoke and insertions of lace. Her finger tip veil was of embroidered nylon net, caught with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

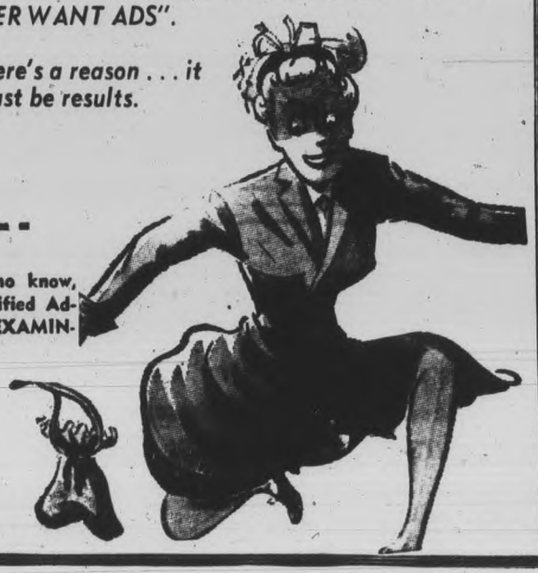
The bridesmaid was [illegible] Nursing Sister Elizabeth [illegible] of Camp Borden. She wore a forest green velvet gown and a matching headdress and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

Groomsman was Mr. Jack Bitten, cousin of the groom and the ushers were Mr. J. J. Stewart of Norwood and Mr. William Parker of Peterborough.

The reception was held in the church parlor with the bride's mother receiving, wearing a gown of transparent black velvet and hat to match. She wore a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother, who also received, wore a gown of dove grey crepe with black accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations.

The dinner, in the gaily decorated reception room, was provided by the Women's Association.

The bride and groom left for a trip to the Laurentians. For travelling the bride wore a coral crepe dress with coral and black accessories.



On return Mr. and Mrs. Bitten will live in Norwood.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Milk Powder Gives Family Concentrated Nourishment

The column I wrote on use of molasses, from a health angle, brought letters from eager readers asking for more "follow-up" stuff on the Look Younger, Live Longer theme.

This time they want the dope on milk powder.

Some feed stores are selling milk powder for 28 cents per pound because it is used in the feeding of stock—especially prize stock. It is exactly the same product that is packaged and sells for from 60 to 80 cents per pound in grocery and drug stores, for human consumption.

Two of our readers discovered this and want the rest of you to know. So the word is this—Scout around for a good clean feed store and buy your milk powder there, in bulk.

An interesting fact about milk powder is its whip-ability. The "spray-processed" type may be whipped with an equal amount of cold water. One cup milk powder (spray process, mixed with 1 cup cold water will whip up into 4½ cups whipped milk which may be used for the purposes that you use whipped cream. This includes ice creams, mousses, sherbets, gelatine desserts, etc.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Dry Milk Powder (whole or nonfat) can help you meet the family needs for milk by replacing part of their fluid milk. One-quarter cup powder is equivalent to 1 cup milk in nourishment.

To introduce extra nourishment into the diets of all of the family—but especially those who are underweight or who lack appetite add it to any or many of the following foods.

✧ ✧ ✧

Cocoa

For cocoa for four people mix together 5 or 6 measuring teaspoons sugar, 5 or 6 teaspoons cocoa, 6 tablespoons skim milk powder. When this is thoroughly mixed add 1 cup water and stir into 2 cups milk which has been heating in double boiler. Beat with rotary beater to make it foam just before serving.

✧ ✧ ✧

Cooked Cereals

Add 6 tablespoons skim milk powder to ½ cup of wheat or cracked wheat or cornmeal, and make the cereal as you always do. Use 6 tablespoons to 1 cup dry rolled oats.

✧ ✧ ✧

Vegetables

Corn Custard: Add one-half cup dry milk powder to 1 No. 2 can corn, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 tablepsoons melted butter and pepper and salt to taste. Mix well and add 1 cup water and 1 cup whole milk beaten with 3 whole eggs. Mix well again. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. until custard is firm.

Milk powder may be used to reinforce or replace milk when mixed with water in many baked vegetable dishes. In scalloped potatoes use half the quantity of milk and make it up with water in these proportions: ¼ cup milk powder to each cup water.

Now if you are a biscuit maker or fond of dumplings or make many deep meat pies with biscuit crust here is a

✧ ✧ ✧

Homemade Prepared Biscuit Mix

If you use shortening that directs you on the carton not to keep cold, this need not be refrigerated either.

To 1 cup skim milk powder add 8 cups sifted flour, 4 tablespoons baking powder and 3 teaspoons salt. Sift these together 3 times. Cut or rub into them 1½ cups good quality shortening until it resembles coarse oatmeal. Store in tightly sealed fruit jars. When needed add enough to make batter of consistency required and bake or cook as you would freshly made biscuits or dumplings. For cheese tea biscuits, 2 cups add ½ cup grated old cheese.

200 War Orphans Given New Start In Swiss Village

By JOHN TALBOT

GENEVA —(Reuters)— Three thousand feet up in the beautiful hills of northeastern Switzerland is a unique village—the International Village of Children.

In peace and quiet, learning both their Rs and a trade by which to earn their living later on, are about 200 children—all orphans from eight war-torn countries of Europe.

At Pestalozzi, children whose futures once held nothing but poverty, want and fear, now face the world with hope and faith.

Founder of this international village is Dr. Walter Corti, a Swiss scientist and author. In 1944 while Europe was still ravaged by war, Dr. Corti wrote an article in which he called for aid for the hundreds and thousands of children wandering across the continent, hungry, dirty, ragged, sleeping in the ruins of bombed-out buildings, stealing and pilfering as they went.

Quick Response

The response from the Swiss was spontaneous. From many communes in Switzerland came offers of land; from both young and old came donations of money and from all over the world came volunteers to help build the village.

The site was eventually chosen and the village was called Pestolazzi, after the great Swiss humanitarian and philanthropist, Henrich Pestalazzi.

The children remain at the village until they have completed their education. But if they have surviving relatives they return each year to keep contact with life in their home country.

There are 12 houses in the village, with 16 orphans living in each. They are cared for by house parents and helpers of their own nationality. They are brought up in the customs and traditions of their countries, and in the faith into which they were born.

Mornings are devoted to lessons and during the afternoons all the children in the village meet for sports, games, dancing and excursions.

Government Backs Novel Experiment In Child Welfare

PLYMOUTH, England (CP)— The Mayflower, attractive country house high on a hill overlooking Plymouth, takes many women on a voyage of discovery to a new life.

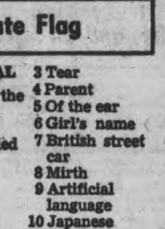
Charged with child neglect, the women are sent here for a three to four-month course in practical motherhood and home-making. They are taught cookery, sewing, laundrying and housework generally.

The youngest children are allowed to accompany their mothers and take part in the training. They have a well-equipped nursery and out-door playground.

Run by the Salvation Army and sponsored by the Home Office, the Mayflower is an experiment which has been described as a "proved success." Home secretary Chuter Ede said more such homes will be opened as soon as possible.

Alternative to Prison

Women are sent to the Mayflower as an alternative to a prison sentence and probationary officers say the experiment has resulted in fewer "neglected" children being placed in government institutions. At present, only child neglect cases, not involving cruelty, are admitted to the home.



Major Newcombe, matron in charge, said that of the 50 mothers and 100 children admitted so far, only one mother has reappeared in court.

"Often," she said, "mothers arrive in rags. They've spent what little money they have on their children's clothing.

"The Home Office allows such mothers a £12 grant for clothes. They are then taught how to look after their own clothes and their children's.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

DOROTHY DIX

If Man Lacks Initiative Think Twice Before Marriage

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a woman of 25; been making my own living for several years. I have been going with a man who is 28. He is attractive and I suppose I am in love with him, but he is not ambitious, has never made more than a mere living for himself. Considering my ambition and surplus energy, do you think that I can risk depending on him for my living and happiness? He tells me continually that he could get somewhere in the world with me for an inspiration, but I am inclined to be doubtful.

Dorothy Dix

✧ ✧ ✧

HAZEL.

ANSWER: You are well to be doubtful, Hazel, for if a man hasn't enough initiative to do things for himself, he will never do them for any woman.

Every drunkard tells the woman he is in love with that if she will marr yhim he will never thirst for a highball again. Every gambler assures his sweetheart that if he had her little white hand in his it would never itch for cards again. Every ne'er-do-well persuades the girl he wants to marry that he only needs her to galvanize him into action. And the trouble is that because girls can believe anything they want to believe they fall for this line and marry their sots and gamblers and lazybones, only to find out that marriage isn't a curative agent and that the man who drank before marriage drinks afterward; that the gambler still gambles and the lazy man still sits down on the do-nothing stool.

I think no marriage is more unfortunate than that between an energetic, ambitious woman and that of an unambitious man because the wife is always trying to prod the husband into action and the husband always balks and always regards his wife as a slave driver and comes to hate her for it.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My mother makes us so unhappy because she will take no part in the life about us, yet she expects us to stay with her all the time. My father tries so hard to get her at least interested in the moving pictures, but she won't do it, so now he goes alone. Isn't there anything we can do about it?

R.E.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Not unless you can make her see what an injustice she is doing to both you and your father. She has let herself get into a rut and she finds it easier to stay in it than to make the exertion of climbing out and mixing with other people. If your mother won't go out anywhere, that's her business, but don't let her sacrifice you to her whim. Go and leave her and have a good time. Perhaps when she finds out that she is left by herself she will brace up and step out some.

3,000 Ex-RCAF Pilots Help Doctors Fight Heart Disease

By DAVE CROSS

WINNIPEG — (CP) — Three thousand former RCAF pilots are helping medical science to fight heart disease.

Dr. A. L. Mathewson of Winnipeg, consultant in cardiology to the Royal Canadian Air Force, disclosed in an interview here that doctors in 20 Canadian cities are constributing to the largest study of electro-cardiograms of apparently healthy persons that was ever undertaken.

They hope that the wobbly lines on 3,000 airmen's charts will show how heart disease begins and becomes serious—and how to treat it better.

The survey, being conducted in the faculty of medicine at the University of Manitoba, will determine just how accurate the electro-cardiograph is, Dr. Mathewson said.

Hard To Diagnose

"In coronary heart disease—the type which is most prevalent—it is hard to diagnose the extent of illness by ordinary methods. Use of the electro-cardigraph is very important here.

"But hearts of healthy persons sometimes show abnormal cardiograms. And persons suffering from heart ailments may have normal tracings.

"If we rely too heavily on this instrument, we are likely to diagnose heart disease when there isn't any. We want to find out just how good the cardiograph is."

Dr. Mathewson said by following heart disease from its beginning—as is being done with the veterans—doctors should be able to learn how to diagnose more closely its exact nature in all their patients.

Huge Records Help

During the early years of the Second World War, 5,000 airmen in Toronto were given electro-cardiographic examinations. That is, electrical recordings were made of the action of their hearts. Another 1,000 were recorded in Edmonton.

After the war, another 2,000 recordings were taken from veterans who wanted to take up commercial flying and had to be free of heart disease.

Dr. Mathewson's plan calls for these men to receive re-examinations by cardiographs every five years. The scheme, in operation for five years now, probably will not provide any great knowledge for a while yet as the study group is just approaching the age where coronary heart disease begins to appear.

An analysis of the original material was carried out by Dr. G. E. Hall and Dr. G. Manning of the University of Western Ontario at London, Ont., and Dr. C. E. Stewart of Dalhousie University of Halifax.

Gets Yearly Grant

Dr. Mathewson applied for and was given a yearly grant of $2,500 by the National Research Council to follow up the study. The grant has been renewed each year since 1946. This study is an approved project of RCAF medical service and receives help from the Defence Research Board.

Dr. Mathewson was a Group Captain when he served as assistant medical director in the RCAF during the war. He has Sgt. Gordon Barlow of the RCAF and Mrs. Janet Hughes of Winnipeg as his technical assistants. They look after correspondence and filing of the 23,000 cardiograms in Dr. Mathewson's Winnipeg laboratory.

Letters have come from as far as Egypt, South America and the United Kingdom. Dr. Mathewson said the response has been "wonderful." He has been able to keep in touch with 3,000 of the original 8,000 RCAF veterans.

Sometimes the job of tracking them down is hard. One veteran, who formerly lived in Winnipeg, had to be traced to eastern Canada by corresponding with his mother in Holland.

Veteran Mends Broken Dolls, Children's Hearts

VANCOUVER (CP)— Charlie Coe's busy season has just ended. Particularly at Christmastime his job brings joy to a host of little people.

Charlie, a sandy-haired, Second World War veteran, is a doll doctor. Since 1945 he has mended between 12,000 and 15,000 dolls—and at the same time the hearts of an equal number of youngsters.

Charlie's father established the first doll hospital here about 1925 and it's been going ever since. The small shop in downtown Vancouver receives orders not only from Vancouverites but from people all across Canada and in the United States.

The doctor's implements are a multitude of glues, pliers, scissors, brace and bit, paint spray gun.

"It's amazing the money people will spend to repair dolls, not only because new ones are expensive but because of their sentimental value," Charlie says.

Treasured Plaything

"But it seems that a doll is the most valuable thing in the world to some people. The doll that a youngster or parents brings in is the most important doll in the world to them."

Some are heirlooms or hand-me-downs as much as 60 years old.

Most dolls have mohair. Horsehair, which combs and curls, is more expensive, up to $9 a wig.

Charlie's chief problem is the shortage of parts. Most of them come from Britain and the US.

"I just can't get enough wigs and I've got only a few heads."

Plastic dolls are becoming more popular. And, just for the record, less than one per cent of dolls are boy dolls.

Festival Plans In Britain Arouse Fancies

LONDON —(CP)— Lord Balfour of Inchrye says he would like to see Britain appoint a "minister of pleasure" to organize a series of "national jollification weeks"

In a tongue-in-cheek speech obviously aimed at the Labor government's plan for the Festival of Britain this year, Lord Balfour told a dinner meeting that Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison, chief backer of the big festival, should take over the "portfolio of pleasure."

Morrison should be supported, Lord Balfour said, by a well-staffed department of national happiness. National jollification weeks should start with a national food week, in which food rationing would be suspended.

"There would be a national pledge of abstinence from consuming cod and cold custard. Sausages would stage a pre-war revival and whale meat would be returned to the ocean."

There would be also a national cleanliness week (nationalized railway carriages would be cleaned and station waiting rooms cease to look like the morgue); a national liberty week (all licensing laws would be relaxed by half); a public courtesy week (bus drivers would no longer thunder past stops); a national silence week (no public speaking); and a national lottery (with prizes that would make pool winners look like paupers.)

What's Right

You have a drop-in caller when you feel that you don't look like receiving a guest.

WRONG: Keep apologizing for how you look.

RIGHT: Apologize once if you wish, saying that you have been housecleaning, or whatever, and then relax and concentrate not on how you look but on making your guest feel welcome.

Warsaw Edges Keene

KEENE, Jan. 8 (ENS). — The old rivals, Warsaw and Keene, opened the EPHL season up here with nifty week-end game. Warsaw edging out a 7-6 decision in a close, rather rugged fray. Dit Clapper and Referee Romhanyi kept things under control at all times. A good crowd saw the opener.

Warsaw scored four in the first in two goals by L. Lonsberry and one each by Eady and Patterson, the latter, Payne and Evans getting an assist each. Kempt counted two for Keene and G. Sellaby one, with Thompson and Burns having two assists each and Whalen one. The second saw Keene get three, Stock scoring a pair and Hayfield the other. Patterson and Eady hit the twine for Warsaw, Clements helping one. Patterson and Watts got the tying and winning goals in the third, L. Lonsberry aiding in both and Evans on one.

Warsaw—Goal, B. Plyne; defence, G. Payne and Eady; centre, L. Lonsberry; wings, Patterson and Evans; alternates, S. Lonsberry, Clements, Payne, Dennis, Tedford, Batten, Smith, and Watts.

Keene — Goal, E. Musgrave; defence, Stock and Anderson; centre, Hayfield; wings, W. Musgrave and L. Sellaby; alternates, Kempt, Whalen, Burns, Colby, G. Sellaby, Brown, Houle and Thompson.

Say Oak Plague Clue To Stone

LONDON, Jan. 8—(AP)—Scotland Yard officials pored today other a small oak plaque which may provide the first tangible evidence toward unravelling the mystery of the missing Stone of Scone.

The plaque, which bears the history of the Scottish coronation stone, was found Saturday by Albert Edkins, 29-year-old gardener, on a bombed site. It was near Westminster Abbey, from which the relic was stolen Christmas morning.

The 8-by-10-inch piece of oak is believed to be one which rested at the foot of the coronation chair. The inscriptions reads:

"Coronation Chair. Made by Walter, the King's Painter, at command of Edward I, 1300-1301, to contain the Stone of Scone, brought by the King of Scotland. In this chair every sovereign has been crowned since King Edward II".

Scottish Nationalists are generally believed to have stolen the 458-pound stone.

Para-Rescue Crew Shows Perfection In Display

By IRVING C. WHYNOT

GOOSE BAY, Labrador, — (CP)— The big Dakota wheeled into a steep bank over the rough, isolated tundra of Labrador.

Below, among the scrub trees and snow, a ground party prepared for the drop of the para-rescue crew, highly-trained specialists who jump into wreck scenes wherever they are found.

In an exercise of perfection, the rescue squad of this northern RCAF base was demonstrating its work for a party of visiting Halifax newspapermen. At the controls of the Dakota was Group Capt. L. J. Birchall of St. Catharines, commanding officer of the base.

Plans for the exercise set forth that a ground party was in the woods setting up a camp as though they were survivors of a crash. The Dakota was to come out, drop supplies and if possible give the para-rescuers a chance to leap to the scene.

There was doubt that the para-rescue crew, Cpl. Bob Crebo of Moose Jaw, Sask., and Cpl. Ted Braidner of Vancouver and Glace Bay, NS, would be able to jump. Winds are not supposed to be above 15 miles for a safe jump; this day it was 22 and tricky.

Tricky Winds

Directly above the camp a drift chute—simulating the weight of a para-jumper—was dropped. It drifted far away from the camp.

Then the plane made another run over the chute and the camp. Aboard they counted the seconds from the chute to the camp. Then they counted the same distance from the camp and dropped another chute. In theory it should have dropped near the camp but actually a tricky cross wind took it off to the side.

Carefully watching the wind action on the chute, Braidner and Crebo, who each have close to 50 jumps to their credit, said they could do it.

Try Again

The plane wheeled in again. They bailed out, wearing protective gear and equipment which gives them a weight of close to 350 pounds when fully equipped.

They came within a few hundred feet of the camp.

Under actual emergency conditions, the radios they carried or others that could have been dropped would have enabled them to call for any equipment they needed. A medical kit alone aboard the craft is valued at $2,700.

On the ground Cpl. Bill Lapointe of Vancouver and his ground rescue squad, all volunteers, had made themselves comfortable in best survival style.

A short distance away, flares were burning, sending out colored smoke to guide the search planes.

New Zealand Has Abolished Upper Chamber At Year's End

WELLINGTON, N.Z. —(CP)— The Legislative Council, Upper House of New Zealand's parliament, has adjourned for ever. It held its last meeting recently and went out of existence officially at the end of the year.

It will be a new venture for New Zealand as the two chambers have existed since the start of parliamentary government 96 years ago.

A committee has been set up to investigate methods of safeguarding against hasty or ill-considered legislation, so it is possible that some form of Upper House may eventually be reintroduced, but it is certain to be of a different form from the old House.

Long Time Dying

The Legislative Council has been a long time dying. It was entirely a government-nominated body and as its numbers were not fixed the government of the day could always nominate sufficient new members to be certain of a majority. The result was that it became subsidiary to the House of Representatives, the Lower House. It had little real power and was used largely to amend legislation on which the government had second thoughts after Lower House proceedings. Under many governments it tended to consist largely of MP's defeated at elections and veteran party supporters.

Prime Minister S. G. Holland, when leader of the opposition, made several attempts to have the Legislative Council abolished. He maintained that it was not fulfilling any useful purpose in its existing form.

End in Sight

When the National party won the election a year ago, the doom of the Legislative Council was virtually sealed, but it did not pass out of existence without a struggle. When the new government took over, the Legislative Council still had a very large majority of Labor supporters appointed by the previous Labor government. The new government nominated sufficient new members to give it a majority.

However, old members, irrespective of party ties, were united against any abolition move. Together they still commanded a majority. It was necessary for the government to nominate a further group of new members — a "suicide squad" pledged to vote the chamber out of existence.

Hon. T. Bloodworth, an Independent and recognized as one of the outstanding men of the council declared at the final session that by abolishing the chamber the session had been the most disastrous in parliamentary history anywhere in the British Commonwealth.

When the motion for the adjournment came, members linked arms in the centre of the chamber to sing "Aud Lang Syne" and the National Anthem.

Student Collapses Returns From Holiday

HAMILTON, Jan. 8 (CP).— Thirteen-year-old Frances Longhurst, of RR 2, Brantford, collapsed Sunday night at Loretto Academy here when she returned from his Christmas vacation. She died shortly after in hospital.

She complained of having no sense of feeling in her hand, and of feeling "funny" to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Longhurst. Then she slumped to the ground, unconscious. She was rushed to hospital.

Hospital officials said an autopsy and investigation will be held to determine the cause of death.

The young girl had been a student and boarder at Loretto Academy since last October. The Mother Superior had described her as a vigorous, healthy girl "full of pep" who was well liked by her class mates.

Ship Returns To Port With Her Crew Ill

LIVERPOOL, England, Jan. 8— (Reuters) — The Italian steamer Pietro Gori had to return to the River Mersey today with nearly all her crew ill with influenza. The ship had sailed yesterday for Rotterdam, the Netherlands.

Meanwhile, north England's influenza epidemic appeared to be petering out.

"Past its peak and waning," a British Health Ministry official said of the flu wave which last week made thousands of sufferers ill in Lancashire, closed many factories and delayed unloading of shipping at Liverpool.

Score—116 Panes

KESWICK, Ont., Jan. 8 (CP)— Two five-year-old Keswick boys broke into a garage Saturday, took two croquet mallets and went on a window-smashing spree. Their score—before police broke up the fun—116 panes.

Deer Seen At Niagara

FOR ERIE, Jan. 8 (CP). — Eight full grown deer were seen walking single file near the highway on the outskirts of this border vity last night by Mrs. Sarah Reid. The animals were quite tame and didn't appear to be bothered by headlights of automobiles.

Police said four deer have been killed by cars on the highway in recent weeks. They think a herd of 15 or 20 are wintering near Ridgeway.

Robberies Net $300

HAMILTON, Jan. 8 (CP). — Safe-crackers stole about $300 in cash and bonds in two robberies during the weekend here. At the Tresider Paper Box Company they smashed the safe and took $115 and bonds. The safe at the Bartonville Supermarket, containing $75 and a revolver, were carted away.

Ask Mayo Clinic Decide Operation

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 8—(AP) —The grief-stricken parents of Carolyn Purcell, 4, have asked famed Mayo Brothers Clinic to help them decide whether their little girl should lose her eyes.

So far the couple, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Purcell, have shrunk from an operation, which Atlanta doctors say is the only way to save Carolyn's life. The little girl has cancer.

Expenses of the trip to Rochester, Minn., for a final diagnosis will be paid by the Atlanta Mounted Shrine Patrol. Carolyn and her parents will fly there Tuesday.

Last week, after days and nights of tears and prayers, the Purcells took Carolyn home from a hospital. Mrs. Purcell said she could not bring herself to agree to an operation.

Atlanta physicians and specialists had agreed on a diagnosis of a malignant tumor affecting both of Carolyn's eyes. They prescribed removal of one eye at once.

200 Trappers To Earn $100,000 This Season

FORT FRANCES, Ont., Jan. 8 (CP).—Fur trapping may be a $100,000 business this season in Rainy River district.

Reports to the Ontario Lands Department office here indicate that the 200 trappers who operate in this area will earn more than ever before. Conditions are favorable and pelt prices higher than in recent years.

A prime wild mink pelt will bring as much as $43, with a $35 average. Last winter trappers disposed of mink pelts for $25.

Trapper revenue last year totalled $75,000, including the wolf bounty. It was a poor year because spring floods washed out muskrat trapping.

30,000 Families Left Without Electricity

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 8 (CP).— Condition of Douglas Ryan, 35-year-old hydro worker, severely burned about the face, hands and body by an explosion in the Highbury Avenue hydro sub-station Friday night, was described by hospital authorities today as critical. He has been receiving continuous transfusions of blood plasma.

The explosion, which knocked out all 25-cycle power in London and immediate district, left 30,000 families without electricity for three hours.

Why Not a Brick Terrace For More Outdoor Living?

At the first hint of good weather the outdoors beckons us all to garden, to playground and field. The very warmth and coziness of the living room, so welcome in winter, now seem merely stuffy. The house is much too closed in. Draperies are heavy, rooms are dark, walls are confining.

Holidays away from home take us for short periods to shore and mountains, but most of us find that many weeks of good weather must be spent at home. The desure to be outdoors whenever weather and time permit is manifest in many ways—in the gay play togs offered by the stores, in the increased use of tennis courts, swimming tanks and other facilities and in the greater development of gardens in the city and suburban areas. We are now looking for ways to make the garden more attractive so that it will be a delightful place to spend summer evenings or bright spring and autumn days. Through careful planning we are making our garden more useful for longer periods and are relating them more logically to our lives.

Links Garden With House

The brick terrace is one of the answers to the urge for more outdoor living right at home. Forming a part of the house, it also becomes a part of the garden, the link between house and garden, making each more accessible to the other. It is the summer living room, dining room and play room, the invitation to the garden.

We tend to make fireplaces in the garden too large and terraces attached to the house, too small. The spacious terrace will accommodate a group of furniture for dining and in addition some easy chairs, and handy little tables that hold a cool drink, a new magazine or a bit of mending. Even small houses should have fairly large terraces if the full use of the space is to be enjoyed. These terraces should be protected from sharp winds but should not be screened in so much that they seem restricted and cut off from the garden.

Wide Choice of Patterns

Many kinds of brick may be used to good advantage for outdoor terraces. Number one hard burned common brick or specially burned walk pavers can be laid in a simple or elaborate pattern, depending on the skill of the bricklayer and on the amount of money to be spent for labor and materials. The terrace should have a slight fall away from the house to allow for perfect [illegible]. Terraces may be [illegible] lawn or raised a step or more above the general level, depending on the design of the grounds. The brick may be laid in sand or in mortar.

Architects frequently provide even small houses with a terrace that is sheltered, private and well related to the garden. Such terraces may be added to old houses that do not have them. The addition of a well-proportioned brick terrace to the house will add outdoor living facilities for many months of the year at very low cost.

Outdoor Fireplaces

Outdoor fireplaces make a natural centre of activity in the garden. There are so many ways of developing this sort of outdoor feature that almost any garden can be made logically to include an outdoor fireplace and barbecue. Brick is particularly well adapted to this construction, offering excellent color, good texture and convenience in handling.

The most attractive brick fireplaces are those that function well and are suitably placed in relation to the general garden design. Location is most important. Prevailing summer winds must be considered, for it would be a great mistake to erect the fireplace so that the smoke blow into the eyes of the guests. Size in relation to other improvements in the garden must be carefully studied. The general tendency is to make the structures too large for city gardens. Large country places, camps and summer properties can, of course, accommodate very massive affairs.

Work space for the cook should be provided. Shelves may be made a part of the structure. A place for wood storage may be considered. Seats may be built in connection with the barbecue. A paving of stone or brick laid in sand or mortar can be placed across the main face of the fireplace to provide a level, neat place for cooks and helpers to move above.

Planting may be arranged quite close to the fireplace but trees and shrubs should not overhang it too closely. Potted plants filled with gay colored annuals may be used to dress that part of the garden where the fireplace is located. The housewife who enjoys making her home attractive will find all sorts of gadgets, linens and utensils to use in connection with the fireplace and barbecue.

Thieves Steal Truck $10,000 Worth Of Silk

TORONTO, Jan. 8 — (CP) — Thieves today stole a blue stake truck containing $10,000 worth of silk. Police said they believe it is the same gang who made off with a similar $8,000 load six weeks ago.

E. Everett, driver of the truck, told detectives he was making a delivery to a downtown firm when the truck was stolen. The vehicle belongs to Drummond Transit Co. The silk is owned by Canadian Celanese Co.

Meadow Lake Becomes Thriving Town

MEADOW LAKE, Sask. (CP) The Indians had a name for Meadow Lake, Saskatchewan's northernmost town.

The Crees called it "Pasqua Shaghigan."

The French explorers interpreted this as Lac des Prairies because the area consists of a large prairie surrounded by forest, the prairie in turn broken by bluffs into little prairies.

When the first white settlers came in 1912 they translated Lac des Prairies into Meadow Lake.

The town is 408 miles north of the American border and at the end of steel on the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Meadow Lake was incorporated as a town in 1936 with 500 residents and it's growing fast. The population now exceeds 2,500 and it has a surrounding trading community of another 1,000.

Major Industry

Lumber is the major industry with two large lumber yards and more than 1,000,000 feet of wood cut each year.

Five elevators and a seed plant handled more than 3,000,000 bushels of grain last year. A fish filleting plant processed 1,250,000 pounds of fish in 1949.

The Saskatchewan Co - Op Creameries branch, established in 1945, does a brisk trade in butter, milk, eggs, ice cream and poultry.

Clay suitable for producing bricks was discovered some time ago and now is used in making cinder blocks.

The town also is district headquarters for the Indian affairs branch of the Citizenship Department.

Trying To Make New Zealanders Better Hosts

AUCKLAND, NZ — (CP) — To teach New Zealanders to be better hosts, the dominion recently held a National Tourist Week. The basic points stressed were:

1. Everyone should be friendly to overseas visitors and should do everything possible to be a good host.

2. All persons connected with the tourist industry should give efficient, friendly service.

Under the slogan "The tourist business is everyone's business," the government stressed that the tourist industry could be one of the most valuable sources of overseas funds. It sought to make people realize that everyone has a personal responsibility for making the visitors' stay enjoyable and that all New Zealanders are potential travel agents.

New Zealand has outstandingly good raw material to attract tourists. It has a range of scenic marvels equalled by a few countries, and it has them in a small concentrated area which obviates the lengthy travel needed in moving from one tourist attraction to another elsewhere. It also has some of the world's best deep sea, lake and stream fishing and outstandingly good hunting, available in the off-season for northern hemisphere enthusiasts.

But so far these attractions are largely undeveloped. Work is going on to improve the standard accommodation at hotels, but this takes time and money. Meanwhile the government feels that a cheerful, friendly welcome from the entire population will do much to counteract that lack of luxury facilities.

GENERAL VIEW — Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, commander of the Eighth Army, stands on a pontoon bridge across the Han River as he watches the last elements of the UN force cross the span heading south out of Seoul. Ridgway succeeded Gen. Walton Walker, killed in a Korean jeep crash.

Britain, France Reject Russian Protest

LONDON, Jan. 8 (Monday)—(AP).—Britain and France today rejected a Russian protest against rearmament of Western Germany.

The whole question arose, Britain charged, "solely because Soviet policy and actions have compelled the other nations to examine all means of improving their security against the threat of Communist aggression."

British and French notes were in reply to a Soviet protest of Dec. 15, charging that Britain and France were creating a serious threat to peace and violating British-Russian and French-Russian treaties of alliance by their policies on German rearmament.

The French note followed the same line of reasoning as the British, but was not identical. The French accused Russia of forcing the rearmament of Western Europe, including Germany, because "there exists a profound disequilibrium between the armed forces of the countries of the East and those of the West in Europe."

Accuse Russia

Both notes accused Russia of keeping large troop forces under arms when the western allies demobilized after the war and said this was part of the reason for considering the rearmament of Germany.

The British reply said the government "clearly and unequivocally" rejects Russia's contention that Britain's attitude on the remilitarization of Germany constituted a threat to peace.

Britain said the rearming of Germany was contemplated solely as a defensive measure, and that the responsibility for this rests upon the Soviet Government.

CARSON CITY, Nev., Jan. 9—(AP)—The wheels of chance spun furiously and the dice galloped madly during 1950 to bring Nevada gamblers their biggest take in history. He is a war veteran.

Britain Bans Display Lighting To Preserve Small Coal Supply

LONDON, Jan. 8 CP).—Britain banned all advertisement and display lighting Saturday in a move to preserve her dwindling supply of precious coal.

The return to wartime restrictions—effective today — means that such centres as Piccadilly Circus will be dimly lit caverns. Until the Labor Government feels that the fuel shortage has been overcome, there will be no more lighted movie and theatre marquees and only dark shop windows.

The Ministry of fuel and Power imposed the ban which prohibits all advertisement and display lighting which uses electricity, gas, oil—and even candlelight.

One Exception

The only exceptions are the use of electricity obtained from windmill generators and ads projected on movie screens.

The purpose of the ban is to save coal which is required to generate electricity and make gas. The Fuel Ministry explained that the ban on oil and candles was to forestall a run which would lead to shortages. Proposals to curtail railway service also are being considered.

The move followed Prime Minister Attlee's warning last week to miners' leaders that the country would face a major fuel crisis unless they raised an extra 3,000,000 tons by the end of April.

Fuel Minister Philip Noel-Baker appealed Saturday night in a country-wide address for your help in preventing a fuel crisis which may come, which will come, unless we all do what we can."

He said: "If the stocks fall too low, the factories stop working, the power stations go out of action, people are unemployed, every one suffers hardships or discomfort in some degree at home.

"We're up against that danger for the next 12 weeks—say till Easter."

He said one of the contributing causes to the shortage was unprecedented consumption: huge coal exports to bridge the dollar gap.

The dimout will be a hard blow to the hundreds who congregate each night in Piccadilly Circus to gape at the bright lights. The "spectaculars" were turned on full for the first time since the war only in 1949.

Abandon Search

HALIFAX, Jan. 8—(CP)—A search for fisherman Arthur Reynold of Dover, N.S., and his Newfoundland mate, Henry Ingram, [illegible] particularly by [illegible] constructed machine whose sole object was the blowing out of matches. He sent the model back with the suggestion it be perfected by making it light matches as well.

What he describes as an "interesting novelty" is a cunning mousetrap in rough brick. It is important, he said, that the brick should be rough.

Lured in by the smell of cheese the mouse is diverted into dead ends until it becomes hysterical. Its frantic running stirs up pepper on the pathways, causing such violent sneezing that it bashes its brains out on the rough brickwork.

Lee, however, is not quite sure what to do about the man who offered to dry up the skies for the Festival and enclosed testimonials of his powers of rainstopping.

This genius implied that if his offer was not accepted he would make the Festival an "absolute hell."

Machines Liven Festival Plans

LONDON —(CP)— The eccentrics' corner to be set up on the south bank of the Thames for the Festival of Britain promises to be a "doozer."

Laurie Lee, the poet, organizing this special phase of the 1951 Festival, believes many of the exhibits already submitted could safely be classified as startling.

It never occurred to him that national inventiveness could respond so smartly when he sent out the call for "something rich and strange." He urged especially that he wanted contraptions that work like mad but don't do anything in particular. That's precisely what he's getting.

One of the latest entries to show up is a trickly little gadget for grinding smoke. Astaircase with weighted steps gives the sensation that a person is walking upstairs when actually going down. There is also a rubber bus which deflated automatically when approaching a low bridge.

Five Fatalities Over Weekend

By The Canadian Press

Eastern Canada had relatively-few violent deaths to mar the weekend, only five being reported. Four were from Ontario and one in Nova Scotia.

Traffic accidents again claimed the most lives, three; a boy was drowned and a man was shot to death.

Henry Edward Rumley, 55 a National Harbors Board checker in Dartmouth, N.S., died Saturday night after being shot through the heart. George Rumley, his 30-year-old son, is held in connection with the shooting.

Thin ice on the Otonabee river at Peterborough proved a death trap for Alfred Whawell, 5. His body was recovered Saturday night.

Arthur George Rose 72, was killed Saturday night when he was struck by an automobile as he crossed a Toronto intersection. Killed in almost an identical mishap was Dusan Aralica, of Toronto, a Yugoslavian displaced person who came to Canada two years ago to work for the Ontario Hydro Commission. He was struck while running for a bus.

Arthur Derbecker, 26, of Toronto, was killed near Cooksville, Ont. when his automobile was crushed in a collision with a bus carrying 10 passengers. The bus driver, Robert Hewitt, of Toronto, was charged with dangerous driving.

2 Killers Executed

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Jan. 8 — (AP) — Two convicted killers were executed early today in the electric chair at Rockview penitentiary. They were 48-year-old Clement Shupp, of Allentown Pa., who was convicted of the 1949 shooting of Marion Walck in an Allentown suburb; and Alex Agoston, 42, of Berwick, Pa., condemned to die for the slaying of Russell Balliet a used-car salesman.

Noted Statesman Dies

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 8 — (AP)—F. Wilhelm Sollmann, 69, a noted German statesman and journalist, died Saturday night after a long illness. Sollmann served as minister of interior in the Stresemann cabinet after the First World War, and was a member of the German peace delegation at Versailles. He fled the Nazi government in March 1933, and eventually came to the United States in 1937.

St. Laurents May Occupy New Home During March

OTTAWA, Jan. 8 (CP).—Moving day may come some time in March for Prime Minister St. Laurent and Mrs. St. Laurent.

At least Public Works Department officials say the big Rockcliffe residence—future home of all of Canada's prime Ministers—should be ready for occupancy by then. But they can give no positive guarantees.

There have been no special privileges in obtaining building materials required for renovating the historic old house on the bank of the Ottawa River. It has had to wait its turn in a period of growing shortages. Without delays in obtaining equipment the house would have been finished by Christmas.

Renovations and land purchase reportedly have cost the government $400,000 for the 30-room official residence.

Get Furnishings

Furnishings still must be bought and in this Mr. and Mrs. St. Laurent are having some say—at least for the main rooms.

Future guests of the Prime Minister will see a house furnished much like other Ottawa homes. Probably Canadian paintings will hang on the walls. But the residence will not be a show place filled with curios and historical mementos.

The library will be one of the most attractive spots and the only room with pine-panelled walls. The othter rooms either will be painted or have wallpaper.

Difficult Job To See Doug Fairbanks

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 8 (AP).—Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., is a rarity among movie stars—his real life contains as much dash as his film roles!

Doug ((it is difficult to call him or his father anything else) is in town for a brief whirl before returning to his various duties elsewhere. I caught up with him at his office into which he breezed with a dashing air that somehow seems real.

The actor has been absent from his presumed home base for most of the last two years and I asked him why.

"First of all," he replied, "because my creditors deem it better for me to be employed elsewhere. It is much easier for my production company to get financing abroad. The independent producing situation here is such that you cannot make money unless you make a picture very cheaply. I don't know how to do that.

Bigger Production

"I am not taking anything away from Stanley Kramer and some other independents who can make films cheaply. But I would not have been able to do something like 'Champion.' My kind of picture requires a bigger production."

The second element in Doug's self-exile is what he calls his "PD's"—public duties. These have included his work for CARE, the United Nations Association, plus various jobs for the Navy and State Department.

Diplomatic Offers

Doug's service has netted him offers of diplomatic posts, but he has turned them down. The simple reason is that he cannot afford them. He has to work the other six months of his year in order to participate in his non-paying PD's.

His picture-making for the last two years has been done abroad. He made "The Great Manhunt" and "Mr. Drake's Duck," a comedy about a duck who lays a uranium egg. Both are modern stories and they mark the first time Dtug has been out of costume since 1937.

50 Years Of Colder Climate Facing World, Signs Indicate

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

BOSTON, Jan. 8 (AP) — The unusual weather this last fall is merely an introduction to about 50 years of colder climate to come.

How much colder? Enough so that farmers should be told right away that growing seasons will be shorter during the next 25 years.

Enough so that the public should be told that it is being misled by stories that world climate is getting warmer.

These are the conclusions of Dr. Raymond H. Wheeler, student of weather cycles and chief of staff of the Climatic Research Division of the Weather Science Foundation, Crystal Lake, Ill.

The present weather changes fit war predictions based on weather which Dr. Wheeler, then a psychology professor at Kansas University, made seven years ago. He had then charted 17,000 battles in world history to find that world wars take place in warm periods. And, he said, both world wars came in a warm period.

Wars Less Numerous

In cold periods, like the one now starting, he found that although wars continued, they were smaller, usually civil conflicts. Nations in the cold times turned to reconstruction. Love of liberty grew stronger. He said Jesus Christ lived in one of the cold periods.

To date, the weather war predictions have fitted current history. Dr. Wheeler's present predictions are concerned solely with predictions about the warm cycle, which he says is just ending, and the cold just ahead.

His studies show two important cycles, one of 100 years between two warm peaks, the other 1,000 years. We now are entering the cold half of a 100-year cycle, Wheeler says.

The cooling signs actually began about 10 years ago. Winters have become sporadically much more severe. Palestine suffered an unprecedented snowfall. Blizzards have appeared of the sort characteristic of cold periods, such as one in the west two years ago.

Characteristic Results

The erratic weather last fall is explained, under his studies, as characteristic of the periods when climate is shifting from warm to colder.

Dr. Wheeler says weather experts have been ignoring the ups and downs of the 100-year cycle, and paying attention only to the 1,000-year period. The last previous 1,000-year warm peak was about 1000 A.D. The next is due after 2000.

This 1,000-year shift, now on the warming-up side, has caused frost lines to advance northward in Finland, Norway, Alaska, Russia, Siberia and Canada. In Greenland, farms and cemeteries buried under ice and snow for 600 years now are uncovered. Glaciers have been receding all over the world. Warm water fish have been migrating northward for several decades.

Because of these signs, Dr. Wheeler says, the public has been told that world climate is becoming warmer. They have not warned about the coming drop.

"There is not the slightest chance," he says, "of the world getting steadily warmer, nor is there the slightest chance that we will escape a long, severe cold period that is on the way now."

OTTAWA, Jan. 8—(CP)—The Governor-General, Vicount Alexander, and Lady Alexander, accompanied by two of their children, Shane, 15, and Brian, 11, and a number of guests, left Sunday by train for Toronto and Niagara Falls.

The party will return by train from Toronto tonight.

Bungling Policies

MONTREAL, Jan. 8—(CP)—The Quebec provincial council of the CCF Sunday blamed "bungling policies" of the federal government for the inflationary spiral in Canada and called for the immediate imposition of price and rent controls and a tax on excess profits. The council, in a statement issued following a special meeting here, charged Ottawa with showing "utter contempt" for the legitimate needs of Canadians.

Midnight Fire Damages Stores

ST. MARYS, Ont., Jan. 8 (CP) Fire damage estimated at several thousand dollars was caused in a midnight blaze that gutted a shoe store and threatened nearby shops and apartments Saturday night.

Damage to the store and two-storey building, owned by Harcourt Ready, was placed at $2,500, but value of thousands of pairs of shoes destroyed by intense heat could not be estimated immediately, Mr. Ready said.

Smoke forced four persons, the family of Assistant Fire Captain William Cardwell, from their apartment on the second floor of the adjacent chainway store. Tolls music store and Dorothy's hairdressing shop above the shoe store received heavy smoke damage.
